IN WILHELM'S REALM

Inspection of Emigrants at German Ports.

Possible Tariff War Between That Country and the United States—What Germany Would Do if We Took an Unfriendly Course—Do Not Want American Grain.

Berlin, Jan. 14.—A Washington dispatch reported last week that Germany had refused to allow the independent inspection of emigrants at German ports. According to officials here the dispatch referred to an incident two years old. Two United States hospitalmen came to Hamburg during the epidemic to prevent the embarkation of cholera infected persons. As they did not have what the authorities deemed the proper credentials from the Washington government, they were not permitted to supervise the emigration to the United States. They also got into trouble with the United States consuls and, after communication between the foreign office and American legation, were recalled. No question concerning them has arisen since then in any form. There are no United States inspectors at present at any German port, but Germany has not taken a step to discourage independent inspection.

The United Press correspondent has made repeated inquiries this week as to the possibility of a tariff war between the United States and Germany, but he has found everybody in official circles absolutely dumb on the subject, although two or three weeks ago the matter was discussed with little constraint. Freiherr von Hammerstein, the agrarian leader, was asked what Germany would do if the United States took an unfriendly course. He answered:

"We should retaliate by shutting out American cereals and wools and should look up new outlets for our merchandise. Doubtless for a time German industries would suffer. Anyhow, we cannot submit to bullying, especially when we have the absolute right on our side."

Deputy Aichbechler, vice chairman of the clerical party and the owner of a large estate in Bavaria, said decidedly:

"We do not want any American grain anyhow. If the United States insist upon violating their treaty with us, we shall protect ourselves by shutting out American cereals. We have too much Russian and Romanian grain now. The German farmer cannot raise stock and grow wheat with profit under the present circumstances."

The municipal council of Cologne approved unanimously the proposal to give a grand Bismarck birthday celebration. This decision evoked numerous protests from Catholics who have not forgotten the Kulturkampf. The Koelnische Volkszeitung, organ of the Rhineland clericals, replied on Friday that Catholics ought to recognize the greatness of Bismarck's statesmanship and should remember that Leo XIII. bestowed upon him the high distinction of the Order of Christ.

Twelve non-commissioned officers, who were convicted in Magdeburg of mutiny in the artillery school in the Invaliden Strasse, passed through the city yesterday on their way to the Spandau fortress. The gold lace was torn from their coats to show that they had been degraded.

Ambassador Runyon's daughter, Mrs. Hoskins, will be presented at court at the Schleppencour on Jan. 23.

Gustave Niederlem, a commissioner from the new museum in Philadelphia, will open an office here to receive donations with which to buy commercial, technical and ethnographic specimens.

Chancellor Prince Hohenlohe, his son Alexander, M. R., and Count Herbert Bismarck left Berlin for Friedrichsruh yesterday.

HOPE FOR A SETTLEMENT.

Striking Miners Trying to Avoid Hardships.

Dubois, Pa., Jan. 14.—The Bell, Lewis & Yates striking miners at Dubois and Reynoldsville, had a conference with Mr. Bell on Friday and as a result they are hopeful of an early settlement of the strike. Mr. Bell has returned to Buffalo, accompanied by General Manager Elliott, for the purpose of holding a consultation with his firm, and Mr. Elliott is expected to return here to-day when the company's response will be received. The miners ask that all discharged men be taken back, being willing to do with less work in order to give the discharged miners employment. Great hardships will undoubtedly ensue unless the strike is settled this week.

A Doctor Charged with a Crime.

Hornellsville, N. Y., Jan. 14.—Dr. J. Maston Ryder is under arrest here and will be taken to Rochester, Windsor county, Vermont, to-day by Sheriff Tinkham of that county. He is charged with having delivered a child from a young unmarried woman, then killing it and burrying the body in the cellar of the house. It is claimed that the father of the child paid Ryder $20 to put it out of the way.

An Actress Nearly Asphyxiated.

Milwaukee, Wis., Jan. 14.—Miss Ethel Barrymore, daughter of Maurice Barrymore, the well known actor, was found unconscious in her room at the Davidson hotel yesterday from partial asphyxiation. The room was filled with gas which had escaped from an open burner. Physicians were summoned and the young lady restored to consciousness.

Johnson Beats the Record.

Minneapolis, Minn., Jan. 14.—The match skating race, one mile, between Johnson, champion of the United States, and Ostlund, champion of Norway, resulted in a victory for Johnson, who won by twenty yards in two minutes 45 seconds, beating his own record of a year ago by a fraction of a second.

Lancaster, Pa., Jan. 14.—Thomas Moss, a middle aged man, was found lying on a country road near the outskirts of the city almost frozen to death. Both of his legs were frozen black, and will have to be amputated.

TRAGEDY IN NEW JERSEY.

Two Brothers Engage in a Deadly Quarrel.

New York, Jan. 14.—A quarrel between two brothers, which will probably end in the death of both, occurred at the quiet homestead of Mrs. Alexander Phillips, near Avondale, N. J., last evening. Mrs. Phillips, who is 70 years of age, is the wiow of a former well known republican and ex-assemblyman, and lived with her son Richard, who is feeble minded. She had three other sons, Alexander, 40 years old, superintendent of a quarry at Little Falls; John, 35 years old, who is in the glassware business in Newark, and Henry, who lives in South Rutherford, across the Passaic river, which is crossed by a bridge at this point. The mother's home is on the river road, near the Avondale road.

Both Alexander and John are married. Alexander and his wife did not get on well together, and had separated. There is said to have been some ill feeling between the two brothers for some time, though the cause of the trouble was not exactly known. On Saturday night John and his wife came over from Newark to spend the night at the old home. Alexander also left Little Falls about 7 o'clock the same day to visit his mother but for some reason he did not reach the homestead until 3 o'clock yesterday. When he arrived there John was out. Not long after they arrived John came into the house and entered the room where his brother already was, but the two men did not speak. A moment later the old mother who was in an upstairs room heard a pistol shot and rushed down stairs into the sitting room. She saw John lying on the floor with a bullet wound near the right ear, from which the blood was gushing and over him stood Alexander with a pistol in his hand.

The horrified mother rushed toward her elder son and struggled with him frantically. Her efforts being unavailing, the half crazed mother ran from the room screaming for help. She had hardly passed the door when another shot rang out. By this time John's wife and others had arrived and when the room was again entered it was found that Alexander had shot himself almost in the identical place that he had shot his brother, but his last bullet had been more effective for he died almost instantly.

John was alive at a late hour last night. It is feared that the shock of the tragedy will prove dangerous, if not fatal, to the aged mother.

HAVE BECOME SAVAGES.

Chinese Army Fugitives Take Refuge in the Forests.

London, Jan. 14.—The Times has this dispatch from its Tien-Tsin correspondent:

"The Manchu princes have taken the defence of the country into their own hands. The intrigues of the Chinese officials aim to thwart them; hence a conflict that paralyzes the executive power. Li Hung Chang, though relieved of all functions except that of governor of the province, still indirectly influences the officials.

"Chinese arriving from Manchuria report that the country between the rivers Yalu and Liao-Ho is desolate. No houses are standing. The timber has been burned and towns and villages, erstwhile populous, are without a vestige of life. Only scattered groups of frozen corpses are seen. Food and fuel cannot be got.

"The wounded suffer terribly. The movements of troops on both sides are hindered by the exhaustion of the supplies which the country people at first brought from fear. The stragglers from the Chinese army who have taken refuge in the hills and forests, have become savages, lost to all human feeling."

NEW YEAR'S DAY IN RUSSIA.

The Czar Honors Several of His Ministers.

St. Petersburg, Jan. 14.—Yesterday was New Year's day according to the Russian calendar, and was noteworthy in official circles for the distribution of the usual New Year honors. M. Bunge, president of the committee of ministers, received the decoration of the Order of St. Vladimir, first class. In a special rescript the Czar spoke warmly of the sincerity and wisdom with which M. Bunge had fulfiled his duties. Gen Vannowsky, war minister, received the decoration of the Order of St. Andrew, and in an imperial rescript was congratulated upon his "zeal in perfecting the efficiency of the gallant army, the best guarantee of the peace of Europe."

AGAIN REPUBLICAN.

New York's Court of Appeals Changes After Twelve Years.

Albany, Jan. 14.—Albert Haight today takes his seat on the court of appeals bench. With his succession to Judge Earl the court will contain a republican majority for the first time in twelve years.

In order to retain this majority, however, the republicans will have to elect one of their party next fall as successor to Judge Finch. Judge Finch will probably be a candidate for reelection.

The New York Life Wins.

Portland, Me., Jan. 14.—In the case of the estate of the late Roscoe L. Bowers, of Saco, vs. New York Life Insurance company to compel the payment of a life policy of $10,000, Judge Putnam has rendered a decision for the insurance company. When Bowers died a premium was overdue and on this ground the payment of the policy which was refused. The estate claims that when the policy was taken out, the deceased understood that a clause allowing 30 days grace would be inserted. No such clause is in the policy, however.

A Congressman in Trouble.

Austin, Tex., Jan. 14.—Congressman-elect Mills Crowley has been accused of blackmail by State Senator J. W. Terry, who alleges that Crowley forced the Pullman Palace Car company to give him a pass and refused to aid some medical legislation unless money was put up for him. The senate is asked to impeach Crowley.

Twelve Deaths from the Grip.

New York, Jan. 14.—Twelve deaths from grip were reported at the bureau of vital statistics yesterday.

CELEBRATING VICTORY

Japanese Honor Their Soldiers and Sailors.

Ceremonies Held in Tokio and Witnessed by an Immense Number of People — Many Americans at the Festivities—Much Intoxication and Plenty of Accidents.

Washington, Jan. 14.—Accounts of a great celebration held in Tokio on Dec. 9 to commemorate Japan's victories at sea and in the field have been received at the Japanese legation here, and they show that the tardiness of the capital in bestirring itself to honor the Japanese soldiers and sailors was fully relieved by the thoroughness with which the celebration was carried out. At least 400,000 people witnessed the ceremonies which were held in Uyene Park, an immense inclosure to which 175,000 ticket purchasers were admitted. Railroad companies gave reduced rates to Tokio and it was necessary to run trains day and night to accommodate the traffic. Hotels and inns became overcrowded and many private residences were turned into hostelries. The great majority of Americans and other foreign residents assembled in the garden of Dr. E. Baeltz's house, which overlooks the scene of the festivities. So great were the numbers of those who participated in the parade which opened the celebration, that the procession degenerated into a mere scramble. Some idea of the magnitude of the marching multitude may be gathered from the statement that long after the van had reached Uyeno, the rear guard was still forming on the Hibiya Parade, four miles distant. Guilds of all sorts, schools, workmen, the employes of scores of mercantile companies, people of high and low degree, marched with the procession to the music of a number of bands, both regimental and impromptu, the blowing of a thousand trumpets and gonchs, the din of drums, and continual cheering from the paraders and the vast crowds that lined the route of march. Banners and standards of all descriptions, naval and military flags, transparencies, carriages filled with celebrants in gala costumes, riotously rejoicing school boys, members of the city council, and chamber of commerce, deputies from the interior, vans carrying symbolical groups, poles surmounted by papier mache and wicker work representations of decapitated Chinese, and a thousand other things, novel and amusing, were seen in the procession. When the procession arrived at the emperor's palace, the cheering became continuous. Portraits of the emperor and the empress were exhibited there and balloons with streamers were sent up. As the people marched they sang an ode entitled "Flag of the Morning Sun" composed by Mr. Fukuchi, a noted Japanese poet.

Midway in the Uyeno avenue stood a vast arch under which the parade had to pass. It was decorated profusely with the imperial flower, the chrysanthemum, yellow flowers on a green ground forming the inscriptions "Myriads of years may our army and navy flourish," and "May the empire live forever." Farther on at the point where the park proper was entered, stood a life size representation of the Gemum Gate, the scene of a famous exploit at the assault of Phyong Yang. A theatrical troupe was to have given a representation here of the storming of the gate but at the wish of the Prince Imperial, the troupe gave a series of battle scenes in front of the Educational museum. Banners captured from the Chinese were exhibited, and a great open air altar, piled with offerings was also a feature. Relays of priests of high rank kept up ceaseless prayers before the shrine until night fall. At noon about three hundred priests celebrated a solemn requiem before the altar for those who fell in the war.

The centre of attraction was the race course in the Uyeno Park and the grand stand. Here the Prince Imperial witnessed the ceremonies. The stand was surrounded with thousands of scholars from the various Japanese schools and listened to addresses from the mayor of Tokio, the president of the lower house and others. Illuminations at night with pyrotechnic representations of naval battles and many other costly displays completed the day. There were a number of accidents and untold intoxication. Fights were frequent. No less than fifty-four persons were pushed or thrown into a pond in the park. Two thousand wooden clogs were lost in the crush and the park was strewn with hats, clothing and innumerable other things. Five hundred persons who had served terms for pocket picking were locked up before the ceremonies began and seventy thieves were caught in the act of robbing people. In fact, the celebration was very similar, all things considered, to any like affair of a grand character in Europe or America.

Death of Dr. Stanton L. Hall.

Portchester, N. Y., Jan. 14.—Doctor Stanton L. Hall, who from 1860 to 1893 was professor of principles of surgery and lecturer on diseases of the nose and throat, and also filled the chair of physical and differential diagnosis of the Homeopathic Hospital College, Cleveland, O., died at his home here, aged fifty-three years.

Satisfaction To Be Demanded.

Philadelphia, Jan. 14.—Satisfaction will be demanded by both the United States and Italy from Morocco for the recent boarding and robbery on the high seas by Moorish pirates, of the Italian bark Santola bound from Philadelphia to Naples with a cargo of refined petroleum.

Heavy Snow Storm in Ohio.

Warren, O., Jan. 14.—The heaviest snowstorm seen here for years prevailed yesterday. The snow is over a foot deep on the level and in places has drifted as high as fences. Through trains have been greatly delayed.

His Third Attempt Succeeded.

Manchester, N. H., Jan. 14.—John B. Spencer, of West Manchester, 60 years of age, committed suicide by hanging in his barn. He was suffering from despondency and made two attempts to kill himself last week.

She listened; but she hardly understood him. She feared; but he half imbued her with his feeling. She doubted if he were not possessed of a sacred fury. And while she was sure that her son—Beauxlieux—could not be otherwise than right, yet a great melancholy oppressed her, as if for the first time she saw thrones shake and the old order of things go by. "Oh, what shall we do with him, M. Etienne?" she cried when he had gone.

"Nothing," said M. Etienne, "the good God has him in hand."

Sometimes when Beauxlieux came home, he had strange tales of his experience in the prisons, where he had gained permission to practice and to study. Sometimes he had nothing at all to say, as if words fell short of power. Once, in contrast to all this, he brought his mother the most charming Parisian costume; the daintiest hat and mantle. It made her feel herself a woman of the world again when she put them on. "You look like all the rest of them!" said Beauxlieux, "only a thousand times lovelier than any of them! You shall go up with me and see the new Paris. You get into a rut living in solitude, like the rest of the underground people. You shall go to the opera again; you shall go to the Bon Marche."

"Reason the more that you should go. And as for the expense, if money does not grow on bushes now, yet I have all we need. And, my first duty being to you, my mother, there will still be that which will suffice for the new Crusade, in saving those who are in this day the sepulchre of Christ, in carrying succor to how many of the sad and sorry!"

It had plainly become a passion with him, this care for the spirits in prison not only behind iron grates, but in the bonds of rude flesh. His mother could not explain why the whole thing gave her such vague uneasiness. She turned for comfort, as usual, to M. Etienne. "It is time that he ranged himself, that I found for him some young girl with a sufficient dot," her thoughts summoning up an array of possible and impossible young princesses.

"But my people, my friends, are gone. The Chevalier St. Malo died last year, Mortignat is imbecile. I doubt if there is one left in the world who knows that the Duchess des Sarazines Beauxlieux lives! And he begins to have money. The bourgeois spirit of the time will seize him if we do not beware. Is it that it is the habit of all young men, playing, as he does, at a profession, so soon to arrive at wealth?"

"I—I do not know," stammered M. Etienne. "We—we may be sure—"

The duchess looked at him in surprise. Sure of what? Was M. Etienne disturbed that Beauxlieux found money easily? Of course whatever a Sarazines Beauxlieux attempted, he would do as well as the best. Had not even poor little Pierre made money?

"What is it, monsieur? You, also, you a physician, you should know."

"I have always had sufficient, madame," said M. Etienne, with an air of cold restraint quite foreign to him, and leaving her with an abrupt bow, as if he heard some one speaking without, he paused in the great hall to wipe his forehead. What he did know very well was that no young physician could bring home to his mother, from time to time, Worth costumes, hothouse luxuries, costly wines, or a pony carriage to take the air, even though he denied himself everything as Beauxlieux did, and gave them to her because, sensible that they were as much to her after long seclusion as sun and air to those others, the sufferers, as equal laws to the craftsmen, as liberty and life to the slave, as the bit of mother earth to all that tread upon it. "She is one of my people, too," he said to M. Etienne. "And to each according to his need!" And then, by an unavoidable accident, M. Etienne had seen a scrap of paper, on which was noted, apparently, a balance that had made him feel as if there were nothing real left in the world. He called to mind the gaming debts of the old duke, his grandfather, stories of wild play, in which whole provinces changed hands and lands and serfs were staked against the value of a fair prendendue's affections. But anything like that, he knew as well as he knew that the sky was above him, was impossible to Beauxlieux. The worst he feared, he the royalist, was that place and power were throwing fortune into the young noble's hands, so peradventure to win him to themselves. How he had come by such a sum of money his friend and tutor could not say—it had a strange look—but under any and all circumstances Beauxlieux must be right. What was of more consequence to M. Etienne than all the rest was that the duchess was uneasy concerning it.

Beauxlieux's twenty-fourth birthday was now approaching He was away with Jean—Jean in the priestly garb he always wore now—on one of their trips which he called journeys into the night. His mother knew that he carried alms to the perishing, that he went to give them the help of his profession, for which alone he had learned and valued it, to teach their rights as human beings to whole clusters of slaves. One day she found a letter open on Beauxlieux's desk, written, it said, from the blood of a pricked vein; and she felt a horrible foreboding that some day he, also, would be in the depths of some oubliette sending such a message to hearten those without. Oh, what had happened to the world, she cried, when a prince like Beauxlieux felt himself of no more worth than the tatterdemalion herding with his cows and sheep or crowding the cellars of filthy city courts!

But now he was coming home! And when she saw him she forgot danger. He was there and the sun shone. With Beauxlieux at her feet, with M. Etienne at the other side of the fire, what more had she to ask? She had Olympe prepare a toilette for her to wear on this birthday that should make him remember to whom he belonged—his mother still the grande dame—and she went with Olympe to the secret place in the wall to bring out the old Beauxlieux diamonds, with half a pleasant anticipation of the flash of their awakening, of the sudden sheets of luster that, after their three years' imprisonment, should stream out as if they would illumine the very abyss into which the glory of the Sarazines Beauxlieux had fallen.

One by one Olympe took the cases and carried them to the dressing table. The duchess herself opened the large one, and instead of the burst of radiance—nothing. Only the loose, soft chamois lining of the thing gave out an empty gleam. There was some mistake. How was it? Could the jewels have been crowded into the other cases? Their fingers trembled, they knew not why, as they tried to open them. One and all they were empty. The seldom worn coronet, the lesser diadem, the rivieres, those superb and matchless stones of the fillets and of the collar and of the sunburst that had been theirs for more than a thousand years, had vanished as if they had been soap-bubbles.

"I CAN BEAR IT NO LONGER," SHE CRIED.

CHAPTER V.

They ran back to the hidden niche, they dragged out the iron box. Both of them were empty also. The two women confronted each other, white and shaking. They had been robbed! What misery! What cruelty! Who was it could misuse them so? Who knew of the hiding place? Who had taken them? "Do not speak," said the duchess. "Be quiet till I can think! Oh, say nothing, say nothing till I can think," she murmured over and over. "Say nothing, my Olympe! Say nothing!"

Without question there was not a stone or spark left of the Beauxlieux diamonds.

The duchess could have trusted Olympe with her life; she knew, of course, that nothing would be said about the loss of the diamonds till she spoke herself. And it seemed to her as if she had herself been stricken with dumbness. All her shadowy fears vanished like thin phantoms before this terrible reality of evil. Not that the diamonds were gone; not that anyone could reproach her for neglect, was she concerned. What had she ever cared for them, other than as they represented the long-descended luster of the family itself? And it was not she who had been robbed, any more than the long line of all that dead and long people. She paced the great hall and looked angrily at the dark portraits—were the eyes there stabbing her with reproach for what she had brought among them? She went out and essayed to busy herself among her late lingering flowers. It was no use; there was a worm at every root. When she walked along the shore, the restless wash and roar of the water was the only thing in tune with the tumult of her thoughts. When she came in she whirled, without reading it, a letter of Beauxlieux into the fire that always smoldered on the hearth, and sat there wrapped in a cloud of gloom. She did not eat in these days. She did not sleep. White and thin and with a little breathless air, the blackness of her gown was not so black as the shadow that surrounded her. "They were his!" she said over and over to herself, like the tolling of a bell. "They were his—de quelque maniere. He had only to speak. I would have put them into his hand. But to—oh, no, no, no, let me not say the word! It is impossible. Mother of God, and it is true! Oh! Oh! Oh! Beauxlieux! Beauxlieux, my son!" And her grief was more hopeless than that of another who buries her child.

Sometimes she would wonder if she were dreaming. Or even, with a throb of relief, if it could be that she were crazed. Suddenly she would deny it all, and accuse herself of an infamy. She to suspect the noblest, the truest, the loftiest of his line! She to believe evil of that upright, proud soul! And then the facts flashed before her again like a chain of lightning on the darkness—the ease that had insensibly come into the house, the accursed gowns from Worth, the frequency of the costly journeys, the repairs of the roofs of the chateau. Where had Beauxlieux obtained the money? "Oh, I can bear it no more," she cried once, starting back from the embrasure of the window as M. Etienne came in, and not knowing that she spoke aloud, "I can bear it no more."

"Pardon me," said the monsieur. "Pardon if I overhear. I have seen before that your grace is troubled. Have you lost all confidence in me, madame? At least, will you not remember that I am your physician?" He stood there as pale as she, his head bowed, his sad eyes at her feet.

She ran toward him, but stopped, tottering, so that she would have fallen but for his quick arm. "Oh, monsieur!" she cried. "You are all I have—for he has broken my heart!"

"You are wrong," he said to her, when some time afterward, with sobs and tears and wild cries and exclamations, she had unburdened her heart. "It is just as much out of the question as that the sky should fall. Doubt Beauxlieux? I would as soon—let me say it as I would say a prayer—doubt the Lord. It is simply impossible."

"Oh, so I said. It"

"We will let it rest there then."

"Oh, Etienne; it is so long that you have been a comfort, a help, a shield to me."

"And will be forever!"

"Oh, but the money, Etienne!" she cried, with recurring memories coming like the waves of subsiding waters. "We who have been so long without money—all that money he must have!" wringing her hands again.

"That is his affair. It is not mine. If the Duke des Sarazines Beauxlieux has a purse befitting him, he came by it as the earth comes by the sun, through the grace of God. It is not possible that white should be black, and Beauxlieux is white! White as innocence and goodness. No, no, no, do not give it a thought. You wrong yourself. My God! You've wronged him. We must look elsewhere."

"But why does the suspicion,—oh, the terrible, hateful suspicion, the dreadful facts! Why do they all arrange themselves about him?" she persisted. "Alas! Alas! Why indeed do I live? Why does not my tongue cleave to the roof of my mouth? It is my son of whom I speak! Oh, we have had misfortune, Etienne, such misfortune! But never such misfortune, such despair as this!"

The reader of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly on the blood and mucous surface of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer $100 for any case that it fails to cure.

THE COLLEGE BOYS.

They Are Given Gay and Festive Time by Plainfield People.

College Glee Clubs seldom have cause to regret a visit to Plainfield. The town is full of admirers of student musicians and these turned out in force last night at the Casino to hear the Columbia boys concert. The arrangements of the reception were admirable in every way and and the method employed of placing the numbers of the programme between the dances instead of all before them called forth many approving remarks.

The room was decorated in light blue and white cheesecloth, with here and there a university flag or a branch of Christmas holly. Evergreens were used with a lavish hand and the effect was very pleasing. The usual supply of sofa cushions not only added to the comfort of the guests but formed an important addition to the decorations. The stage was provided with ottomans and rugs and many of the patronesses took that position for hearing the concert. A low platform on the stage right covered with rugs and provided with chairs served as a stage for the clubs, whose playing and singing were admirable; in fact it was the universal verdict that last night's musical performance was the best that had been heard in Plainfield for many a day. It would be hard to pick out either the banjo, mandolin or glee club for special commendation, they were all so good, but it is safe to say that the collegians, singing proved the most popular.

The order of dancing and concert numbers were as follows:

PROGRAMME.

Waltz.
Two Step.

Elliott played the dance music and was entirely satisfactory.

Supper was served about midnight by the club and was under the direct supervision of the club's head waiter, John Tombo. The tables looked very well indeed and many remarked the excellence of the service.

Dancing continued after supper until past two and even at the last dance the thinning out on the floor was barely perceptible. Many of the younger girls were present as a glee club reception was considered sufficiently informal to warrant the waiving of the question of whether a girl was out or not.

Great credit is due to Mr. Cokefair who had the entire arrangements on his hands and it was through his efforts that everything went so smoothly and well. The patronesses were:

THATCHER HIMSELF AGAIN.

Plainfield's Favorite Own Minstrel Arranges a Gorgeous New Production.

George Thatcher and Carroll Johnson, who will bring their new minstrel company to Plainfield Feb. 4, have taken special pains and spared no expense in the costuming and magnificence of the scenic display which the rise of the curtain on their gorgeous "first-part" scene will disclose.

The scene represents a spectacular palace, brilliantly illuminated by a wealth of new and novel electrical effects, and with its grand staircase and spacious galleries making a scene of grandeur never before attempted in minstrelsy.

The large company, costumed in the brilliant dress of the "English Hunt Club", with Miss Alma Bellini, the well-known soprano, and Miss Helen Courtland, the charming contralto, in beautiful evening dresses with long court trains, form a picture which is sure to please the most fastidious in its harmony and color effects. Add to this the sweet singing of the Misses Bellina and Courtland, John Gardner, W. Olivier, Boardman Carnes, B. J. Tiemann, Robt. Cross and A. H. Waite, and the sparkling humor of George Thatcher, Carroll Johnson, Frank H. White and George Powers, and it would seem that the "first-part" of Thatcher & Johnson's minstrels contains all the elements of interest and entertainment.

Add to the pleasures of this marvelous "first-part" the following high-class list of vaudeville artists: Miss Lillie Larkelle, the bright and clever soubrette in a turn of catchy songs; the famous Eddy Family, four in number two ladies and two gentlemen, in their refined acrobatic specialties; Carroll Johnson in his new conceit, "Entertaining the Vaudeville Club", introducing character songs and dances; George Thatcher, in a brand new monologue; and the Morris Educated Ponies, 10 in number including "Banner" the famous wrestling pony, and "Madison Square" the smallest horse in the world. being but 27 inches in height and weighing but 45 pounds, in tricks, drills and feats of almost human intelligence under the tutorship of Master William Morris, whose skill as a trainer has never been equaled; and it would seem that Messrs. Thatcher & Johnson have provided an entertainment hard to equal.

The novelty and splendid appearance of the parade which the company will make on the day of the performance will excite much comment.

DEATH OF PETER WOODEN

He Was North Plainfield's Oldest Inhabitant.

FELL DEAD FROM HIS CHAIR

Had Been Doing His Chores as Usual, and Had Just Brought Eggs from the Barn—Was in His 95th Year, and Sturdy to the Last.

Peter Wooden, known to all as "Uncle Peter", died suddenly yesterday afternoon at his home in North Plainfield. He was the oldest inhabitant, and would have completed his 95th year in May.

"Uncle Peter" was in good health and active in his daily work up to the very last. Even as late as Sunday he took a lively interest in all that went on in the town, and had planned to go to the W. C. T. U. meeting in Music Hall, but was disappointed on account of the snow storm that came up. He was a frequent attendant at church, going to service whenever it was possible, his usual attendant being his 10-year-old great-greatniece, Rachel Sprigge.

Yesterday morning he was about the yard and barn, shelling corn in the hand-mill, and cleaning up the place. He made his daily visit to Spencer's store, and was apparently as well as usual. He ate a hearty dinner at home, and followed his accustomed routine. About half-past three he went to the barn for eggs. When he came in, his niece, Miss Smalley, who lives at the place, asked him how many eggs he had got. He answered that he had brought three in, and had left one in each nest. She said she would better go and bring the nest eggs in because they might freeze over night. While she went for the eggs he sat down in his favorite chair between the stove and the window, in the kitchen, and soon after her return he suddenly fell sideways toward the window, without a sound. Mrs. Louise Sprigge, a great-greatniece, was present with Miss Smalley. They thought he had a fainting spell. While Miss Smalley lifted "Uncle Peter" to the bed, Mrs. Sprigge ran across to Spencer's and got Mr. Spencer and John Goodwin to go over and assist. They found "Uncle Peter" motionless on the bed, and finding no pulse applied camphor in an effort to revive him. Ann Dickinson happened in just at that time, and went for a doctor. She tried to get Dr. Carman, but he was not at home. Dr. Probasco also was out. Mrs. Probasco telephoned for Dr. Tomlinson, "Uncle Peter's" family physician, but Dr. Tomlinson was on his rounds. Mrs. Dickinson stopped for Dr. Carman again, but he was still out. Meanwhile Dr. Mattison had been reached, and he was the first physician to attend. He was soon joined by Drs. Carman, Probasco, and Tomlinson. They found "Uncle Peter" dead. Louis Sprigge went for "Uncle Peter's" spiritual adviser, Rev. Dr. A. H. Lewis, who offered consolation in the bereavement and tendered pastoral counsel and aid. A. M. Runyon & Son were notified, and the body was put in their care. The funeral was set for Thursday afternoon at 2:30 at the house, the officiating clergyman to be Dr. Lewis. The burial will be in a lot bought by "Uncle Peter", unknown to most of his friends, in Hillside Cemetery. His family burials have been in North Plainfield.

Ann Dickinson lived with "Uncle Peter" twenty years, and for the past seven Miss Smalley had been his housekeeper, faithfully caring for him. Last Sunday Mrs. Dickinson stopped in at "Uncle Peter's" on her way from church, and took dinner with him. "Little did I think"—she says—"that that was to be my last meal with him."

A few days ago "Uncle Peter" told his great-greatniece, Rachel Spriggs, that he had lived to see '95 and was prepared to go. He was continually speaking in a strain showing his spiritual condition, and his readiness to enter the rest that must soon come to crown his years. He was found at prayer on his knees, four or five times a day, in his bedroom or in the parlor, and his mind was at perfect rest and content. And thus he died.

Wm. M. Stillman was "Uncle Peter's" legal adviser, and because of his being in Bermuda at the present time the matters of his estate cannot be detailed. A short time ago it was estimated that "Uncle Peter" was worth $200,000, but this of course cannot be verified until an accurate inventory is made.

From The Daily Press of Oct. 13, 1893, the following faithful sketch and excellent accompanying likeness are reproduced.

The little white cottage on Somerset street has been home to Uncle Peter Wooden as far back as any other "oldest inhabitant" can remember, and Uncle Peter himself has been a local landmark the best part of a century.

The story of Uncle Peter's life is one of quiet prosperity. He was born May 24, 1800, within half a mile of his present residence. His father was Ezra Wooden, who took wife from the Martin family of New Durham, Middlesex County, and settled on a farm at Somerset street and Greenbrook road, during the latter part of the eighteenth century.

Peter Wooden learned the blacksmith trade, and for 30 years had his shop at Chatham and Somerset streets, opposite his residence, where the Crescent Hotel now stands. He also ran a farm. The land he acquired was more than 100 acres, and the site of his farm is now a most important portion of North Plainfield.

David J. Carney, who is one of Uncle Peter's most intimate friends, relates that during school vacations in the Summers of 1865 and '66, as a small boy he used to drive Uncle Peter's cows to and from pasture. The cattle grazed in those days in a meadow alongside the stretch of woodland up Somerset street, owned by Uncle Peter. Later in the season, David used to pick stone on the farm, and help gather apples from the orchard, and accompany Uncle Peter to Spencer's cider mill in the Valley.

The farm at that time extended from Green brook to present Park place, and comprised most of the area between these limits and Somerset and Grove streets. The Grove street boundary was along the north side of Grove street all the way from the bridge to Park place. Thence the line ran to Somerset street where the new schoolhouse now stands, and down Somerset street to Uncle Peter's present residence. From there down to the brook the boundary line was irregular, but the farm included the greater part of the land in the rear of Thorn's flats (the site of which is on the old Dr. John Craig farm); the residence of David French, father of P. M. French, now occupied by Rev. W. E. Honeyman; the Johnson house, now occupied by Jacob Voehl; and the property where C. Frank French today has his granary.

It was to this farm that Uncle Peter brought his bride of 1835, Rachel Randolph of South Plainfield. They had three children, but all died young, except George, who reached manhood and went to Illinois. He died there aged 33, without issue.

Uncle Peter lost his wife in 1837, and in 1840 took a new helpmeet in Miss Margaret Cory of Stony Hill. She was known to Uncle Peter from her visits to the Somerset street farm adjoining the Wooden place, that being owned by Daniel Coon, whose wife was Margaret Cory's sister Harriet. Another sister of the bride was Hannah, wife of 'Squire Allen, whose brother David Allen was an old-time resident of Washington Valley. These Allen boys had a famous brother in Col. John Allen, in his day owner of the Martine farm in this city, and Colonel in the New Jersey State Militia. Uncle Peter's wife Aunt Margaret was a beloved citizen of North Plainfield. She was a devoted member of the Plainfield First Baptist Church, and a woman of sunny nature and big-hearted charity. She was but two years younger than Uncle Peter, when she died in 1890, ripe in years of kindly deeds.

Uncle Peter's memory is bright, and he enjoys telling of the distant past. He is indeed a relic of old times, and is full of reminiscences of events of those early days which were alive with men now dead and forgotten. He himself clearly recounts the chronicles of the Wooden family. His father Ezra, he says, had eight children, six boys and two girls, whose names were Gideon, Peter, Ziba, Nathan, Richard, Jeptha, Sarah and Elizabeth. Ezra Wooden was in the Revolutionary War. Just before the Battle of Monmouth he gave his horse to a man named Moore, who came from over the mountain near Basking Ridge, asking him to take it to the rear. Moore threw himself astride the animal, and rode all the way from the Monmouth battlefield to his home. The neighbors, however, would not let him enter his house, but compelled him to return to the front. Four of Ezra's sons married and went to Illinois, Gideon and Uncle Peter remaining at home. Gideon, who was known as "Priest" Wooden, was a Seventh-Day preacher, and was pastor of the old historical Piscataway church. He afterwards owned the large farm below Cedar brook, on Park avenue, which he cultivated. "Priest" Wooden's son Ezra is the father of William, Ludlow and Martin Wooden; William and Ludlow are hotel-keepers in Hunterdon and Morris counties, respectively, and Martin is connected with the Royal Baking Powder Co. Ziba was married, and had two children. Nathan also married. Nathan's son George Wooden frequently spent the Summer with Uncle Peter. He died a year or two ago, leaving a sister in Newark, where he formerly resided. Elizabeth Wooden married Aaron Freeman, and was the mother of two children, Sarah marrying Aaron Allen, who used to reside on Race street, where the electric-light station now is, and Mary E. marrying a former store-keeper here named John Boice. Richard was married and has a daughter named Hannah living in Illinois. Jeptha's son and daughter also reside in that State. Sarah Wooden married a man named Fields, and after his death she married Robert Morris, an Englishman, by whom she had two children, one dying in childhood. They lived at the corner of Amity street and Sixth avenue, New York. The remaining child at the age of sixteen came to Plainfield and lived with the family of the late Zachariah Webster and married Peter Dickinson, a physician of Brooklyn, who was the father of Caleb Dickinson, the Park avenue jeweler, whose mother Ann Dickinson is a well-known member of the M. E. Church in this city.

So much for the Wooden chronology. There have been generations continually springing up, and good old Uncle Peter has outlived many of the younger blood. He has lived a peaceful, modest, domestic life, of restful tranquility and simplicity. Always a busy worker, he still does all the odd chores about his home, and as a living relic of the old farm life up to a few months ago kept a horse. Little by little he has parted with his land, thereby adding to the snug fortune which his industry and frugality have accumulated. He has never deviated from his rule of quiet living, and a recent railroad trip to White House, with Ann Dickinson, was a novel and quite exciting experience. Spectators were intensely interested in the picture of the two quaint characters going off on the holiday jaunt.

Uncle Peter has always been a faithful attendant at church, and is now a regular and devoted member of Dr. Lewis's Seventh-Day Baptist Church on Central avenue. Years ago he used to listen to his brother "Priest" Wooden preach in the Piscataway church near the Half-Moon Hotel below Quibbletown, now New Market. A Mr. Laverty was a preacher there afterwards. A remarkable coincidence is that Uncle Peter's birthday anniversary and that of Timothy Morse occurred together, Mr. Morse being one year younger.

Uncle Peter's good health is undoubtedly due in part to his abstinence from liquor and tobacco. His picture, excellently given herewith, and his biography, now first published, will be treasured by his loving friends.

Additional facts concerning "Uncle Peter" were given to a Daily Press reporter last evening by Ann Dickinson. She said that the birthplace of "Uncle Peter" was in a frame house long ago moved, from its original site on Greenbrook road near Somerset street, to Regent street, where later it was torn down. Peter was the youngest of Ezra's and Ruth's sons. He was 16 when apprenticed to the blacksmithing trade with Ezra Williams at the smithy near Union Village. His first marriage was April 28, 1825, to Rachel Randolph, daughter of Nehemiah Randolph of Piscataway. By her he had three children: John Williams Wooden, born April 22, 1829, died Feb. 19, 1837; George Washington Wooden, born Aug. 25, 1831, died Oct. 10, 1864; Randolph Wooden, born May 2, 1835, died Jan. 15, 1855. His wife Rachel died Oct. 11, 1837. He remarried March 22, 1840, Margaret Cory. At his first marriage he moved from the homestead into a house standing where C. Frank French's feed store now stands. They lived there a short time, and "Uncle Peter" built the house where he lived ever since. His second wife died March 22, 1890, leaving no offspring. Several years before his second wife's death he gave up the blacksmithing business which he had conducted at the corner of Chatham and Somerset streets, and devoted his time to home duties, raising vegetables, caring for cows and poultry. He tilled the greater part of fifteen acres in the locality where Duer and Grove streets now run, selling the land for town development. Some of the land was bought and improved by the Mr. Duer after whom the street was named. "Uncle Peter" opened Vine street, and some of his land he sold for the public school site.

The cause of "Uncle Peter's" death is attributed to heart failure.

"The Baggage Check."

Farce-comedy is successful only when the girls are pretty and can sing and dance, and when the comedians are real funny. "The Baggage Check" has all these requirements. Charles E. Blaney has turned out four successes in the last two years, and his "A Baggage Check", which comes to Music Hall tomorrow night, is said to be the best of all of them, as he had an unusually clever lot of people to write for as the cast in the advertisement shows.

In addition to a rattling good farce-comedy, the management have provided a novelty called "The Dead Pictures", said to be a truly marvelous performance.

An Artist Fresh from Paris.

An attractive room in the new Babcock Building is the studio occupied by Miss Louise Huntington Collins, an artist whose talent has been developed by the best of instruction in this country, and by three years of study in Paris, whence she has just returned.

Miss Collins has opened classes in drawing and painting, from models and still life. Her classes meet Tuesday and Friday mornings, and afternoon classes for children are contemplated. Opportunity is thus offered for all interested in drawing, water colors, and oils. If Miss Collins receives sufficient encouragement, she may establish an art school.

Freight Wreck on the Central.

At 2:30 this morning the eastbound Manch Chunk fast freight drawn by Engine 408, and in charge of Conductor Gray, was ditched at Lebanon by the breaking of an axle under a stone car. Seven cars were derailed, and it took the wrecking crew which was at once called from Hampton several hours to clear the debris.

This morning the eastbound mail train was late, being obliged to run on the time of the 8:15 local, the latter train taking the place of the mail for today's trip to the city.

Queen City Lodge.

A large assembly of brothers filled the lodge room of Queen City, 228, I. O. O. F., last evening to witness the installation of the newly elected officers, a full list of which has previously appeared in The Press. The ceremonies were performed by District Deputy Grand Master Stamets and staff of Westfield, after which speeches were made by the new officers, and visiting brethren. The entire party then adjourned to the upper rooms, where all worked the banquet degree of the order in the most approved manner.

FRENCH CABINET RESIGNS.

Premier Dupuy Could Not Be Induced to Retain Office.

Paris, Jan. 15.—Premier Dupuy has handed the resignation of the French ministry to President Casimir-Perier.

President Casimir-Perier tried vainly to induce Premier Dupuy to reconsider his resignation. The premier would not listen to any proposals looking to his retention of office and, after a conference of forty minutes, his resignation was accepted. Henri Brisson, president of the chamber, and M. Challemel Lacour, president of the senate, will be summoned to the Elysee to consult with M. Casimir-Perier.

The Official Journal publishes a decree charging the members of the Dupuy cabinet to carry on the routine business of their departments until their successors shall be appointed. The general opinion is that, if a radical ministry is formed, M. Bourgeois, minister of justice during the Panama scandal, or Eugene Godefroy Gavaignac will be the premier. Those near the president are making a strenuous efforts to assure the choice of Bourgeois. Whether a composite or homogeneous cabinet be arranged, probably several members of the Dupuy ministry will remain in office.

SHOT DOWN BY NEGROES.

Revenge the Motive for a Tragedy at Columbus, Ga.

Columbus, Ga., Jan. 15.—About half past 6 o'clock last night people passing along Broad street, opposite the Georgia Home Insurance building, the most conspicuous portion of the business section of the city, were startled by rapid reports of pistol shots being fired, and a young man with a smoking revolver in his hand staggered into Brannon & Carson's drug store, threw his weapon on the counter, fell to the floor and expired almost instantly, with great streams of blood issuing from his mouth and ears.

The young man killed was J. Thomas Jarrett, who kept a small merchandise store, and was also a member of a detective agency. He had ferretted out a robbery of a saloon, and encountered two negroes, whom he had seen in the act of stealing from the saloon, which is located on Broad street, and attempted to arrest them. It is supposed the negroes resisted and Jarrett drew his pistol to defend himself when a shot was fired, four more following immediately. The two negroes broke and ran in different directions and Jarrett staggered into the store and fell dead.

A TOW GOES TO PIECES.

Twenty Barges Sink and Others Drift Out of Sight.

Hawesville, Ky., Jan. 15.—In a dense fog as the tow boat Boaz with thirty loaded coal boats bound from Pittsburg to New Orleans, rounded the bend just above here, she struck the bank and the fleet went to pieces. The Boaz's wheel and machinery were damaged and the boat keeled over on one side. The crew became frantic and climbed on to the barges. Twenty barges went down immediately and others drifted out of sight, jammed, and are going to pieces in the ice.

The Boaz drifted by lying on one side, evidently about to sink. Every steamer here and at Cannellton on the Indiana shore sounded distress whistles. Citizens of both towns were terror stricken and great excitement prevailed. The boats belong to Juty, of Cincinnati, and the coal to Fawcett, of Pittsburg.

Asked the Pope to Arbitrate.

Cairo, Jan. 15.—The native journal Al Mokattam publishes the following: "The sultan recently asked the pope to arbitrate the Armenian question, and his holiness sent to Constantinople a delegate who proposed that the powers intervene, and intimated it would be necessary to get practical guarantees that the church Governmental reforms be carried out. The pope purposes to make representations to Europe that the troubles in Armenia arose, not from religious animosity, but from bad government."

Carlisle Modifies an Order.

Washington, Jan. 15.—Late yesterday afternoon Secretary Carlisle sent a telegram to collectors of customs at all of the leading ports to modify his recent order in which they were directed to collect an additional duty of one-tenth of a cent per pound on sugar imported from Spain or her dependencies. He now instructs them that this additional duty is to apply only to refined sugars.

Mrs. Childs-Whitney Divorced.

Oklahoma, O. T., Jan. 15.—A decree of divorce was granted in the district court here to Annie Childs-Whitney, of New York, prominent in society there and a niece of the late George W. Childs. Her husband, Carlos W. Whitney, made no defense to the charges of abandonment and incompatibility of temperament.

Under the Ice To Death.

A JUDGE'S NIGHTMARE.

The Celebrated Johnson Case in Connecticut To Be Reopened.

Norwich, Conn., Jan. 15.—To the surprise even of the counsel in the celebrated Johnson case, Andrew Johnson the petitioner to have a conservator appointed over his mother, Mrs. Mary T. Johnson, after agreeing to the terms of settlement, declared yesterday before Judge Carter that never since the case begun had he for a moment thought he would accept any proposition for settlement. Solomon Lucas, one of his lawyers, did not appear in court and it is reported has withdrawn from the case. His other attorney, Mr. Thayer, said he had nothing to say except that he would as soon go into the forest and try to drive a wild animal as to try to drive his client.

Gov. Waller, representing Mrs. Johnson, said: "It might be advisable to name a conservator appointed to look after Andrew Johnson." Lawyer Brandegee, said: "The agreement was made by Andrew Johnson's counsel, and they had notified him that the case had been settled satisfactorily and a copy of the agreement had been forwarded to him. Now, we see Andrew Johnson insisting that they back out, raise the curtain and display a wretched home to satisfy the putrid curiosity of the public.

"If this agreement was satisfactory to him and his counsel God be merciful to him and them before they get out of this court again. If this trial is resumed the fight shall be to a finish, 'lay on Macduff.'"

Judge Carter said: "I must have rest. I wake up in the night and this case is before me. I want to go where there will be something else before me. I shall not be ready to hear the case till next week." The case was finally continued to Jan. 26.

STOLE TO HELP A FRIEND.

Defaulter Abbott Prefers Death Rather Than a Prison Cell.

Dover, N. H., Jan. 15.—Defaulter Abbott of the Dover National bank who committed suicide just before he was to be arrested yesterday afternoon, left in his brother's possession a statement of his defalcations, in an envelope addressed to Examiner Dorr. That gentleman promised to make the statement public, but said, after due consideration, that he would not give it out. He said, however, that the statement was not detailed, but only left clues for him to follow. He would not state the amount of the shortage, but it is stated by some insiders that the amount is not far from $80,000. It is hinted that Abbott has not been a thief in the common sense of the word, but made his first inroad on the money belonging to the bank to help out a friend. He would not state who that friend was, but there is every reason to believe that the true facts will come to light before the examination is over.

COLOMBIA DISTURBED.

A Mighty Revolution Likely to Occur in the Republic.

Panama, Jan. 15.—News from the interior of the republic and the Atlantic coast of Colombia indicates a disturbed political condition, one that at any time may lead to the mightiest revolution that this home of revolutions has known.

The liberals, for many years kept under and anxious for true republican freedom and citizenship, are now ready to strike a new blow for their birthright. They smart under a priestly rule and excessive taxation.

As an instance of how things are run by those in power may be cited the fact that a decree has been enforced on the isthmus precluding the meeting of more than two people on the public streets.

New Haven, Conn., Jan. 15.—George Persall, who gave his address as Harlem, N. Y., is wanted in Milford by the Milford hotel for a week's board, and by a liveryman for taking away a buggy and a pair of horses. "Persall" is about 50 years old, five feet nine inches in height, 190 pounds, and dressed very well.

Grout's Bill Gets a Black Eye in the House.

Gorman Criticizes Hill in the Senate for His Course on the Tariff Law—The New York Senator Retaliates Upon His Southern Colleague with Equal Warmth.

Washington, Jan. 15.—The opponents of Mr. Grout's bill to subject oleomargarine, butterine and other substitutes for and imitations of dairy products, to the laws of the state into which it may be transported, yesterday made good their assertion that they could prevent its passage in the consideration morning hour. Under the lead of Messrs. Bynum (dem., Ind.) and Williams (dem., Miss.), the few opponents successfully exhausted the hour at the disposal of Mr. Hatch and the committee on agriculture and the bill lost its favored place without having reached a vote on its merits. An order from the committee on rules will probably be necessary for the further consideration of the bill. Objection was made to granting unanimous consent, asked by Mr. Hatch, to consider the pure food bill. Owing to the absence, through illness, of Mr. Hatch (dem., Mo.), chairman of the committee on affairs of the District of Columbia, it was agreed, by unanimous consent, to set apart next Friday for the consideration of measures reported from that committee.

The committee on the judiciary was given the rest of the day for bills reported by it. Chairman Culberson (dem., Tex.) called up the senate bill "to provide for the redistricting of the Indian territory for judicial purposes, for an additional judge and more United States commissioners, and to prescribe the jurisdiction, duties and authority of such judges and commissioners." It occupied the time of the house in committee of the whole, nearly the whole of the remainder of the day, and was finally passed with certain amendments recommended by the committee.

The bill to make an additional judicial district in Kentucky was taken up but no conclusion had been reached when the house at 5:15 adjourned.

In the Senate.

The senators and a large number of spectators in the senate galleries, were entertained for five hours with speeches by Senators Gorman (dem., Md.) and Hill (dem., N. Y.) on the subject of Mr. Hill's amendment to the urgent deficiency bill, by which he seeks to confer on the United States courts jurisdiction (in advance of the collection of the income tax) to decide upon its constitutionality and validity.

Mr. Gorman discussed with great earnestness the condition of the treasury and opposed warmly any proposition that would impede the collection of revenue. In doing so he criticised very freely Mr. Hill's whole course in regard to the tariff law.

Mr. Hill defended his position, and retaliated upon the Maryland senator with an equally severe criticism of his course.

When the adjourment came, at 5:30, there had been no vote on the pending amendment.

In executive session the senate agreed to take up the Japanese treaty next Friday afternoon. It is thought that owing to the absence of any opposition to this convention, it can be acted upon at this session. On the 10th of this month the senate confirmed the nomination of Herbert Wolcott Bowen, of New York, consul at Barcelona, Spain, to be consul general at the same place. Mr. Platt stated that he had received certain telegrams making charges against Mr. Bowen and at his request the confirmation was held up until the matter could be investigated.

Shortage in the Mint.

Philadelphia, Jan. 15.—The count of the fifty million silver dollars, which for months has been going on at the United States mint, resulted in showing a shortage of $769. Superintendent Townsend in order to be sure there has been a loss, will have three or four men at work examining the vault to ascertain whether any pieces can be found. Many of the bags were broken and some of the dollars may be about the place.

America's Cup Race.

London, Jan. 15.—The Morning Post says in a leader reviewing the last negotiation for the America's cup race: "It may be concluded safely that no club here after holding the cup will demand ten months' notice, and, the other questions now being cleared, the probability of a deadlock in international yacht racing is removed forever."

Did Not Turn Up.

LIFE WAS A BURDEN.

A Pain-Racked Sufferer Tells an Interesting Story—How He Was Tortured for Years and Finally Cured by Munyon's Remedy.

Charles Wark, of 14 N. Twenty-fourth St., Philadelphia, has been a constant sufferer from rheumatism for years. He was cured by the use of Munyon's Rheumatism Cure. This is his story:

"I was afflicted with rheumatism in the righ shoulder and suffered the most excruciating agony. Sharp shooting pains darted through it so intense I could not sleep night. Even the weight of the bedclothes was more than I could bear; neither could I lie on the right side or my back. Life became a perfect burden to me. I could not raise my hand to my head, and when I attempted to put on my coat or any article of dress, the torture was enough to drive me wild. Many remedies were suggested and tried, but none did me the slightest good, and I began to despair of ever being able to obtain relief. Some time ago, however, I procured a bottle of Munyon's Rheumatism Cure. It afforded me relief after the first few doses, and by the time the little 25 cent bottle was gone I was entirely free from pain. I have had no return of my old enemy, and I feel satisfied I am permanently cured. It seems so wonderful I can hardly realize it, and can only show my appreciation of the merits of the Cure by recommending it to other sufferers."

Munyon's Rheumatism Cure is guaranteed to cure rheumatism in any part of the body. Acute or muscular rheumatism cured in from one to five days. It never fails to cure sharp, shooting pains in the arms, legs, sides back or breast, or soreness in any part of the body in from one to three hours. It is guaranteed to promptly cure lameness, stiff and swollen joints, stiff back, and all pains in the hips and loins. Chronic rheumatism, sciatica, lumbago or pain in the back are speedily cured.

Munyon's Homoepathic Home Remedy Company, of Philadelphia, put up specifics for nearly every disease, which are sold by all druggist, mostly for 25 cents a bottle.

WORK OF THE LEXOW COMMITTEE.

Frauds Exposed In the New York Police Department.

MANY OFFICIALS ON THE RACK.

Serious Charges Were Made by Witnesses Against Three Commissioners, Three Inspectors and Twenty-two Captains—Superintendent Byrnes Explains How He Became Wealthy—Dr. Parkhurst Greatly Aided the Investigation.

The committee appointed by the senate of the state of New York to investigate alleged corruption in the police department of New York city has ended its labors. Senator Clarence Lexow, chairman of the committee, says of its work: "The result of the labors of the committee have far exceeded any expectations formed by any of its members at the outset. We came to the city without even a trace of confirmatory proof showing corruption in the department, and all that has been elicited since has been secured through channels opened by the representatives of the committee, aided, of course, by those instrumentalities that were at the command of Dr. Parkhurst, whose experience was undoubtedly of the greatest value in the work that we had in hand.

"I do not believe that, with the exception of those initiated and those participating in the revenue of crime and vice, anybody in this entire community had the faintest appreciation of the real condition of affairs. They believed that toll and tribute were levied sporadically, according to the pressing necessities of officials, but no one appreciated that corruption had been reduced to such a perfect system, extending throughout every precinct of the city, and was so systematized that upon the transfer of captains not even the conversations with wardmen were necessary in order to impress upon them their duty as collectors of unlawful revenue. This has been proved to be the true state of affairs, not apparently the creation of months, but of years, during which undoubtedly the evil has progressively increased until we find it in its present condition of perfect development.

"The testimony of Superintendent Byrnes, which may be regarded as a fitting climax of the conditions which have been revealed, shows conclusively the necessity for radical and basic reorganization, especially because it compels the conviction that, in default of this, an amelioration would prove to be only temporary. It shows the absolute necessity of placing in the hands of the executive head of the department such enlarged disciplinary powers as will make the superintendent absolutely responsible for the efficiency, discipline and resultant purity of the police force. We have the material now upon which to base remedial legislation, which will enable the people to hold somebody responsible for any future demoralization and inefficiency of the police system of New York city."

Attorney John W. Goff, who was recently elected recorder of the city of New York, the senior counsel of the committee, speaks warmly in praise of Dr. Parkhurst's aid in the work of investigation. He said: "But for Dr. Parkhurst, my associates Mr. Jerome, Mr. Moss and myself would never have been counsel to the committee. Everything was so discouraging. The outlook was exceedingly bad. The fate of previous investigating committees was before us. In our hands there was not a scintilla of evidence that would prove an act of corruption on the part of any member of the police department. The air was filled with rumors of political deals. Every man who spoke of the matter warned us of the danger that concerned such an attempt and of the utter futility of making an effort to expose bribery and corruption in the police department. One voice rang out clear and above all others. It urged action. It foretold success. It appealed so eloquently that it was irresistible. That voice was the voice of Dr. Parkhurst.

"Business men who had for years suffered the impositions of the police asked us why they should go forward and antagonize that most powerful department. They said they would not do it. Each man was perfectly willing that his neighbor should go to the front, but he most positively declined to go to the front himself.

"Dramatic situations were involved from the very nature of things. Phases of commercial life were revealed which, if written by a novelist, would be ascribed to his great and inventive brain.

"But the realities came in rapid succession until before the summer recess the public was absolutely satisfied by positive proof on the witness stand, corroborated by facts, details and circumstances that could leave no room for doubt, that the police department of the city of New York was not only corrupt, but that it was oppressive and repulsive to a degree beyond endurance.

"When the fact of the general corruption was established, we considered it prudent, indeed necessary, to follow it through all its ramifications.

"I have no hesitation in saying that to give detailed evidence of all the sources, methods, plans and devices of police corruption, bribery and oppression in the city of New York would occupy the investigating committee two years longer. The mine was inexhaustible. Its extent was only limited by the boundless sources of New York to yield wealth and power to the men who were extracting it.

"The method which we adopted was not haphazard or accidental. It was carefully thought out and planned. Had it failed it would have been condemned as a bad method, but having succeeded it is entitled to the credit due all success."

The following brief review of the work accomplished by the committee gives a complete summary of its 75 days' session:

The committee was appointed during the first month of 1894 and has sat about 75 days in all. It was appointed on a resolution offered in the senate by Senator Lexow. Then Senator (now Lieutenant Governor) Charles T. Saxton, presiding officer of the senate pro tem., appointed the committee, which consists of Clarence Lexow of Rockland county, chairman; George W. Robertson, Westchester county; Edmund O'Connor, Broome county; Charles T. Saxton, Wayne county; Charles W. Pound, Niagara county; Daniel Bradley, Kings county, and Jacob A. Cantor, New York county. The committee in its preliminary work had a couple of meetings at the Hotel Metropole.

The committee did nothing of particular importance except to think until March 10.

On that date the first session was held. Lawyer W. A. Sutherland of Rochester acted as counsel and investigated the political end of the affair. It was prior to the appointment of two Republicans as police commissioners. De Lancey Nicoll represented the police department at that time, though he wasn't permitted to do anything by the committee.

On March 18 Chairman Lexow announced formally that Messrs. Goff, Jerome and Moss had been selected as counsel to investigate the police department.

The committee did a considerable amount of examining early in its career under the guidance of Mr. Goff, but it first began to reach something tangible on May 22. Then direct charges against Police Commissioner John McClave were made by his son-in-law, Gideon Granger.

Mr. Goff occupied two days more in questioning Mr. McClave in the severest possible manner. He went into McClave's private books and dealt especially with Mr. McClave's administration of the police funds, which were in his charge as treasurer of the police board.

McClave could not account for certain deposits in his bank account, and Mr. Goff endeavored to prove connection between these deposits and the appointment of certain police captains by McClave. The commissioner denied that they had any relation to each other, but could not explain fully about the deposits and his method of drawing checks against them. A week later Granger was still in hiding, and Mr. Goff devoted the day to minor testimony.

At the next session he began to get into the subject of police protection and had several witnesses testify to the corruption in the department. It was on June 2 that a number of bagnio keepers testified to having paid for protection, and as a result of the day's work four captains—Cassidy, Cross, McLaughlin and Devery—were involved.

Tuesday, June 5, was a field day in the committee's history. A number of police officers of various rank were accused of levying or receiving blackmail, and a bagnio keeper charged Civil Justice Roesch with dealing in protection. She was Mrs. Augusta Thurow, who for six years kept a house of ill repute at 23 Second avenue.

She swore that she paid protection money to Wardmen Bissert, Hoch and Meehan under Captains McCullagh and Doherty. She also said that she personally arranged with Captain Doherty for paying blackmail. Mrs. Thurow's most sensational testimony, however, was given when she said that for $150 Civil Justice Roesch agreed to arrange matters with Wardman Hoch, who had become extraordinarily extortionate in his demands on her.

She described minutely the practice of paying money to police sergeants in order to induce them to accept her as bondsman for girls arrested in disorderly houses. In this way she brought in Sergeants Clark and Liebers. She swore, too, that she paid money to Central Office Detectives Jacobs and McManus. She gave patrolmen on her beat $2 a week and mentioned Lang, Murdock, Hughes and Morris as among them.

Katie Schubert, who ran a house at 144 Chrystie street, swore that she had paid money to police captains—$500 and $50 a month to McLaughlin, now inspector; the same to Captain Cross and the same to Captain Doherty.

When the committee convened again on the following day, interest in paying the police for protection was dwarfed by the reappearance of Gideon Granger, who went on the stand and swore that he had five times personally handed to Commissioner McClave money to buy promotion or favor. He denied the charges of theft made by his father-in-law and also some of those of forgery.

The testimony of Mrs. Thurow and Mrs. Schubert was followed up on June 7 by the still more sensational story of Mrs. Lena Cohen, a bagnio keeper at 328 East Houston street. She said that she paid

JOHN W. GOFF.

$500 to the police for what she considered a permit to open the place. The money was paid to Wardmen Brennan and Farrell.

Captain Siebert was at the head of the precinct. She had to borrow the money at exorbitant rates, and the police closed her house when Dr. Parkhurst became active.

The next session of the committee was devoted to torturing Civil Justice Roesch, who said that Mrs. Thurow was his client, and that he took the money from her as a retainer. He denied that he ever paid for police protection.

He acknowledged that he had advised Mrs. Thurow to mention his name if she ever had any trouble in getting her girls out on bail. He had had several keepers of disorderly houses as clients. He acted in their behalf as a lawyer and not as a district leader.

Mr. Roesch gave some interesting testimony about $5 tickets to the Seventh District Tammany club's chowder. He underwent a very severe examination and was decidedly glad to leave the stand.

Mrs. Amelia Zentz swore on the same day that she had paid $5 a month blackmail to Wardman Charles Sherman when she kept a saloon at 732 Cortlandt avenue in 1889 and 1890.

More stories of bribery came out on the following day, when Captain Price's wardman, Wagner, was accused of taxing the unlicensed Alhambra concert hall. Morris Jacobs swore that he had paid money to the John J. Ryan association in an attempt to get on the police force. Flora Walsh said she ran a cafe with girls and paid $15 a month to Captain Doherty's wardman, Hoch.

After a recess of a few days the stories of bribe giving were continued on June 13. Jacobs told more about his futile attempts to get on the police force. Mrs. Henrietta Hensing swore that she paid money to Wardman Hoch, Sergeant Bush and Detective Mallon. Caterer Otto Brizzolari of 17 East Seventeenth street said he paid $150 to a police sergeant in uniform for permission to sell liquor all night at a ball.

An interesting feature of the session was the testimony of Port Warden Louis Munzinger, who produced the books of the Pequod club and said that 1,000 $5 tickets had been sold for a chowder party. The good work went on on the following day with testimony to the effect that there was no rebate when police protection failed to protect.

Ex-Assemblyman Philip Wissig was accused of taking money to influence the police.

Carl Werner, who ran a house of ill repute at 6 Delancey street, said that at Captain Devery's request he made arrangements for protection with Wardman Glennon. He paid $600 and $50 a month.

Almost the whole of Friday, June 15, was devoted to green goods revelations made by George Appo, the son of a notorious Chinese criminal by a white woman. He described the swindle at full length and said that McNally and Hadlick were at the head of the syndicates operating in this city.

Ida Bell, who ran a disorderly house, swore that she paid $150 a quarter for ten years in the Tenderloin. She paid the wardmen, one of whom was Burns, Captain Schmittberger's man. Williams, Reilly, McLaughlin and O'Connor were also captains of the precinct within the ten years.

Parkhurst Agent Whitney testified that he paid bribes to Captain Killilea and Killilea's wardmen. The following day was noticeable in bringing to light the now famous word "pantata."

Joseph Pospisil, a Bohemian saloon keeper at 1370 Avenue A, told about the leaving at Wardman Campbell's house of $200 raised by a club of liquor dealers. He said that entries in his books referring to the payment of certain sums of money to "pantata" meant to Campbell, but that the word meant in every case "head man" or "the old man."

There was another sensation on Wednesday, June 20, when Bunko Man Clarke said Police Justice Divver's saloon was the headquarters of the green goods business in this city. He accused Divver of starting Ed Parmeley in the business and of keeping the bank roll in his safe at night.

Joseph Kovar of Pospisil's Bohemian club told about giving $100 to Captain Strauss and $25 to his wardman as Christmas presents.

Harry Hill went on the stand on the next day and gave vent to his old grudge against Police Captain Murphy. Ida L. Morton, housekeeper for Lucy McCarthy of 104 West Forty-ninth street, said Mrs. McCarthy had paid patrolmen and Captain Devery's wardman.

Steamship men took the stand on June 22 and told of extortion by the police. They accused the Leonard street police of collecting $25 a year from each house whose goods block the sidewalk. Patrolman Beech described how he gave $10 of his extra fee from steamship companies to Sergeant Taylor.

William Mayston, a peddler, said the police blackmailed even street fakirs. On the next day there were more stories about the Leonard street police renting out the sidewalk for cash.

John T. Stephenson was captain during part of the time. H. Schuchert, a German, also made direct charges that Inspector Williams, when captain, demanded protection tribute. On Wednesday, June 27, Leroy M. Lyon, a fruit dealer at 279 Washington street, told more about the Leonard street police. He said when he objected to having his protection raised once the wardman told him that there was a new captain, and that they had to raise $15,000 to pay for his promotion. A number of other produce merchants told of paying blackmail.

On Saturday, June 30, the committee took a recess until Sept. 10. It wound up its first period of work in sensational style. Patrick Ryan testified that he had paid the police by check. He had given $100 to Captain Stephenson. Witnesses testified also that the Church street police blackmailed push cart peddlers.

The committee resumed its sittings on Sept. 10, when William Applegate, an assistant of King McNally, told more about the green goods business and said he bribed central office men. On the next day James H. Perkins, a retired contractor, swore that he gave Captain Williams $500 in cash. Captains Price and Meakim and Detective Hay were accused of taking money from green goods man McNally, and it was charged that Detective Hanley was the green goods men's agent at the central office.

Another recess was taken from Sept. 16 to Oct. 1. On Oct. 1 Contractor George W. Carpenter said he paid bribes to Captain Stephenson's wardman. Several days were devoted to taking testimony about policemen accused of clubbing. On Oct. 5 a witness said he used to send cash in boxes of cigars to Captain Reilly.

Susanne Martin, who ran a house in Elizabeth street, said she paid money to Williams and to the wardmen for Captains Cassidy, McLaughlin and Cross. She had paid $8,000 or $10,000.

The first policeman to squeal—Patrolman De Gann of the steamboat squad—testified on Oct. 10 that he was transferred because he would not give up all the $10 a week that the French line paid him. He had always given up half to collectors for various captains. Agent Forges of the French line acknowledged that he gave Schmittberger $500 at one time.

On Oct. 11 Vincent Majewski told about police protection of policy shops and said he saw Captain Doherty receive bribes.

On Oct. 26 Commissioner Sheehan was examined, but Mr. Goff got little from him. He had no better luck on the next day. Mr. Sheehan refused positively to produce his bankbooks. Mr. Goff got little out of him on the third day. The commissioner only said he believed there was corruption in the department, but it was Superintendent Byrnes' duty to find it out. Mr. Goff spent another day with Mr. Sheehan and then finally excused him.

During November and December an immense number of witnesses were examined before the committee. The work dragged considerably during November, and little of really startling interest developed. In December, however, the committee learned by far the most important facts brought out in the whole investigation.

Commissioners, inspectors and captains were directly implicated in the last few weeks, and the story of police corruption has been told from the inside. It really began with the confession of Captain Timothy J. Creeden, who, after once denying that he bought his captaincy, finally acknowledged that he paid $15,000 for the place. He borrowed the money from his friends, among them Congressman Elect Henry C. Miner. William Snell, a Grace Democracy leader, held the money.

At the proper time he paid it over to John W. Rappenhagen, another Grace Democracy leader. According to Rappenhagen's confession, made after he, like Creeden, had once sworn that he knew nothing of the purchase of the captaincy, he gave $10,000 to ex-Assemblyman John Martin and kept the other $5,000 for himself.

Martin was very close to Police Commissioner Voorhis, then the leader of the New York Democracy. Voorhis appointed Creeden. Creeden said he bid $15,000 because Sergeant Wiegand, who was also after promotion, had bid, so he was informed, as high as $13,000.

The testimony of ex-Sergeant Taylor of the steamboat squad, given a few days before Creeden's, implicated ex-Inspector Steers. Taylor said he paid to Steers part of the blackmail which he collected in his district.

Creeden's confession paved the way for that of Captain Schmittberger, who, to save himself from prison, told all about the blackmailing system and said he had divided the profits with Inspectors Williams and McAvoy.

He implicated Commissioner Sheehan by saying that Sheehan threatened to shut up Daly's gambling house if the police refused to let his friend Proctor run one. He also implicated Commissioner Martin, who, he said, protected disorderly houses on Forty-sixth street, and who ordered him to apologize to Sadie West, a woman against whom complaints had been made, for sending a policeman to her house.

Inspector Williams, who was on the stand three days and more, denied Schmittberger's charges. He denied all the corruption stories and made only one admission—that Fleiss, a stockbroker, had given him $6,000 for nothing.

Police Commissioner Martin's examination was productive of little beyond the fact that he thought there was corruption in the department, and that it would stay there.

During its sessions witnesses before the committee have made serious charges against three commissioners, one ex-commissioner, three inspectors, one ex-inspector and 22 captains and ex-captains, besides a number of sergeants, detectives, wardmen and patrolmen.

At the final session of the Lexow committee Superintendent Byrnes and Inspector McLaughlin were witnesses. After testifying that he had accumulated property to the value of $350,000 through investments made for him by Jay Gould and his son George, Superintendent Byrnes made public his letter of resignation, which had been sent to Mayor Elect Strong Dec. 13.

Inspector McLaughlin denied that he had received money except his salary.

Police Justice Voorhis of New York sent to the Lexow committee an affidavit making a denial of the charges made by Captain Creeden and others that he received money for his action in the promotion or transfer of any police officer while he was a police commissioner.

Anthony Comstock, who was charged by Louis F. Streap before the Lexow committee with having received bribes, in an open letter to that committee denied the charges and brands Streap's testimony as false in every particular.

THE LINK BREAKS.

The Awful Woe From One Weak Link.

In a Chain Apparently Strong and Powerful.

The Giving Way of This One Link Wrecked the Ship.

If Only That One Link Had Been Strong.

Think for a Moment and See What All this Means.

A ship in a fearful storm was anchored by a single chain. The chain was large and apparently strong enough to hold. But, in the otherwise powerful chain, was one single, weak link. The terrible strain was too much for the weak link: it broke, and the ship was dashed to destruction on the rocks.

The strength of a chain is only up to its weakest link. So the strength of a person, whether physical or nerve strength, is only up to his weakest part or organ. If your nerves are weak, or your blood poor, if you suffer from insomnia or have indigestion, dyspepsia, constipation, kidney or liver complaint, headache, neuralgia, or rheumatism, there is a weak spot in your system, which, if not cured, will cause you to break down.

You will never be well and strong until this weak place or organ is strengthened. It is fearfully dangerous to neglect any such weakness or ailment. Nobody realizes this more than Mrs. G. S. Cobb, a well-known lady of Providence, R. I., residing at 334 Smith street.

"For five years I had been troubled with indigestion, kidney and liver trouble, severe nervous headaches and neuralgia. There was a terrible pain and pressure in my stomach from which there was no relief until vomiting set in, when I vomited a slimy mucus.

"After these spells I would be completely prostrated for three or four days. Sometimes for three weeks at a time I could take no nourishment but lime water and milk. I lost forty pounds

"Severe nervous headaches, at times having a duration of two weeks, would set in. A terrible, piercing pain would shoot in rapid succession through my head. There was a dreadful aching and throbbing through my back between my shoulders.

"In fact I was completely prostrated. I tried prominent physicians without relief, and was entirely discouraged. About this time I heard, through a friend, of Dr. Greene, and the wonderful cures which he had wrought with his remedy, Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy.

"I secured it and commenced using it, and the change which took place was wonderful. The terrible racking pains through my head and shoulders have left me. Where I could eat nothing but the lightest kind of foods I can now eat anything without the slightest distress of any kind.

The kidney and liver trouble has left me; in fact, my friends are surprised at my wonderful cure. I thank God and Dr Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy for my new life and would say to all sufferers, gather confidence and try this great remedy and you will surely be cured."

Oh, that persons complaining of any ailment would be guided by this sensible and valuable advice, and take this wonderful medicine, Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy! If they only knew what a healthy and happy life awaited them after using it, they would not hesitate a moment.

It will make a strong and well person of you just as surely as you take it. It will cure every one of those troubles and weaknesses which have bothered you so much. Just try it and see. Doctors recommend and advise its use.

Why waste time in trying uncertain and untried remedies, when here is a physician's prescription, a discovery made by the greatest living specialist in curing nervous and chronic diseases, Dr. Greene, of 35 West 14th street, New York City. If you take this medicine, you can consider yourself under Dr. Greene's direct professional care, and you can consult him or write to him about your case, freely and without charge. This is a guarantee that this remedy will cure, possessed by no other medicine in the world.

PLAINFIELD, N. J., JAN. 15, 1895

FOR PLAINFIELD'S PROGRESS

Decatur's Fight In the President.

Jan. 15, 1815, was the date of a desperate encounter at sea, which, like Jackson's battle at New Orleans, took place after the war had been officially ended by the treaty of Ghent. On that day Captain Stephen Decatur sailed from New York in the President, bound for the East Indies. Before the President got fairly to sea she was chased by four British ships of war —the Endymion, 40 guns; Pomone, 38; Tenedos, 38; and the Majestic, 56 guns. The President rated 44. She was heavily laden for a voyage, and even after lightening the Endymion gained on her, finally getting into position to rake with her bow guns. The President could not strike the Endymion, owing to weak powder, nor could she outsail her. Decatur prepared to run down his enemy, seize her by a hand to hand fight, then abandon his own vessel for the swifter Briton. The commander of the Endymion, however, kept his ship a quarter of a mile distant from the President, but the vessels, sailing abeam, exchanged broadsides with tremendous effect.

Failing to get a chance to lay his ship alongside the Endymion, Decatur resolved to dismantle her by skillful gunnery, and after a running fight of a couple of hours stripped all her sails from her yards and compelled her to fall astern. Meanwhile darkness came on. The Endymion was almost at the mercy of the President, although many shots from the latter had failed to penetrate, but the other ships were on hand to be reckoned with. Decatur therefore kept his vessel on her course, chased by the Pomone and the Tenedos, with the Majestic and Dispatch, a new arrival, close astern. The Pomone opened the second fight with a damaging broadside, followed speedily by the other three. The guns on the British fleet outnumbered those of the Americans at least four to one, and the British crews were fresh, whereas on the President 24 officers and seamen had been killed and 56 wounded in the close and running fight with the Endymion. Seeing that further resistance would be useless, Decatur struck his colors.

GEORGE L. KILMER.

Brave Work on Fort Fisher's Walls.

Jan. 15, 1865, was the date of the Union assault on Fort Fisher, N. C., the largest earthwork in the Confederacy. That famous stronghold extended along the water front 400 feet, with a land front of 1,500 stretching across the peninsula of Federal point. It mounted 44 heavy guns, with a garrison at the time of the attack of 1,500 men. A naval column of 48 Union vessels bombarded the fort for two days and continued the fire until 3 p. m. on the 15th, when General A. H. Terry's command of 8,000 men and a naval battalion of 2,000 moved to the assault. The guns of the work having been silenced, the garrison offered little resistance to the assailants until they reached the ditch and were then taken by surprise, thinking that the attack of the sailors on the easterly sea front was the main one. To meet it the garrison vacated the parapet on the land front, and at the first dash the Union brigade of General Curtis, after cutting away the palisading, planted three battleflags on the northwest bastion. General Curtis was wounded at the palisades.

The sailors were brought to a halt 200 yards from the ditch on the sea face by a fire of canister and gave up the fight. Cheered by the sight of panic in the naval column, the enemy turned to meet the assailants on the land. General Curtis' men received help from Colonel Pennypacker's brigade, and another, led by Colonel Louis Bell of the Fourth New Hampshire, charged on the sally port on the west wall adjoining the bastion carried by Curtis. Bell was shot down, receiving a mortal wound just as his foremost ranks had reached the bridge. Heavy traverses had been planted along the parapet, and these formed shotproof walls, too high for scaling, behind each of which the garrison detachments fought until overpowered, then retired to the next.

Meanwhile the assailants were re-enforced, night came on, and the fighting continued in and around the chambers along the wall, at times between combatants separated by only an arm's length. At 10 o'clock, after seven hours' struggling, the last traverse was in the hands of Terry's men.

GEORGE L. KILMER.

The life of Peter Wooden has its lessons. He found success by patient plodding, not by flights of genius. He was unfailingly cheerful; and worked, not worried. He cherished friendship with all men, and was in constant communion with the Friend above all others in whom he put his trust. He intruded in no man's business, and was diligent in his own. With heart and hand he relieved distress, and did not tattle his own good deeds nor his neighbors' bad ones. So he lived, so he died, in simple, quiet happiness, in humble, homely ways, at peace with men, in fellowship with his Creator. His nineteenth century life saw the world develop wonders, and from his observation of events he might have set himself up as sage and oracle. But he had the jewel of modesty, and he found life's greatest wisdom and pleasure to be the living of the eleventh commandment. He was "uncle" to all he knew, and his goodness made him great. It is idle to say "Peace to his soul!" for his soul was ever at peace, and in its transition has but renewed its youth for all eternity.

The Common Council can safely abandon its search for fireproof headquarters. Nothing is in danger of burning in the Council chamber.

The lives of the local newspaper night owls are precious, and though the Councilmen have the faculty of making things warm for themselves, the risk of pneumonia run by the reporters in the frigid Council chamber is so great that to save their precious lungs they may strike for warmer quarters.

A Big-hearted Poormaster.

A ring at the door bell at 6:45 Sunday evening called Borough Poormaster David Weaver to his door, where he found a young man, his wife and three-year-old child shivering in the cold. Starting at noon they had walked all the way from Madison, a distance of fourteen miles, pushing the little one along in a baby carriage. They had started out in search of work but being overcome with the cold were forced to seek food and shelter. Big-hearted Brother Weaver as soon as he caught sight of the poor little face of the half frozen infant, at once gave the parents an order on the Somerset Hotel, where they were comfortably housed and sent away rejoicing in the morning with a good hot breakfast.

Defendant Scores a Point.

Judge Van Syckel yesterday decided in a written opinion in the Circuit Court that the release signed by E. Mercier & Co., and which was the point at issue in the mechanics lien case of Love, Receiver of E. Mercier & Co., against McNabb, was valid, and that the plaintiff could not claim a lien for materials furnished prior to the signing of the paper. The report published at the time the case was argued during the first week of the term that the case had been decided the other way was erroneous. Reed & Coddington appeared for the receiver and W. S. Angleman for the defendant.

—The free public library at the East Third Street Mission will be opened this evening with a pleasing programme of vocal and instrumental music. There will be an address by Superintendent L. W. Randolph.

A WOMAN'S LIFE.

SOME THINGS MEN DON'T CONSIDER

Thousands of Women Suffer Daily for Years without Complaining.

[SPECIAL TO OUR LADY READERS.]

Men cannot know the sensibilities hidden in the delicate organisms of women.

Thousands suffer without knowing why, and die the death daily for want of knowledge that relief is so close at hand.

Lydia E. Pinkham will forever stand highest in the love of suffering women.

Because she discovered the cause of woman's weakness and suffering, and found the means to remove it.

Diseases of the Uterus and ovarian troubles are most universal; you can see their ravages in pale faces; it is indicated by balking steps, dizziness, faintness, irritability, melancholy, extreme lassitude, nervousness, sleeplessness, and disturbances of the stomach.

You will hear your friends speak of the dreadful "backache," the crushing sense of "bearing down."

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for twenty years has saved women from all this. Hear this woman speak:—

"No man ever suffered a single pang like unto woman.

"Women, therefore, gladly turn to a woman for sympathy, counsel, and help in their peculiar troubles.

"Lydia E. Pinkham deserves the confidences showered upon her by thousands. Her Vegetable Compound has done more for women than any other remedy.

"The great cause of woman's misery is in her womb. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound goes direct to the source of trouble, drives out disease, and cures backache, fainting, despondency, bloating, ovarian troubles, and leucorrhœa.

"I would have been in my grave if I had not taken Mrs. Pinkham's medicines."

REMOVAL.

Dr. Lighthill begs leave to give notice that he has removed to

Dr. Lighthill refers with pardonable pride to the success of his practice in Plainfield and submits below a few of the many testimonials which he has received from grateful patients. A mass of similar ones can be seen at his office.

AN ALMOST MIRACULOUS CURE.

The Statement of Mr. Edward Teel, Jr., of Dunellen, N. J.

TO THE PUBLIC:

From a sense of duty I desire to call public attention to the almost miraculous cure which Dr. Lighthill effected in the case of my wife. For eleven years she had been afflicted with piles of an unusual severe and distressing character. She suffered every day of her life the most intense pain, attended with frequent and profuse hemorrhage. This state of things debilitated her entire system until she became a perfect wreck of her former self.

We made every effort to obtain a cure but they all resulted in bitter disappointment, although a number of physicians of excellent reputations for skill in that direction had treated her case. She grew worse and worse all the time, the pain became perfectly unbearable and I felt she could not bear the strain of her condition much longer. In this extremity, a friend of mine, Mr. W. E. Dilts, a resident of Roselle, N. J., a passenger conductor on the New Jersey Central told me that he had been similarly affected, and had been permanently cured by Dr. Lighthill, after other medical skill had failed. He assured me that the doctor would cure my wife, no matter how severe her case may be, and his prediction proved perfectly correct. In spite of her desperate condition, Dr. Lighthill, I am glad to say, has effected a complete and perfect cure in her case, and has given her new life.

Since the cure has been effected she has gained in health and strength and is so improved in appearance that her friends scarcely recognize her. They all consider her cure as almost miraculous, and Dr. Lighthill's praise is heard on every side. Our gratitude to Dr. Lighthill is unbounded and we only hope that other sufferers may be benefited by this publication.

EDWARD TEEL, JR.

A Flattering Testimonial from Colonel John Dietrich, One of Plainfield's Oldest and Best Known Residents.

16 ARLINGTON PLACE,
Plainfield, N. J., July 17, 1894.

I am profoundly grateful to Dr. Lighthill for his speedy and radical cure of a most painful malady of over ten years standing with which I was afflicted.

I deem it proper to say to all afflicted to place themselves under the care of this skilful physician and be permanently cured.

I will cheerfully impart any information I possess when called upon.

JOHN DIETRICH.

Mr. Thomas Callahan of No. 214 Richmond street Cured of a Very Distressing Trouble by Dr. Lighthill.

PLAINFIELD, N. J., June 1, 1894.

TO THE PUBLIC:

For some time past I have been greatly distressed with noises in the head. They were all over my head and troubled me constantly; they were loudest at night when everything was quiet and at such times would often keep me from sleep and disturb my rest. In fact they got to be so bad and distressing that they affected my whole nervous system as well as my health. I did not obtain the least relief until I placed myself under the care of Dr. Lighthill, of No. 132 Crescent avenue, who effected a complete cure in my case in a short time and made me a very happy man.

THOMAS CALLAHAN,
214 Richmond street.

A Card From Mr. T. R VanZandt,

of Nos. 304 and 306 Park ave.,

Plainfield, N. J

I certify with pleasure that Dr. Lighthill has effectually cured me of a most painful case of piles. For some time past I had been subject to its attacks, but the last attack was so exceedingly painful that it completely upset my whole system. The pain extended to my legs and in many other directions, and made me so nervous that I could neither sleep, sit down, lie down or move about without serious discomfort and distress. Such was my condition when I applied to Dr. Lighthill for relief, and I am glad to say that as soon as he took hold of my case, I began to improve, and in a short time found myself completely cured. Dr. Lighthill has also effected a radical and permanent cure in a most terrible case of piles on my cousin, Mr. J. V. Z Griggs, of Rocky Hill, N. J., whose flattering testimonial is in Dr. Lighthill's possession.

A popular baggage master offered to get another for Mr. Craig and did so, but forget to return the pipe as soon as he might have done. CHILLY COMMON COUNCIL.

Tedious Cold Braved in the Public's Interest.

It was so cold in the Council chamber last night that there was ice in the City Clerk's water-tumbler and a haze that was said to be frost on the electric lamps. For three hours the members and reporters shivered, while the long ordinances concerning fire and buildings were discussed on second reading. They were adopted section by section and tabled for future action.

The Laws and Ordinance Committee was instructed to protect the city against the trespass of the Edison Electric Light Company of North Plainfield on Rock avenue and Front street.

Alexander D. Findley petitioned for ordinance protection against landlord's threatened withdrawal of consent to operate a bar room on the premises. He claims a 20-years lease with privilege to operate his present business. The matmatter was referred to the License Committee.

The Finance Committee reported they had not yet found headquarters providing a fireproof vault.

The Laws and Ordinance Committee said they needed $1,000 to print the recodification of the laws. The matter was discussed with some warmth, but no action was taken.

The Mayor was by unanimous vote authorized to add four regulars to the police force.

The various sections of the Mayor's message were referred to the appropriate committees.

The Councilmen shook off their icicles and went home, after detaching the Clerk's stenographer from the frosty register he had been hugging.

THREATEN COMPETITION.

Grocers Talk of Adding Dry Goods to Their Stock.

A meeting of the Grocers Association was held in the Board of Trade rooms last evening at which time the following officers were elected:

President—J. Fred MacDonald.
Vice-president—J. A. Smith.
Secretary—R. W. Barnes.
Treasurer—F. W. Dunn.

Delegates elected to semi-annual meeting of Retail Merchants Association, which is held in Y. M. C. A. building, Trenton, tomorrow were: G. W. Rockfellow, J. A. Smith, R. W. Barnes, J. Fred McDonald.

The principal subject discussed was that of annexing dry goods departments, and it seemed to be the popular opinion that the grocers should conduct dry goods departments with their own business.

It was said that inasmuch as some dry goods merchants combine a number of branches in one business, they think it only fair that they should have an opportunity of doing the same. The above subject will be considered tomorrow in Trenton, as the trouble seems to be general throughout the State, and at the next meeting of the association in this city, two weeks from last night, it will be thoroughly ventilated, with a view to a decision in the matter.

The grocers in the association were asked to hand in their revised black list at the next meeting.

—F. C. Herbert and Fred Emmons, for fighting New Year's Day, were arrested today by Marshal Pangborn and fined $10 each.

There is good reason for the popularity of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. POSTOFFICE HAMPERED

Under the New Rules Postmaster Hetfield Is Prevented from Giving the Service He Desires—His Efforts to Better Conditions.

Postmaster Hetfield has been greatly concerned for some time because of the unavoidable impairment of his service through the introduction of the following rules:

1. Carriers are strictly prohibited from reporting prior to schedule time, either for morning arrival or for the beginning of any subsequent trip during the day.

2. Carriers must not remain at their desks, or in the working room of the office, during any interval or "swing" between trips or during the dinner intervals; nor must they remain in the postoffice after reporting from the last trip of the day.

3. Carriers must record the exact time consumed by them each day, specifying the beginning and closing of each trip, and the time spent in routing mail and looking up and marking undelivered matter. Only the actual time employed is to be recorded, but all service rendered must be recorded.

4. Carriers will continue to make their daily trip reports, making their entries at the beginning and end of each trip. The practice of filling out the entire report at close of day must be discontinued, and any carrier found continuing such practice will be promptly removed.

5. Under no circumstances must carriers or superintendents conceal the fact that overtime—even to the least extent—is being made. Any attempt to do this will result in the removal of the offender, regardless of his rank. It will be equally contrary to this order for any carrier whose route requires less than eight hours to expand the actual working time thereon, or attempt to record unnecessary time in order to have his trip reports show eight or, approximately, eight hours work per day.

6. Where collections are made prior to morning report, the first entry to the left on the trip report must cover the time so expended and be accompanied by this note: "Including Collection."

7. Men detailed exclusively in collection service should not be allowed to enter the work room of the office, except to deposit their collections. They must then leave the postoffice, reporting again on schedule time for beginning of next collection at the first box on their route.

8. The performance of clerical work by carriers is absolutely prohibited. Their work must be confined to the collection and delivery of mail; the routing of their mail for delivery; the marking up or "logging" of undelivered matter; and the facing up of mail by collectors upon their return to the office. All other work, except the duty at the delivery windows on Sundays, must be discontinued by carriers. All other work is clerical, and must be performed by clerks alone.

The custom at the Plainfield office has been to utilize the carriers in assisting in prompt service at distribution of mails in the office, and in giving extended free delivery over additional territory. All this was overtime, and added justly to the wages of the carriers. The new rules operate to limit the free delivery to the more populous territory, and to prevent the carriers from serving as clerks. They may deliver only in such territory as they can cover in their regular eight hours, and cannot be used to assist in distribution. The intent of the new order was to curtail extra expenses in those cities where the overtime amounted to large sums, but the rules had to be made general, and therefore Plainfield is unjustly affected. The new rules have already been the cause of delay in getting the mails distributed, and have caused the postmaster much worriment. Short routes are to be the order, and the outskirts will have to be neglected. The stamp window clerk will have to attend to the carriers window, and Mr. Hetfield himself will be obliged to attend the stamp window, even at the expense of his supper.

Mr. Hetfield has made application for an additional clerk, and will do all in his power to secure efficient service to the public. Plainfield is a highly profitable postoffice to the Government, and deserves more generous treatment than is possible under the new rules. A protest from the people to Uncle Sam is in order.

Royal Arcanum.

At the lodge rooms of Plainfield Council, No. 711, Royal Arcanum, Department Grand Regent McDonald and Deputy Grand Marshal Conckiin performed the impressive ceremonies of installation on the recently elected officers, a full list of which appeared in The Press of Dec. 11, 1894. Three new members were initiated. Many interesting speeches by visitors, officers and members were made, and a banquet closed the enjoyable exercises of the evening. A large number of brethren attended.

Meeting for Men.

A meeting for men only is to be held at 5 tonight in the lecture room of Trinity Reformed Church, and a regular prayer meeting tomorrow night at 8. A cordial invitation is extended to the men of Plainfield to attend the meeting tonight, and to everybody on Wednesday night.

—The Plainfield Lady Cyclers are preparing for an active month. A theatre party to New York, a trip to Philadelphia and a dance at Rutgers College are all planned for January.

Marvelous Results.

From a letter written by Rev. J. Gunderman, of Dismondale, Mich., we are permitted to make this extract: "I have no hesitation in recommending Dr. King's New Discovery, as the results were almost marvelous in the case of my wife. While I was pastor of the Baptist Church at Rives Junction she was brought down by pneumonia succeeding la grippe. Terrible paroxysms of coughing would last hours with little interruption and it seemed as if she could not survive them. A friend recommended Dr. King's New Discovery; it was quick in its work and highly satisfactory in results. Sold by I. W. Randolph druggist. Regular size 50c and $1; our price 45c and 90c

Death of J. J. Lang.

The many friends of John Jacob Lang who was well known in Plainfield will learn with sorrow of his death which occurred yesterday afternoon at his home in Mt. Bethel, from heart disease. He had only been seriously ill for the past two weeks.

Mr. Lang had been a resident of Warren Township for thirty years, and in 1868 began the grocery business in Union Village. From there he went to Mt. Bethel where he continued in the same business for 25 years.

One year ago last April he sold out the business to his son-in-law, N. H. Heideloff, and has lived a retired life since that time.

For many years he was a member of the Township Committee and was also treasurer for a long time. A widow and two daughters, Mrs. H. Scheuerman and Mrs. N. H. Heideloff, and one son, Jacob F. Lang, survive him.

Funeral services will be held from the Mt. Bethel Church Thursday afternoon at 1:30.

Gripping the Pedagogues.

Plainfield teachers although they have nothing to do, according to a learned member of the School Committee, are improving their time by being sick. Miss Butler of the Bryant is confined to her home with tonsilitis. Miss Gilbert of the Franklin is a sufferer from the grip; Miss Sutphen of the Franklin was obliged to be absent yesterday because of a severe cold and Miss C. A. Barber likewise of the Franklin, although suffering from a cold and so hoarse as to be unable to speak above a whisper bravely sticks to her post.

—"American's" reply to Mr. Tetteman and Col. Ainsworth is crowded from this issue, to appear tomorrow.

—The continuation of "The Beauxlieux Diamonds" is unavoidably deferred until tomorrow.

—Special revival services will be held this evening in the Methodist Church. An invitation is cordially extended.

—Peck dogs not talk much about prices—lets the goods talk for him; no use to keep a dog and bark yourself.

—The laundry girls of Plainfield are invited to call at the box office of Music Hall, Wednesday morning before 12, when each one of them will be presented by the management of "A Baggage Check" with a reserved seat.

WOMEN, GET STRENGTH.

No Excuse for Debility and Nervousness.

WHAT PAINE'S CELERY COMPOUND DOES IN A FEW SHORT WEEKS.

It Makes a Tremendous Difference with Tired, Sickly Women.

[BOSTON HERALD.]

In thousands of homes some one, father mother or brother, is actually dying from starvation of the nerves and blood. This lack of nutrition of some vital part is not usually called by the harsh word "starvation," but it amounts to the same thing. It is called dyspepsia, neuralgia, Bright's disease, rheumatism or nervous prostration, headaches or sleeplessness.

The general feeling of discomfort throughout the body shows a literal starvation of some of the important organs of the body, either heart, kidneys, stomach, liver or nerve centres.

Scores of men and women showing the first gray hair, who in business and society wear a smiling countenance, are tormented in private by a despondency they can scarcely explain, which renders their life almost unendurable. Such mental depression, falling short of insanity, occurs most often at the "turning point" of life, or soon after it, and is a lamentably common complaint.

After middle life the body often becomes bloodless, the nerve tissues impoverished. Then Paine's celery compound supplies building material for used up blood and nerves. It makes people strong, ruddy and well. It regulates the nerves, feeds their wasted, exhausted parts, purifies the blood of all dangerous humors and brings back strength and health. Where there is a gradual loss of strength, a growing thinness, irritability and nervousness, Paine's celery compound keeps up the strength and resists the final breakdown to a state of invalidism and constant suffering that is likely to come where nothing is done to check the wasting process.

It is upon women that the great burden of tiring, exhausting and petty duties fall.

Hundreds of homes might be saved from sickness and unhappiness if the wife or the husband, or some member of the household could only see how near aid and comfort is to the dear ones who are slowly drooping and relaxing their interest in the things about them, preparatory to leaving them forever. Paine's celery compound is within the reach of every home in the land where there is illness. It has met the unqualified approval of reputable physicians of every school.

RESCUED FROM A WRECK

Thrilling Experience of the Seth Low's Crew.

Two Men Carried Away by the Waves and Lost—Life Savers Work Gallantly and Snatched Others from the Grasp of the Sea After Terrible Hardships.

Fire Island, N. Y., Jan. 15.—Misfortune seems to follow the coal barge Seth Low. It is only a couple of weeks ago that she broke loose from her tow in the storm she encountered off Fire Island, while enroute from Boston for Philadelphia, to load coal and return. At that time she was buffeted by the heavy sea and high winds before being picked up and towed to New York in safety.

Sunday she started for Boston, coal laden, in company with the barge Ringleader and in tow of the steamer Santuit. Strange to say, these three vessels were together when the first storm was encountered, at which time the Ringleader reached port under her own sail. The three vessels loaded with coal at Communipaw, N. J., instead of going on to Philadelphia.

After passing out to sea and when the three vessels were about twenty miles east of the lightship, the Seth Low broke away from the other vessels, the mishap being caused by the heavy gale that prevailed. It was impossible for the Santuit or Ringleader to pick her up during the night. Her rudder broke and she became unmanageable. At 2 o'clock yesterday morning she stranded on the outer bar off Short Beach. When discovered by the patrol, she was under water, only part of her bow and cabin being visible and they were washed by every big sea.

The crew of five men were clinging to the top of the cabin, and it seemed as though they were beyond human aid. The night was bitter cold, and their sufferings were intense.

The life-saving crew from Zack's Inlet arrived on the scene and found they would need more help. Soon two other crews arrived, and set to work to rescue the unfortunate crew. It was impossible to launch a boat, and, after trying, with the mortar, to throw lines over the barge, it was necessary also to abandon this method of procedure, as the lines either broke or fell short. Nothing was left undone by the heroic life-savers to reach the shivering, half-frozen mariners perched on the cabin roof of the stranded vessel.

Finally, during the afternoon, Captain Chichester and the other members of the life-saving crew succeeded in launching a boat, and, after battling against great odds, they reached the barge.

Only three of the five members of the crew of the Seth Low were there, two of them having been swept away by the waves. These latter two had clung to the roof until within thirty minutes of the time that the rescuers came to the aid of the sufferers, but their strength failed them and they perished. The three survivors could not have held out much longer, as their strength was fast failing them. They were taken into the life-boat and it was headed for the shore. The boat had not gone far when Captain Chichester saw it would be impossible to reach Zacks Inlet without imperilling the lives of all on board. The boat was, therefore, turned toward Fire Island Inlet and landed there at 2:45 p. m.

The names of those saved are: Captain B. N. Doddridge, Charles Brown, and B. Ellison.

Those lost are: A. Doddridge (the captain's son) and Joe Johnsen.

Captain Doddridge was badly hurt, having been struck by the falling rigging of the barge. The other two men are none the worse for their terrible experience.

All three are now at the Oak Island station and are comfortably situated.

When the captain's son was washed overboard, his father, who was powerless to save him, seemed to give up and made no attempt to cling to the cabin top. Twice he was washed away and pulled back by the other sailors.

GLOOMY FOR CURRENCY

Legislation This Session on the Wane.

Senator Jones Discouraged Over the Result of the Conferences on His Measure—Silver Men Refuse To Accept It—Mr. Lodge Says It Cannot Meet the Conditions Intended.

Washington, Jan. 15.—The outlook for some sort of currency legislation at this session of congress was more unfavorable last evening when the senate adjourned, possibly, than at any time up to the present. It is more than likely that Mr. Jones will not introduce his promised measure at all, for he is said to be very much discouraged over the result of the conferences he held with the contending elements of his own party and the silver republicans.

The bill, the outlines of which were published in the United Press dispatches, was thought by Messrs. Jones and Camden, who championed it, to meet the situation and they felt assured that if it could pass it would meet the executive approval. Upon this measure, which was not constructed hurriedly, they based their hope for success and the deliverance of the treasury and the country from impending evil. The silver men had, it was previously claimed, said that if they could be assured that a measure recognizing silver would receive the sanction of the president, they would be inclined to support it. When, therefore, this bill was presented for their consideration its authors believed they had solved the trouble, for they were in a position to give the assurance that they understood had been demanded.

The silver men, however, refuse to accept the bill and have so informed Senator Jones. In the morning, and later in the day while the senate was in session, Messrs. Jones and Camden were in conference with Mr. Teller, the leader of the silver republicans, but nothing encouraging was secured from Mr. Teller. It is understood that Mr. Teller entered some serious objections to the proposed Jones bill, among them being the restriction of the coinage to silver, the product of American mines. Mr. Teller pointed out that this would not help the cause of silver, that the mint must be open to the coinage of the silver of the world as that was the only way whereby its price could be enhanced; not that he believed the silver of the world would be brought here for mintage but the mere fact it could be coined here would cause it to command a better price. This would not be the case were the coinage here limited to the American product only. Of course, this coinage, under the proposed bill, provided that the seigniorage should be the difference between the market price and the bullion value.

It was thought by the democrats who were seeking to prepare a measure that could pass that this objection could be remedied, but the great objection of the silver men appeared to be aimed against the large issue of bonds, contemplated by Mr. Jones' bill. This was discussed at a conference of the silver republicans and the conclusion was reached that the issue of such an amount of bonds would be practically going to a gold basis. The silver men did not think they could agree to support such a proposition. Talks had with some of the democratic silver senators also revealed the fact that they would not agree to this large issue of bonds.

For these reasons Mr. Jones and those associated with him do not consider the outlook encouraging. The question will be up again before the finance committee to-day, but no results are expected. The republicans represented by such men as Aldrich, Sherman, Lodge, Platt, Hawley, Hale, etc., oppose the contemplated coinage of the silver and assert that time does not permit the full consideration of a currency bill before the expiration of this congress.

Mr. Lodge declares that "the measure suggested by Mr. Jones cannot meet the conditions, as can no measure which is built on the lines of the tariff bill recently passed—the free lunch plan which seeks to give every contending element that for which it asks."

Mr. Jones visited Mr. Carlisle at the treasury. He admitted that he might not introduce his bill at all. It is quite certain that if he does he will believe that it has some chance for becoming a law; otherwise he will keep it in his pocket.

WHAT THEY WANT.

Republican Will Support a Proper Banking Bill.

Washington, Jan. 15.—Chairman Springer, of the banking and currency committee, asked ex-Speaker Reed whether there was any prospect of the republicans voting for the Carlisle banking bill in any shape. Mr. Reed frankly replied that the republicans would favor a proper banking bill, but what was needed, in their judgment, was not so much a change in the present system as an increase in the national receipts. It does not appear that Secretary Carlisle has drawn any amendment to the bill, nor has Mr. Springer, who has it in charge, decided upon any change in the original measure which will make it more acceptable to those who opposed it. The matter is still in statu quo. There is a disposition on the part of some of the democratic members of the house to withhold any further attempt at banking legislation until the senate has acted upon the subject.

Wants to Succeed Peffer.

BROOKLYN'S BIG STRIKE

Thousands Quit Work on the Trolley Roads.

Attempts to Run a Mail Car Frustrated by the Strikers—Policemen Draw Revolvers and Disperse the Mob—The Men Confident That They Will Win.

Brooklyn, N. Y., Jan. 15.—Between 7,000 and 8,000 men quit work yesterday morning on about thirty surface railroad lines of this city. Over 1,800 electric cars stood idle. Seventeen thousand miles of wire were practically rendered useless, and about 300,000 passengers had to seek other means than the trolleys for getting to their places of business.

A clash occurred at Fifth avenue and 23d street at 3:30 p. m. At that point is the car house of the Atlantic avenue line. President Norton, who had been trying to get out some cars all day, ordered that a car bearing the sign "United States Mail" be taken out and ran over the line. The motorman was guarded by a policeman on either side, and the conductor was looked after by a sergeant who stood on the rear of the car. Surrounding the car house was a crowd of about 500 strikers. When the car appeared they began hooting and making threats. The car had proceeded about twenty yards when the strikers closed in on it. The police on the car were reinforced by twenty-five policemen stationed there to keep order, who surrounded the car, and tried to keep back the strikers. With drawn clubs they strove to fight off the strikers. When the men saw that they could not get to the car, those on the outskirts threw stones and clubs. They disabled the car. A large stone struck Conductor Jackson on the head, causing blood to flow freely. Sergeant Powers then ordered that the car be taken back. By this time a small body of strikers had crowded between it and the car house. They were armed with clubs, and a shower of stones still continued. The police ordered them back, but as they did not know what the order was intended for, they refused to obey. Some of the policemen drew their pistols, and Conductor Jackson drew his. The strikers who saw that move then retreated, clearing the way through which the car could be backed into the house. After the car was safely housed, the crowd closed in on the entrance. No arrests were made.

Martin Connolly, the master workman, when seen last night, said he was perfectly satisfied with the outlook for the strike, and that the company was as much to blame for the inconvenience which the public suffered as the strikers. The company brought the strike about by locking out the eleven men who applied for work Sunday night. He said the strikers could hold out for a few weeks at least. None of them appeared a bit anxious or worried about the outcome.

Mr. Connolly added that he did not think that the public would allow the railroad officials to import green men to take the places of strikers. He said it required a little skill at times to run a trolley car, and the people were not anxious to risk their lives by riding with new men. He also said he intended to try to see that no violence was offered so that the railroad official could not trump up stories against the strikers. He said he felt sure the men would win.

POSTAL SIDE OF THE STRIKE.

Travel Must Be Kept Open to Transport the Mails.

Washington, Jan. 15.—Attorney-General Olney said to-day that he had no official knowledge of the trolley strike in Brooklyn, as United States Marshal McCarty had not thought it necessary to advise him of it. He did not expect to hear of the matter officially at this time.

Under general instructions, United States Marshal McCarty, upon being informed by the postmaster of Brooklyn that the United States mails, carried in the usual way, were being obstructed, had the power to open travel for the purpose of delivering the United States mail.

If the marshal's present force was not sufficient for that purpose, he had the authority to summon as many deputies as would be sufficient.

Mr. Olney said a year or so ago when there was a strike on a street railroad between St. Paul and Minneapolis, which was a regular mail route, the United States marshal under instructions from himself (Attorney-General Olney) cleared the obstructions so far as the free passage of the mail was concerned.

Could Be Sold at a Profit.

Cleveland, Jan. 15.—A woolen mill in this city is now employing 300 persons day and night and the proprietors attribute the increase of orders to the free admission of wool which they say was the hardest blow France and England ever received commercially from this country. Two English experts who examined the product and prices of this mill say the cloth could be sold at a profit in Bradford, England.

Two Stars Wants Money.

Washington, Jan. 15.—Two Stars, chief of the Sisseton Sioux Indians, called upon the commissioner of Indian affairs yesterday, and requested that a sum of money be advanced his tribe to build houses, and improve their property. The commissioner will recommend to the president that $190,000, a part of their principal, be allowed them for this purpose.

Wants To Be Punished.

London, Jan. 15.—The Central News correspondent in Tien-Tsin says that Gen. Sung, whom the Japanese under Gen. Nodzu drove out of Kai-Ping, has asked the Pekin government to punish him and two other high officers for losing the town. All three cases have been submitted to the board of punishment.

WHAT PLAYWRIGHTS GET.

Fabulous Sums For the Manager in a "Hit."

Theatrical managers are supposed to make fortunes out of great successes, and they do. Charles Frohman made over $100,000 out of "Charley's Aunt," here in New York alone last season, and "Sowing the Wind," which began its run last January, added over $60,000 to his bank account before the middle of May. It is said, too, that he made several fortunes out of "Shenandoah," clearing over $200,000 by its first triumph six or seven years ago. The public has heard so much about the flow of coin into successful managers' exchequers that it never thinks of the coin that flows out of them to the successful playright.

Howard writes but one play at a time. He never meddles with pot boilers. He takes pains, and generally puts in two years writing a play, and when it is finished, he does nothing more until it is produced. Each week has a great money value for Howard after his play has been completed. He is a man of big royalties. There is no need to go further back than the engagement of Shenandoah at the Academy of Music to illustrate this. In one week there his royalty amounted to $2,1000.

A manager who is concerned with the production of plays as I am," said Mr. Frohman, "will spend $18,000 to $20,000 a year for manuscripts which never see the light. Plays are offered which possess merit and of which it seems possible we may avail ourselves, and we buy them, and that is their end, for occasion for their use never arises. Then plays are written to order, and foreign plays are bought on the strength of the successes they have made, and these, too, though under ordinary conditions they would be more desirable and would receive prompt production, pass up onto our shelves and in most cases remain there. In fact, I will purchase dramatic material much the same as a newspaper purchases news and other information that it never uses, but which has a market value, for a variety of reasons. It may look like throwing away so much money, but it isn't. The material, be it news or play, is worth the money we paid for it at the time, but exigencies of an unforseen character intervene and prevent its use, that's all.—New York World.

THE HUB'S PATRIOTISM.

Every Letter From Boston Bears This Symbolic Ensign.

The "rating stamp" on all letters from Boston nowadays, is of a novel and ingenious design, calculated to tickle the fancy of every patriotic citizen who is fortunate enough to have a correspondent in Boston.

A fac-simile of the stamp is presented herewith. Up to a short while ago Boston as did many other postoffices, used a rating stamp which cancelled the envelope with a number of straight lines about 2 inches long.

The present design has evidently grown out of the old one, the lines simply being made waving and the stars representing the original thirteen States, being placed in the upper left hand corner.

This simple reconstruction makes a very pretty representation of an American flag in black and white. The originator of the design is not known, as all the rating stamps are made by contractors for the Post Office Department, and they turn out hundreds of new desings each year.

TREMENDOUS PRESSURE.

A Machine on the Hydraulic Principle Using Oil Instead of Water.

It is called a testing machine, and it is used to ascertain the resisting power of various materials. It is not content with finding out that a beam of oak, for instance, will bear without breaking a pressure on one spot of a hundred and sixty thousand pounds; the beam must be utterly crushed each time the test is made, and note must be taken of the exact weight that lay upon it at the moment of its final dissolution. Day after day this great machine heaves and strains itself, and bears down with slow and awful force upon some tough beam or block of wood; and whether the timber is placed flatwise, and needs, say, but a paltry seventy-five tons to crush it, or whether it is placed endwise, like a pillar, and will hold up twice as much weight before it cries out and gives up the ghost, it must yield just the same, and surrender its pitiful, crushed frame to be photographed and studied and picked to pieces for the benefit of science.

There is a certain piston in this mechanism which, pressing against a quantity of oil in a confined space, forces this oil against another iron surface, which in turn presses forward upon the timber, so that all this crushing power is exerted by the medium of nothing but oil, nothing but suave, gentle, yielding, unresisting oil, the emblem of softness and agreeableness.

Little by little the power is turned on. The young man at the gauge calls "120,000," "130,000," "140,000," "150,000;" you hear the snapping of a myriad of tendons within the beam, and all these sounds join in a sort of low, buzzing roar or cry, which suggests an elemental agony. One hundred and sixty thousand pounds—the beam sinks deeper into the flesh of its victim—one hundred and seventy thousand—"More oil!" calls the master; and now the crackle rises—the lengthwise beam itself begins to crack, and the other beam, yielding at last, seems to go to pieces all at once; and when the pressure is removed it is taken out, twisted, contorted, riven, pierced, crushed.

Longevity in the Quaker City.

The total number of deaths of octogenarians, nonogenarians, and centenarians in Philadelphia, announced in the Public Ledger during 1894, was 801, there being 325 men and 476 women, thus again emphasizing the usual preponderance of women. Of the males, 43 reached or passed the age of 90, and their combined ages make a total of 4,003 years, while the aggregate ages of the 81 women, aged 90 or over, give 7,571 years.

AN ENGAGEMENT.

There could no longer be any reasonable doubt. Poor Jack Lester had been drowned in the wreck of the Ootacumund, and Celia Grey was the most unhappy girl in Woodbury. She was forced to keep her grief to herself because she had not been officially engaged to Jack. She thought it might have been a little easier to bear if her friends had known how unhappy she was and with what good reason. With this great secret sorrow in her heart the ordinary routine of life grew painful. She had no spirit for tennis parties. She hated her gay summer frocks; she even wished she need not act as bridesmaid to her cousin Susie. She used to lie awake at night and wonder how much he had minded being drowned.

As she went into the stationer's one day she saw Fannie Potter there, a girl she knew slightly and disliked. If it had been possible she would have escaped from the shop rather than speak to Fannie, but she was recognized at once.

"Good morning, Celia," said Miss Potter, putting down a packet of black-edged envelopes and coming forward. For a short time some years ago the girls had been in the same class at the high school, and on the strength of this Fannie continued to address Celia by her Christian name. She did not often have the chance of doing so. The Potters were not people with whom the Greys wished to be on friendly terms. Mr. Potter was an attorney of doubtful reputation. It was well known that on Fannie's behalf he had threatened a well to do farmer with a breach of promise case, and that the young man had only got off by paying a substantial sum.

Since that time Fannie had dressed more fashionably than ever, but she had not been asked for her hand and heart again.

Celia bought what she wanted, and was about to leave the shop when Fannie followed her and said that they might as well walk a little way together. She was going past Beechdene.

"You must find that gown rather heavy," said Celia, who saw that her companion wore mourning deep enough for a young widow.

"My heart is very heavy," said Fannie, with an accentuated sigh.

Celia reflected. She had not heard of Mr. Potter's demise; and Mrs. Potter she had seen at the station dressed in bright blue.

"I did not know you were in trouble," she said civilly.

It was rather difficult to be more than civil, because Fannie showed her grief in such an objectionable way. She had pulled out a pocket handkerchief with a broad black border, and was sobbing into it so loudly that any one they passed stared at them.

"Didn't you know?" howled Fannie.

"No," said Celia. "What is the matter?"

"I thought every one knew. I am staying with the Lesters. That is why I have to pass Beechdene."

Celia felt as if her heart stopped for a moment, and then went on in a greater hurry than was comfortable. She laughed rather nervously and said:

"I don't know what you mean. You are not in mourning because you are staying with the Lesters, I suppose?"

"What a heartless girl you must be to make fun of us when we are in such trouble!" sobbed Fannie. She paused while a wave of extra strong emotion shook her breast, and then she added in a sepulchral tone, "Poor Jack Lester is drowned!"

"I know that," said Celia sharply, "but I don't see why you should be in mourning."

"Jack and I were engaged."

Celia turned ashen white. Otherwise she gave no sign. She walked ahead doggedly, and kept her open sunshade between her companion and herself.

"He gave me this ring," continued Fannie, pulling off her glove. "Look at it! 'From Jack to Fannie' is engraved inside. Poor, dear Jack."

Celia raised her sunshade a little and glanced at the ring. She thought it rather vulgar, and quite suitable for Miss Potter. It consisted of a large emerald surrounded by coarsely cut diamonds. She thought it did not look Jack's choice.

"How long—" she began, and then, to her vexation, she could not go on. Her heart beat too much.

"How long were we engaged? Oh! only just before he sailed. No one knew of it; but when I heard that he was drowned I wrote to his father and mother. I felt sure they would be glad, poor old things. I am staying with them now."

"Really!" said Celia, and then, having arrived at the gate of Beechdene, she rather abruptly bade goodby.

From her mother Celia learned that the impossible story was true. Woodbury rang with the news. The Lesters were great people, the Potters very little ones. No one could understand why Jack Lester should have made such a trumpery choice or how Fannie with her blowsy beauty had managed to captivate him. Without the ring she would hardly have persuaded any one that she told the truth. Directly the confirmation of his death arrived she had put herself into mourning and drawn down the parlor blinds, while Mr. and Mrs. Potter, with an air of great surprise, spread the story of her bereavement. They had not known of any engagement, they said, until poor, dear Fannie fainted at the news of the wreck, and afterward exhibited her ring. She nearly swooned again when Col. Lester called. She said he reminded her so strongly of her beloved Jack.

Celia drooped. Her mother thought of sending her to the sea, she lost color and weight so fast. The poor child was grievously hurt. She had loved Jack Lester and believed in him. There had been enough of an understanding between them to warrant her hopes. Had he deceived her? And what made her heart ache most—the fable of his treachery or the thought that he was dead?

About a month after the wreck of the Ootacamund Mrs. Grey said that she must go and see Mrs. Lester one afternoon, and she hoped that Celia would accompany her.

"You go without me," said Celia.

"Mrs. Lester is so fond of you," observed Mrs. Grey.

"Oh! but she has the Potter girl now," said Celia, dejectedly.

Nevertheless, when the afternoon came, she went to Langholme with her mother. They were shown into the drawing-room, and found Mrs. Lester and her guest at tea. Miss Potter advanced to meet them, and without any loss of time began to show how much she felt at home.

But neither Mrs. Grey nor Celia took very much notice of the young woman. Mrs. Lester welcomed her old friends with affection, led them to a distant part of the large room, and gave her own orders to Wilkins. It was not until Col. Lester appeared that Miss Fannie had a chance of reasserting herself.

Col. Lester looked delighted to see Celia, but he asked her why she had grown so white and thin.

"What can a young girl have to fret about?" he said.

"Oh, Colonel!" sighed Miss Potter, reproachfully.

Every one had finished tea, and Mrs. Lester proposed an adjournment to the flower garden, when they were stopped by Wilkins coming in and asking, with a shaky voice, for his master. The old servant looked scared and upset.

"What is it, Wilkins?" said Miss Potter. "Anything I can do? The Colonel is tired."

Wilkins vouchsafed no reply. He did not even look her way. Col. Lester got up and went out of the room. Perhaps two minutes passed before he returned. The ladies had begun to talk of something else, when the Colonel opened the door, stood still for a moment on the threshold, looked fixedly at his wife, and then over his shoulder toward the hall. It was just as if Mrs. Lester could read something in his face that no one else understood. She got up and walked in a quick, trembling way toward her husband.

"Jack!" she cried. She went with outstretched hands beyond the door, and before any one quite understood what had happened, Jack rushed foward and took his mother into his arms.

Celia turned so white that her mother thought she would faint; but the next moment she had blushed rosy red because Jack Lester had seized her hand and seemed reluctant to let it go again. No one noticed the Potter girl steal stealthily toward the low French window that stood open to the lawn.

"What does it mean, Jack?" asked his mother at last. "You look very ill."

"I've been pretty bad. I lay in a hut on the Spanish coast for three weeks. I was knocked silly you know, against the rocks, and then hauled out by some fisherman. The poor chap they took for me must have got hold of my coat with my papers in. It all happened in the dark and in such a hurry. I might have wired from London, but I thought I would just come on. When they put me on board at Cadiz I was not in a condition to act for myself, and the people who looked after me did not know how to get at you."

"We have been taking care of your bride, Jack," said Col. Lester, who was a good deal surprised by his son's cool manner to her.

Jack looked puzzled, pleased, undetermined.

"My bride!" he said, with a happy light in his eyes, "Celia."

And he held out both his hands to Miss Grey, at whose side he had remained. But she hung back blushing and embarrassed.

"Jack!" exclaimed his father sternly. "I mean Miss Potter."

"There goes Miss Potter!" said Mrs. Grey, pointing to the French window that she could see from her seat. Col. Lester looked startled and turned round. They could all see a buxom crape-clad figure speeding down the lawn.

"She said you were engaged," gasped the Colonel. "We believed it."

"You did," said Mrs. Lester. "I disliked the girl from the first."

"You never believed it?" said Jack to Celia.

"She wore your ring, stammered Celia.

"That she most certainly did not," said Jack.

"It had 'From Jack to Fannie' inside. I saw the inscription."

"Yes," said the Colonel, "there was no doubt about the inscription."

"I did not give it to her."

"It is very curious," said Mrs. Lester. "How did she get the ring?"

"I think I know," said Mrs. Grey, who had listened with a meditative face to Jack's denials. "The man who jilted her, the man she threatened with a breach of promise suit, was called John Smith. He is in Australia now, and the whole business happened out of Woodbury, so I suppose she thought it quite safe to use his ring."

"None of us could understand your taste, Jack," said Mrs. Lester.

"You do now, though," said Jack, taking Celia's hand.—Illustrated London News.

Of Two Evils Preferred the Least.

It was two o'clock in the morning and colder than four kinds of charity, when the policeman saw the man standing on the street corner shivering until his heels rattled on the sidewalk.

"What's the matter?" asked the officer approaching him.

"I—I—I'm cold," shivered the man.

"What are you standing out here for?"

"Every place is shut up."

"Have you a home?"

"Yes."

"Can't you get in there?"

"Yes."

"Well, why don't you? You'll freeze her.

"I wouldn't be surprised," said the man bracing up to a degree of firmness, "but I'd a blamed sight rather be froze than be roasted, and my wife is waiting up for me, because the light was turned up full when I was 'round there a short while ago."

"Um," grunted the policeman, and invited him to remain where he was and continue to shiver.—Detroit Free Press.

Tedious Suffering Finds Relief.

HAVERHILL, N. H.—Many physicians have pronounced as incurable, diseases of the skin and blood. Mrs. Hodson of this place abandoned the old school method and used Dr. Kennedy's Favorite Remedy and was cured.

In October, 1890, and for a year after, Mrs. Hodson suffered from a diseased ankle bone. She had always been troubled with Salt Rheum which aggravated the diseased limb. Prescriptions and medicines of all sorts were used, but with no benefit. Dr. Kennedy's Favorite Remedy was tried, and it drove the poison out of her blood, healed the ulcerous sores, and restored Mrs. Hodson to health and strength.

Favorite Remedy cleanses the blood, and strengthens the nerves. In cases of scrofula and salt rheum, it cures where all else fails.

—A sociable is to be given by the "Thule" Benevolent Society in Red Men's Hall, Saturday, Jan. 26, at 8 p.m. Tickets are 25 cents.

—In its statement that Mrs. Whittemore was known as "Sister Charlotte", The Press was misinformed. "Sister Charlotte" is another worker in a different field.

LOOKING FOR ARMS.

Sons of Veterans to Ask for Muskets, and Accepting Social Invitations.

At the meeting of John Hand Camp, No. 28, Sons of Veterans, last evening, the new rituals were first used, and all were much pleased. Three degrees, representing the cardinal principles of the order, are additional features. The first degree was exemplified, and proved to be very interesting. The Captain was authorized to confer with the Commander of Post 73, in regard to securing arms for the Camp. It was also voted that an entertainment or lecture be given at a date to be decided by the members. An order was received from Headquarters stating that the thirteenth annual encampment of the division would be held in Trenton, Thursday, Feb. 21, at 10 a. m. An invitation was received from the Women's Relief Corps to attend the installation of the Corps President, Friday evening, Jan. 25, when a programme of music and recitations will be given. Another invitation was received to attend a social at the home of Mrs. Andrew Cox, tomorrow evening, which is in charge of the Rathbone Sisters.

Master of Ribbons.

Few people not directly interested realize the experience, caution and judgment necessary in handling the carriages at the big receptions, parties and teas which have been of such frequent occurrence among the social leaders of Plainfield this season. But wherever there is a special demand there is usually a man specially fitted to fill it, and in this present instance genial and popular Frank Hedden is decidedly the man. On several occasions at the Casino and other of the larger affairs Mr. Hedden has had as many as seventy-five carriages to handle, and although this amount of work, which must all be done in a very short time when guests are ready to depart, would hopelessly confuse one less careful than Frank, he invariably handles everything with promptness and avoids the least confusion. Plainfield people have learned to feel perfectly at ease as to their prompt departure at the desired time whenever they see the sunny smile and the covert coat of the East Fourth street master of the ribbons.

For Foreign Lands.

Mrs. Lawrence Myers and her daughter Mrs. Mead, accompanied by Mrs. Mead's beautiful and interesting little ones, will sail for Algiers Saturday on the North German Lloyd liner Kaiser William. Italy is the objective point for their Winter sojourn, after which a tour will be made of France, Belgium, Holland and Switzerland as well as England. The many friends of these philanthropic women, who have done so much toward improving and christianizing not only the unfortunates of Plainfield but also in a much larger field, wish them a godspeed and safe return.

Before the Rain Came.

Smooth ice and delightful weather brought the young people out in large numbers yesterday afternoon to enjoy the skating on Hyde's millpond. An exciting game of hockey furnished amusement most of the afternoon. In the evening the pond was again thronged. The meadows were in fairly good condition, and many of the less expert skaters spent their time gliding around its glassy surface. Ohl's pond also was in fine condition, and brought out the skaters in full force.

The Manual Training Reception.

The pupils of the Plainfield Manual Training School are engaged in preparations for the reception to be given in the school-rooms, Jan. 24. The invitations for the reception are artistic. On the corner of each invitation is a small free-hand sketch made by a former pupil of the school. On the back is a list of several of Plainfield's most prominent citizens who will make short addresses.

Additions to the Club.

Several recent additions are noted in the morning and afternoon classes at the riding academy. Some of the women especially are becoming quite proficient under the careful tutelage of Proprietor Stevenson, and will soon be able to join the popular riding club which has been increased by several men and women in the past weeks.

Fell from a Trestle.

Fred Hand of North avenue, while engaged yesterday in dumping coal from a car standing on the trestle in his yard, slipped on the ice and fell a distance of fourteen feet, severely bruising his right arm. Although so badly bruised, Mr. Hand is able to attend to his business.

"I know an old soldier who had chronic diarrhoea of long standing to have been permanently cured by taking Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy,' says Edward Shumpik, a prominent druggist of Minneapolis, Minn. I have sold the remedy in this city for over 7 years and consider it superior to any other medicine now on the market for bowel complaints. 25 and 50c bottles of this remedy for sale at Reynolds & Pharmacy. DISCERNS THE EARS.

American Penetrates the Disguise of Mr. Tettemer.

APPLICATION OF A WELL-KNOWN FABLE.

Former Statements of American Reiterated—The St. Louis Correspondent Challenged to Produce Documentary Rebuttal—Facts Still Count, and American Does Not Recede.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE DAILY PRESS:—The community thank you for maintaining a paper impartially open to all parties and creeds, without fear or favor. St. Louis bulldozing is not needed in Plainfied.

I read the vituperative communication from Mr. Tettemer, and the Ainsworth letter, which he so bombastically flourishes, and it reminds me of a fable. A short, long-eared, four-legged creature, with a hoarse voice, stole a lion's skin, and wrapping it about him strode forth alarming those he met. At last he met a fox, and with a tremendous noise sought to frighten him—but the fox did n't scare. Then this creature with the hoarse voice asked, "Did n't you think I was a lion?" And the fox replied, "Oh, no, I knew you by your ears".

So we have the spectacle of Mr. Tettemer of St. Louis, holding in front of him the War Department, while jumping up and down, frothing at the mouth, and screaming, "'Tis all false; American is an unvarnished liar". But Mr. Tettemer's communication shows those abominable ear-marks; 'tis not the voice of a lion: only a bray. Nobody said the printed table of comparative desertions from which I quoted, came altogether from Washington. All the official war records are not there; and there are obtainable comparisons, Ainsworth, Tettemer & Co. to the contrary notwithstanding. Using the precedent established by your correspondent from St. Louis, I will take my time to procure the documentary evidence to substantiate the figures of the table, which raises so loud a "bray".

But the peculiar mental qualities of the St. Louis "voice" are further exhibited in the wild flourishing of that same document, to disprove statements with which the War Department is not connected. The "voice" declares, "Ainsworth's letter proves that there is not a scintilla of truth in American's whole letter to Wilhere". Wonderful logic! Marvelous deduction! Mr. Tettemer has certainly lost his head—if not his ears. No is the time for the gentleman to be consistent in his self-imposed task of exposure (sic). Documentary rebuttal to prove one statement false, documentary rebuttal to disprove all the alleged "glaring falsehoods". Glaring falsehoods are easily disproved. Not a "scintilla of truth" is easily exposed. Besides, the gentleman is not known in these parts—his language indicates that his usual place is among the toughs.

Now American challenges the aforesaid "voice" to produce documentary evidence that the Pope did not hold confidential correspondence with Jefferson Davis during the war. He is challenged to produce documentary rebuttal that all who had anything to do with the murder of Lincoln were not Romanists, (see Lansing's Romanism and Republic, page 272) He is challenged to produce documentary rebuttal disproving Father Chiniquy's awful charge, which I quoted, that the assassination was a Romanist plot, (see Chiniquy's Fifty Years in the Church of Rome). He is challenged to disprove the history which John Heord, Jr., writes in Scribner's (June, 1894), to the effect that Napoleon's attempt in Mexico, at a critical point in our war, was a Catholic conspiracy to erect on this continent are empire to check the growth of American spirit and institutions. American also quoted the Duke of Richmond's notorious affirmation that the Government of the United States ought not to stand, and would be destroyed by subversion. Go on, Mr. Tettemer, if there is not a "scintilla of truth" in these authorities from whom I quoted, nothing is easier than to expose them—go on, produce the documentary rebuttals—or shut up. The other portions of the "Reply to Wilhere" will stand the same treatment. It still remains true, "Facts count", We want "facts", not St. Louis "brays".

Finally, Mr. Tettemer, you accuse American of "stirring strife in a peaceable community"—it sounds large. I fling the accusation in your teeth, sir, and accuse you, and your tribe, of being unpatriotic, and the disturbers of peace. The war was to maintain the Union, an integral part of the foundation of that Union is the public school. Yet we find you and your party attacking our most cherished institutions. Here is patriotism for you—here is the writing that disturbs the peace of communities. Listen to this absurd fling: "The experience of every day shows more and more plainly that serious evils and great dangers are entailed upon Catholic youth by their frequentation of public schools in this country, The morals and examples of their fellow scholars are so corrupt, and so great their license in word and deed, that through continued contact with them the modesty and piety of our children, even of those who have been best trained at home, disappear like wax before the fire."—(Judges of the Faith, page 35). Now, Mr. Tettemer, the attitude of Rome during the war is written in blood-red letters which even your "bray" cannot obliterate. The attitude of Rome today towards our institutions is exposed in thousands of gross attacks like the above. With such testimony confronting you, it is idiotic to talk about "stirring strife" in peaceable communities. What do you mean, sir, by your hypocritical plea against "stirring strife", when we are confronted by Brownson, who dares to tell us "If the Pope should curse the government of the United States, every consistent orthodox Roman Catholic would thereby be absolved from his allegiance to it". What do you mean by talking "peace", when the Western Watchman, published in your own city, sends out broadcast the following beautiful editorial: "Protestantism—we would draw and quarter it. We would impale and hang it up for crow's meat. We would tear it with pinchers and fire it with hot irons. We would fill it with molten lead and sink it in a hundred fathoms of hell fire." Mr. Tettemer, before you come to Plainfield to talk "peace", do a little missionary work with the blazing, bloodthirsty, unpatriotic, peace-breaking friend of yours in St. Louis. Till my next,

AMERICAN

Last evening the members of the Central Avenue Euchre Club were charmingly entertained by Mrs. C. E. Abbottt at her beautiful residence 966 Central avenue, the affair being the eighth of the present series of semi-monthly meetings of the club. Twenty-six men and women comprize the club proper, but last evening several outside friends were invited to fill the place left temporarily vacant by those of the members who were unfortunate enough to be "gripped". The drawing room and parlors were profusely decorated with beautiful growing plants and luxuriant palms.

During the evening a bountiful collation was provided by the beautiful hostess.

The prizes were four in number, one of which fell to the lot of Mrs. C. E. Perkins who played the most successful game of any woman present and was awarded a beautiful photograph frame, while Mrs. Harry Stockton, who was a close second to Mrs. Perkins, received a tasty silver paper cutter.

Among the men J. Parker Mason secured the very appropriate first prize of a silk umbrella which will doubtless be doubly appreciated today by the fortunate recipient, and Harry Stockton is now the possessor of a pretty silver penknife which was awarded as second prize among the men. These house parties have become almost a fixture in Central avenue social life among those who comprise this most popular club, and Mrs. Abbott was heartily congratulated last evening upon the success attending the pleasant function.

HYMENEAL.

Hubbard—Potter.

Last evening at the home of the bride's parents William C. Hubbard of West Fifth street was married to Miss Mabel Louise Potter, youngest daughter of Charles Potter of 427 West Seventh street, this city.

Promptly on the stroke of 7, the hour appointed for the wedding, the bride and groom entered the spacious parlors which had been handsomely decorated for the occasion with palms, ferns, potted plants and choice cut flowers, and at the mantel they were met by their pastor, Rev. A. H. Lewis, D. D., who feelingly and eloquently pronounced the marriage ceremony. After invoking the Divine blessing on the newly-married pair, Dr. Lewis turned and introduced them as Mr. and Mrs. Hubbard who were ready to receive the congratulations of their friends.

The bride's wedding dress was of heavy white satin richly trimmed with point lace and chiffon, and her veil was held in place by a coronet of orange blossoms. She carried a handsome bouquet of bride roses. Mr. Hubbard is the eldest son of Joseph A. Hubbard of this city.

Owing to the recent death of Mr. Potter's son-in-law, A. M. Ross, the wedding was a quiet home affair, only the immediate families of the bride and groom being present.

The supper was furnished by Max Wiertz of this city.

Judged by Their Feet.

Miss Ida Johnson of West Fifth street entertained about thirty of her friends at her home last evening. A novel feature was that a large sheet was stretched across a room behind which the young women stood, only their feet showing. The young men then selected their partners, with whom they were to pull taffy. This afforded great fun. The young people afterwards adjourned to another room, where a flashlight picture was taken by Photographer Wm. Monfort. Wm. Milliken of Dunellen furnished excellent music, and after the company enjoyed themselves with further games all sat down and partook of an excellent supper.

The Press Will Be There Daily.

A large number of people gathered in the rooms of the East Third Street Mission last evening, it being an informal opening of the free public reading room. Superintendent L. W. Randolph made an address of hearty welcome, after which the audience listened with pleasure to several well rendered piano solos by Howard Case.

The use of the rooms was explained by Mr. Randolph. The beginning is made with an excellent supply of reading matter. The Daily Press will always be on file at the rooms, as will also several other daily papers. A collation was served during the evening which all enjoyed.

Ministers Meet.

The pretty residence of Rev. Edward Love, 229 East Ninth street, was the meeting-place Monday of the Ministers Association to the number of twelve. An interesting paper on municipal outdoor relief was read by Rev. G. Kennedy Newell, and discussion followed. A bountiful supper was served, proving conclusively that the reverend gentlemen enjoyed the discussions of viands fully as well as that of hard facts. Two-out-of-town guests of the evening were obliged to forego the pleasures of the evening because of indisposition.

Initiation Fee Suspended.

At the adjourned meeting of the Camera Club last evening the following officers were chosen for the ensuing year:

President—O. S. Teale.
Vice-president—Howard Stillman.
Secretary—Harry Coward.
Treasurer—W. A. Freeman.
Board of Directors—Harold Serrell, J. Hervey Doane, J. E. Stewart.

It was voted that the bylaws should be suspended for three months, commencing Feb. 1, where it provides for an initiation fee. This is done to increase the membership. A test of exhibition slides was given at the close of the meeting.

Chiefly Home Talent.

Nothing this week in the entertainment line will be finer than the recital in the Congregational Church. Miss Kathryn Krymer of Brooklyn, with a most beautiful contralto voice, and Alfred Holmes, barytone, of this city, will sing, while Miss Addie Parker Jackson, Plainfield's charming elocutionist, will recite. The instrumental music, under the direction of P. L. Conde, will be of a high order. All who attend will be sure of a most enjoyable evening.

Many stubborn and aggravating cases of rheumatism that were believed to be incurable and accepted as life legacies, have yielded to Chamberlain's Pain Balm, much to the surprise and gratification of the sufferers. One application will relieve the pain and suffering and its continued use insures an effectual cure. For sale at Reynolds's pharmacy, Park and North avenues. T. S. Armstrong, manager.

M. CASIMIR-PERIER OUT

The President of France Resigns His Office.

Unable to Solve the Problem Presented by the Resignation of Premier Dupuy—The News Spreads Like Wildfire and Creates Consternation—Extremists Wildly Elated.

Paris, Jan. 16.—M. Casimir-Perier has resigned the office of president of France. He announced his resignation last evening at a specially summoned meeting of the cabinet, having previously informed M. Challemel-Lacour, the president of the senate, of his inability to solve the problem presented by the resignation of Premier Dupuy.

The news of the president's resignation spread like wildfire throughout Paris, and was received everywhere with consternation amounting almost to paralysis. In the newspapers offices the first report was considered absurd, but was soon confirmed. Almost simultaneously crowds began gathering in front of the newspapers offices and in the public places, inquiring for further particulars and discussing the situation.

The following official communication, dictated or written by M. Casimir-Perier, was made public before midnight Monday night:

"The president of the republic has taken a resolution to resign his official functions. Yesterday's proceedings and vote in the chamber of deputies are in his eyes but secondary incidents of the struggle that has begun against parliamentary regime and public liberty. He had hoped that the president of the republic, being unprovided with means of action, would remain outside the lines of party struggles, and that the political confidence of all parties would give him the necessary force and authority. He had hoped that those, who, in spite of himself, had placed him in a position where he cannot defend himself, would undertake the defence of the first magistrate of the state. He has requested the ministers to withdraw their resignations provisionally in order to assure the regular transmission of his powers to his successor."

Monsieur Charles Dupuy, president of the council, has informed the presidents of the senate and chamber of deputies of the decision of the president of the republic, and they are going to convoke parliament with urgency.

M. Challemel-Lacour, president of the senate, courteously allowed himself to be interviewed by the United Press correspondent late last evening, notwithstanding the great pressure of business suddenly thrust upon him by the president's resignation.

He said that it had not yet been decided whether to convoke the national assembly to elect a successor to M. Casimir-Perier for the 18th or 19th inst. He will probably announce the date to-day on the meeting of the senate and chamber of deputies.

M. Casimir-Perier's reference, in his public communication, to his inability to defend himself in the presidency may, according to trustworthy information obtained by the United Press correspondent, be explained by the fact that, as he was a sub-secretary of state in the cabinet which concluded the railway conventions in 1883, he regards the adverse vote on the subject in the chamber on Monday as a personal reflection upon him, although he had no vote in the cabinet when the conventions were made. Whether this be the true reason of his resignation or not, it proves to what lengths he is prepared to go against the socialists, whom he regards as aiming at a revolution.

Extremist newspaper men received the news with jubilation. The editors of La Petite Republique were wildly elated, but considered it certain that M. Casimir-Perier would be re-elected if he would be a candidate again. Otherwise there is a consensus of opinion that Henri Brisson is certain to be elected to the presidency of the republic.

Casimir-Perier's Career.

Jean Pierre Paul Casimir-Perier was born at Paris on Nov. 8, 1847. His grandfather was prime minister of France in 1831, and his father, who died in 1876, was minister of the interior under Thiers, and afterwards a senator. M. Casimir-Perier greatly distinguished himself duing the siege of Paris as a captain of the "Mobiles de l'Aube," and was made a chevalier of the Legion d'Honneur in 1871 for his services. He was elected a deputy in 1874, and succeeded to the offices of under-secretary for public instruction, and for war, in 1877 and 1885. He was vice-president of the chamber from 1885 to 1893 when he was elected its president, and, after the general election, he was again chosen for that honorable position. He became premier Dec. 5, 1893, but his term of office was cut short by an adverse vote in May, 1894, and he again became president of the chamber, only to relinquish the office for the presidency of the republic, to which he was called by a large majority on the assassination of President Carnot. He became president of the republic on June 27, 1894. M. Casimir-Perier is a man of great firmness of character. Politically, he has identified himself with the moderate republican party.

FOREIGN PRESS COMMENT.

Casimir-Perier Blamed for Deserting His Post.

London, Jan. 16.—The Morning Post says editorially:

"The French republic cannot progress whilst her leading men consider public life nothing better than a rehearsal of amateur theatricals. French public life is vitiated by vanity, selfishness, stupidity and folly. The result is that one of the few sane and sensible politicians in France has found it impossible to keep things quiet. It is idle to talk of such men as Dupuy and Brisson. The time has come for a military leader of the fibre of Bismarck or Gourke or for an autocratic despot of the firmness of Crispi or Stambuloff."

The Daily News says:

"There is nothing to justify M. Casimir-Perier in regarding recent events as proof of a want of trust in him. He has deserted his post at a time of difficulty and anxiety, plunging France into political confusion, rather than stick to his onerous duties."

SURPRISE AT WASHINGTON.

The Resignation of France's President Unlooked For.

Washington, Jan. 16.—The cable advices from Paris to the United Press last evening announcing that the retirement of the Dupuy ministry had culminated in the resignation of President Casimir-Perier was an altogether unlooked for and astounding piece of intelligence to diplomats and officials generally, whose first information on the subject was communicated to them by the United Press. The state department was without advices as to the resignation of the French president and the news dispatch which was handed to Secretary Gresham early in the evening was far ahead of any advices received at the department in advance of which the secretary did not consider it proper to discuss the great change of events in the French republic. President Cleveland was not aware of the resignation of M. Casimir-Perier until advised by telephone by the United Press, and beyond expressing thanks for the information

COOK GANG AT WORK.

They Have Considerable Fun with an Editor.

Muskogee, I. T., Jan. 16.—James French and Mack Williams, of the Cook gang, rode into Fort Gibson and held up the proprietor and five men in F. H. Nash's general store. With revolvers held at them the victims elevated their hands and fell in line, while Williams emptied the money drawers of $3. Mr. Nash opened the safe when ordered and handed out $30, all there was in the safe. Williams was not satisfied and decided to go through the visitors. He walked up to Bohannon, Nash's collector, who had just entered to deposit the day's collections, and was going into his pockets when French ordered him to leave Bohannon alone. At that time the editor of the local paper came in. French ordered him to put up his hands, but the editor thought the robbery a joke until Williams put a six-shooter in his face and said: "Up with those hands or I will blow your brains out."

The editor obeyed and was relieved of four dollars. The other men were not robbed. Then French selected two suits of clothing and the bandits marched the seven men to the rack, where their horses were tied. Editor Dick lagged behind the line and French called out to him: "Say you with the mother hubbard, move up or I'll shoot your head off." The editor moved. After the outlaws were on their horses French shouted: "If the editor writes us up we will come back and kill him."

The Fort Gibson people have no faith in the deputy marshals and did not telegraph to Muskogee.

STARVING LOOKOUTS.

Imprisoned on a Pier and Flying Signals of Distress.

Buffalo, Jan. 16.—Two men employed as watchmen or look-outs, who live on the Inlet Pier off the waterworks, are imprisoned there and may starve unless provisions can be sent them in a day or two.

They are floating signals of distress but no aid can reach them, as the density of the slush ice in the river makes communication by boat impossible.

The Inlet Pier is where the city taps Niagara river for its water supply. The stream is very swift at this point and two men live on the pier all winter to keep the entrance free from ice. Their names are William Larue and Michael Hammond. They are supplied with food every five days and never come to land. Looking from the waterworks with a telescope it can be seen that the entrance is blocked with slush ice and that the men have evidently given up trying to cope with the task of keeping it clear.

Duke of Argyll Ill.

Glasgow, Jan. 16.—While the Duke of Argyll was addressing a political meeting in this city last evening he suddenly became pale, his voice sank to a whisper, and he reeled and fell insensible into the arms of Lord Kelvin, one of the bystanders. At midnight Dr. Anderson said that the duke had suffered an attack of syncope, but there had been no return of the faintness. The doctors experienced great difficulty in restoring the patient's temperature.

Tinworkers' Scale Accepted.

Pittsburg, Jan. 16.—Representatives of the Cumberland Tin Plate company met with the Amalgamated association conference committee, representing the workers, and accepted the workers' compromise scale as offered at Monday's meeting with the manufacturers. The terms made will form the new scale notwithstanding the operation of several plants at the old scale where the new terms will become operative at once.

WEALTH AND POPULISM

Themes for Speechmaking in the Senate.

Senator Call Talks on the First Subject—Mr. Allen Defends the Populist Party and Facetiously Refers to the "Love Feast" Between Leading Democrats and Republicans.

Washington, Jan. 16.—There were only two speeches made in the senate yesterday, one by Mr. Call (dem., Fla.) and the other by Mr. Allen (pop., Neb.) Mr. Call's was directed largely to the unequal distribution of wealth in the United States and England, and to the accumulation of enormous fortunes by a few families—which condition of things he attributed to legislation that created franchises and monopolies. Mr. Allen's aimed at defending the populist party from the assumption that it was a party of vagaries. He asserted that there was no vagary in the Omaha platform (not even the subtreasury scheme) that could be compared with the democratic vagary of the proposed repeal of the tax on state bank circulation. He was facetious, and, amusing in his references to Monday's "love feast" between leading men of the democratic and republican parties in the senate; to their "falling on necks, and weeping;" to Mr. Gorman's "Macedonian cry," and to Mr. Allison's response with an offer of "assistance." He said that it had never dawned on members of these two parties that neither of them was to have charge of the government of the country; and that it would be turned over to the populist party in 1896; and he predicted that this would happen—the two other parties having confessed their inability to manage and control the affairs of the government. No action was taken on the income tax amendment, and the senate, at 4:50, adjourned.

House Proceedings.

Most of the session was occupied in the consideration of the Indian appropriation bill for the year ending June 30, 1896. It carries a total appropriation of $6,494,829.86, as against $6,733,003.18 appropriated for the current year, and $6,723,844.83, the total of the estimates submitted by the secretary of the interior. General debate was not closed when the house adjourned.

The sundry civil appropriation bill for the years 1895-6 was reported by Mr. Sayers (dem., Tex.) and placed on the calendar.

President Cleveland's veto of the bill authorizing the entry of public lands for reservoirs, and gravel pits, and granting right of way to railroads and canals thereto, was referred to the committee on public lands.

Mr. Grosvenor (rep., O.) requested, on behalf of ex-Senator H. B. Payne and ex-Judge Stevenson Burke, indirectly involved in the charges made the other day by S. J. Ritchie against Judge Ricks, an investigation of them. The decision of Judge Linton, in the case upon which the charges were based, was, on his motion, referred to the committee on judiciary. The following bills were passed:

House bill authorizing Lieut.-Col. Forwood, deputy general, and Dr. George H. Penrose, surgeon U. S. A., to accept gifts from the Argentine minister on behalf of his government.

Senate bill authorizing the secretary of state to credit the accretions on the fund to pay awards under the Caracas convention in 1868, to the Venezuelan government upon the awards made by the commission of 1889-90.

Senate bill authorizing Commander D. W. Mullan, U. S. M., to accept a medal from the Chilian government.

GERMAN OFFICERS DEGRADED.

Sentenced To Prison for Disobedience and Disrespect.

Berlin, Jan. 15.—The Reichsanzeiger publishes the sentences imposed by the court-martial on the non-commissioned officers of the gunnery school, who were tried for insubordination. One hundred and thirty-one of the prisoners were condemned to six weeks' imprisonment for disobedience, and thirty-one were sentenced to from six weeks' to nine months' imprisonment for disobedience, disrespect and threatening their superior officers. This lot was also sentenced to be degraded. One officer was sentenced to five years' imprisonment, and another to five years and five months.

Saved a Train at a Burning Bridge

Paris, Tex., Jan. 16.—Mrs. Isaac Parr prevented a terrible wreck on the St. Louis & San Francisco railway, three miles north of here. She discovered a bridge on fire near her home. With a red table cloth she went out to the bridge, where she stood in the bitter cold for nearly two hours before the train arrived. The engine was within forty feet of the burned bridge when it was brought to a halt.

McKean's Bondsmen Will Settle.

Nasua, N. H., Jan. 16.—The bondsmen of Frank McKean, the defaulting cashier of the Indian Head bank, have held a meeting and it is understood have no desire to do otherwise than live up to their obligations. Mr. McKean has a life insurance of $35,000. Reports that he drew a cashier's check for $22,000 after he left town are positively denied by Cashier Harris and the bank officials.

To Inspect Diamond Reef Shoals.

Washington, Jan. 16.—Captain Millis, engineer and secretary of the light house board, left here for Elizabeth, N. C. From that point he will take a light house tender and proceed to Diamond Shoals off Cape Hatteras and make a personal inspection of the shoals, to determine if possible, if they are of a shifting character.

Senator Hoar Re-elected.

Boston, Jan. 16.—The Hon. George F. Hoar was re-elected United States senator by both branches of the legislature. The Hon. John E. Russell was the democratic candidate.

New York Custom Receipts.

New York, Jan. 16.—The receipts from customs at the port of New York for the first twelve days of January, 1895, were $7,260,371.45, an average of $605,030.95 per diem.

FIGHTING FOR LIFE.

A Suffering Woman Testifies.

Mrs. Henrietta Burton, of Janvier, N. J., writes: For a long time I suffered from a disordered stomach. My appetite was gone and what little I ate distressed me terribly. My health failed rapidly. I became very weak and feared I should never be well. After reading your "Guide to Health," I was encouraged to try Munyon's Dyspepsia Cure. Its action was so prompt that I soon felt like a new woman, and am now completely cured."

MUNYON'S STOMACH AND DYSPEPSIA CURE cures all forms of indigestion and stomach troubles such as constipation, rising of food, distress after eating, bloating of the stomach, palpitation of the heart, shortness of breath, and all affections of the heart caused by indigestion. It soothes, heals and invigorates stomachs that have been weakened by over-eating, or where the lining of the stomach has been impaired by physic and injurious medicines. Price 25 cents.

Munyon's Homœopathic Home Remedy Company, of Philadelphia, put up specifics for nearly every disease, which are sold by all druggists, mostly for 25 cents a bottle.

GENERAL GRANT.

How Near His Personal Memoirs Came to be Lost.

A Valuable History Written by a Dying Man.—Proper Nourishment Enabled the Author to Live Until the Completion of His Book.

The fortitude shown by General Grant in writing the second volume of his personal memoirs while he was literally on his deathbed, excels even the remarkable courage exhibited by this famous soldier in his many achievements on the field of battle.

Col. Fred Grant, speaking of his father's last illness, says:—

"During the last four months of his sickness, the principal food of my father, Gen. Grant, was Bovinine and milk; and it was the use of this incomparable food alone that enabled him to finish the second volume of his personal memoirs."

Dr. T. H. Douglas, Gen. Grant's physician and friend, cordially indorsed the above statement.

What Bovinine did for Gen. Grant it has done, and is now doing, for thousands every day. It is the most wonderful concentration into a small bulk of all the life-giving, muscle, flesh, and blood-making elements of lean, raw meat ever produced.

It is in no way a medicine, simply a food invigorant, that by its strengthening qualities gives the worn-out or disordered vital centres of the body an impetus that again starts them performing their natural functions.

It is indorsed by eminent physicians everywhere, and blessed by thousands whose lives it has actually saved.

To neglect to use this wonderful food in all cases of debility, wasting diseases, overwork, stomach and nerve diseases, or for weak infants, chronic invalids, loss of vitality in old age, is to throw away one of the greatest chances of saving life.

PROF. RIBOTEAU.

"It is a quaint, deserted-looking place," the girl said meditatively, as she tapped her foot on the pavement, which was green with growing moss, and gazed up at the ancient stone college.

At a little distance from the side street in which she stood came the roar of Paris; serenely indifferent to its tumult rose the lichen-encrusted college walls, frowningly facing the world with a pathetic patience engendered by long neglect. They were grimly gray; the girl who stood looking up at the vast college was a dream in gray from head to foot. Her hat was gray; she wore gray gaiters over her boots, and the slight wrap she carried, her gloves, dress, everything appeared to be of the same pearly hue. But she was young, fresh and fair, the grim gray college wan and old and desolate. In the girl's sunny eyes could be seen the sweetness of a young soul on the threshold of life; the walls of the college drooped with the burden of a message to which no one could listen.

The girl again gazed at the college as if she would like to enter its inhospitable, uncomfortable looking halls, but she had no pretext for doing so. While she hesitated, the Fates, which shape our lives, took the matter in hand and decreed she should cross its threshold, for a gloomier shadow fell across the bulging walls, the sun disappeared behind a cloud, a few raindrops splashed upon the uneven stones.

The girl looked at her dainty costume and sighed. "That is what comes of putting on one's prettiest frock," she said. "Miss McGruder was quite right. She declared when we came to Paris that we must wear all our old clothes, if we did not wish to be taken for Parisiennes. I cannot, somehow, bring myself to believe that Miss McGruder could ever be taken for a Parisienne, unless—unless by an American."

The rain plashed down in warmer, larger, thicker drops, as the girl gathered up her skirts preparatory to seeking shelter. At that moment two fast-looking women hurriedly brushed by her into the old college.

"I think I had better go, too," the girl said resignedly. "The rain will be over soon. Then I can return to Miss McGruder and be scolded for wandering about alone. Sometimes, for a free born Canadienne, I think I submit a little too much to Miss McGruder's scoldings. One must have in Paris what Thackeray calls a 'lap dog,' just to snap at intruders. Charlie made me promise to be careful how I went about by myself when I was foolish enough to consent to marry him, and so I had to bring her with me, dear, sweet old thing. However, when we get back to Caledonia Springs there will be Charlie, and then Miss McGruder can return to the manse at Greenville. Poor Miss McGruder! What a pity her big heart hasn't some one to love!"

Calista Crane peeped into the empty lodge.

"I can't enter the lodge. Perhaps it would be better to look for one of the class rooms, and shelter there. Some one is sure to be lecturing, and I may pass for a student."

Calista sat down near the fireplace as a loud, clear voice from the rostrum announced the beginning of the lecture.

She leaned forward, her elbow resting on the back of the chair immediately in front of her, her cheek supported by a gray-gloved hand. To the middle aged Professor of Arabic she was an apparition from a world which had long ceased to be real. He did not know that Calista's air of rapt attention was merely an unconscious pose, and that her thoughts were far away from him and his lecture.

Gradually Calista remembered that she had been dreaming for three quarters of an hour. Miss McGruder would become uneasy, and yet she could not possibly depart before the conclusion of the lecture; it would be too indecent. So she stayed on, listening with grave earnestness, her large eyes dilating with eager interest as the professor made clear the stupendous greatness of his task. Even when he had concluded the lecture she was endeavoring to realize the gaps which her restive imagination refused to adequately fill up.

The professor's musical voice sounded at her elbow. He had thrown aside his gown, and was clad in somewhat rusty black.

"Mademoiselle will permit that I introduce myself," he said in English, "so that I may give her thanks for the great pleasure which I have experienced in her studious attention to the subject of my lecture. I am Professor Riboteau, and this is the College of the Rue Casquette."

Calista bowed.

"Do you lecture every day, monsieur?"

"Yes, mademoiselle, every day; and on Arabic."

"But I don't understand," the girl said, delicately. "Surely you have students?"

"No, mademoiselle; in the College of the Rue Casquette there are no students."

"No students!"

"None, mademoiselle; the late Mme. Biribeau endowed several professional chairs, and the college is always open to the public, as mademoiselle sees. Today the attendance has been exceptionally large. Usually there is—no one."

"Oh!" The girl gave a little gasp of sympathy, pity, incredulity. "And you lecture every day, monsieur? All the year round?"

"Every day, mademoiselle, all the year round, with the exception of fete days."

"How awful!" she said.

"Ah!" The professor's eyes gleamed. "Mademoiselle is an ardent student. Perhaps she will allow me the honor of directing her studies while she remains in Paris. It would be conferring on me a privilege inestimable, for the people of Paris are not interested in Arabic; they do not care to listen to me."

The professor said this as if it were the most commonplace thing in the world, and one which did not call for any special comment. Long years of neglect had made him callous. Beneath his indifferent manner, however, Calista fancied that she detected a keen gratitude to the one person whom the weary years had brought as an appreciative listener to his lecture.

She gathered from him that the other professors lectured in empty rooms for five minutes and then hurried away to more congenial occupations. But Professor Riboteau had lectured three quarters of an hour every day for five years, with the exception of Sundays and fete days.

When the Professor repeated his proposal, Calista hesitated. Her sudden enthusiasm for Arabic evaporated as quickly as it had arisen. Then the Professor's luminous eyes shone into hers with such appealing earnestness that the half-uttered refusal died away upon her lips. She gave him her address and said that Miss McGruder would be very happy to see him.

II.

The next day Prof. Riboteau called on Calista and Miss McGruder. The latter had conceived an exaggerated respect for Prof. Riboteau, based upon the report of his learning which had been given to her by Calista. But Miss McGruder, though well stricken in years (she was 45 if a day), soon felt a romantic admiration for the Professor, which was altogether lost on him. He brought Calista books, pencil-marked all over the yellow margins with different readings. Such was the man's enthusiasm for his calling that Calista stayed on a week longer than she had intended—another week—yet another week. The mornings were occupied in selecting her trousseau, her afternoons in learning Arabic.

And so, though her trousseau, the main object of the visit to Paris, was complete Calista lingered on. But there came a day when peremptory missives from Canada recalled her with urgent insistence to the land of the maple and the beaver.

In the delightful excitement of perpetual purchasing, Calista had almost forgotten the final end and aim of all this speeding from shop to shop, from milliner to milliner. But now a feverish expectancy took possession of the girl. She accelerated her preparations for departure and broke the news to Miss McGruder, who stared at her in astonishment.

"I thought you'd forgotten all about it," said that lady.

"No," said Calista, "I haven't forgotten, Auntie, but I seem to have been in a dream lately, and all I can see is Charlie standing on the Montreal wharf as the vessel slews into her moorings, imploring me to fly down to him. Let us go to-morrow."

"And the Professor?" asked Miss McGruder with much meaning. "The Professor? What is to become of him?"

A sudden pang of pain shot through the girl's heart. "Oh, Auntie, I never thought, I—I don't know."

She covered her face with her hands. Miss McGruder was not aware that every other morning Calista had attended Prof. Riboteau's lectures. She liked to sit in that almost cloistral darkness and listen to the Professor's voice. Somehow it had the power of soothing and taking her out of every day petty cares. There was a largeness about this man, as he went on spinning his ropes of sand, which attracted the girl very strongly. Little by little he had told her the story of his life. As she sat there day after day (Calista was generally the sole listener) in her favorite attitude, his voice began to tell her a great deal more than the Professor himself knew. Sitting in the old college room for the last time, Calista felt as if she had stepped in to consummate the final tragedy of this man's life. There were tears in her eyes as she rose to greet him after the conclusion of the lecture. "It is for the last time," she said almost carelessly. "I leave to-morrow."

The Professor bowed in silence, as if waiting for her to explain.

"I am going to be married soon," said Calista, listening to the sound of her own voice as if it proceeded from some one else. "I am going to be married soon. That to——"

She stopped. The look in the Professor's face frightened her. Suddenly it passed, as if a blind had been drawn over the windows of his soul.

"I congratulate mademoiselle," he said, simply. "And Miss McGruder? Is it that she is to be married also?"

"No," said Calista, feeling as if she had slain something, and marvelling at the Professor's self-control. "No; Miss McGruder has decided never to marry."

"I cannot thank you; oh, no, I cannot thank you. I am not of the world—a dreamer of dreams—a shadow—a shadow of the past. And you came to deliver me from bondage—you awoke my soul—you taught me to see the sun—you have given me life—life—life; and yet, Mademoiselle, you have taken more than you gave. Henceforth life will be a haunting sorrow; this room peopled with ghosts and I a ghost of ghosts. When you go phantoms will hem me in and bar me from the living world, for I shall never learn to mingle with my fellows. It is all over. All over! I go back to—my tomb!"

He took Calista's hand, pressed it softly to his lips for the first and last time and mounted his rostrum. As Calista slowly went away through the little door the Professor's voice rang solemnly out from the gloom reciting the prayers of the Catholic Church for the dead. She understood him to mean that he no longer lived.

The next morning, after Calista had gone away, the Professor once more mounted his rostrum and looked forth into the gloomy room at Calista's vacant place. He seemed to see her gray eyes gazing up into his, her soft cheek resting upon her gloved hand. If she had gone away, how came she there? But, as he gazed, her face changed to Miss McGruder's Madonna-like lineaments, and he saw that she was quietly knitting in in Calista's place.

The Professor's lips refused their wonted task; he assayed to commence his invariable formal opening sentence, but, listening to his own voice, as in a dream, he heard it once more repeat the solemn prayers of the Catholic church for those who are passing away, and knew, yet did not realize, that years of solitude and neglect had done their work; that Prof. Riboteau, the profound Arabic scholiast, had ceased to exist; that in his stead remained a sorrow stricken shade, afraid of its own voice, in that room filled with spectres of bitter years, hopes unrealized day dreams dreamt for the last time.

Love had come to this poor enthusiast, as it comes to all men, and coming, placed a crown of supreme sorrow upon his brow, until he wandered like a little affrighted child.

Half willing, have reluctant to be led, into the kingdom and dreams and shadows, where even love is cold and wan and gray, and death the lord of all.

But when the offices for the dead were over, the shape that sat within Calista's chair came and led the Professor away. A black veil hid its face, its trembling hand was thin and cold.

And then—a blank!

Years after, as the dim dawn broke, and all the world became aglow with the light of the sun, Prof. Riboteau awoke from troubled dreams to look around his room. A tall, thin woman sat beside the bed, a half-knitted stocking in her hand.

The Professor gazed at her a moment as the mists of the years rolled back. "Is it long ago?" he asked trying to touch Miss McGruder's hand with his long, bony fingers.

"Ten years," she answered softly, gazing down upon him.

"The dawn has come at last?"

"The dawn has come at last."

"You are a good woman," he said faintly—and died.

That afternoon as Miss McGruder sat beside her dead, there was a hurried step upon the stair, and a hurried knock at the door.

"Open, Auntie, let me in," cried Calista's voice, but worn and thin, and lacking the rich fulness of youth.

Miss McGruder went to the door and opened it to the tall, sallow woman in black, who stood upon the threshold.

"You are too late," she said to Calista. "Too late!"

Calista moved toward the bed, but Miss McGruder stood between it and her friend. "No," she said, and pointed toward the door. "I have been with him all these years. You would disturb him now. Go! I will come to you after ——"

And when she was once more left alone with her dead, she drew a fine linen cloth over its face, and sat there the appointed hours until the Angel of the Lord should require at her hands the soul which had been committee unto her for a charge to keep in the days of its affliction. And the woman, watching there, knew that she had fulfilled the burden laid upon her unto the end, and ceased to weep, for the days of the dead man's sorrow were past and the light had come.—The Queen.

TAKING A NEW START IN LIFE.

Sufferers from Stagnation Advised to Try Parting Their Hair in the Middle.

"I have taken a new start in life," says Mr. Gratebar, "and I have found it much easier than might have been imagined. My oldest daughter, who is a very bright, a very sprightly, and I might add a very attractive young woman, had for a long time told me that I was old-fashioned and slow. She said that if I would wear pointed shoes and high collars and fashionable ties and part my hair in the middle I wouldn't be a bad-looking man.

"How I looked as a result of these changes it might not be modest for me to say; but as to another and very remarkable effect proceeding from them I may testify.

"With the old blunt shoes and comfortable low collars and string neckties, and with the old way of parting the hair, low down on one side, I seemed to put off an incrustation of old habits, and to step up out of a deep rut, up to a level where men were hustling about in great shape; and with my pointed shoes and high collars and hair parted in the middle I was one of them, once more infused with the idea of keeping up with the procession; of keeping step to the music of active life.

"And I don't hesitate to say that it was parting the hair in the middle that did it. I could have worn unmoved the pointed toes, the high collars, and the new fashioned ties; but not so the hair parted in the middle; that I felt I must live up to; it would never do for me to part my hair in the middle and then not make good my right to wear it so.

"To all middle aged sufferers from stagnation I would say: Try parting your hair in the middle."

A Young Man's Nice Tact.

Among the passengers on Lancaster avenue car No. 1,368 last evening, as it proceeded west from Thirty-second and Market streets, was a well dressed young man, who sat in the corner with his coat collar turned up, indulging in a half doze. A bag lay at his feet, indicating that he was returning from a journey. When the car reached the transfer station five young girls entered the car, accompanied by two young men.

They had scarcely been seated when one of the girls suddenly left her seat, threw herself alongside of the young man in the corner, and, placing one arm partly around his neck, exclaimed: "Why, Cousin Emerson, you've come at last. What a fibber you are. We looked——" She stopped, looked confused, then with a little shriek hurriedly rejoined her companions, and buried her crimson face in her handkerchief. She had made a mistake.

The young man after recovering from his astonishment, arose from his seat, bowed respectfully to the girls' escorts, tipped his hat politely to the ladies, and got off. As the car passed on he could be seen standing in the street awaiting the next car. He had alighted to relieve the young lady of her embarrassment.—Philadelphia Record.

Omaha's Educational System.

The religious world does not monopolize every rampatt inconsistency. Politics and affairs contain quite as many and possibly more. Here is one which comes on the wings of the mail from Omaha. According to the daily press, the city of Omaha has not enough money to run its schools, and the reason it is in this predicament is chiefly and directly because the Omaha saloons are not sufficiently patronized. The curious circumstances by which the school and the groggery are thus linked together in disaster is due to a law passed some time ago by the Nebraska legislature providing that the revenue for maintaining public schools shall come directly from the saloon licenses and from the fines imposed on various dives and low resorts. For a time the Omaha saloon keepers did a good business, and so her public schools had money to provide for their operation on the highest plane. Then the saloon business fell off and the number of saloons decreased. It is as a result of this failure in the market for beer and whiskey that the Omaha school board confronts a deficit and is unable to see a way out of it.

Death of Sir John Moore at Corunna.

On the 16th of January, 1809, Sir John Moore, commander of the British army in the peninsular war, was struck down by a cannon ball while inspiring his soldiers in a forlorn defense of the gates of Corunna, Spain, against the French armies under Soult.

Not a drum was heard, not a funeral note,
As his corse to the ramparts we hurried:
Not a soldier discharged his farewell shot
O'er the grave where our hero was buried.

No useless coffin inclosed his breast,
Not in sheet nor in shroud we wound him.
But he lay like a warrior taking his rest,
With his martial cloak around him.

Slowly and sadly we laid him down,
From the field of his fame fresh and gory.
We carved not a line, we raised not a stone,
But we left him alone with his glory.

Moore's purpose in defending Corunna was to cover the embarkation of his troops in vessels which arrived after the French had surrounded the place with vastly superior numbers. The combat in which he lost his life ended in the repulse of the French and the successful though hasty withdrawal of the British army. GEORGE L. KILMER.

Colonel Charles K. Moore was selected from all the experienced men who applied to Street Cleaning Commissioner Waring of New York to be Deputy Commissioner, and has entered on his duties. Col. Moore's success will be received with genuine pleasure by his host of Plainfield friends, and in his office he will have opportunity to do the splendid work of which he is capable. He is an engineer of limitless ability, and as a contractor has been accustomed to handle large bodies of men. He has just the head for managing street cleaning gangs, where quick and sure judgment and large executive ability are demanded. The appointment is a good one, and Col. Moore will earn his $4,000 a year.

New Brunswickers Surprised Her.

A load of Miss Try Mattox's friends came over from New Brunswick last evening in McDede's 'bus, called Miss Mattox from the meeting of Howell Division, S. of T., and, taking their prisoner to her home, made merry with songs, dancing, games and recitations until a late hour. It was a complete surprise, not only to Miss Mattox, but also to the genial Bob and his wife. The party was made up as follows: Mrs May Hardy, the Misses Mary Kundsen, Kate Burke, Dena Bitzen, Jennie Danbury, Lizzie and Jennie Grey, Nellie Stillwell, and Mary Applegate, the Messrs William George and Frank Danbury, Oscar Hurley, John Newton, William and Charles Schenck, John Burke, Robert Britton, and Andrew Crossley.

HIGH SCHOOL NOTEBOOK.

The regular declamations in Assembly Hall were continued yesterday by Wilbur F. Cornwell.

The old custom of military formation for coming in at recess has, since the arrival of the snow, been given up, but yesterday it was revived and will be continued the rest of the Winter, the boys forming in a single line on the sidewalks instead of in the centre of the yard.

A record is now being taken of all the studies which each pupil has taken while in the High School, and the text-book used.

The Senior class held a class meeting at the close of school yesterday and acted on a number of designs for a class pin that were suggested. Edgar I. Serrell was appointed a committee to have certain changes made in one of the designs, and then submit it to the approval of the class.

The regular weekly singing lesson under Mr. Travell took place as usual this morning. At the close of the lesson, the final vote on school colors was held. The sentiment of the school has greatly changed since the last vote and red and dark blue was chosen by an overwhelming majority. The vote was as follows: Red and dark blue 78, purple and white 23, black and light blue 21.

A school pin will soon be decided on, a small flag of red and dark blue wth P. H. S. engraved upon it, seems the most popular.

The Fourth Classes has begun the study of Thoreau.

The programme for Friday's meeting of the Kappa Delta Phi is a debate on the subject, "In general, are monopolies beneficial?" J. H. Craig '96 and A. B. Crane '97 will speak for the affirmative, and F. W. Cornwell '96 and Ernest Rapalye '97 for the negative.

Those who were privileged to listen to the lecture on Charles Dickens, by Leon H. Vincent in the High School building last evening, enjoyed a rare treat. Of the prominent American lecturers, Mr. Vincent is one of the most entertaintng. Speaking without notes, he holds the attention of his hearers throughout the lecture. He traced the life of Dickens through its various phases, but dwelt mostly on his great character descriptions. He spoke of the two sides to his writing, the humorous and the pathetic, and gave a brief description of some of them. Throughout his discourse he kept a vein of humor which often brought a smile to the faces of his hearers and added greatly to the enjoyment of the lecture itself. Mr. Vincent will deliver the next lecture of the course on Thomas Carlyle, next Tuesday evening, in the same place. The Kappa Delta Phi had charge of the ushering and the tickets. The main body of Assembly Hall was well filled with an appreciative audience, but it is hoped that the number will be greatly increased at the next lecture as such a noted speaker deserves a crowded house.

His Sixth.

The young people of East Sixth street enjoyed yesterday afternoon happily at a party given to George Rittenhouse, Jr., by his mother Mrs. G. M. Rittenhouse, in honor of his sixth birthday anniversary. The young people spent the afternoon in playing games, and at 5 refreshments were served. Those present were Mrs. J. B. Mills and children, Harold and Herman, Mrs. T. R. VanZandt and daughter, Ethel, Miss Emma Garretson, Mrs. John Dalziel and grandson, Lawrence Brownfield and Miss Florence Smalley.

Dr. Lighthill refers with pardonable pride to the success of his practice in Plainfield and submits below a few of the many testimonials which he has received from grateful patients. A mass of similar ones can be seen at his office.

AN ALMOST MIRACULOUS CURE.

The Statement of Mr. Edward Teel, Jr., of Dunellen, N. J.

TO THE PUBLIC:

From a sense of duty I desire to call public attention to the almost miraculous cure which Dr. Lighthill effected in the case of my wife. For eleven years she had been afflicted with piles of an unusual severe and distressing character. She suffered every day of her life the most intense pain, attended with frequent and profuse hemorrhage. This state of things debilitated her entire system until she became a perfect wreck of her former self.

We made every effort to obtain a cure but they all resulted in bitter disappointment, although a number of physicians of excellent reputations for skill in that direction had treated her case. She grew worse and worse all the time, the pain became perfectly unbearable and I felt she could not bear the strain of her condition much longer. In this extremity, a friend of mine, Mr. W. E. Dilts, a resident of Roselle, N. J., a passenger conductor on the New Jersey Central told me that he had been similarly affected, and had been permanently cured by Dr. Lighthill, after other medical skill had failed. He assured me that the doctor would cure my wife, no matter how severe her case may be, and his prediction proved perfectly correct. In spite of her desperate condition, Dr. Lighthill, I am glad to say, has effected a complete and perfect cure in her case, and has given her new life.

Since the cure has been effected she has gained in health and strength and is so improved in appearance that her friends scarcely recognise her. They all consider her cure as almost miraculous, and Dr. Lighthill's praise is heard on every side. Our gratitude to Dr. Lighthill is unbounded and we only hope that other sufferers may be benefited by this publication.

A Flattering Testimonial from Colonel John Dietrich, One of Plainfield's Oldest and Best Known Residents.

16 ARLINGTON PLACE,
Plainfield, N. J., July 17, 1894.

I am profoundly grateful to Dr. Lighthill for his speedy and radical cure of a most painful malady of over ten years standing with which I was afflicted.

I deem it proper to say to all afflicted to place themselves under the care of this skilful physician and be permanently cured.

I will cheerfully impart any information I possess when called upon.

JOHN DIETRICH.

Mr. Thomas Callahan of No. 214 Richmond street Cured of a Very Distressing Trouble by Dr. Lighthill.

PLAINFIELD, N. J., June 1, 1894.

TO THE PUBLIC:

For some time past I have been greatly distressed with noises in the head. They were all over my head and troubled me constantly: they were loudest at night when everything was quiet and at such times would often keep me from sleep and disturb my rest. In fact they got to be so bad and distressing that they affected my whole nervous system as well as my health. I did not obtain the least relief until I placed myself under the care of Dr. Lighthill, of No. 132 Crescent avenue, who effected a complete cure in my case in a short time and made me a very happy man.

THOMAS CALLAHAN,
214 Richmond street.

A Card From Mr. T. R. VanZandt, of Nos. 304 and 306 Park ave., Plainfield, N. J.

I certify with pleasure that Dr. Lighthill has effectually cured me of a most painful case of piles. For some time past I had been subject to its attacks, but the last attack was so exceedingly painful that it completely upset my whole system. The pain extended to my legs and in many other directions, and made me so nervous that I could neither sleep, sit down, lie down or move about without serious discomfort and distress. Such was my condition when I applied to Dr. Lighthill for relief, and I am glad to say that as soon as he took hold of my case, I began to improve, and in a short time found myself completely cured. Dr. Lighthill has also effected a radical and permanent cure in a most terrible case of piles on my cousin, Mr. J. V. Z. Griggs, of Rocky Hill, N. J., whose flattering testimonial is in Dr. Lighthill's possession.

METROPOLITAN NOTES.

Interesting Facts and Opinions Chronicled by the Daily Press of New York.

One meets Dr. Edward McGlynn now and then about New York, and if he has known the famous priest for years he will be agreeably surprised. It may be that he has mellowed with the passing of the years, for Dr. McGlynn is old enough to have been a chaplain in the Union Army in the Civil War—or it may be that he is reconciled to his former ecclesiastical enemies. Be this as it may, Dr. McGlynn is not the military figure that he was. For years he fought his superiors as no priest in the country ever did. He fought them here before every council, from the highest to the lowest, and then he fought them at Rome. Then he fought Rome and the Pope and defied them. He fought his enemies openly from the platform, through the press and even from the pulpit of Protestant churches. But his life was pure, and he constantly declared that his quarrel was not with the Roman Catholic faith, but with men who sought to pervert it. It is not likely that Dr. McGlynn has given up fighting without a reason satisfactory to himself. He is not that sort of a man. Dr. McGlynn is even a more striking looking man than he was ten years ago. His tall, broad form is as straight as ever, but the little hair he has has grown gray. His features have lost that aggressive cast they formerly wore, and he looks at peace with himself, and what is almost as important, with everyone else.

What must have struck John Burns when he came first to New York was the paucity of real labor leaders in New York, and for that matter in the country. In New York, with its hundreds of thousands of wage workers, there is not a single labor leader who holds the public confidence. Not one. When Powderly was at the head of the Knights of Labor he used, in past years, to visit New York for the purpose of settling labor troubles, and was treated with respect by employers. Powderly was overthrown by lesser men, and has dropped out of sight. What was true of Powderly has been true of Samuel Gompers, the president of the American Federation of Labor. For years he has been one of the most important men in New York. He stood straight against the Socialists and Anarchists, and he had the respect of the community. But the time came when he temporized. And that was a fatal mistake. The Socialistic element took this as a sign of surrender, and pushed harder. The conservative element looked on it as a sign of weakness, and would have no more of Gompers. And that is his position. He may retain a commanding position in the American Federation of Labor, but the general public confidence he has not, nor has any other labor leader about New York.—N. Y. Advertiser.

It is sometimes a good thing to be defeated for District Attorney. William C. Whitney was defeated for that office in 1872 and became soon afterward Corporation Counsel, the starting point of his splendidly successful career. Charles Donohue was defeated for the same office at the same time, and became, a year later, Judge of the Supreme Court, a post which he held until January 1, 1888. Frederick Smyth was defeated for District Attorney, in 1878, and one year later became Recorder of New York, a post held by him for fifteen years. De Lancey Nicoll was defeated for District Attorney in 1887, and three years later became District Attorney, relinquishing the office in the expectation of a nomination for judicial office. John W. Goff was defeated for District Artorney in 1890, and this year becomes Recorder for a term which will not close until 1900. Grover Cleveland, President of the United States, began his political career by being defeated for District Attorney in Erie County by Lyman K. Bass. —New York Sun.

Not long since an anniversary of great interest to Methodists all over the continents of North and South America was celebrated in New York. It was the one hundred and twenty-first anniversary of the founding of the first Methodist church in America—the old John Street Church. To a lover of history there is much about this old church which makes it interesting, but to Christians it represents a temple not made with hands, but eternal and everlasting as the skies. For one hundred and twenty-eight years the Gospel has been preached on this spot, and for many years the word of God has been preached daily at noon to business men, who crowded into the famous noonday prayer meeting held in the basement of the church. Standing as it does in the very heart of one of the busiest districts of New York, that of the wholesale jewelry and diamond trade, one could hardly think a corporal's guard would be got to attend the noonday meeting, so mad is the surge for dollars round about, yet every week day at noon sees the large basement of the church filled with a warm hearted crowd of worshippers who come to the daily love feasts.

HISTORY OF ALMANACS.

They Had Their Origin Before the Coming of Christ.

The history of written almanacs dates back to the second century of the Christian era. The Alexandrian Greeks in the time of Ptolemy, A. D. 100-160, used almanacs. Prior to the written almanacs of the Greeks there were calendars, or primitive almanacs. The Roman fasti sacri were similar to modern almanacs. Knowledge of the calendar was at first confined to the priests, whom the people had to consult, not only about the dates of the festivals, but also concerning the proper times for instituting various legal proceedings.

About 300 B. C. one Cneius Flavius, the secretary of Appius Claudius, learned the secret, either by the stealthy use of the documents in his master's possession, or, according to Pliny, by repeatedly consulting the authorities and by collating the information he obtained. It was really publishing an almanac when, as Livy relates, he exhibited the fasti on white tablets round the Forum. From this time the tablets containing the calendar, the festivals, astronomical phenomena, and sometimes historical notices seems to have been common. Research has brought to light numerous calendars cut on stone. One was found at Pompeii, cut upon a square block of marble, upon each side of which three months were registered in perpendicular columns, each headed by the proper sign of the zodiac.

None are so fond of secrets as those who do not mean to keep them. Such persons covet secrets as spendthrifts do money, for the purpose of circulation.—Colton.

DRAMA AND OPERA.

SEVEN DOLLAR SEATS AT GRAND OPERA NOT POPULAR.

The Fabulous Sums Drawn by the Singers. Melba Yearns For Society. Paderewski's Opera Probable for Next Season. Other Plays.

Melba, the greatest operatic singer of the day, is not unlike other mortals when she is off the operatic stage. When she is before the footlights singing in her incomparable way, her audience is in rapture. Her income is very large, for she is paid, I am told, $1,000 for each performance. In Europe she is regarded as the first singer, and this opinion is now shared by Americans who have heard her, although, in the beginning of her career here there were many critics who did not class her very highly. Nevertheless, she is now able to fill the Metropolitan Opera House, and her matchless voice is commented upon favorably by everybody. On the stage she wears superb gowns. Melba is very much in evidence in New York when she is not singing in opera. You may find her on Broadway, in the shops, at concerts, at first night performances, and generally she seems to be having a good time. She is in the prime of life; has splendid physique and apparent good health, and not one of our foreign visitors takes life more easily. She should, indeed, be content, but she is not. Like many other women in the artistic and operatic profession, she has longed for a glimpse into the charmed circle of New York's society, so called. Emma Eames has been welcomed by the society dames, but Melba, well—she is not yet on many visiting lists of our best people, as they like to call themselves.

Opera tickets at seven dollars a piece are not in universal demand even in New York. This is the price charged at Thursday evening performances of "Les Huguenots" when all the stars of the opera season appear, but the public do not respond, and very many vacant seats are the result. The cast for these special evenings is as follows: Valentine, Mme. Nordica; Malgherita, Mme. Melba; Raoul M. Jean de Reszke; Marcello, M. Edouard de Reszke; San Bris, M. Planbon; Conte di Nevers, M. Maurel; Urbano, Mme. Scalcoi; Dama d'Onore, Mlle. Bauermeister. These at least were the efficient artists who took the principal roles, six of them possessing the highest degree of talent, combined with its absolute perfection of cultivation. The five minor parts were done inefficiently enough to heighten by contrast the magnificent work of the bright particular stars.

The cost of these star performances to the management may be noted when one considers the salaries of some of the individual artists in the cast. Jean de Reszke, has no written contract with the management, but receives in addition to a fixed sum, a percentage of the receipts, which frequently makes his salary much more than $1,000 per night, and with his brother has received as high as $2,500 for one performance. Mme. Melba gets $1,000 and the management values Mlle. Nordica's services at $700 a performance, and Maurel gets about the same amount. The small attendance at the extra performances meant less loss to the direction than might be supposed, as the singers who appeared in them were generally engaged by the month and are liable to be called upon at any time. So the real expense of these performances comes only from the one or two principal singers in the cast.

That M. Paderewski has for some time past been engaged upon a Polish opera, is well known. Abbey & Grau will probably have the first rights for the United States. The opera is in four acts, and the story is modern, the scene being laid in the Cyrpathians, on the Hungarian frontier. The music in piano score has been finished for some time, and M. Paderewski is now occuping his leisure on the orchestration, which he expects to complete early in the spring.

Now and then one meets Frederick Gebhard in his old haunts in New York, with other men about town, but not often. He is not at all the Freddie Gebhard whose name was so much associated with that of Mrs. Langtry some years ago. Mr. Gebhard has married and settled down, and, moreover, he seems a model husband. He was always a man of athletic figure. Latterly he has grown stout, and appears more a prosperous man of business than a man about town. And such indeed he is, a man of business. He lives in good style, and he is to be seen at the theatre or opera with his wife. But no more is he to be seen turning night into day with boon companions. Indeed, he can bid his old companions, as King Henry bade Falstaff, to "think not of him as he was."

The emergence of Aubrey Tanqueray's second wife at Abbey's Theatre last week served to demonstrate the vitality of the play in which she is the central figure. The piece, after a year, which is generally long enough to exhaust the current pieces, is as interesting as it was at first. It will not grow stale, it seems, as long as it stands preeminent among the plays about it. Until others as good are given, there will remain abundant life in "The Second Mrs. Tranqueray." The interpretation of the leading role will be a popular task with other actresses than Mrs. Kendal when the play may pass out of her control, and there are many who could make the heroine a more sympathetic person, and thus add strength to the play.

Souvenir nights are advertised for "Bob Roy" at the Herald Square, "The Brownies" at the 14th Street and for "A Milk White Flag" at Hoyt's.

LINWARD.

Lincoln's Joke on Seward.

On the 9th the First Corps, commanded by Gen. Reynolds, was reviewed by the President on a beautiful plain at the north of Potomac creek, about eight miles from Hooker's headquarters. We rode thither in an ambulance over a rough corduroy road, and, as we passed over some of the more difficult portions of the jolting way, the ambulance driver, who sat well in front, occasionally let fly a volley of suppressed oaths at his wild team of six mules. Finally Mr. Lincoln, leaning forward, touched the man on the shoulder and said:

"Excuse me, my friend, are you an Episcopalian?"

The man, greatly startled, looked around and replied.

"No, Mr. President, I am a Methodist."

"Well," said Lincoln, "I thought you must be an Episcopalian, because you swear just like Gov. Seward, who is a churchwarden."—Century.

EIGHTY PERSONS KILLED.

Appalling Effects of Powder Explosions at a Fire.

Butte, Mont., Jan. 16—A fire occurred last night in the Butte Hardware Company's warehouse, in which giant powder was stored. While the firemen were at work about the building an explosion took place, killing a number of persons. This caused a number of people to gather about, and while the firemen and police were engaged in the place removing the dead and wounded another explosion occurred, killing or wounding nearly every man connected with the Butte fire department and many of the people in the street.

The latest reports of the number of lives lost indicate that it may exceed 80. The hospitals are filled with the wounded, who number altogether more than 150, many of whom will die. Buildings near the scene of the explosions were wrecked and plate-glass windows all over the city were broked. The damage to property is estimated at many thousand dollars.

Struck by a Train.

Thomas Meaney of Elm street, telegraph operator at the Westfield station of the Jersey Central, was struck this morning by the Philadelphia train which leaves here at 10:45, He received a scalp wound, and several fingers were broken.

His brothers brought him to this city on the 2:08 train this afternoon, and took him to his home, when a physician was called.

MOTHERS OF GIRLS.

Too Rapid Growth or Too Absorbing Study.

Causes That Waxy, Bloodless Look of Failing Health.

Try Paine's Celery Compound for a Few Weeks.

The Daughter's Health Will Soon Return.

Languor Will Disappear and Nervousness Go.

Mothers with daughters that are yet young often ask themselves:

"How can my girls be saved from nervousness and lifelong weakness?"

It falls to the mother with her clear, thoughtful eyes, to see that the health and future happiness of her daughters is not sacrificed to excessive study, or to any unreasonable excitement. The signs of failing health and weakness—pale cheeks, languid behavior, colorless lips, growing thinness, irritability—all these ring alarm in her mind, for they point, each with its separate finger, to but one cause—thin, watery blood, and an already impaired nervous system.

Parents should begin at the first system of such tendency to change this unfortunate habit of the body. The real nerve food, Paine's celery compound, if used with the attention to regularity that any able physician's prescription requires—this remarkably effective blood maker and nerve food is the formula of no less eminent a scientist than Prof. Edward E. Phelps, M. D., LL. D., of the Dartmouth Medical School, if taken as Professor Phelps urgently advises, is sure to cause forthwith a clearly observed change in the tired, badly nourished body.

A single week will show that the "run-down" system is appropriating more of the food that is taken into the body, and rapidly building up the weakened parts. Languor will disappear; the spirits will be raised; the nervous affections; dyspepsia, neuralgia and oepression that went with the former exhausted condition, will no longer afflict the nerves.

For overwrought, worried parents, for thin, pale children, for the aged, who are most apt to be afflicted with rheumatism and sleeplessness, and for any who lack strength there is nothing that progressive physicians rely on so invariably as Paines celery compound. It makes new blood. It stores the nervous tissues all over the body with fresh material. It builds up the brain. It cleanses every bit of harmful humor from the blood and sends it briskly through the arteries laden with food for the deepest, most vital tissues.

There's returning health and an active, full fed state of the body in Paine's celery compound.

NEWS FROM THE ORIENT

Wei-Hai-Wei Likely To Be Invaded.

Artist Villiers Denounces the Butchery at Port Arthur—The Japs Will Not Attempt to Reach Pekin This Winter—Have Not Lost a Ship Since the War Began.

Vancouver, B. C., Jan. 16.—The steamer Empress, of Japan, arrived last evening from the Orient. Mr. Frederic Villiers is among the passengers. When interviewed by a representative of the United Press, Mr. Villiers said in his opinion there would not be much more serious fighting this winter; possibly Wei-Hai-Wei would be invaded and likely captured. He said the Japanese would not attempt to reach Pekin during the winter, which has been very severe, especially on the Liau Tung peninsula. Between Tallian Wan and Chin Chow sixteen Coolies and a number of Japanese soldiers were frozen to death only shortly before he left Japan. Mr. Villiers is very emphatic in his denunciation of the Japanese atrocities at Port Arthur, and it is his purpose to go on a lecture tour and illustrate the scenes of butchery witnessed by him, a record of which his snap-shot kodak has preserved. He is also very severe on a brother correspondent, recently returned to New York, and whose conduct he says, came near costing him his life. Mr. Villiers will remain in Vancouver for a few days before proceeding to New York.

Since the 6th of July, 1894, Japan has had constantly at sea a navy of twenty-nine ships of war and twenty torpedo boats. Moreover, a flotilla of steam transports flying her flag have navigated difficult water all the while carrying troops, provisions, and war material. Yet during the whole period her only casualty has been the burning of one small transport, due to the overthrow of a lamp as the steamer lay at anchor in Talien bay. Not a ship has been lost; not a ship seriously disabled. It is a remarkably creditable record.

The headquarters of the first Japanese army in Antung have now been brought into telegraphic communication with the headquarters of the second army in Chin Chow. The distance is 180 miles. The line has been laid along the coastwise road, on the north of the Yellow sea. Some obstructions were encountered at the outset, but the first message was transmitted successfully on the afternoon of the 30th of December. There is little doubt that the division of troops now awaiting embarkation at Hiroshima will be carried to the province of Shan Tung for the purpose of attacking Wei-Hai-Wei. The division consists of men hitherto stationed at Sendai, that it to say, in the north of Japan. They are consequently inured to the severest form of winter. With them will be associated a division of the second army now in Liau Tung peninsula. That is why the second army has remained comparatively inactive since the taking of Port Arthur. The public expected that Marshal Omaya's forces would move northward to capture Fuchow and Kaiping, and ultimately work in co-operation with the left wing of the first army under General Katsura. But of the division and the brigade constituting the second army the brigade remains in garrison at Port Arthur, and the division is massed at Chin Chow, ready to embark from Talien and join the Sendai division's expedition to Shan Tung. If the loss of Wei-Hai-Wei finds China still insensible the Japanese will be prepared to deliver a crushing blow when the ice breaks up in March.

VIOLATING THE POSTAL LAW.

Express Companies To Be Warned Against Carrying Lottery Matter.

Washington, Jan. 16.—The postoffice department will, in a short time, issue a circular to express companies warning them against carrying matter in envelopes without a stamp as it is first-class matter, and according to the law, should not be transported unless enclosed in a stamped envelope.

This action will be taken to prevent express companies from carrying lottery advertisements. Quite a number of lottery circulars and other matter sent through express companies have been sent to the department by receivers of such matter. The lottery companies, since they have been prohibited the use of the mails, pay twenty-five cents to express companies to send letters that, if transported by mail would cost only two cents in postage. Where the lottery people send them in stamped envelopes by express the department has no redress. Frequently the express companies carry this matter to certain points on their lines and then mail it to destination. The attention of the department has been called to such cases.

Insurance Swindlers Fined.

Parkersburg, W. Va., Jan. 16.—Ten of the officers of the Fraternity Financial company, operating the short term insurance swindle, whose operations extended throughout New Englanw, Ohio, Virginia and West Virginia, and who secured over $1,000,000 were sentenced by Judge Jackson, of the United States court to pay $1,000 fine and costs for using the mails for fraudulent purposes.

No Lives Were Lost.

Pittsburg, Jan. 16.—The most sensational feature connected with the reported accident to the tow of the towboat Boaz, is denied at the office of Thomas Fawcett & Sons, owners of the boat. Any loss of life or injury to any of the crew is denied in telegrams from Captain Souser.

Nine Persons Drowned.

City of Mexico, Jan. 16.—The dredge-boat Mount Waldo, belonging to the Central railway, bound from Tampico to Velasco, has been wrecked near Point Lobas Island. Captain Brook, his wife and two children, and five other persons were drowned.

Dublin, Jan. 16.—The Most Rev. Lawrence Gillooly, Catholic bishop of Elphin, died in Sligo last evening.

BROOKLYN'S TROLLEY STRIKE

Cars and Policemen Attacked with Stones by the Strikers.

Brooklyn, N. Y., Jan. 16.—Three thousand persons attacked another car on Prospect Park Plaza yesterday afternoon. The police again came to the rescue. A guard of policemen under Inspector MacKellar who were trying to get cars out of the barn at President street and Flatbush avenue clashed with a crowd. The men had massed on the reservoir bluff at that point and were armed with stones. Two cars came along, one going up and the other down town.

The men pelted them with stones. Some persons ran down from the bluff and hurled their rocks at close range. The motormen and conductors, who had taken the place of the strikers, first took refuge inside the cars. When they saw the assailants closing in on them, fearing their lives were in danger, they fled, leaving the cars unprotected.

The police saw the affray at a distance and ran toward the cars. When they arrived the the crowd retreated again up the hill. Inspector MacKellar ordered the police to charge them. The assailants at this time numbered about 200. They fired a parting volley of stones at the advancing policemen and retreated to the rear of the bluff.

The policemen then returned to guard the cars. The crowds rapidly grew larger. Inspector MacKellar telegraphed for help. While they were waiting nine of the strikers came around the bluff. The inspector succeeded in heading them off with a posse of his men before they could get back, then surrounded and took them prisoners and locked them up.

President Daniel F. Lewis, of the Brooklyn Heights Railroad company, said last night that he did not think that the police force was able to cope with the situation, and that if had been the strike could have been entirely settled within eight hours time.

Mayor Schieren received a communication from Police Commissioner Welles to the effect that the police were fully able to look out for the interests of the railroad companies and that he should not need the assistance of the militia or any one in the enforcement of order or the protection of property and the lives of citizens.

At a late hour last night no further disturbance had taken place.

Lawyer M. S. Towons, representing Peter McNulty, of the firm of Wechsler & McNulty, of Bedford avenue and Fulton street, secured an order from Supreme Court Justice Gaynor to show cause why a writ of mandamus should not issued to compel the Brooklyn City Railroad company to operate its cars. Mr. McNulty says he is losing money every day, and if the cars are not operated shortly he will have to discharge some of his employes. Justice Gaynor made the order returnable on Saturday morning.

INDIANS IN WANT.

Without Means To Buy Food and Suffering from the Cold.

Wilmot, S. D., Jan. 16.—Anthony Hemming brought news of great suffering among the Indians on the Sisseton and Wappeton reservation during the last storm. He says that Two Son had to kill a pony to keep himself and family from starving. Before the storm came they picked the red berries that grow on rose bushes and eat them. That is all the food they have had for over two weeks. White Dog also has had nothing to eat except a dead horse he found and took home. At Hoop Hollow a child died from lack of food. The Indians have no means to buy either clothing or provisions. They have not had a payment since last July and their crops were a total failure, and the lakes that once were full have been dry for the last three years. There is no game for the Indians to trap. The government was to have made a payment in October.

KILLED AND MANGLED

Men and Women Mowed Down Like Grass.

Cars at Butte, Mont., Containing Powder Explode with Terrific Force During a Fire—The Ground Strewn with the Injured and Dead Like a Field of Battle.

Butte, Mont., Jan. 16.—During a fire at the Montana Central yards last evening several cars of powder caught fire and exploded with tremendous force, killing a number of firemen and spectators and maiming many others. Several men are known to have been killed outright. There were three separate explosions, the first two breaking nearly every window within a radius of two miles. Owing to the excitement the extent of the casualties cannot be ascertained. The fire attracted a large crowd and hundreds were standing near when the first explosion occurred.

Men and women were mowed down like grass before a sickle but many were stunned by the force of the terrific explosion. Debris from cars and adjoining buildings were scattered high in the air for half a mile away, many of the flying articles striking people in the crowd. Every ambulance, vehicle and doctor in town was soon on the scene carrying off the dead and wounded. The ground was strewn like a field of battle with the injured and dead. Owing to the fact that there were still several cars of powder on the track and the report that one of the burning warehouses also contained a quantity of powder, few dared after the first explosion to venture to the assistance of the injured.

When they did they were met by the second explosion like a racking fire from an army. The second was soon followed by the third and the heavens were lighted with flames. The reports were heard and the shock felt for miles. After the third explosion the hospital corps and the police began the work of picking up the dead and caring for the wounded. Fifteen dead bodies were piled together and many of them being mangled to such an extent that they were not identified in the excitement. Every house in the vicinity was turned into a hospital. The scene after the explosion was beyond all description. Men and women wrung their hands and cried in agony. It is said that every fireman was either killed or fatally wounded.

At midnight it is known that between forty and fifty persons were killed outright by the explosion. The bodies of the dead are terribly mangled, many of them being blown to atoms.

The fire originated in the Royal Milling company's warehouse and spread to the Kenyon & Connell company's building and from there to the Butte Hardware company.

The city has been in the wildest confusion since the great calamity and it is impossible to secure the names of those who have lost their lives. The explosion is known to have killed three policemen, and the chief of the fire department.

The dead have been taken to the undertakers where the relatives and friends have gathered to identify the remains. Wounded are distributed among the several hospitals and nearly every citizen in the city has appointed himself a committee of one to aid in the work of relief. All the members of the fire department save three were killed. Plate glass was broken all over the city, very few stores escaping and the damage to property is enormous. All of the apparatus of the fire department was destroyed and every horse killed.

The powder was stored within the city limits in violation of the law and the indignation is intense.

SPOILED HIS WIFE'S LUNCH.

She Was Eating It with Another Man, and a Divorce Now.

Washington, Jan. 16.—Assistant United States District Attorney Tracy L. Jeffords came home from New York late at night, and espied through the window his wife lunching with Dr. Sigel Roush, a well known dentist.

After watching the progress of the billing and cooing he entered and booted the dentist into the street. Mrs. Jeffords is a plump and vivacious brunette, and occasionally writes for newspapers over the signature of Corinne Jeffords. She met the too fascinating doctor at a lonely summer resort in Virginia. Divorce papers are impending.

The society have the names of 48 persons who are known to have no diplomas, and who have not complied with the law by registering their names and their alma mater with the county prothonotary and paying a fee.

Armenian Affairs Improving.

Vienna, Jan. 16.—A dispatch from Constantinople says: "Relations between the porte and the Armenians have notably improved. Several prisoners in Armenia have been ordered released. It is said that Zekki Pasha's reports on the Sassoun affair, including one admitting that 1,720 persons were killed, have been removed from the Turkish war office."

Trust Cannot Collect.

Ottawa, Ill., Jan. 16.—The supreme court practically killed the Chicago Milk Shippers' association, or trust, in a decision declaring Charles Ford, against whom the trust had an account of $433 for milk, exempt from payment on the ground that the association is an illegal organization. This means they cannot lawfully collect any bill.

PARKHURST AWAKE.

HIS DISCLOSURES OF OFFICIAL CORRUPTION ONLY JUST BEGUN.

Expediency, He Declares, Has Nothing to do with His Crusade. He is after Byrnes Who Has Permitted the Fostering of Crime in New York for so Many Years.

Dr. Charles H. Parkhurst who, more than any other man, was primarily responsible for the recent uncovering of the apparently universal and appalling corruption of New York's police department by the Lexow Committee of the State Senate, takes issue with that body in that its work stopped just before the finish. The influence of Dr. Parkhurst's crusade against municipal corruption has been felt throughout the length and breadth of the land, and by the close of the present year there will hardly be a city whose various departments have not been overhauled in the interest of integrity and purity. Three years ago Dr. Parkhurst, who succeeded the late Dr. Howard Crosby as president of the Society for the Prevention of Crime in the metropolis, endeavored in a modest way and through official channels to close up some of the notorious resorts of the city. Repeated complaints upon heresay evidence were made to the authorities, but without result. Dr. Parkhurst then employed detectives, and personally obtained evidence of the violation of criminal and excise laws, but upon one pretext and another his charges were thrown out of court, and so utterly futile were his attempts at reform that he became thoroughly convinced that the police department and the courts were in league to defeat the ends of justice, and that blackmail was being levied upon every illicit avocation by the paid protectors of the peace.

In 1892 Dr. Parkhurst issued a manifesto as to the city's corruption, charging direct to Superintendent Byrnes, the head of the police department, the responsibility of the wholesale existence and protection of vice. He had found every conceivable obstacle in the path of the society's work, and he more than ever believed that Byrnes was either a fool or a knave. With a predeliction that he was not a fool Dr. Parkhurst continued his work, until it resulted in the appointment of the Lexow Committee. The work of that committee is pretty generally known. How patrolman, captains, pantatas, inspectors and their victims tumbled over each other in their readiness to give testimony, incriminating those in authority above them and and oftentimes themselves, has been a newspaper theme for several months. At five o'clock of the last day upon which the famous committee sat, Superintendent Byrnes was called to the witness chair. His testimony, most of which was given voluntarily and without interrogatories, was incipid in its tameness. The only features which relieved its monotony was his confession that he had prostituted his office by accepting from Jay Gould and others speculative tips upon Wall street upon which he had profited to the extent of $300,000, and his statement that his resignation was in the hands of reform Mayor Strong.

Remarking upon the work of the committee Dr. Parkhurst, among other things, says: In stating my position touching certain questions now lying before the public mind, I cannot express myself too appreciatively of the splendid work that has been done by the Senate committee and its talented counsel. There has been created through their instrumentality an epoch in the history of our city, and there has been secured at the polls a municipal revolution that would have been impossible except through their agency or agency of a similar kind. And it is but just that we go further than this and recognize the work of this committee and of its counsel as being the influence which is contributing very largely to similar municipal upheavals throughout the entire country. Mr. Lexow's committee and Mr. Goff and his associates do not stand in need of our commendation, but it is a pleasure as well as a duty to accord it, and it is accorded with earnest cordiality. We are justified in saying that, while the committee stood up to the rack magnificently through all the earlier portions of the investigation, they flinched at the crisis. The presumption is on the side of the Superintendent being as criminal as any other member on the force; so that the hesitancy to handle him as Williams was handled could not proceed from any prior conviction of his innocence. Wherever they have stuck in their fork they have found rot; and whether Byrnes be rotten or not he has been in rot for thirty-one years and has been the executive head of rot for the last two years. The presumption, therefore, was against him, so that the indisposition to handle him thoroughly must have been grounded in some other consideration than that of his presumable innocence.

There are two ways in which Mr. Byrnes has put the committee under obligations, and to that degree destroyed their independence. He put them under obligations by consenting to help defeat Tammany Hall, and it is to be remembered that this committee is first and foremost an anti-Tammany committee, and came down here for anti-Tammany purposes. We are not saying that it was stipulated that if we would secure an honest election it should be remembered in his behalf; but in the very nature of the case, favors have to be reciprocated. We are not going to disparage Mr. Byrnes's good offices at election; only it is to be remembered that he did nothing more than he ought to have done without being asked to do it, and nothing more than he had the same authority to do in previous elections, if he had only had the official courage to use his authority.

The second way in which the committee put themselves under obligations to him was by taking him into their confidence and allowing him to become confederate with them in breaking down the force. To the degree in which they obtained from Mr. Byrnes they put themselves practically under obligation to protect Byrnes.

Mr. Byrnes has repeatedly tried to play the same game with the Society for the Prevention of Crime, but we have refused to ally ourselves with a man that we believed to be more than any other one man responsible for the condition of the department. Byrnes hated us, and kept tab on us, and tried to make us contemptible in public esteem by showing that our agent was levying blackmail, which, as shown by the Lexow committee, was precisely what his agents were doing, and precisely what we are obliged to assume he knew his agents were doing.

A year ago he called together the reporters, and in terms of unrestrained bitterness published to the world a mess of blackguardism touching the motive of my work, the base impulses that inspired it, all of which was solid and contemptible falsehood. I am writing this without animosity, but he lied all the same, and the object of the lie was to break the power that I was exercising against the viciousness of his department.

In December, 1892, Byrnes said: A Society for the Prevention of Crime! That is a fine title for an association of men who have, from their leader down, provoked about every crime they denounced. Not only have they blackmailers among them; they have men who have been guilty of the most abominable practices, of acts which, when they are made public, you will find the utmost difficulty in describing in print." I cannot understand how men who are presumably decent, respectable members of society, can tolerate the idea of putting forth a number of spies to practice on the fears of these most unfortunate women; the cruelty of it amazes me. Are not these poor things sufficiently cursed as it is? Is not their condition sufficiently pitiable without its being necessary to further abuse and rob them? However, let them wait a little while. Let them wait until the public knows what has been done. There is law, fortunately, and the victims are not friendless as long as that law exists. I have read over very carefully the charges made by Dr. Parkhurst and as far as I could perhaps expect they corroborate what I have said about him and his methods. I have to thank Dr. Parkhurst for making the issue he has raised at last sharp and clear. He is not trying to suppress gambling or to repress the social evil. He is in the field to attack the police.

Now, that is Byrnes. He is the man we have had steadily in our eyes for three years, and he has had us just as steadily in his eye. As the community knows, our work has meant nothing but the overthrow of misrule in this city. Byrnes has known that as well as the public, and yet he has fought us. Now, why not have the Senatorial committee, through their counsel, made themselves familiar with these matters? We have urged that Mr. Byrnes should be asked, whether, prior to the Senatorial investigation, he was knowing of the rottenness of the police force. He either was or was not. If he was, and still kept his mouth shut, he was unspeakably vile, and if he was not he was unspeakably imbecile. Now, why did not the committee insist that Mr. Goff, in his characteristic manner should broil Mr. Byrens on that bifurcate dilemma? I am nothing but a minister, but if I had been a lawyer of Mr. Goff's ability, I would have put Brynes on that toasting iron, and I would have guaranteed to broil out of him all his reputability inside of one day's session, provided, of course, the committee would have allowed me to do so.

Let me complete, in conclusion, that I have no interest in this matter save a profound and passionate desire to see work that is thorough. Men with as much influence as Byrnes, who have been in the midst of iniqity clear up to their ears for 30 years, can fight iniquity if they want to, and if they are clean they will want to.

I am aware that many who are our friends will take exception to this statement. Some will say it is inexpedient. That is not a consideration that weighs with us. We are here for a principle, and we are here to stay. Compromises, evasions, shifts, and deals we believe to be inimical to everything in the shape of true progress and permanent effects.

Winter Wear.

A Bad Place to Carry Money.

In these days of gloved hands and pockets covered by wraps it is surprising to see how commonly men and women adopt the habit of putting pieces of money in their mouths. This applies to bills as well as coin, is more frequently done by men than women, and is a practice more observed on the street cars than elsewhere.

It seems so filthy and slovenly a practice that no cleanly person would adopt it, and yet it is often practised by the best and apparently most inteiligent class of men and women.

Apart from its vileness, the habit is a menace to health. Money gets into all kinds of infectious places and carries all kinds of germs. A bank teller of Vienna recently died from the effects of moistening his fingers with saliva when counting money.

Great is the difference betwixt a man's being frightened at, and humbled for his sins.—Fuller.

MOTHERHOOD.

Proud motherhood! Grand state of wedded bliss,
Which, ere the first sharp pang is known,
Centres instinctively on thoughts of this—
That pure devotion in the first glad kiss
On baby lips shall bind
To the still unformed mind
A trust in futures yet unknown.

Fond motherhood! Bright light of fairest dawn,
Which through unbroken union gives
Hope of a happy, infantile good morn
To claim a father's love for the first born,
Until two hearts at last,
From out a baby path,
Shall know mature perfection lives.

Different Standpoints.

The late dowager Duchess of Montrose once won a big race, and, as was her custom on such occasions, she had invited a large party of guests at short notice to celebrate the event. Everything was got ready. The table decorations were especially fine, and they pleased her so well that she promptly ordered her head gardener, who had personally undertaken the arrangements, to go for a week's holiday at her expense. The favored retainer promptly obeyed the order and had what he thought was a splendid time. Returning at the end of his week, he was asked by the duchess to submit his list of expenses, and he did so, sending in what seemed to him a respectable bill. Her grace scanned it for a moment and then said:

"Look here, I told you to enjoy yourself thoroughly, and it is plain from this you have not done so. Mind, the next time I send you for a holiday I shall expect my instructions to be obeyed."—London Letter.

When You Eat Ice.

A boy eats two ounces of ice. Let us see what is the approximately thermodynamic equivalent of the work he has made his interior do, assuming he takes five minutes to eat it. In melting the ice he will require 18 units to reduce it to water. To raise it in temperature to that of his inside he will require seven more units, or a total of 25 British thermal units. Taking the mechanical equivalent as 777 foot pounds, this will be equal to 19,425 foot pounds. If the boy weighs 100 pounds, he will have called upon his stomach to do as much heat work as would, with a machine having unit efficiency, raise him 194 feet high, or a rate of heat extraction equal to nearly an eighth of a horsepower.—Engineer.

The reader of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly on the blood and mucous surface of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer $100 for any case that it fails to cure.

"It is certainly a misfortune to lose the jewels," said Etienne with calmness, the calmness of unbroken faith. "There is no other misfortune about it. We will take steps for their recovery. But as for Beauxlieux,—it is preposterous! No, no, two and two do not make three! That white flame of his burns without dross."

"Ah, I believe you!" the poor duchess cried. "And what balm you bring a sore heart! Oh, Etienne, what should I do without you!"

But when night came, and the duchess was in her own rooms again, the horror of doubt and fear overcame her anew. There was her son's portrait as Jean had drawn it—the sweet seriousness, the lofty gravity, the piercing eye, the tender mouth. The candle flickering under it gave it a seeming life. She flung herself down before it as if it were an altar. "How, how, how could I doubt you?" she cried. "And, oh, how can I help it!" she said, presently. She knelt at her prie-dieu for hours, but felt that help forsook her. She took the candlestick and went into her son's rooms—bare, studious rooms, without an ornament or luxury, only one picture on the walls, a face crowned with thorns. "He gave Himself for the love of man," Beauxlieux once had said. "And can I do less?"

As she went back the enormity of her own behavior overwhelmed her. But directly afterward she saw her handkerchief, fallen on the floor—one of several he had sent her—knowing she loved fine, sheer things, and had used coarse ones so long. She snatched it and tore it with her teeth; then as she walked the floor she paused at the great armoire where Olympe had put away the things of his childhood. She unclosed it and lifted the little frock. She recalled him in it, running to meet her, his hair flying, his arms extended, his sweet face overflowing with smiles. He had not forgotten how to smile then. There was the little cap, too; her own fingers had wrought it for him before he was born, and what hopes and what prayers she had wrought into it! Here was a scarf he had worn at his first communion; here were the curls, the silken curls Olympe had shorn from his dear head. She kissed them passionately; she wet them with her crying, a mother grieves so over the memorials of the dead! She had no longer a child.

It was the next day that Beauxlieux came down from town to the chateau. The duchess did not go to meet him as usual. She sent for him instead to come to her. She was standing at her dressing-table, strewn with the empty jewel cases, white as alabaster, her long black gown sweeping round her, her eyes like those of a fate.

Startled by her appearance, he hastened toward her with an exclamation. But she threw out her arms in an interposing gesture. And then she wavered as she stood; and with a stride he was beside her, and, his arm about her, he had led her to a seat, and throwing himself on his knees before her, he drew her face over to his. "What is it, my mother?" he murmured. "What ails thee? Art thou ill? Art thou suffering? Lean on me, kiss me, dear, sweet mother."

She withdrew from his clasp and pushed him off a little, her hand flat on his chest. "Oh!" she cried, transfixing him with her great despairing eyes. "Oh! how could you, how could you do it?"

CHAPTER VI.

For a moment, Beauxlieux looked bewildered. He glanced round the room where the light of the dreary autumn day came in through the faded daffodil draperies as if the sun were still shining without.

"I do not understand you," he said. "What does this mean, my mother? What disaster, what misfortune—"

"What disaster!" she cried, sharply. "And you ask! You! Is there worse disaster than when a mother finds her son—Oh, I cannot say it!" tearing open the lace at her throat. "When she discovers—and a Beauxlieux—"

"Ah!" he exclaimed. "It is that, then. My faith, I had almost forgotten! I never dreamed it was going to affect you so, my mother—"

"Not your mother!" she almost shrieked. "Never the mother of—a—thief!"

"What!" he cried, instantly upon his feet. "Does anyone—even my mother—" and then with a look at her his old gentleness and pity and love were uppermost again. "My mother," he said gently, then. "My mother, were they not mine?"

"Then why not take them openly? Why creep in the dark to do so foul a thing—"

"In the dark? Why, it is true I did not consult you. It seemed to me unnecessary. I thought you would object, and there would be so much to be said. And then here in your seclusion I thought you might never know."

"And does all that make it any the less robbery?" with a piercing scorn in her tone.

"Whom have I robbed? I certainly had the right. And Pierre paid me good money for them. He has done well, he says, the rogue. If that is doing well, he has done wonderfully—on the Bourse, in all the big enterprises. His hotel is a palace in the Faubourg. By the most singular turn of fortune, it is the old Hotel Beauxlieux itself—"

"Do you mean—" she exclaimed. "No, it is too shameful to be true! Can a man acknowledge in this unblushing way that he robbed his mother of her diamonds and took money for them! That he crept through her room at night to make off with every jewel—oh, not that I valued the diamonds! I would so gladly have given them if you had asked. Oh, oh, oh, the cruel, the accursed things that make me despise my own flesh and blood, my own son! No, what am I saying? I have no son!"

"Stop, stop, my mother! Go softly here. Is it that the long monotony and disappointment have disordered you? Of what were you speaking? What is it that you say about diamonds?"

She threw out her hands toward the empty cases on the table, his eyes following the movement. For a moment he was silent and transfixed, and he remained silent with perplexity and wonderment. But, directly his quick wit had taken in the truth, he looked at her again, the tears sparkling suspended on her cheeks. There were tears in his own eyes. He took her hand. "My mother," he said. "I would not think that under any circumstances you could have believed this of your son. Do you not see how it is? Victorine took your jewels. Pierre has disposed of them, and with the price of them he goes into his enterprises. It is the meaning of his wealth. And it is with the money he receives for the Beauxlieux diamonds that he buys the Bieuxlieux titles!"

"What is it that I hear you say?" cried the duchess, half startled out of the one terror by a new one. "The Beauxlieux titles! What of the Beauxlieux titles?"

"Why, nothing, except that I sold them to Pierre last June, and it is the matter of which I have been speaking. Not yours, madame; not any title belonging to you; you still retain your address of honor, you are still the Duchess des Sarazines Beauxlieux, if you choose, douairiere. But those which were my own, have I any use for them? I, a man without a fortune, and with other views? In these days when thrones go under and empires disappear in the gulf, and man, man climbs out, my mother, I count it shame to hold titles, not won by myself, but won by men whose very ashes no longer exist! I say to myself—the titles, they are a voice, a breath, they are non-existent attributes. But with the money that foolish Pierre is willing to pay me for leaving him alone if he assumes them, what can I not do for the people that were given in trust to those ancestors of mine who betrayed the trust? It will buy land, houses, maintain the prophets, the priests, of liberty. Perhaps—who knows—buy dynamite."

"Beauxlieux!"

"It will, at any rate, make my mother at ease all her days, I said. What succor will it take to sufferers! And if by means of it I can forward the cause of their uplifting and their freedom—ah, were it only one man who had held his head like a beast's to the earth that I helped to hold it up in the face of God, it is better worth to me than all the titles of all my forefathers. And so I sold them to him; sold them every one. I, Louis Dagobert Clovis Francois Maria Angelique, no longer Duke des Sarazines Beauxlieux, Prince De Franche Haupte, Count des Aiguilles, Conte de Grandes Landes, Baron Boissy, and all the absurd rest of them, my mother!"

"And for what remains," he said, after a pause, "if it is honor to be Beauxlieux, the sale of no title can take that honor away. I am always and forever Beauxlieux," with an inexpressible pride of bearing.

"But it is impossible!" cried his mother. "I forbid it!"

"It is done," said Beauxlieux.

"But you do not confer titles—it is the king, the council, the ministers, the government—"

"The government confers no more. You forget that, whether one lives up to it or not, the motto now is liberty, fraternity, equality."

"You appall me! And, besides, he will not be allowed to wear them, the lache!"

"Who is to interfere? I shall not. Nor am I ever to marry. No!" as he saw the protest in her face. "Bring others into the world to sorrow, to struggle, to endure? No, no, there will never be anyone to disturb him. He appears in the world of Paris as the Duke des Sarazines Beauxlieux, and no one will ever be the wiser."

"But my son, Heaven forgive me—do you then assist at a fraud, a felony?"

"Hardly," said Beauxlieux, "the thing is too unsubstantial. What do the titles mean now in a republic? Nothing. He gives me a certain payment for leaving him to play his part in peace. My pride might rebel—but the money is so needed by those others, those poor creatures. And, moreever," said Beauxlieux, "I find the play sufficiently entertaining."

And then suddenly the duchesse threw back her head and opened her mouth with such a peal of laughter as in many a year before had not rung through that old pile.

"Victorine!" she cried, "Victorine the Duchesse des Sarazines Beauxlieux! Victorine! Oh, I see her now! Sieguer Dieu, but it is too amusing! Victorine!" And all her white teeth glistened and the tears rolled out of her eyes, tears of merriment, tears of joy.

"But not the less," she said, "if Victorine is a thief, if the Duchesse des Sarazines Beauxlieux is a thief, she must be brought to justice!"

"No," said Beauxlieux. "We, who are Beauxlieux, cannot afford to have the name dragged in the dust. All the diamonds in the world would not be worth it. And I have contracted with Pierre—I mean the duke—to that effect. If he in any way discredits the titles, I appear. Is it that you can forgive me now, my mother?"

"Oh, Beauxlieux," she said, rising and putting her hands on his shoulders, "there is no question of forgiveness. You could never forgive me, if there were. I could never forgive myself for my stupidity, my ignorance, my blindness, my crime! It is M. Etienne, Heaven bless him, who never doubted you. If he has something to hear, my son, he—he has also something to tell you. Oh, Beauxlieux, I am so happy, I feel as though I had wings!" And as she spoke, a level sunbeam broke from the low western clouds and fell across the room, and they saw gray sky and sullen sea transformed and glorified in a mist of gold.

Sometimes now in the summer months, the old chateau is gay with people; the family have come back. Beauxlieux and Jean are there for a time. But for the greater part of the year the only sound within its walls (save the quiet footfall of Olympe, who ignores the existence of her niece, and feels that ruin is abroad, and of the few servants there) is the echo of the rolling surf and the crying of the storm on the gray Atlantic. Mme. Etienne, who cannot afford to wear the title worn by Victorine, lives with her husband in Paris, a Paris that has no knowledge of her in her former estate, and with whose men of wit and science and poetry she forgets old titles and old glories. Sometimes she hears of Victorine flaunting in the finery she loves still as when she risked all in the forest by stringing herself with the stolen jewels that Pierre might see how well their glory became her—Pierre, who, taking advantage of the stepping stone of those diamonds, has gone on adding wealth to wealth. Mme. Etienne trembles only lest some misdeed of his shall throw a stain on the name that has lived a thousand years, unblemished. Sometimes indestructible recollections give her a pang. But when her son—completely effaced though he may be from the eyes of the great world, as he goes and comes, on the dangerous errands to which he has devoted himself—returns to her for a breathing space, when she feels the velvet embraces of the little bourgeoise girl who has been born to her, and turning her head looks into the eyes of the man who has been her protector, loving her in silence for so many years, she feels the old Basque peasant woman assert her claim, feels herself espousing the cause of the people down there in the dark, in her different estate, and knows that she is unspeakably happier than the childless and lonely masquerader in the splendor of the Hotel des Sarazines Beauxlieux.

A NEW FREEHOLDERS BILL.

Important Changes Proposed—Salaries Instead of Fees—Minority Representation.

Trenton, Jan. 16.—An important bill which gives promise of securing favorable action in the Legislature has been introduced by Senator Charles B. Herbert of Middlesex County. It is very sweeping in its provisions, and strikes at the root of the present system of county government through boards of chosen freeholders. Although this is Mr. Herbert's first term in the Senate, his appointment as chairman of the committee on railroads and canals, as well as his membership on other important committees, is evidence of his influence. Mr. Herbert is a law partner of ex-Judge William T. Hoffman. He was a member of the Assembly from Middlesex County in 1888 and 1889.

The bill referred to provides that at the next election to choose members of the General Assembly held in this State after the approval of this act, and every three years thereafter, there shall be chosen in the several counties in this State suitable persons to constitute the boards of chosen freeholders as follows: In counties of the first-class, seven persons; in counties of the second-class, five persons; in counties of the third-class, three persons; and in counties of the fourth-class, three persons, who shall be citizens of this State, and who shall have been for three years residents of the counties in whihh they shall be chosen. They shall hold their offices for three years and until their successors are elected.

The second section provides that each of the said chosen freeholders shall receive compensation as follows: In counties of the first class $2,000 each per annum; in counties of the second class $1,200 each per annum; in counties of the third class $1,000 each per annum; in counties of the fourth class $500 each per annum; and they shall receive no other compensation, fee, or emoluments whatever. Each board may elect a director, and may also elect a clerk who shall hold office at the pleasure of the board, and who shall receive such compensation as they shall determine. Each member shall take an oath to perform the duties of his office, and shall give a bond for the faithful performance of his duties.

The third section provides that at the county conventions each of the political parties authorized by law to make nominations in convention may nominate, and each elector may vote for, candidates for chosen freeholders as follows: In counties of the first class four persons; in counties of the second class three persons; in counties of the third class two persons; in counties of the fourth class two persons, provided that nominations in number as above specified in the several classes of counties may be made by petition as now provided by law; and in order that a fair minority representation may be secured on each board, the several boards of freeholders shall be constituted of the required number who have received the highest number of votes respectively. The terms of the boards to be first elected under this act shall commence on the first day of December next succeeding their election.

The bill will be reported for debate next week. It is said to be backed by the Sewell influence.

Degree 101.

Last evening at the regular council sleep of Paugh-Caugh-Naugh-Sinque Tribe, 193, routine business was transacted, a large number being present. Two applications for membership were received during the session. At the close the Haymakers Council went into session, much enthusiasm being aroused by the initiation of six new members into the touching ceremonies attending this degree. Each new brother felt highly elevated as he gained a further knowledge of the secret work, and at the close by the unanimous request of the six brethren they were instructed in the mysteries of the one hundred and first degree, which was exemplified by Chief Haymaker Charles I. Young.

A Great Street Cleaner.

G. W. Brady of Brooklyn, who has been visiting G. M. Rittenhouse of East Sixth street, is the perfector of the Charlton Street Cleaner. The machine is built upon a principle entirely different from other street cleaning machines. The advantage of this sweeper is its method of conducting the dirt into an attached cart instead of leaving it along the streets to be gathered up.

Success of the Scotch Plains Library.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE DAILY PRESS:—Perhaps the record made by the Scotch Plains Library during the past year, may not be devoid of interest to some of your readers.

The results of the year's work were reported at the annual meeting of the Board of Trustees held on Wednesday evening. The object of the undertaking was, in its inception, two-fold: first, the establishment of a free Public Library; and second, the opening to the young people of the village (boys and girls) of a reading room, supplied with magazines and illustrated newspapers, and also with games.

The attendance at the library rooms has been as follows: For January, February and March, 1,116; April, May and June, 876; July, August and September, 664; October, November and December, 864; total, 3,520 persons.

It is to be borne in mind that the population within reach of the library rooms, cannot number all told, men, women and children, over 1,000 souls.

The number of books drawn from the library for the four quarters of the year was 379, 271, 304 and 385, making a total of 1 339 volumes.

The library contains 930 bound volumes of which 503 were presented and 427 were purchased.

The books of reference (including the Encyclopedia Brittanica) which are not circulated, are frequently consulted by the brighter scholars in the public school.

If, as we in Plainfield are too apt to think, Scotch Plains is missionary ground, here is an outpost of culture which cannot be estimated in this life.

DAVID P. HALL,
Chairman Press Committee Scotch Plains Public Library.

Better Quarters of Their Own.

Robert & James Love, the grocers of 245 West Front street, intend removing from their present location April 1, on account of the increase of rent by the owner. Today they purchased of P. J. Kreitling the building at 257 and 259 West Front steeet, near Madison avenue. They will raise the present building up, put in a new front, and also build on the rear. When completed they will have a larger store than their present one.

His Injuries Not Serious.

Thomas Meany, who was injured in Westfield yesterday, as told in The Press, is resting quietly today and his condition is not thought to be serious. He had received a message about 10 in the morning to stop a fast train when it reached that point. He stepped out of his office to adjust a signal for the train, and slipping on the wet ties he fell on the track in front of the approaching express and was struck by the engine.

To these services a cordial and general invitation is extended.

The club decided to raise the initiation fee to $5. and also to enter a team in the State League as done in former years. Last year the team finished in third place, but this year nothing but first place will please the boys.

Pebbles to Prevent Explosions.

A young man of pleasing address has been selling to people in the towns along the Jersey Central small brown pebbles, such as can be picked up on the shores of Newark Bay by the bushel.

These stones, he said, were invested with a magic power. They would prevent lamps from exploding. One stone was sufficient for each lamp, no matter what the size of the lamp might be. He sold them at 25 cents each.

One woman who bought six, in consideration of her large purchase was given a reduction of 25 cents. She gave the peddler a five-dollar note and he went to get it changed. She has not seen him since.

GROCERS AND THEIR DEBTORS.

The New Jersey Dealers Want a Wife's Property Made Responsible—J. A. Smith of Plainfield at the Front.

Trenton, Jan. 16—The fifteenth semi-annual meeting of the State Retail Grocery Merchants, Association was held today in Young Men's Christian Association Hall. About 100 delegates, representing 20 associations, were present.

Secretary J. C. Henrie of Paterson read a report, which showed that delinquent debtors owed the members of the association $480,326.24. The number of debtors is 14,965. The association discussed the proposed law making a wife's property liable for necessaries of life in her family. The grocers say there is nothing unreasonable in such a law. No law should compel the innocent to suffer. The grocers were not compelled by any moral right to support a family when the wife had property and the grocery bill was not paid, and the support of such a family should come from the property.

The association elected the following officers: President—James P Sullivan, Morristown; Vice-presidents—William Wilkie, Harrison, and J A Smith, Plainfield; Recording Secretary—John C Henrie, Paterson; Treasurer—E S Atkinson, New Brunswick; Financial Secretary—W W Gilby, Westfield.

STILL IN THE RACE.

C. Y. M. L. Bowlers May Yet Win the Trophy.

Last evening's game on the Montgomery alleys in Newark between the C. Y. M. L. and the T. A. B's was a hard fought contest from start to finish and was anybody's game until the last frame. At the call of time the contestants jumped into the ring and began to spar for points, the round resulting in a draw. In the second round the T. A. B's cross counters got in their work with telling effect and at the close of the round their opponents were outpointed by 55 pins. The history of rounds 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8 and 9 varies little from that of round two, but in the tenth the C. Y. M. L got their second wind, jumped into the ring as fresh as daisies, shook hands for the wind-up and went at their opponents hammer and tongs, every man of them making a strike or a spare. It was an old time Garrison finish, and when the scorer called "1462—1428 C. Y. M. L." the boys did nothing tut fall over each other for joy, and yell themselves to a standstill as the trophy loomed up again on the not far distant horizon. The valiant Sergeant who lies awake nights thinking of a way to make two strikes with one ball, easily headed the totals last evening with 189 pins to his credit.

The score:

C. Y. M. L.		T. A. B.

POLITICIANS AFRAID.

Republican Legislators Afraid of Losing the Liquor-Interest Vote.

A despatch from Trenton says the local-option question is likely to annoy the Republican Legislature this year. The Republican leaders had hoped to escape this sort of temperance legislation just on the eve of a gubernatorial election, but the organization formed by Rev. W. E. Honeyman and other leading workers proposes to force the question to an issue.

As was told in The Press yesterday, their executive committee, of which Rev. Honeyman is the head, was instructed to have a local-option bill introduced in the Legislature, with a special clause giving the Borough Council control of licenses. It was said at the meeting that one of the Republican leaders was asked if this Legislature would pass a local-option bill. He replied: "For God's sake don't talk about any temperance legislation year when the election of a Governor is so near."

When the Republicans passed the last local-option bill, it was done after a big struggle. They expected to gain the support of the prohibition element in the State by their action, but they estranged the German vote of Newark. Essex County, which had previously gone Republican, has been in the Democratic column ever since until last Fall. The Republicans fear the consequence of any more temperance legislation, though the party policy has been in that direction.

DUNELLEN AND NEW MARKET.

John P. Apgar is engaged putting a new roof on George Huff's house.

Miss May Gise is contemplating a visit with friends at Catasauqua, Pa.

The personal effects of Mrs. Mary Laing were sold at auction yesterday.

Mrs. Mary Laing has rented rooms in the Dr. Brakeley Building.

Bartley Kelley came home sick with the grip, Tuesday.

Yesterday Leonard Leach brought home some very pretty designs of steel clippings from his shop at Bound Brook.

It is reported that a new store building is to be erected on North avenue in the near future. A hall suitable for a lodge room is to be put in the second story.

John Dunn has had great success with his bread business and is gaining custom each day.

F. H. Gise put in a new stock of cigars yesterday. He now has the finest in town.

Yesterday's shooting match was the outcome of a sort of jealous feeling which exists among our sporting fraternity. It is the beginning of a series of challenges that must necessarily follow, as already three gun clubs have been organized in this place simply because of this jealous feeling. Lots of fun in store for Dunellenites. Send a few of those pigeons to the Dunellen correspondent of The Press.

Even the rain and disagreeable weather yesterday did not postpone the shooting contest between T. W. Sisty and W. H. Carman on one side, and C. Lindzey and Charles Giles on the other. The match was the outcome of a challenge published through The Press by Sisty and Carman to shoot with any two men in Dunellen or New Market. The challenge was accepted by Lindzey who selected Giles for his second, naming yesterday as the time for the shoot. They were all on hand at the hour designated, and ready for the contest. Each was to shoot at ten live birds, single barrel, with gun below the elbow. The following score was the result: W. H. Carman, 9, T. W Sisty, 7, total, 16; C. Giles, 8, C. Lindzey, 6, total, 14. Of course outsiders were not enlightened as to how much money was put up on a side, but the writer was informed that the winners would receive a small retainer. W. H. Carman says he will not quit the contest business, and when he has time will gun for pleasure. The winners received many cheers from those about.

A New County Road.

A PLAINFIELDER'S TRIP.

He Gives His Fellow Townsmen the Pleasure of His Reminiscences.

A. M. Powell gave his "Glimpses in Europe" last evening at the old Friends' Meeting House, this being the second entertainment in the course.

The house was well filled, and the wish was expressed that the lecture might be repeated in an audience room better adapted to the purpose.

Mr. Powell described in a chatty familiar way a number of the most prominent and interesting places he had visited in Great Britain, Paris, Switzerland, Belgium and Holland.

The lecture was illustrated by about 75 excellent lantern slides selected by Mr. Powell and exhibited by Messrs. Gavett and Hallock.

Through the kindness of an English Friend, Mr. Powell had the privilege of attending a debate in the House of Lords, which was participated in by Lords Roseberry, Salisbury, Hartington and the Lord Chancellor who, unlike our own Vice-President, has the privilege of joining in the debate. Mr. Powell spoke very highly of Lord Roseberry as an orator, comparing his manner to that of the late George William Curtis, and then commented on the peculiar custom of voting by taking a "division", when all the members leave the chamber and are counted as they return by opposite doors.

In referring to the condition of the peasant women abroad, he mentioned seeing many in Munich engaged in the hardest kind of manual labor, such as carrying hods of mortar to the tops of buildings on ladders.

He saw Swiss women carrying immense bundles of hay on their heads down the mountain paths to the stables below, and who then showed their industry by knitting on the way back. Gov. Hawley, a fellow-passenger with Mr. Powell, reported seeing a woman carrying her ponderous burden of hay, and knitting at the same time.

Reference was made to a temperance anniversary of the Choral Union held in the Crystal Palace at London, (a view of which was shown), where a chorus of five thousand, all total abstainers, gave a concert in the afternoon, and another five thousand abstainers, all of them from the City of London, gave a second concert in the evening. The audiences, the speaker said, could better be reckoned by the acre than by numbering, so vast were they, some forty thousand having been admitted through the gates.

FRANCE'S GRAVE CRISIS

Casimir-Perier Condemned for Resigning.

Paris Still Intensely Excited—The Duke of Orleans Leaves London—M. Brisson in the Lead for the Presidency—Emperor William Regrets That a Change Is Necessary.

Paris, Jan. 17.—The resignation of President Casimir-Perier is regarded in the most serious light. The French press condemns his resignation as a "running away from fire." The opinion among others is that France is now in the throes of her most menacing crisis, that the action of Perier shows absolute instability of political conditions in France.

The city is intensely excited. Although the regulations forbid street venders from starting out with their wares before 8 o'clock in the morning (an ordinance which includes prohibition of the sale of newspapers by criers), the newsboys were allowed yesterday to begin their sales before daybreak. The streets were early filled with yelling boys, whose cries informed many persons for the first time of the resignation of the president.

The announcement came like a thunderbolt to thousands of persons, and every one was asking the reason for the president's sudden and seemingly unnecessary action. Various reasons were given by the newspapers, but none of them seemed to satisfy any great number of the people.

London advices state that the Duke of Orleans, chief of French pretenders, left London with his suite for Dover, where he will hold himself ready to start for France in case political developments favor his cause.

The conference of senators and deputies in the Palais du Luxembourg last night to elect a new president, finally dissolved shortly before 8 o'clock without taking a vote. In consequence of the refusal of M. Waldock-Rousseau to be a candidate, the union republicans and the union progressists have put forward as their choice M. Felix Faure. This leaves M. Brisson and Faure the principal candidates.

According to the latest estimates, M. Brisson will obtain 330 votes on the first ballot of the national assembly to-day.

Messages from Berlin state that Emperor William was informed early in the morning of the French president's resignation. He took his coffe rather hastily, and then drove alone from the Old Castle to the French embassy, where he had a long interview with M. Herbette.

The emperor expressed his high opinion of the president, and his regret that the sudden change had been deemed expedient.

REVOLUTIONARY SOCIALISTS.

Issue a Manifesto Denouncing Casimir-Perier.

Paris, Jan. 17.—The revolutionary socialists have sent out a manifesto in which they denounce Casimir-Perier as the representative of financial feudalism. They appeal to the people to obliterate the bourgeois government and to erect in its place the social republic, not hesitating to use violence if the men in power offer resistance. The manifesto has some effect upon the lower classes and has increased the general feeling of uneasiness. M. Lepine, prefect of police, has taken steps to suppress disorder at short notice in any part of the city.

Stole Champion Sky High.

Worchester, Mass., Jan. 17.—The stable of Harry W. Smith was broken into and the champion highstepper, Sky High, was stolen. The horse was driven desperately and evidently escaped from the thieves for about midnight he wandered into the stable yard of Flagg's hotel at North Crafton, utterly exhausted and bleeding from several wounds. Sky High has taken several prizes in the annual New York Horse shows, being the champion high stepper, and a prize tandem and light coach horse.

Defied the Judge.

Chicago, Jan. 17.—A jury in the United States court created a sensation yesterday by defying Judge Seaman and refusing to bring in a verdict in accordance with the court's instructions. The case at issue was the $25,000 damage suit of Marie Cahill, a girl, who was run over and crippled in 1892, by an engine of the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul railroad, on the leased tracks of the stock yards company.

Chicago, Jan. 17.—Charles L. Hopkins, backer of Pedestrian Henry Schmehl, offered to wager John Chamberlain, of Washington, the backer of Edward Payson Weston, from $5,000 to $10,000 that Schmehl would walk from San Francisco to New York in less time than Weston, barring Sundays if desired, both to start together.

Corbett Lectures to Students.

Nashville, Tenn., Jan. 17.—Champion James Corbett appeared in a new role here last night at the invitation of the faculty of the medical department of Vanderbilt university. Ex-Gov. Pattison Nominated.

Philadelphia, Jan. 17.—The democratic city convention yesterday nominated ex-Gov. Robert E. Pattison as the party's candidate for mayor of this city. The vote was 823 to 79 for Col. Banes. The convention was the most turbulent that has assembled in this city for a long time.

DESPERATE OUTLAWS.

Members of the Cook Gang Shoot a Man and Two Women.

Muskogee, I. T., Jan. 17.—James French and MacWilliams, the bandits who robbed Nash's store at Fort Gibson Monday night, rode up to Joe Gladd's house midway between Tahlequah and Fort Gibson last night and entered the room in which a boy was sleeping. They threatened to kill him if he did not tell where his father kept his money. The boy said he did not know and the desperadoes called to Mr. Gladd to get up. Gladd supposed they were friends and opened the door. He recognized French and Williams and at once shut the door and barricaded it. French ordered him to come out or he would set fire to the house. Gladd made no reply and the bandits began a fusilade through the door with their Winchesters. They left without entering. Gladd was shot in the arm, his wife in the elbow and his daughter in the arm, leg and thigh. The condition of the daughter is critical. The furniture was smashed by the bullets. The family could not get anyone to dress their wounds till morning when the old man rode to Tahlequah. Gladd is a wealthy German. The night before French and Williams met the Tahlequah hack containing eight passengers four miles from Fort Gibson, and attempted to hold it up, but the driver would not stop. A large posse of Tahlequah citizens and Indian sheriffs left for the mountains in which French and Williams are said to be hiding.

THREATEN TO DESTROY COLON.

Workmen Demand That Their Wages Be Raised.

Colon, Jan. 17.—Excitement prevails here among the native population, and the American residents are anxiously hoping for the arrival of a United States war vessel.

This state of affairs is due to the fact that placards have been posted in a number of public places announcing that a plot has been formed to destroy Colon by fire, and that this will be done if wages are not promptly raised in proportion to the cost of living.

The plotters are also threatening to destroy the property of the Panama Railroad company, an American concern, and they have threatened to kill the freight agents of the railroad.

The Americans and Europeans are taking measures to defend themselves and their property, and more serious trouble is anticipated.

A NARROW ESCAPE.

An Express Train Crashes Into a Derailed Car.

Hinsdale, Mass., Jan. 17.—There was a narrow escape from a serious railroad accident on the Boston & Albany road at West Jericho Ledge, about a mile west of this place at midnight. An eastbound freight train passing the point broke in two, and three cars were derailed, one flat car being thrown across the westbound track. Express No. 37, which left Boston at 7 o'clock last night was just due and the trainmen had barely time to leave the freight when it rushed by, crashing through the flat car and knocking it to pieces.

No one on the express was reported hurt, and the express after a short stop, went on to Pittsfield. The platforms on the express were torn off. A wrecker was sent from Pittsfield and the tracks were cleared by 9 o'clock this morning.

Each Win a Game.

Cleveland, Jan. 17.—A large crowd saw Ives and Schaefer play billiards last night at the Cleveland Athletic club. The table was more like a cellar door than a billiard plane which makes Ives big run remarkable. Two 300 point games were played, the first being straight rail in which Ives made a run of 132 but lost the game. Score: Schaefer, 300; Ives, 242. The second game was 14 inch balk line and was won by Ives. Score, Ives 300; Schaefer, 43.

A APPALLING DISASTER

Butte's Citizens Stunned by the Calamity.

The Dead Horribly Mutilated—Portions of Bodies Picked Up All About the Scene of the Explosion—Houses Wrecked as if by a Cyclone—Only Three Firemen Escape.

Butte, Mont., Jan. 17.—The appalling wreck of life and property by the explosion has increased with further developments. The mangled remains of 6 human beings are at the morgue and more are missing. Over 100 are injured, many of them fatally. Every hospital in the city is crowded.

The citizens who escaped appear to be stunned and unable to fully realize the extent of the calamity.

Most of the dead are so frightfully mangled that identification is impossible. Heads, arms, legs, and other parts of bodies were picked up all about the scene of the explosion within a radius of five blocks. Fingers brains, and fragments of flesh were gathered up with shovels and deposited in baskets. Between the Northern Pacific and Great Northern depots, a space of about 300 feet, the ground was literally covered with parts of human bodies and with the dead and injured. The scene was one of horrifying, absolute destruction. Houses in the vicinity were as thoroughly wrecked as if a cyclone had passed through them. Otto Flotto says that while assisting in carrying off the dead and wounded he saw an object passing through the air and upon investigating found it to be a human head. Many of those killed contained no marks or bruises, having been killed by the concussion. Many were seriously injured by flying bricks, stones, and other debris at a distance of several blocks from the explosion. The concussion was felt for miles and many of the largest buildings like the Ousley block and Lewisohn building rocked like cradles.

A woman whose name was not ascertained, was so affected by the shock that she gave premature birth to a child in the street. It was reported by some of the rescuing party that several human ghouls while pretending to assist in the work, went through the dead and injured and robbed them. The dead body of a small boy, John O'Leary, was picked up in East Gold street, several blocks from the scene, after the second explosion had occurred. There were no marks on his body and he was evidently killed by the concussion.

Only three working firemen escaped being killed. Chief Cameron was blown to atoms, and the only thing found of him was his belt attached to a charred portion of his body. The firemen who escaped were David Moher, David McGee and J. H. Flannery.

McGee gives the following version of the appalling catastrophe:

"After reaching the fire we laid 1,000 feet of hose and Flannery stayed at the hydrant. I drove up to the building with the hose and then drove back about 200 feet and stopped. A moment later the first explosion occurred in the building and the flames burst through the roof but no one was hurt by this explosion. The boys then went back to the building again thinking the danger was all over.

"Jack Sloan came over to the wagon and got an axe and started to cut an opening to the building. My brother William got in the back of the wagon and advised me to drive further away for fear of another explosion. I told him there was no danger and got down to blanket the horses. I usually get off on the inside nearest the fire but this time the horses were between me and the fire and it is fortunate for me that such was the case. Just as I pulled the blankets down from the seat and spread one of them out to throw it over the horse, the second explosion came. I did not see anything and only remember hearing the awful roar and being knocked down.

"When I recovered a moment later I found the wagon partly on top of me with the tongue across my breast and the off horse was lying on top of me. The blankets had caught fire. Pieces of wood were burning all around me and I was momentarily choked and bewildered. I struggled to get loose but I was unable to free myself. People were screaming all around me, and crying for help. I could hardly make my voice heard. After a while a man came along and I begged him for God's sake to help me out. With his assistance, I managed to get out from under the weight that was pinning me down and struggled to my feet. I limped but was getting along slowly when a couple of men came along and carried me to the Harrison house. From there I was brought home. The last I saw of Jack Sloan he was pounding away at the door and when I saw Cameron last he was taking the kinks out of the hose between the wagon and the burning building. All of the other boys were close behind Sloan and they were certainly all killed."

Co-operative Plan Abandoned.

Columbus, O., Jan. 17.—A special from Shawnee, O., says: "The co-operative plan of operating the mine at Shawnee has been abandoned. Captain Turney, of Columbus, the proprietor of the mine, stated to the miners that the only contract he could guarantee was one for 6,000 tons and the miners, after considering the matter decided that it would be best not to go to work upon that plan."

PAIN BANISHED SLEEP.

A RHEUMATIC TELLS A WONDERFUL STORY.

Less Than Half a Bottle of Munyon's New Remedy Restored Him to Health.

James Buckley, 215 Washington street, Newark, N. J., says: "I have been suffering from rheumatism for a number of years. The pains were exceedingly severe and I could not sleep nights. The remedies I obtained did me little or no good, nor did the doctors whom I consulted. This had gone on, each recurring attack being more painful and prolonged than the previous one. I could not get relief until I commenced taking Munyon's Rheumatism Cure. Less than one-half a bottle drove all the rheumatism out of my system and I am as well and strong as I ever was in my life. I consider the remedy a wonderful one and take pleasure in recommending it."

Munyon's Rheumatism Cure is guaranteed to cure rheumatism in any part of the body. Acute or muscular rheumatism cured in from one to five days. PEOPLE OF THE FROZEN NORTH.

A Queer Life, Without Church, or School or Civilization.

The Eskimos sing almost constantly when they are indoors, between the intervals of sleeping and eating. Perhaps it is one of the necessities of their enforced idleness.

The Eskimo children are not indulged in a largely varied diet. But they are introduced to the family meals at a very tender age, and they are allowed to gorge themselves until they can eat no more. The Eskimos have been called a race of gluttons. That is unfair. They are primitive, uncleanly, and, in a passive way, wild. But it is unfair to stigmatize as gluttony the necessary replenishment of their greatly depleted organisms. The waste of carbon entailed by daily Eskimo life, with its active exercise and its constant exposure to severe temperature is enormous. The conditions of Eskimo life are so hard that the children are forced almost at babyhood to join in the daily occupations of the adults. So it is not strange that we find them gorging themselves like their elders. They eat seals' flesh, walrus beef, and bears' flesh; sometimes raw, sometimes partly cooked. Rats do not altogether escape the family pot. They suck blubber.

They devour all manner of eggs. The eggs of the eider ducks are their favorite dainty. They eat birds and fish, and mollusks, when they can get them. They depend very largely for sustenance upon the Iceland moss. Indeed, to many of the Eskimos, Iceland moss is what maccaroni and olives are to the Italians—what rice is to the Hindoos. The Iceland moss contains a bitter property which is nauseous to European palates, and when used as a food, not a drug, is very detrimental to health. But the Eskimos extract or neutralize this property. They chop the lichen into small bits, steep it for days in water in which is quicklime or salt of tartar.

Then they dry it, powder it, mix it with the flour of the knot grass, and make it into cakes. Or, if they have reindeer's milk with which to eat it, they boil it.

The Eskimo children go to no school. They learn nothing approaching book lore, save only the words of a few plaintive songs, and the superstitions of the Schaman, who is the medicine man, the priest, the conjuror of many of the Eskimo tribes.

Quaintly enough, Schaman is pronounced showman. And he is a showman indeed, and the children adore or fear him exceedingly. He makes wind and rain, casts out evil spirits, and is both medico and father confessor to the tribe.

In Greenland he is called Angekok Angekokism and Schamanism are nearly, if not quite, identical, and they embrace all the religion of which the Eskimo children of the far north ever hear. Of course the Eskimos who have migrated down toward the northern end of Anglo Saxon and of Norwegian civilization have been modified in many ways.

If the Eskimo child goes to no school of the ordinary kind, it goes to the most thorough of all schools, and in the busy academy of industrious daily life it learns completely each of the few things that it is necessary for an Eskimo man or woman to know.

The boys learn to find the nest where the wild sea birds lay their eggs. They learn to catch the eider ducks and to rob them of their soft warm down; they learn to fish in many odd and efficacious ways.

They learn to gather dry moss, to catch drift wood if any comes in their way and to extract blubber. These three things are their only fuels. They learn to make implements of peace and war, hewing them with stones out of stone. And they learn to wage war. Not with their fellow men but with the elements, and with the great sea monsters and the richly furred animals, from whom they wrest food, fuel, garments, and often the possibility of life itself.

They learn to disguise themselves in inflated sealskins, and so are able to creep up quite close to these, the most timid of all mammals. They learn to hunt the otter, the beaver, the sea horse and the ermine, the bear and the wolf. They learn to spear the salmon, the walrus and the whale. They learn to build canoes and snow huts. They learn to catch the wild birds with hand nets.

They learn to build sleds of the tusks and bones of great animals, to fashion lamps and kettles of soapstone, and to inlay their oars with quaint designs of ivory like bone and of walrus teeth. They learn to drive the long, mad teams of Eskimo dogs, and if they live in Labrador they learn to drive the wild reindeer.

The Eskimos live so near nature's cold north throne; they see so many wonders, which we cannot even dream, that they must always have for us a weird, strong fascination.

They know the marvel of 10,000 icebergs moored upon the black frozen sea. They see the superlative splendor of the Aurora Borealis. They know the sun that for months never sets. They know the night that for months never lifts.

The Eskimo girls learn to cook in a crude but adequate fashion. They learn to cure the skins of beasts and birds and to fashion them into rude garments. They learn to tend the soapstone lamps, which are their only fires, and must not go out, and to keep them always well fed with hunks of blubber.—Pall Mall Budget.

THE SUN'S FASHIONS.

ANYTHING WARM AND COMFORTABLE IS FASHIONABLE.

Fur at This Season Can be Used as Lavishly as One's Means will Permit. Plainer Fabrics that will Stand the Crush of Outer Garments are in Vogue.

The midwinter fashion budgets are not especially fruitful in prophecies or productive of new ideas in modes, but any garment which suggests warmth has at least some elements of interest in these frigid days. Fashion repeats itself again in the revival of the old redingote or ulster which appears under the name of driving cloak, or pelisse, according to the elegance of the material of which it is made. Velvets, satin brocades, fancy velour, and rough and smooth cloths are used in its construction, and at present fur is the trimming. It is made almost tight fitting, double or single breasted, and finished at the neck with a collar and wide revers of fur, or two or three capes if preferred. One of the freaks of fashion is double revers of two kinds of fur, one narrower than the other, and mink and Persian lamb make a desirable contrast. Some of these long coats are edged with fur down the front and blue Venetian cloth, trimmed with Persian lamb and jet, makes a very handsome garment for carriage wear. The one illustrated is of dark blue faced cloth, lined throughout with fur, double breasted and fastened with buttons. The seams are strapped and the collar is of Hudson Bay sable.

In gowns there is nothing absolutely new, yet there is no end to the variety in styles and trimming. Just at present anything which is fur trimmed and comfortably warm is in demand. But, as if to nip winter in the bud, dainty muslins, batistes and ginghams are displayed in the shop windows, and the old familiar shirt waists are brought up into line again, as though they had come to stay. But as one swallow does not make a summer, neither will these visions of summer attire dispense with the necessity of the genuine winter gowns. Here is one of fancy tweed trimmed with brown fur. A narrow band of brown velvet at the bottom of the skirt suggests an overskirt in the way which the skirt laps over it, and above this is a band of fur. The bodice is plain in the back and full over the bust to the wide corselet of embroidered brown silk, which also forms the lower sleeve. Plain velvet may be used instead of the silk, and is quite as pretty. Satin ribbon to match the velvet is used for the bows. Velvet and satin ribbons are very fashionable for dress trimmings, and a few spangles adds greatly to their effect. For example, a rough brown cloth dress with a plain skirt and close fitting bodice is trimmed with black satin ribbon about six or seven inches wide. It forms bretelles, or shoulder straps, plaited in to about two inches at the waist, meeting at the back and following the line of a full yellow velvet vest in front. One long end falls down each side of the front almost to the bottom of the skirt, and irridescent spangles, in graduated rows, trim them up about a quarter of a yard. The spangles appear again on the shoulders, and the collar and belt are of yellow velvet.—New York Sun.

TRILBY WILL SET THE FASHION.

Pretty Women Will Go Barefoot to Bathe in the Sea Next Summer.

It is said that fashion next summer will kindly permit ladies at seaside resorts to bathe without stockings, and stylish young women are already having their feet prepared for next season's campaign. Many feet which look just too captivating for anything in shoes and stockings are not altogether lovely when exposed to view, and feminine owners of such defective extremities are now invoking the aid of the pedicurists to make them presentable. Civilization and tight shoes have inflicted many wrongs upon the human understanding, and many ladies recognize that if they are to make impressions upon the masculine heart, as well as upon the sand, with their feet next summer, they must put themselves upon a better footing.

There are comparatively few Trilby feet in real life; few which are perfect in form and entirely free from blemish. Nevertheless, Du Maurier's rhapsody over the beauty of Trilby's foot may be to a certain extent responsible for the general note of preparation for the exhibition of feminine feet next summer. Many women who have read his novel may be anxious to prove that they too have something in that line, not entirely unworthy of admiration. And why should not a pretty foot inspire the poet and the artist quite as much as a hand or a lady's eyebrow?

Great execution has been done with the feminine foot through all the centuries. Even with its charms concealed by shoes and stockings, it has proved one of the most formidable of womanly weapons. With it woman has lured man on, and on, and on; and with it, when she has wearied of playing with him, she has administered the coup de grace. But when it shines forth next summer in all its loveliness, unadorned by anything but its own beauty, it will be simply irresistible. No bachelor will be safe at the seaside. The most hardened and cynical will capitulate at the sight of the thousands of snowy feet pattering over the sandy beach in unconventional freedom, or demurely presented for masculine inspection and approval. But what will the girls of Chicago do?—Baltimore Sun.

ODD SOURCE OF REVENUE.

Millions Made On Misfortune and Carelessness.

The Government of the United States makes many thousands of dollars every year through the carelessness or misfortune of people with whom it has business to transact. Uncle Sam can figure out pretty well before the beginning of a fiscal year that so many thousand dollars will be put to his credit on "profit and loss" account before the year is over. This profit will come from bonds and bank notes destroyed and never presented for redemption, from money orders which are lost and never duplicated, and stamps which are not put to the use for which they were intended. These profits are never cast up, because debts of the Government are seldom outlawed. But they are as real as though they were credited to Uncle Sam on the books of the Treasury.

Of course it is no fault of the Government that this profit accumulates. Every effort is made to find the man to whom the Government is indebted, and every reasonable opportunity is given to him to claim the amount of indebtedness. In the case of a lost or stolen bond he has simply to prove ownership and give an indemnity bond to protect the Government against loss. In the case of a Treasury note injured by fire, he has to send in the charred remains and the Treasury experts will decipher, as far as possible the value of the pile (its original value) and the money will be restored to him. In the case of a money order, both the remitter and the remittee are advised again and again that the money remains unpaid.

Still, claims against the Government aggregating many thousands are left unpaid every year, and the total of even the last 30 years will run far up into the millions. Even in the matter of unpaid money orders the Government has just made an accounting of $1,300,000 earned in the last 30 years and now turned into the Post Office Department fund, probably never to be repaid to the owners of it.

The greatest source of unearned income of course, is the destruction of Treasury notes. Nearly $15,000,000 have been made by the Government up to the present day as nearly as can be estimated, by the destruction of Treasury notes.

Played Craps in Church.

At a revival meeting in progress at the United Brethren Church, Jeffersonville, Ind., an unusual occurrence took place recently, resulting in George Perry being bodily ejected by a courageous pastor, the Rev. A. M. Colvin. No sooner had Perry entered the edifice than he walked up the centre aisle and seated himself in the midst of the congregation, where he began a game of craps with an occupant of the pew. During his discourse the pastor's attention was attracted incidentally by the snapping of fingers and it was with difficulty that he could locate the sound. Soon his eyes centered on Perry and his companion.

Without further ceremony the reverend gentleman walked out of the pulpit to where Perry was seated. He demanded the dice and stakes, which were surrendered. The pastor then proceeded to put Perry out. He remonstrated, but Mr. Colvin whipped out a knife as a persuader. The sight of the weapon caused Perry to submit. Perry was not only taken to the threshold of the church, but the determined pastor held to his man until he was landed in jail and a charge of disturbing a religious meeting slated against him. Perry's partner escaped.

FOR PLAINFIELD'S PROGRESS

Brave Soldiers In the Modoc War.

On the 17th of January, 1873, the United States forces attacked Captain Jack's famous stronghold in the Klamath "lava beds." The following pithy and concise report by the commanding officer, General Wheaton, led to the overtures by the peace commissioners which ended in the Canby massacre three months later:

"We attacked the Modocs on the 17th with about 400 men, good men, 225 of them regulars. We fought the Indians through the 'lava beds' to their stronghold, which is in the center of rocky fissures, caves, crevices, gorges and ravines, some of them 100 feet deep. In the opinion of any experienced officer of regulars or volunteers, 1,000 men would be required to dislodge them from their almost impregnable position with a free use of mortar batteries. No troops could have fought better than all did, advancing cheerfully against an unseen enemy over the roughest rock country imaginable.

"Our loss in killed and wounded is about 40. I have never before encountered an enemy, civilized or savage, occupying a position of such great natural strength as the Modoc stronghold, nor have I ever seen troops engage a better armed or more skillful foe." The actual loss was 11 killed and 21 wounded.

What made the task of the soldiers extra hazardous was the treachery of some armed Klamath "friendlies," who went along as scouts, but at the last moment deserted to the Modoc camp.

GEORGE L. KILMER.

Morgan's Victory at the Cowpens.

The anniversary of the battle of the Cowpens (1781) falls on the 17th of January. On that date General Daniel Morgan and his valiant lieutenants, William Washington and John Eager Howard, broke the power of Tarleton's British partisans in the Carolinas. Lord Cornwallis, the British commander in the south, had sent the notorious Tarleton with 1,100 picked men to drive Morgan's force across the North Carolina border. Morgan accepted battle at the Cowpens, an eminence on the north side of Thicketty mountain. His troops were posted in three lines, the foot militia in front, the regular infantry next, the regular cavalry and mounted militia being held in reserve.

Tarleton opened the battle at 9 o'clock in the morning with a heavy cannonade and discharge of musketry. On seeing the preparations of the British, Morgan had addressed each line of his troops separately. The militia in front included the best riflemen of his corps — Carolinians burning for revenge on Tarleton's marauding Tories — and to them Morgan appealed to stand firm and take sure aim. Two volleys, he told them, would finish Tarleton's men.

COLONEL WASHINGTON.

The British rushed to the attack, pouring a deadly fire of bullets into the American skirmishers, who retired upon the flanks of the first line. The latter fired two volleys, as instructed by Morgan, but did not fall back until the enemy resorted to the bayonet, when they joined the second line and reserves in good order. Upon the main line, commanded by Colonel Howard, and Morgan in person, the British then devoted their full energy, but the American regulars held their ground. Tarleton's line began to yield, and calling up his reserves he ordered that the American flank be assailed. The movement succeeded, and Morgan's second line broke in confusion. At the same time Tarleton's cavalry legion, 350 strong, fell upon the American rear, encountering Colonel Washington and his sabermen, the "Old Guard" of the field. Washington charged the British horse, driving it back in confusion. Cheered by this turn of affairs, the Americans rallied and destroyed Tarleton's command.

Col. Moore Welcomed.

(New York Evening Post.)

Col. Waring's first acts as street cleaning commissioner vividly illustrate the difference between running the department for political purposes and for the benefit of the city. He reduced the general office expenses to the amount of $7,000, and he appointed as deputy commissioner a well-known civil engineer and contractor, Col. Chas. K. Moore, whose politics nobody knows anything about. Nobody can mistake the significance of such performances. They show that this important department of the city government is to be run on business principles.

A $15 Blow.

The long blow of the borough fire gong at 4:30 yesterday afternoon was caused by the contact of an electric light wire. Before the safety plug could be pulled out coils had been burnt out at a damage of $15, and the tapper in Chief George Fairchild's house on Grandview avenue was burned out, the fused rubber falling to the floor in a blaze and burning the carpet. Good Time in a Good Cause.

The Women's Society for Christian Work of the Seventh-Day Baptist Church met in the church parlors yesterday afternoon for sewing. Refreshments were served from 6 to 8 and in the evening a sociable was given to the friends of the society. The good things were under the able care of Mrs. A. H. Lewis and Mrs. Nathan Randolph, and, of course, proved a very successful and enjoyable part of the sociable.

The literary programme was under the able direction of Harold Tomlinson, and consisted of a recitation by Miss Ethel Titsworth; a selection, "Sleep, Darling, Sleep", by a quartette composed of Mrs. C. H. Dunham, Mrs. Robert Gorton, Miss Ernestine Smith, and Miss Louise Lewis; a recitation by Miss Kizzie Naegle; and a song by the quartette. Each number was rendered in an excellent manner and was loudly applauded.

After the programme was completed, games were introduced. The name of some prominent author was written on a slip of paper and pinned on the back of each person in the room. Thus everyone knew the names of all except the one on his back and tried to guess that one from the questions asked him. This excited a great deal of merriment and interest and led to conversation both amusing and instructive.

The evening closed with a game called "Jacob and Ruth" which caused much laughter and was a fit closing for a very enjoyable evening.

REMOVAL.

Dr. Lighthill begs leave to give notice that he has removed to (a few doors from his former location) where he can be consulted on all chronic diseases of whatever name and nature.

Dr. Lighthill refers with pardonable pride to the success of his practice in Plainfield and submits below a few of the many testimonials which he has received from grateful patients. A mass of similar ones can be seen at his office.

AN ALMOST MIRACULOUS CURE.

The Statement of Mr. Edward Teel, Jr., of Dunellen, N. J.

TO THE PUBLIC:

From a sense of duty I desire to call public attention to the almost miraculous cure which Dr. Lighthill effected in the case of my wife. For eleven years she had been afflicted with piles of an unusual severe and distressing character. She suffered every day of her life the most intense pain, attended with frequent and profuse hemorrhage. This state of things debilitated her entire system until she became a perfect wreck of her former self.

We made every effort to obtain a cure but they all resulted in bitter disappointment, although a number of physicians of excellent reputations for skill in that direction had treated her case. She grew worse and worse all the time, the pain became perfectly unbearable and I felt she could not bear the strain of her condition much longer. In this extremity, a friend of mine, Mr. W. E. Dilts, a resident of Roselle, N. J., a passenger conductor on the New Jersey Central told me that he had been similarly affected, and had been permanently cured by Dr. Lighthill, after other medical skill had failed. He assured me that the doctor would cure my wife, no matter how severe her case may be, and his prediction proved perfectly correct. In spite of her desperate condition, Dr. Lighthill, I am glad to say, has effected a complete and perfect cure in her case, and has given her new life.

Since the cure has been effected she has gained in health and strength and is so improved in appearance that her friends scarcely recognize her. They all consider her cure as almost miraculous, and Dr. Lighthill's praise is heard on every side. Our gratitude to Dr. Lighthill is unbounded and we only hope that other sufferers may be benefited by this publication.

EDWARD TEEL, JR.

A Flattering Testimonial from Colonel John Dietrich, One of Plainfield's Oldest and Best Known Residents.

10 ARLINGTON PLACE,
Plainfield, N. J., July 17, 1894.

I am profoundly grateful to Dr. Lighthill for his speedy and radical cure of a most painful malady of over ten years standing with which I was afflicted.

I deem it proper to say to all afflicted to place themselves under the care of this skilful physician and be permanently cured.

I will cheerfully impart any information I possess when called upon.

JOHN DIETRICH.

Mr. Thomas Callahan of No. 214 Richmond street Cured of a Very Distressing Trouble by Dr. Lighthill.

PLAINFIELD, N. J., June 1, 1894.

TO THE PUBLIC:

For some time past I have been greatly distressed with noises in the head. They were all over my head and troubled me constantly; they were loudest at night when everything was quiet and at such times would often keep me from sleep and disturb my rest. In fact they got to be so bad and distressing that they affected my whole nervous system as well as my health. I did not obtain the least relief until I placed myself under the care of Dr. Lighthill, of No. 132 Crescent avenue, who effected a complete cure in my case in a short time and made me a very happy man.

THOMAS CALLAHAN,
214 Richmond street.

A Card From Mr. T. R VanZandt,

of Nos. 304 and 306 Park ave.,

Plainfield, N. J.

I certify with pleasure that Dr. Lighthill has effectually cured me of a most painful case of piles. For some time past I had been subject to its attacks, but the last attack was so exceedingly painful that it completely upset my whole system. The pain extended to my legs and in many other directions, and made me so nervous that I could neither sleep, sit down, lie down or move about without serious discomfort and distress. Such was my condition when I applied to Dr. Lighthill for relief, and I am glad to say that as soon as he took hold of my case, I began to improve, and in a short time found myself completely cured. Dr. Lighthill has also effected a radical and permanent cure in a most terrible case of piles on my cousin, Mr J. V. Z Griggs, of Rocky Hill, N. J., whose flattering testimonial is in Dr. Lighthill's possession.

STEAM IS TOO SLOW.

ELECTRICITY PROMISES TO SUPERSEDE IT IN EVERYTHING.

A Successful Storage Battery will Revolutionize the Application of Power to Machinery. A Telephone in Which You Can See the Person You Talk to.

Marvelous discoveries made in the study of electricity have stamped this as the electric age and the old year of 1894 as one of the brightest periods in a new world-making era. Electricians declare that the age of steam is nearing its close; that this powerful agency, so potent in the development of the century, is soon to be superseded by the still more powerful and all-producing fluid—electricity.

Men are to-day millionaires who a few years ago were almost penniless, and were enriched solely by presents made to them of electrical invention stocks which the original owners considered worthless. This is notably the case with some large holders of Telephone stock.

Since the perfection of the telephone the advance in the application of electricity to the conveniences, comforts and necessities of business and life has been rapid and bewildering. And yet, electricity is still a mystery. Its subtle force still defies analysis, but the Teslas, the Edisons, the Hertzes and others continue to study, delve and experiment, and what other marvels are to be produced before the end of 1895 imagination is incapable of predicting.

Electric locomotives are entering into use, and electricians are confident that in the propulsion of railway cars steam will ere long be discarded. The success of electric motors for railways has been conclusively shown during the past year. Electricity has also displaced the old-fashioned horse power on canals, and manufactories are run by its power.

In all the cities of consequence on the face of the civilized globe the electric light has assumed proportions which threaten to ultimately extinguish gas illumination.

But perhaps the most important of recent discoveries in this wonderful force is the transmission of power over long distances. Rome, Italy, now gets its water power from the Falls of Tivoli; Sacramento, Cal., is preparing to use water power in the same way, the source of supply being distant twenty miles, and a company is arranging to distribute the wonderful energy of Niagara Falls all over New York. The motive power for the running of countless industries is soon to be taken from the New Jersey lakes and operated by electricity.

Inventors and discoverers, have, in the last twelve months, placed before the public thousands of contrivances, useful and ornamental, with electricity as their basis. From Edison's laboratory have come the kinetoscope and the kinetograph, reproducing by the union of photography and electricity the most rapid motions and changes of human, animal and vegetable life. It is said that from the same prolific source an invention is soon to come which will faithfully reproduce renditions of grand opera, portraying the costumes, facial lineaments and voices of those who take part in the representation.

This is to be done with the kinetoscope and the phonograph on a large scale. Private persons are to be in a position to give grand opera to their guests in their parlors, with perhaps, Patti, Melba, Eames, Nordica, the de Reszkes, Plancon, Tomagno and other lyric artists of to-day, in the roles for which they are now celebrated.

Only a few Sundays ago a person intimately acquainted with the work of Mr. Edison informed a Sunday Advertiser reporter that the Wizard has practically completed an instrument that will do this, and that the coming marvel may be credited to the inventions in electrical apparatus of 1894.

In domestic economy electricity has played a most important part during the past twelve months. Electric stoves for cooking and heating and electric apparatus for the laundry are among the new things. No fires are to be made, there is to be no dust nor smoke. Just press a button or turn a knob and the machinery of the household is put to working.

Inventors have been hard at work perfecting the storage battery, and now it is said the great difficulties hitherto in the way—weight and dimensions—have been overcome. A prominent electrician says that the storage battery has been brought to such proportions that it can be attached to a bicycle or a tricycle, and a lover of the wheel may save his pedal exercise by letting electricity do the work for him, while he speeds on his safety through the country.

If 1894 has been so prolific in the discovery of new uses for electricity, what will 1895 bring forth? It is predicted that inventions will soon be made by which the person talking to another over the telephone will not only be able to distinguish the voice, but also to see the image of the person with whom he is communicating. It was only lately that the long-distance telephone was perfected, and it is said that the telephone company and allied corporations have stored in their headquarters appliances and inventions which will vastly improve the present service.

Wonderful indeed has been the last year in electrical improvement; more wonderful will be 1895.—N. Y. Advertiser.

A Story of Tolstoi.

Leo Tolstoi, the Russian novelist, who has ideas of his own as to the right of the community to punish its offending members, saw the other day a policeman take an individual into custody. He at once walked up to the constable and said:

"Can you read?"

"Certainly, sir."

"Have you read the Scriptures?"

"Yes, sir."

"Then you forget that they command us to love our neighbors as ourselves."

The minion of the law, quite taken aback, stared at the Count; then, after a moment's reflection, made answer:

"And pray, can you read?"

"Yes."

"Have you read the police regulations?"

"No."

"Then read them."

—Senate Lodge, K. of H., meets tonight.

—Happiness abides in the home of those who trade at Peck's.

—Boehm's bargains astonish everybody, and delight economical buyers His ad specifies some of them, but his store holds many not mentioned. The great granite sale is on in the basement.

—Shaving prices down to the half cent is mighty fine work. That what the Two Vans have done, and their full-column price list in The Press today affords an opportunity to make better use than ever of the money in hand.

—J. H. Tier & Son commenced cutting 9-inch ice Tuesday morning and worked nearly all Tuesday night and all day yesterday in the rain. They have 20 men at work. If the weather keeps moderately cool they will gather a full crop this week.

—Theodore Kurzhals, while walking on Park avenue yesterday, slipped on the ice and fell quite heavily to the sidewalk. His right arm, which had been sprained a few weeks ago, was given a severe shock and is now very sore from the effects of the fall.

—Do not fail to hear the charming contralto soloist, Miss Kathryn Krymer of Brooklyn, in the Congregational Church this evening; also Miss Addie Parker Jackson, the talented elocutionist. It will be a most enjoyable entertainment. Admission, 50 cents.

—A large and enthusiastic party was present at Zouave Armory Hall, Elizabeth, last evening enjoying the annual Railroad Men's Ball. Many from Plainfield, Dunellen and Roselle were in attendance. Peter Schneiderwind and wife of this city led the grand march. Many westbound guests came up on the paper train.

—The W. C. T. U. deserve great credit for their earnest efforts to please the Plainfield public and help their treasury by the series of entertainments just concluded. The public have not given the patronage they should, but the series has been most enjoyable. Tuesday night Mr Conde's boy orchestra was superb, and Marshall P. Wilder was as ever inimitable.

DO YOU FEEL WEAK?

Are You Nervous, Tired and Fretful?

WHAT WOULD YOU GIVE TO BE SUDDENLY MADE WELL?

You Can Get All Over These Feelings If You Will Do As We Say.

So many people are being cured of nervousness, weakness, tired feeling, sleeplessness, loss of appetite, bad taste in the mouth, billiousness and constipation, by that wonderful medicine, Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy, that it seems as though all such diseases must soon disappear.

And so they would if everybody would take the one medicine which is known to cure them. Mrs. Mary Blood, of Elizabethtown, Essex Co., N. Y., had the good judgment to see this was just what she needed. She took it and got well.

"About three years ago," she says, "I was taken with a mysterious trouble, trembling so that I was obliged to give up and go to bed. I had spells of violent vomiting, which ran into dyspepsia of the worst form. One day I was taken with a severe spell of shaking and trembling, and bec me terribly alarmed.

"I consulted physicians and took their treatment, but got no better. They said it was a severe case of prostration of the nerves but they could not help me. I took many kinds of medicines, but without benefit.

"I continually grew worse until, if the least excitement came over me I was completely exhausted, and obliged to give up entirely and go to bed. I was a complete wreck for about two years. During this time I doctored continually but without any good results, for I had pains all over my body and suffered awfully.

MRS. MARY BLOOD.

"Nobody can tell how bad I was. One day I took up a paper and saw Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy advertised, and the wonderful cures it had performed, and told my husband I thought it would suit my case. We immediately sent out and got a bottle.

"The first bottle I took helped me, and after I had taken five bottles I was completely cured. Myself and daughter did the work, including washing, for city boarders, eighteen in the family, and did it easily.

"I could sleep well nights, my food digested well, my nervousness all left me, and I felt like a new woman. My husband said my sleeping well was worth one hundred dollars to him in not keeping him awake nights as I used to.

"I think Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy is one of the best medicines there is, and I sincerely believe that if everybody would take more of it they would be far better. I cannot say enough in praise of this medicine. I most gladly and joyously write this for the public benefit, and send my blessing along with it."

Such strong testimonials as this count. If all the suffering men and women in this broad land could know the great good, the strong nerves, pure blood and perfect health which would come to them by using Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy, how quickly they would take Mrs. Blood's advice, and get well.

There are thousands of persons who are not sick with any particular disease, but are just out of order, have weak nerves and tired bodies. They do not eat or sleep well and wake tired mornings with dull-feeling head and coated tongue. They don't feel well, have lost their snap and energy, and work has become an effort. All such people will find in Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy the magic wand which will make them well.

It is not a patent medicine, but the prescription of the most successful living specialist in curing nervous and chronic diseases, Dr Greene, of 35 West 14th st., New York City. He has the largest practice in the world, and this great medical discovery is the result of his vast experience. The great reputation of Dr. Greene is a guarantee that his medicine will cure, and the fact that he can be consulted by any one at any time free of charge, personally or by letter, gives absolute assurance of the beneficial action of this wonderful medicine.

THE INCOME TAX FIGHT

Senator Hill's Amendment Defeated.

Urgent Deficiency Bill Passed—Currency Talk in the House—Republicans Claim To Be Ready to Support a Proper Measure—Mr. Simpson Creates Merriment.

Washington, Jan. 17.—The debate on Senator Hill's amendment to the urgent deficiency bill, in reference to testing the constitutionality of the income tax, occupied most of yesterday's session, and ended in the rejection of the amendment by an overwhelming majority. Mr. Vest's reminisences of the events of the last session while the tariff act was hanging in suspense between the two houses, were of considerable interest and importance, and his declaration that the president ought to call congress in extraordinary session immediately after it adjourned without proper financial legislation, attracted attention.

The urgent deficiency bill was finally passed and the senate at 5:45 adjourned till to-day.

In the House.

The usual dreariness of debate in the house upon general appropriation bills, the Indian bill being under consideration, was relieved by an unexpected digression into the cause of the defeat of the Carlisle currency and banking bill. It was precipitated by Mr. Walker (rep., Mass.), who made the statement that the republicans were ready and willing to support a proper measure for the relief of the country. To this, Mr. Warner (dem., N. Y.) responded that the republicans were seeking an excuse for their action in defeating the rule for the consideration of the Carlisle bill, in connection with those democrats who had voted with them, and he said the statements of the gentleman from Massachusetts were a mere pretence.

Mr. Money (dem., Miss.) speaking for the free silver democrats denied responsibility for the failure of the rule, and charged it upon the committee on rules who had refused to permit an understanding to be had that a vote on the Bland free silver substitute should be taken.

Mr. Catchings (dem., Miss.) defended with some feeling the action of the committee on rules, saying it had been dictated wholly by the instruction of the democratic caucus.

Mr. Reed (rep., Me.) said that the situation, in a nut shell, was that the Carlisle bill fell of its own weight, because everybody recognized that it never could have received the votes of a majority of the house. The duty that devolved upon the democrats was to give the government sufficient revenues to meet expenditures; that would restore the credit of the government and relieve the general financial situation.

Mr. Simpson (pop., Kan.) raised a laugh by stating that in view of the reluctance of the old parties to assume responsibility for the defeat of the Carlisle bill, he would be proud to take it for the populists. He would also propose a plan for relief, as both the old parties were backward in that respect; use silver to pay government obligations; coin the silver seigniorage in the treasury and issue treasury notes. Messrs. Bland dem., Mo.) and McRae (dem., Ark.), also contributed to the digression, which then closed.

FOR POLITICAL ECONOMY.

Donation of $50,000 for a Chair in the Catholic University.

Washington, Jan. 17.—It is learned here that at the banquet which followed the dedication of the "Sancta Maria Home" for working girls, at Providence, R. I., recently, Mr. Joseph Banigan, the well known rubber manufacturer and the founder of many charitable institutions, handed Bishop Keane, his special guest on that occasion, a check for $50,000, to found a chair of political economy in the new school of the social sciences of the Catholic university of America, in Washington.

Tried To Wreck Trains.

Palmer, Mass., Jan. 17.—James Lambera was arrested last evening on information furnished by Charles F. Thompson, held for breaking into the state primary school. In October, of 1893, obstructions were placed on the New London, Northern railroad track and the offense was repeated in November. Thompson has confessed that he and Lambert did this.

A Ticket Agent Missing.

Memphis, Tenn., Jan. 17.—Howard Jolly, passenger agent for the Chesapeake & Ohio railroad and ticket agent for the Cotton Belt route in this city, has been missing nearly a week and his friends and bondsmen are alarmed. He was heard from in Kansas City last Thursday. His accounts, it is alleged are short nearly $3,000.

Central Pacific Six Per Cents.

Washington, Jan. 17.—The first bonds issued 30 years ago in favor of the Central Pacific railroad, known as the 6 per cent. subsidy bonds, became due yesterday and the treasury under the law began their payment. The first batch amounts to $2,362,000 and interest since Jan. 1, 1865. No more of these bonds will be due this year.

E. F. Shepard's Personal Property.

New York, Jan. 17.—M. L. Ransom, who, some months ago, was appointed by the surrogate to appraise the value of the personal property of the late Elliott F. Shepard, finds that the par value of the personal property left by Mr. Shepard is $939,246.20, and the appraised value $1,037,556.16.

LIVED TOO HIGH.

Labor Leader Burns' Constituents Excited.

London, Jan. 17.—The publication of stories describing the luxurious manner in which John Burns, the labor leader and member of parliament traveled during his recent visit to the United States, and the description given of the life which he led aboard the Cunard steamship Etruria, "eating turtle soup and hobnobbing with millionaires," are causing much excitement among his constituents in the Battersea division of London.

The Evening News devotes a page to describing the travels of the labor leader. Mr. John W. Benn, M. P., who accompanied Mr. Burns to the United States, last evening explained to a large audience at Assembly hall, Mile End Road, this indulgence in luxuries.

He said that he was ill and consequently obliged to travel first-class. Therefore he asked Mr. Burns to share his cabin, that the latter might nurse him.

TESTED HAYWARD'S NERVE.

Twin Sister of Catherine Ging Faces Him.

Minneapolis, Minn., Jan. 17.—Harry Hayward's nerve did not desert him when the state's attorney brought the supposed murderer of Miss Catherine Ging suddenly face to face with Miss Julia Ging, of Auburn, N. Y., the twin sister of the murdered woman. The meeting was arranged for the purpose of trying the nerve of Hayward, no intimation being given him. The prisoner looked up calmly in his cell, bowed and said:

"From appearances, I should say this was Miss Julia Ging. Is not this Miss Ging?"

The woman gave a nod of affirmation only. Hayward went on to protest his innocence, and declared he could convince Miss Ging if he had a long talk with her. His visitor repeated the prisoner's words:

"Time will tell."

BATTLE OF KAI-PHING.

Liu Outgeneralled and Many High Officers Killed.

London, Jan. 17.—The Times correspondent in Tien-Tsin says:

"Authentic details of the battle of Kai-Phing are scanty. It appears that the Japanese outgeneralled Liu. Among the 2,000 killed were many high officers. General Shui and Ma were near the scene with a sufficient force, but they held aloof."

The Times correspondent in Pekin telegraphs:

It seems that Mr. Hubbard was on his way to call upon an Armenian friend when the captain stopped him, demanded his passport, took him to a police station, and struck him. Mr. Hubbard was finally released, and placed the matter before the United States minister.

Dr. Meyer was convicted and sentenced to state's prison for life. He is now serving his sentence.

WILLING TO ARBITRATE

Concessions from Trolley Car Strikers.

The Strike May End To-Day—No Serious Acts of Violence Committed—Cars Run Under Police Protection—Armories Guarded by Volunteers—Loss to the Companies.

Brooklyn, N. Y., Jan. 17.—The third day of the battle between the trolley companies and their employes resulted in a slight advantage for the companies. Three lines out of the 48 tied up were operated under police protection, but the ranks of the strikers are still intact. Late in the day the striking motormen and conductors laid certain propositions before the state board of arbitration, which may result in a settlement of the strike by compromise to-day. Pending such an outcome there was a truce in hostilities, and rioting was not resorted to.

Practically the surface lines of the city were paralyzed. The public, as usual, was the greatest sufferer. The great army of residents of the city who are engaged in business in New York, had much difficulty to get to the bridge and ferries. The elevated roads were unable to carry the crowds, although they pressed every car into service and worked their employes extra time. A severe storm of rain, snow and sleet prevailed all day and added to the misery of the pedestrians, who plodded through the sloppy streets to and from business. Hackmen did a rushing business at fancy prices, and all kinds of vehicles were pressed into service. Shoppers, and people upon pleasure bent remained at home, and the big dry goods stores were empty all day.

No serious acts of violence were committed by the strikers, and though the entire police force of the city was on duty there was little for the blue coats to do.

The fear of violence or a disinclination to patronize trolley cars operated by green hands kept the public from patronizing the few surface cars that were running. President Lewis, of the Brooklyn Heights company, said he had plenty of applicants for the strikers' places and would put on many more cars, but for the lack of police protection. Each car is run with a policeman on the front platform and another at the rear end. As the total Brooklyn police force numbers only 1,700, and as large details are necessary at the car houses and stables and at threatened points along the lines of the different companies, the number which can be spared from regular patrol duty is inadequate to operate many cars. Running cars is therefore largely a question of police protection. There has been talk of asking aid of the sheriff and of having the militia ordered out, but there is no disturbance of the peace to warrant such action. The armories are guarded by volunteers from the different regiments as a precaution, but unless the situation undergoes a decided change there will be no bayonets in this strike.

Labor leaders stated last night that the men were willing to make concessions on some points, but would insist upon the recognition of their organizations by the signing of an agreement to succeed the one which expired December 31 last.

The state board of arbitration will lay the propositions of the men before the presidents of the roads and will expect a reply to-day. In substance the strikers propose that both sides waive all demands, and submit the whole matter to the board of arbitration for decision, each side agreeing to abide by the result.

Chairman Edward Feeney, of the board of arbitration, said that he believed from talks he had had with the presidents of the roads and with the leaders, that some arrangement will be made by which the strike will be called off.

Master Workman Connolly says that not one of the 6,000 men on strike has deserted, that he is assured of outside financial aid, and that the men can hold out indefinitely if no agreement is made by the companies.

The tie-up of the Brooklyn trolley lines is costing the companies a mint of money. It is estimated upon the basis of the figures furnished by the different companies of their average daily traffic, that they have been losing between $30,000 and $40,000 a day ever since the strike began.

It is estimated that the daily gross receipts of the Brooklyn City company line are about $20,000. The Atlantic Avenue company receives about $9,000 a day from passengers, and the De Kalb and Franklin avenue system about $3,500 a day.

AN OLD MANSION.

WHERE WASHINGTON QUARTERED IN COLONIAL DAYS.

Commodore Vanderbilt Courted Sally Lake Within Its Historic Walls. In Turn the Home of Royalists and Patriots. Relics of Ancient Times.

We have no Tower of London, with its horrible and bloody memories, yet we have many places where cluster interesting bits of history, tragic in some instances, pathetic and romantic in others, and comical and humorous in the extreme in many others. The old Austin house on Staten Island is one of these places where history records not only the sublime but the ridiculous under one roof.

This charming old residence, the ancestral home of the Lake family of Staten Island, was built somewhere about the year 1710, and is situated on Pennsylvania avenue, Clifton, Staten Island, north of the Quarantine station and near the waterside, with a beautiful lawn where lilacs and wistaria bloom in their season and venerable shade trees, moved by the breezes of New York Bay, nod their welcome to the approaching visitor. The waters of the bay lap the foot of the lawn, making music in harmonic cadence to the sighing wind through the branches of the tall trees. Many other buildings of ante-Revolutionary days have passed into oblivion, but it seems as if one has been preserved expressly to keep in memory the historic associations which cluster about it.

During Revolutionary times this old mansion was in turn the abode of Loyalists and Patriots, and a scene of love occurred there which ended in a tragedy and which has given rise to the story that some of its chambers are haunted.

This same house was Lord Howe's headquarters when he came to New York in 1776 with his 10,000 red coated British troops and bloodthirsty Hessians, and later on under the same roof Benjamin Franklin and Lord Howe discussed the terms of peace.

A good story is told of how near General Washington, commander-in-chief of the Continental Army, came to being captured by some of Lord Howe's marauders at this house. It was while the campaign was on in New Jersey that General Washington ventured over on Staten Island, accompanied by a portion of his staff. Noon found them at the Lake homestead, where Washington was a welcome guest at all times, and while they were sitting at dinner a troop of British cowboys and Tories rode into the dooryard and began to hitch their horses. They had evidently been riding hard, and several of them showed evidences of fighting, as they were covered with blood. They were in bad humor, that was evident, and as they caught sight of the American officers' horses they at once surrounded the house and prepared to close in on its inmates, who they knew must be of considerable importance from the trappings on their horses.

Just as Washington and his aides were about to make a fight for their escape there came a shout from the road leading to the south, and the British marauders flew to their horses and scampered away. In a minute, two companies of continental dragoons swept into the yard with Richard Henry Lee, "Lighthorse Harry, the Gamecock of the Santee," and Col. Aaron Burr, the quartermaster of the Continental Army, at their head.

What makes the old house especially interesting at the present day is the history told by a pane of glass in one of the windows. On this window pane, which is carefully guarded, is scratched the words: "Sall Lake, C., 1812." To the uninitiated this does not stand for much, but it meant much for the man who left his mark there, and the man was Cornelius Vanderbilt, the elder, better known as "The Old Commodore."

Many years ago Mr. John H. Austen, while acting as a member of the crew on Commodore Vanderbilt's yacht during an amateur race, called his attention to the old house and told him how it had charmed him when a boy and that he had made a resolution to own it if he was ever able to buy and it was for sale, and that it had finally came into his possession.

"I know the place well," returned Commodore Vanderbilt. "I courted my first love in that house and she was one of the prettiest girls I ever saw. Her name was Sally Lake, and the Lakes were at that time wealthy and I was poor. I loved her, but her mother was a worldly wise woman and objected to my courting her daughter. When I asked the reason the old lady said:

"'Well, Corneil, if you want to know so bad I'll tell you. You're a poor shack, and you will never be able to support Sally as a woman of the Lake family should be supported, and I won't have her marry such a poor devil as you are.'"

The Commodore then told Mr. Austen that on a certain window pane in the upper story he would find the inscription: "Sall Lake, C., 1812." He said he had cut it there while the beautiful Sally stood beside him, he with one arm about her waist, while he used the diamond ring on her finger to cut the inscription. The letter C., he said, stood for his own name, and the figures for the year.

It is said that both Mrs. Lake, who objected to Sally's marrying "such a poor devil" as Cornelius Vanderbilt, and Sally lived to see the "poor shack" worth $20,000,000 and become the king of American financiers. If that be true, and it doubtless is, there must have been an amount of deep thinking on the part of the scheming mother and the fickle Sally.

Since Mr. Austen has owned the old house, and that is for over two score of years, he has gathered many articles of historic value within its walls. Between the huge oak beams which form the ceiling timbers are panels of English deal taken from a British ship captured during the Revolution. In his parlor is a link and bolt of the great chain which was stretched across the Hudson at Fort Clinton, West Point, to prevent the British from ascending the Hudson, the chain having been made by Peter Townsend, the grandfather of Mrs. Austen. A portrait of the patriotic blacksmith is also among the relics as well as many other articles of lesser value.

Ample Compensation.

"Will you kindly take off your hat?" said the gentleman behind the girl with the mammoth headgear, "I won't see my $1.50 worth of the show if you don't."

"No, sir," replied the girl, amiably, as she turned around and smiled serenely upon him. "You may be deprived of a show worth $1.50, but please to remember you are permitted to see a hat worth $35. —Chicago Record.

ACROSS THE ISTHMUS IN '49.

A Lady's Experience During the Gold Excitement.

From a recent work of Sarah Merriam Brooks the following experiences are taken:

At the end of nine miles of railway on the Isthmus, passengers and baggage were transferred to boats on the Chagres River.

"Our boat took twenty people and the baggage, which was piled in the centre in a sort of pyramid. The boat was a flat bottomed affair, with a seat which ran all around the inner edge. The outer edge was provided with a wide board, which served as a sort of promenade for the boatmen. They had large poles which they stuck from the prow of the boat into the bottom of the river, and held there while they trotted back, and the boat glided along under their feet. We had eight of these boatmen—big, black fellows, almost naked. Desperately ugly in looks, they proved equally so character. For the first hour or so it was cool and the river was shaded by trees. Then the sun came out with a fierce heat which caused the perspiration to pour off the boatmen in copious streams, and eventually made them discard their solitary garment. The female portion of our company sought the seclusion of their umbrellas, whereupon the gentlemen commanded the boatmen to resume their garments. A stormy scene ensued, with the result that at the first hut we came to on the bank of the river our men deserted and left us to our fate. Their excuse was they wanted breakfast, but after waiting an hour for them, and being nearly suffocated with heat, a delegation of well armed men sought them out and found them fast asleep under the trees. They were yelled at and prodded with sticks, but being half drunk it was hard work to awaken them. After much threatening with knives and pistols, they sullenly came down to the boat, our men bringing up the rear with their weapons very much in evidence.

"They stopped that night at Taveneer. The boat was run up on a beach, and we all got out, so cramped, sore and miserable altogether, as to make walking, even the short space required, almost an impossibility.

"After a supper, which they could not eat, had been offered, the travellers climbed a ladder into a loft. After we were all up the men looked around for their separate quarters, and lo and behold! there was only the one garret for us all. The beds were single cots—no pillows, blankets, or bedding of any kind. There were not enough cots for even the women and children, so the men had to take the floor.

"The crying of children with fever and thirst, the chattering of monkeys, the shrieks of night owls, and every form of expression possible for paroquet made night hideous. It seemed as if every tree in the dense forest by which we were surrounded was the home of beast or bird and teeming with life which had been hidden away or slept during the day. Then the woods were as silent as is every living thing had been suddenly struck dumb.

"There was another sleepless night, which was divided into watches for fighting the numbers of flying and creeping things, which, attracted by our light, would swarm in the moment a door was open. The morning light showed us many dead things which made us shiver, slain by a vigorous hand wielding a woman's shoe—our only weapon.

The next morning my breakfast consisted of some black liquid in a coffee cup and a piece of dark bread. Dipping the bread in the cup we ate what we could, hoping for noting but to sustain life until we reached the steamer.

"It was a novel experience, reaching the steamer. There was no wharf or landing place. All about in the water were natives, big and little, old and young, and among these small boats were tossing idly about. Further out nearer the steamer many large barges or lighters were hurrying along, each one trying to get its human freight first on board.

"I saw all this, but still wondered how are we to get there? All at once, without a word of warning, I was grabbed from behind. One black arm was around my waist and another under my knees, and I was lifted up and carried straight out into the water. I wanted to scream, but a laugh from the doctor and a shout from Lena, who was treated the same way, changed my mind. The water deepened so gradually that it seemed a long time before we reached one of the small boats which I had looked upon as idle things, and into which we were dumped without ceremony. Our lighter was the last to reach the steamer, and as we came up to her there were still two to unload before our turn came. It was high noon, and the heat was intense. I doubted if I could live until those boats were unloaded."

The Race of 1895.

After all, Valkyrie III. will come next autumn to make the ninth attempt to regain the America's Cup into the possession of Old England. We felicitate the yachtsmen of both countries on the making of the match—those of America for not letting themselves be rattled by irresponsible chatter and bad manners on both sides of the ocean, though mainly on the other side, the Royal Yacht Squadron for the reconsideration of its unwarrantable resistance to the deed of gift, and, lastly, his Royal Highness, the Prince of Wales, for pulling his fellow boatmen out of a muddle into which courtesy didn't lead them. We confess that during the late unsatisfactory stage of the negotiations for this coming race our confidence in his Royal Highness as the "first gentleman of Europe" was somewhat shaken. Extraordinary as it may be, the attack on the legal validity of the instrument by which an American club holds a challenge cup presented by American owners was made chiefly by English yachtsmen or by those here representing them.

MRS. LEASE ANGRY.

She Settles a Hotel Bill Incurred in Behalf of the Populist Party.

It was a hard matter to find a member of the Populist party who took a prominent part in the late campaign in this county yesterday. Mrs. Mary Elizabeth Lease quietly came to the city Sunday night. The object of her visit was well known to the Populist leaders, and they made themselves scarce during her stay. She left the city early yesterday afternoon, and they then began to appear from over the State line.

One mission Mrs. Lease came down on was the settlement of her hotel bill of $4.50 contracted while making speeches in this city for the Populist Central Committe during the campaign. She left the bill unpaid with the understanding that the Central Committee would pay it. After the campaign was over, and the committee failed even to make an excuse for not paying the same, Mr. Allmon, the proprietor of the hotel, sent the bill to Mrs. Lease. She in turn forwarded it to the Populist Central Committee, and the members of the committee refused to pay it. Mrs. Lease was very angry when she heard of this, and wrote a very spirited letter to the committee, in which its members were arraigned in harsh language. That is the reason the members of the committee made themselves so scarce.—Kansas City Times.

Sir Walter Scott's Dogs.

Sir Walter Scott was a great lover of dogs, and always had fine ones around him. One day, in conversation with a friend, he said:

"Those dogs," pointing to two fine hounds lying on the hearth, "understand every word I say."

The friend expressed his doubts of this statement. Sir Walter, to prove it, took up a book and began thus to read aloud:

"I have two lazy, good for nothing dogs, who lie by the fire asleep and let the cattle ruin my garden."

Both dogs instantly sprang up and ran out of the room, and finding no cattle in the garden returned and lay down by the fire. The baronet again read aloud from the book the story. Again the dogs ran out and again returned disappointed and lay down. The third time their master told the story, when instead of going out the dogs came up to him and looked him in the face, whined, and wagged their tails, as much as to say, "You have made game of us twice; you cannot do it for the third time."

To Get Rid of Them.

What is the matter with sending Mary Lease, Wheels-in-His-Head Waite, Jerry Simpson, and others of that stamp, over to Europe to tell the people over there what uncout savages they are? English and French people come to America to do this, and charge admission.—Atchison Globe.

WASHINGTON NEWS.

THE PRESIDENT GIVES OUT AN INTERVIEW ON HAWAII.

Echoes of the Sugar Scandal of Last Session. The Government Saloon Again Attacked. Sugar Bounty Unconstitutional. Cleveland and Hill.

The crusade of Senator Allen, begun the other day against the privileges granted to one Page, who keeps a restaurant in the national Capitol, will no doubt be appreciated along the shores of the Platte, however it may be on the left bank of the Potomac. The Nebraska Senator says that Mr. Page, occupies, free of charge, seven or eight of the best rooms in the splendid building, four being devoted to the dispensing of food to hungry Senators; that the Government through the Senate's contingent fund, pays for every stove and range in the kitchen and every article of kitchen furniture. It pays for every pound of fuel used in Page's cooking, for all his lights, and even for all the ice, the latter alone to the tune of about $300 a month. Last year, as Mr. Allen is informed, the ice bill was over $3,000, and the Government also paid for washing Mr. Page's rooms and cleaning his carpets. In looking over the bills for 1892, Mr. Allen found a purchase on one day of 170 yards of Axminster carpet and 106 yards of other carpet for the restaurant, at $2.50 per yard put down, making $680 for that item alone. A few years ago the kitchen was remodelled and fixed up, and the bill was $11,000, paid by the Government. In addition to the annual interest on that sum represented in the permanent fixtures, the Government pays, it appears, "fully $700 a month," for what is consumed in the form of ice, fuel, lights, and so on, or about $8,000 a year.

The Court of Appeals of the District of Columbia, through Justice Shepard, has delivered an opinion affirming the decision of Judge McComas in the District Circuit Court refusing to grant the application of the Miles Planting and Manufacturing Company of Louisiana for a mandamus to compel the Secretary of the Treasury and the Commissioner of Internal Revenue to make an examination of the sugar produced by the company, preliminary to the payment of the sugar bounty for 1894, which Secretary Carlisle refused to pay on the ground that the new Tariff law repealed the bounty provision of the McKinley act. The most interesting feature of the Court's opinion is its practical declaration that the granting of bounties is unconstitutional.

It is announced here that John J. Ingalls will cancel his dates to lecture in Iowa and other States and arrive at Topeka on the 14th to witness the inauguration of Gov.-elect Morrill. This has created a stir among the Senatorial candidates, who vie with each other in declaring that Ingalls cannot possibly win the Senatorship. The contest is exceedingly animated, but J. R. Burton is in the lead, and his friends say he will certainly win. The first ballot will probably stand: Burton, 28; Ady, 17; Thacher, 17; Leland, 16; Hood, 19; Smith, 5; Ingalls, 4, and Hatfield, 1. The estimate is made from the inside figures secured by the managers of the various candidates.

There is no doubt whatever that President Cleveland did send Senator Hill a friendly autograph letter, asking him to dine at the White House that memorable Thursday night, and everybody in Washington is wondering what it all means.

President Cleveland's statement touching the unpublished features of his Hawaiian policy caused the greatest surprise in Washington. The President's methods of communicating with Congress are both various and unusual. Sometimes he adopts the plan of the Constitution, which has been followed by his predecessors, and sometimes he transmits his views by means of personal letters to members of the House or to the Governor of Georgia. In this particular case he has struck out a new path for himself. He has replied by a newspaper interview to words spoken in debate by a Senator. In his statement the President said: "Soon after the overturning of the late government of the Queen I investigated that transaction, and was satisfied that there had been such an unjustifiable interference in aid of that movement, on the part of the representatives of the government of the United States in its diplomatic and naval service, as to call for correction, not only to rectify what seemed to be a wrong done to others, but also, through that rectification, to ward off what appeared to be a danger to American honor and probity. Fully appreciating the constitutional limitations of my executive power, and by no means unmindful of the hindrances that might arise, I undertook the task. Having failed in my plans, I committed the entire subject to the Congress of the United States, which had abundant power and authority in the premises."

The Court of Appeals of the District of Columbia has rendered an opinion sustaining the decision of Judge Cole in the case of Messrs. Chapman and Macartney, the stock brokers who refused to testify before the Senate sugar investigating committee regarding individual speculations by Senators through their firms. Judge Cole's decision overruled a demurrer filed by the brokers to the Government indictment. The other recalcitrant witnesses are Henry O. Havemeyer, John E. Searles, President and Secretary, respectively, of the American Sugar Refining Company; E. J. Edwards and J. S. Shriver, newspaper correspondents, and Edward A. Seymour, stock broker. The offence charged in the indictments is punishable by a fine of not more than $1,000 nor less than $100, and imprisonment in jail for not more than twelve and not less than one month.

ROGER LEWIS.

The Baptist Minister's Home.

Did you ever hear of the word pastorium?

The word is the coinage of Dr. M. B. Wharton, the Baptist minister, formerly of Montgomery, Ala. He found a lamentable absence of words to indicate the residence of a Baptist preacher—the Methodists with their parsonage, Episcopalians with their rectory, but a Baptist minister had no name for his home.

Mr. Wharton settled it. Pastorium was the word.

It has now gone into the language.—Atlanta Journal.

FAMOUS DAYS OF THE DELEVAN.

The Old Albany Hotel Was the Haunt of State Legislators for Half a Century.

Politicians of the older time have had their memories quickened by the fire that destroyed the famous Delavan House at Albany. No doubt the stories that the walls of the noted rooms in the hotel could have told would have discounted all other reminiscences, but the walls were wisely silent in their day, and even now the people who are best fitted to talk are equally dumb on many interesting subjects. Indeed, it is doubtful if the political history that is yearly made in this city is ever faithfully written. There are times and occasions when the truth itself is dangerous.

To two of the rooms peculiar interest attached from such associations. These were parlors 57 and 454. In 57 that noted old warrior, Dean Richmond, for many years held forth to the confusion of his opponents in the political field. In it Stephen A. Douglas received his friends when swinging round the circle in the Presidential campaign of 1860. Andrew Jonnson also had his quarters there when he visited Albany with Grant, Seward and others in his search for a renomination to the Presidency. The memory of the big reception which was given the party is yet clear in the recollection of many who then enjoyed the scenes which accompanied the event. Governor Hoffman also had rooms on this corridor when he came to Albany for his inauguration in 1869, and subsequently Tilden, who was his campaign manager, also came to the Delevan when his own turn came in the whirligig of politics.

Most of all, this parlor was remembered as having been occupied by the lordly Conkling in that notorious contest known as the Platt-Conkling fight. It was there that Arthur received the news of the assassination of Garfield while in the very heat of the campaign that did not end in the vindication of either Mr. Platt or Mr. Conkling. Possibly this was the fiercest and most far reaching of all the struggles which made the old Delevan House noted far and near. It certainly involved the most men, and others besides Mr. Platt yet live to regret it. No other event has been more generally recalled by the fire, except, perhaps, the Senatorial contest between Morton and Miller, which resulted in the landing of the astute Hiscock, whose cards were played by "Jim" Belden. The combination of the Morton and Hiscock forces left Mr. Miller outside the breastworks and also left memories that are bitter even to this day.

Even livelier scenes are recalled by the mention of parlor 454. This was a part of the suite occupied by Tweed in his palmy days, when tradition says he had doors cut through and a private staircase put in to suit his own ideas of convenience and security from observation. Connolly and Genet and all those who became more or less famous through the methods used to overcome opposition and do business made this suite their headquarters. For some reason the idea prevailed that this room was lucky, and it was much sought after by aspirants for political honors, especially Speakership candidates. General Husted, in his day, would have reckoned himself homeless when a fight was on unless he was housed in its familiar walls.

THE WONDERFUL GRAND CANYON

More Impressive Than Niagara, More Beautiful Than the Alps.

There are many wonders within the limits of the Yellowstone Park, but of them all there is nothing so wonderful as the Grand Canon of the Yellowstone River. One can at no season of the year view this tremendous gorge without a sense of awe at the work of the Titanic elemental forces which have hollowed it out of the enduring granite of the hills. There is an impression of unspeakable solemnity conveyed by this giant spectacle, and no American looks upon it without a sense of absolute humility and insignificance. The thought, the meaning, the expression of the Grand Canon is something the human mind is unable at first to grasp. There is no coup d'œil possible there; there is no definite thought resultant upon any single glance at the Grand Canon, no matter how comprehensive, or how perspective that may be.

The Grand Canon refuses to be compassed at a glance. It demands faithful, patient, humble study. More impressive than Niagara, more mighty than the sea, more beautiful than the Alps, it offers to the visitor an enigma capable of solution only after long and reverent acquaintance. To attempt to see the Grand Canon in an hour on a day is rediculous. To attempt to see it as one of a crowd is a wrong to one's best self. To study it hour after hour, to drink in with unabated zest the same view time after time, day after day, to see the mountain lights and shades give a thousand differene expressions to the face of nature, and to learn some new feature even at the last visit to some point of view—these are the things which make the visitor and observor at first curious, then wondering, and then we may say worshipful. Not even the most blase world trotter was ever heard to express disappointment with the Grand Canon of the Yellowstone, and it is singular to notice the universally respectful and subdued comment upon it by even the most casual and flippant visitor.

There are very few persons who have seen the canon in winter time, and it may be well believed we made the most of our rare privilege. It was risky work approaching the great walls on the skis, but we managed to get to different points commanding full view of the main portion of the canon and of both the Great Falls and the Upper Falls of the Yellowstone. The Great Falls were encased in vast white columns of ice on each side, and from them arose a noble pillar of dense white vapor. Never again shall we see a more remarkable sight than that thus presented to us on that clear winter morning.—Phila. Press.

The Mysterious Disappearance Syndicate.

A Mysterious Disappearance Syndicate has been discovered to exist. Two Atchison men who disappeared were members of it. The syndicate provides a place for them to go to, making an exchange with men in some other part of the world who want to disappear. Shortly after the disappearance of the two Atchison men, it is claimed two strangers of retired habits, evidently not wishing to be known, came here, and have lived here ever since. It is claimed they were exchanged for the Atchison men.—Atchison Globe.

How They Grew a Bell.

At the beginning of the last century the only church bell at Grosslaswitz, Germany, was so small that its tones were not sufficient to penetrate to the ends of the village. A second bell was badly wanted, but the village was poor and where was the money to come from? One Sunday when the schoolmaster, Gottfried Hayn, was going to church, he noticed growing out of the churchyard wall a flourishing stock of green corn, the seed of which must have been dropped by a passing bird. The idea suddenly struck him that perhaps this one stalk of corn could be made the means of procuring the second bell they wanted so much. He waited until the corn was ripe and then he plucked the six years on it and sowed them in his own garden. Next year he gathered the little crop thus produced and sowed it again, until at last he had not room enough in his garden for the crop, and so he divided it among a certain number of farmers, who went on sowing the ears until, in the eighth year, the crop was so large that when it was put together and sold they found that they had money enough to buy a beautiful bell.—Harper's Young People.

The reader of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly on the blood and mucous surface of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer $100 for any case that it fails to cure.

DR. CLARK GETS BETTER.

His Household Annoyed by Letters Suggesting Remedies.

Dr. C. H. Clark of East Second street, whose serious illness has had the attendant feature of constant hiccoughing not uncommon in elderly people, is slowly and steadily improving under the care of Drs. Jenkins and Hallock. His hiccoughs have been eight to the minute, but yesterday morning, at the end of the seventh night and the beginning of the seventh day of the hiccoughing, Dr. Clark fell asleep and for about fifteen minutes slept naturally without a hiccough. On his awakening the trouble immediately reasserted itself, but Dr. Jenkins, who was present at the time, feels much encouraged by the little interval of cessation. He ascribes this to the use of the homœopathic preparation of hyoscyamus, which throughout has seemed to have an alleviating effect. So long as it shows any good effect at all the other remedies of which so many have been suggested will not be tried. Most of them are impracticable in this case, since the patient's weakened condition renders any but mild remedies too dangerous. Meantime the letters of advice keep coming, but so long as Plainfield has faithful and reliable physicians the whimsical and often nonsensical suggestions will not be heeded. The hiccoughs are growing lighter under the treatment of Drs. Jenkins and Hallock, and they are confident he will be cured.

They'll Save the Horses from Falling

In talking with The Daily Press yesterday about the use of rubber-protected shoes on the fire department horses, Chief Doane said that the same kind of shoes had been adopted on horses in the New York department with good effect, and that Chief Bonner had put them on his own horses. The rubber sole to the shoes is of similar consistency to that used in bicycle tires, but is more highly vulcanized. In the saving on floors alone they are a benefit. The new floor in the Headquarters had to be roughened with a crowbar before the horses could stand on it, and the danger of dashing to fires over slippery pavements is well known. The foot of a horse is as sensitive as the foot of a man, and the troubles that afflict a horse are often traced to improper care of the feet. The patent shoes are considered as being easier for the horses to wear, and as the horse has to keep his shoes on all the time what is easiest to wear is a matter of great importance. The sample shoes for Plainfield have arrived and will be tried at once.

Rooters, Attend!

Don't forget the contest of the series for the Journal League trophy at the Trade Temple alleys this evening. The Y. M. C. L. Cut His Ankle with an Axe.

While Anthony Armstrong was felling trees on W. L. Freeman's property on South avenue, Netherwood, last Wednesday the axe slipped, severely cutting Mr. Armstrong in the ankle, and rendering him unconscious. A physician was hastily summoned from this city, who found it necessary to take several stitches in the ugly gash. Mr. Armstrong will be unable to walk for a week.

Col. Moore's Improvements.

Col. Charles K. Moore, New York's new deputy commissioner of street cleaning, has already succeeded in improving the service, by adding three more scows to the number already in use for carrying away the city's garbage. He says he hopes to have a full fleet of twelve or thirteen in operation in a day or two. Heretofore only seven or eight scows have been in use.

Where is John Heneesy?

John Heneesy of North avenue, Netherwood, who went to Newark Tuesday to purchase oil, has not been heard of since and his wife becoming anxious at his continued absence started out in search for him this morning.

—Frank Splane, an employe of Homan's blacksmith shop, met with a painful accident yesterday. In shoeing a horse, the third finger of his right hand was caught between the shoe and the hoof, and was crushed severely. It will be several days before he will be able to use the hand.

Marvelous Results.

From a letter written by Rev. J. Gunderman, of Diamondale, Mich., we are permitted to make this extract: "I have no hesitation in recommending Dr. King's New Discovery, as the results were almost marvelous in the case of my wife. While I was pastor of the Baptist Church at Rives Junction she was brought down by pneumonia succeeding la grippe. Terrible paroxysms of coughing would last hours with little interruption and it seemed as if she could not survive them. A friend recommended Dr. King's New Discovery; it was quick in its work and highly satisfactory in results. Sold by L. W. Randolph druggist. Regular size 50c and $1; our price 45c and 90c

SAYS HE PAYS TOO MUCH.

A Plainfield Householder Warns Local Merchants of Their Alleged High Prices.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE DAILY PRESS: Won't you oblige me by publishing the enclosed most sensible and pertinent article on the present cost of living, and the strained relations between the consumer and butcher and grocer and candlestick maker, as to the cost of living, etc.

(From The New York Sun.)

Thoughtful people are impressed with the circumstance that notwithstanding the hard times, from which the whole country is suffering, prices, especially for the absolute necessaries of life, remain practically unchanged.

It is true that a dollar will go much further nowadays in the purchase of dry goods, clothing, boots and shoes and furniture than ever before; but in the matter of rents, groceries, bread, butchers supplies, poultry, fish, fruits, vegetables, etc., the prevailing prices to tenants and consumers are as high as, in some cases higher even, than they have averaged for some time. Why is this? There seems to be no good reason why prices should not be scaled down and adjusted to the existing condition of things.

And in the case of many things which are really necessary there is even less excuse than that of hard times for the failure to cut down prices. With a large surplusage of wheat—so large that in some parts of the West it is being fed to hogs—the price of flour has gone down very materially, and yet the price of bread remains as before. Bakers profits have been increased certainly 33 per cent. at least by the reduced cost of flour. Why should not the people have the advantage of this? If bakers can sell bread for one-third less than formerly and still make as large a profit per loaf, why should there not be a reduction?

It is probable that not less than 90 per cent. of the fresh meat retailed in this city is brought, already dressed, from the great Western slaughter and packing houses, and is furnished to our butchers at a cost far below that of years ago when it came from local abattoirs. The difference is doubtless as much as one-third, but the prices remain at the highest figure ever reached.

In a similar manner it might be demonstrated that in the case of almost every article in the list of necessaries the cost to the retailer is much less now than it was some years ago, but the consumers have no benefit therefrom. The cost of the labor involved in the production, preparation, and handling of these supplies has much to do with the price at which they may be sold, and wages have been reduced all along the line in almost every kind of business, because "times are hard". But nobody save the employer has profited by the reduction. The consumer has still to pay as much as he did when wages were 10 to 33 per cent. higher than now.

The result is that people do not live nearly so well as they have been accustomed to living. They are compelled to economize, and they can do so only by reducing the quantity and variety of the necessaries and the luxuries as well which they use; and this they do. This, of course, narrows not only the volume of trade, but the field for employment also, most noticeably, and will undoubtedly have other effects which it will be more difficult to formulate and estimate. It is the duty of all to live as well as possible, due regard to prudence in expenditure and care to avoid excesses and unhealthy excesses being had—a matter which is of itself of great importance and entirely aside from the question of the injustice of dealers in maintaining the high prices of those prosperous times when it cost them more to do business and far more for the goods in which they deal. Poor living affects a man's morals and mentality as surely and unfavorably as it does his body.

Retailers have no right to increase their profits at a time when their customers are suffering from reduced incomes; nor is it good business policy to prefer an increased profit with smaller sales rather than to keep up and perhaps increase their sales with a reduced profit on each article.

If this admonition was needed in New York, how much more so in Plainfield? For if there is a town or city in the State of New Jersey where the consumer is more imposed upon, I should be glad to hear of it.

As to the simple question of bread, and in which the vast majority of poor are intimately concerned, it is a simple outrage that they should be compelled to pay ten cents a loaf for bread when the bakers can purchase their flour (such as they use) at from $3 to $4 per barrel, that formerly cost from $8 to $10. New York is much more highly favored in this respect than we are, for loaves of bread can now be purchased there from 2½ to 3 cents a loaf.

Take the question of meats. Butchers are wanting 18 to 20 cents for roasts, and 18 to 22 cents for steaks, the same grades being retailed in Washington market at 14 cents; and turkeys and chickens that were selling here at 18 cents (both articles of export) could be had in Washington market for 14 cents, now 10 and 12 cents.

The same course was pursued in 1870, and some years thereafter, in attempts to force the consumer to pay exorbitant prices in Plainfield. This was resented by a majority of commuters, and baskets without number could be seen on the morning trains to come back in the baggage car. This is now obviated by the great convenience of the express company, and a large number of citizens are now doing their marketing in Washington market again. This is a great injury to Plainfield. M.

UNCLE PETER AT REST.

Many Aged People and Others Attend His Funeral.

The funeral services of Uncle Peter Wooden, held at the old house on Somerset street which is so familiar to every one in the city as Uncle Peter's homestead and which has stood so many years against the ravages of time, were as simple, as he, in honor of whose memory the weeping friends had gathered, could possibly have wished. And yet they were grand in their simplicity, a fitting benediction to him whose life has always been one of simple, earnest, humble faith in his Creator. Rev. Dr. A. H. Lewis, who for many years had been Uncle Peter's pastor, spoke from Prov. xvi: 31: "The hoary head is a crown of glory, if it be found in the way of righteousness." "Nothing in holy writ," said the Rev. Dr. Lewis, "could more appropriately apply to the simple life and unwavering faith of him whose memory we gather here to honor". All who knew him had suffered a personal loss, for he was at once counselor and friend, his very life standing a silent monitor to point the way to heaven. He joined the church in 1843 and had been a regular attendant ever since, showing his Christianity in quiet deeds of mercy, and many are those who have occasion to remember his kindness of heart toward all who were in need. Dr. Lewis spoke of his happy home life, of his children, long since dead, of his companion and helpmate Aunt Margaret, who journeyed over life's rugged pathway by his side for fifty years and passed quietly to her reward in the very room where now lay the earthly semblance of Uncle Peter, looking as natural as though he had fallen asleep, as in very truth he had, in Jesus.

A notable feature of the solemn occasion was the very large number of old people, many of them lifelong friends of the decedent, who were present. Alfred Bonnell, whose ninety years sit lightly on his shoulders, stopped a moment to chat of Uncle Peter to their old friend, Mrs. Caroline B. Spencer, who is young at 87, and in this quiet company of mourners Mrs. Agnes Pangborn 73 and Abel Stewart 78, not to mention Ethan Lanphear 75 and Ralph Conover who is nearly 80, seemed quite young compared with P. M. French and Randolph Smalley who are nearly 85, and who stood in silence, not far from Mrs. Wakefield and Joseph A. Powlinson who are both in the immediate neighborhood of 75. Probably never before in the city, if indeed for many miles around, were gathered so many good old friends and fellow Christians to mourn the loss of one whom to know was to honor and respect and love. Dr. Lewis spoke feelingly of Uncle Peter's many friends who gathered to take a last look at the peaceful face, not because of his extreme age but because of the desire to do honor to the sterling Christian character and noble simplicity of the life of him who had passed beyond.

The pall bearers were Messrs. Joseph and Frank Hubbard, J. D. Spicer and Dr. Clawson, church associates and friends of decedent. The interment was in Hillside.

While passing the Babcock Building the party heard a strange scraping noise above them, and glancing up were just in time to stand from under a large piece of tin which had been detached from the roof by the high wind, and had luckily struck the side of the building in time to give warning by the noise. Had not the young men sprung into the gutter they would surely have been struck by the sharp edges of the sheet of tin, which measured fully 10 by 14 feet.

Relief Wanted.

Owing to the great distress in the Northwest it is desired to send a box of clothing from the Relief Rooms for the destitute people of that section.

The New York papers have been so full of particulars of their suffering, that it is unnecessary to call the attention of our townspeople to details.

It is earnestly hoped that many will respond to this appeal by sending articles of wearing apparel to the Relief Rooms, 303 West Second street, before Friday next, January 25 at which time the box will be packed. ALLIE AMES BROOKS, Secretary.

Death of Wash Berriman.

Washington Berriman, familiarly known as "Wash" to thousands of baseball enthusiasts who hold him in pleasant remembrance not only for his pleasant ways but for his excellent work on the diamond, died last night at his home in Brooklyn of pneumonia, after an illness of nine days. Mr. Berriman was associated with the Crescent League several seasons, and won hosts of friends by his manly bearing and genial good fellowship.

Saved from Burning.

Dorsey Hyde's residence on Woodland avenue narrowly escaped being burned yesterday. One of the maids, while lighting a lamp in the parlor, accidentally set fire to the fancy lamp shade. ABSOLUTELY PURE

M. PERIER'S SUCCESSOR

Faure the New President of France.

Defeated Brisson by a Vote of 430 to 361—His Election a Blow to the Protectionist Party—In Early Life He Was a Mechanic—Now a Millionaire and Has Simple Tastes.

Versailles, Jan. 18.—M. Felix Faure, minister of marine in the present cabinet, was elected on the second ballot to be president of the French republic in succession to M. Casimir-Perier, who resigned Tuesday.

M. Faure polled 430 votes to 361 votes polled by his nearest opponent, M. Henri Brisson, president of the chamber of deputies. The socialists protested violently when the result of the ballot was made known.

The investiture of the new president with his official powers took place in the library of the Versailles Palace. It consisted merely in Challemel-Lacour's reading to him the minutes of the assembly.

M. Faure was met at the St. Lazare station by General Mercier, minister of war, and M. Hanotaux, minister of foreign affairs, and was accompanied by them to the Elysee. The palace was brilliantly lighted and ushers in gala livery stood at the doors. Casimir-Perier welcomed and congratulated his successor. Premier Dupuy then presented the resignation of the cabinet. M. Faure returned to the Ministry of Marine for the night. His youngest daughter, Lucie, met him at the door of his apartments, and threw her arms round his neck kissing him and crying repeatedly: "I am so happy, papa."

The crowd outside the ministry cheered with considerable fervor and M. Faure was persuaded by friends to show himself on the balcony. He was received for the first time with genuine enthusiasm. Everybody shouted: "Hurrah for Faure!" and every bow or smile from the president was the signal for a new demostration. When the president re-entered the salon he said to M. Blondel, his secretary:

"I have passed the most precious moments of my political career in this building."

M. Faure is a tall, imposing figure, whose lines show the training he got in early life as a mechanic. Although a millionaire ship owner, he has simple tastes. His election is a blow to the protectionist party. The substitution of reciprocity treaties for the Meline tariff is only a question of time. M. Meline's newspaper organ, La Republique Francais, admitted yesterday that Faure's election would mean the same as tariff reform. The result of the election is received enthusiastically in Lyons.

The United Press correspondent saw a copy of the letter sent by the Duke of Orleans to Senator Buffet. It was mailed at Dover Wednesday evening. It is virtually a manifesto, declaring that at best the republic in France can be only provisional and that he stands ready to step in and help the people the moment they call him. The letter is generally ridiculed.

The police seized shortly before midnight a special edition of the Soliel which contained the letter. The effort was superfluous as nobody was buying the paper and the boulevards were as calm as the rest of the city. A dispatch from Dover says that the Duke of Orleans will return to London.

President Faure's Career.

Francois Felix Faure was born at Paris on Jan. 30, 1841. Faure's first public office was that of president of the chamber of commerce at Havre. During the Franco-Prussian war he was chief of battalion of the Garde Mobile, and brought reinforcements from Havre against the Communists of Paris. He was elected to the chamber in August, 1881, for the third district of Havre by 5,876 votes to 5,675 cast for Le Vaillant du Douet, the monarchist candidate. Upon the formation of the cabinet presided over by L. Gambetta in 1881 M. Faure became under secretary of state in the new ministry of commerce and colonies which he quitted on Jan. 26, 1882, with the other members of the cabinet. He was again called to the same post in 1883 in the last cabinet presided over by Jules Ferry, and resigned with the rest of the ministry on March 31, 1885. His department included the colonies, and he was regarded as an authority on questions involving them. At the election in September, 1889, he was elected in the second district of Havre by 7,771 votes, to 5,313 given to Anselme, the monarchist candidate. President Faure was one of the vice-presidents of the chamber of deputies preceding the present one. He has served on several of the most important committees of the chamber. M. Faure has made a legislative specialty of business questions, particularly those concerning the French merchant marine and foreign commerce. He received the Cross of the Legion of Honor in 1871.

NEW FINANCIAL BILLS

Senators Pugh and Sherman Introduce Them.

The Member from Alabama Makes an Impassioned Speech on His Measure—The Pension Bill Passed—A Quarrel Narrowly Averted Between Mitchell and Blackburn.

Washington, Jan. 18.—The first business of importance in the senate yesterday was the introduction of two financial bills, one by Mr. Pugh (dem., Ala.) and the other by Mr. Sherman (rep., O.) The title of the first was "to meet deficiencies in the revenue of the treasury of the United States; to regulate the redemption of treasury and coin notes of the United States; to restore silver to coinage; to amend the national banking and currency laws; and for other purposes." That of the second was "to provide for a temporary deficiency of revenue."

Mr. Pugh's bill provides for the issue, at once, of not exceeding $100,000,000 legal tender coins to meet deficiencies and to be redeemable in gold and silver standard coin; for the coinage of silver bullion in the treasury, to be used in the payment of the public expenditures; for the issue of certificates for bullion to be deposited, to the amount of its market value; for the reserve of $100,000,000 in equal amounts of gold and silver; and for the payment of custom duties, one-half in gold and the other half in other currency.

Mr. Sherman's bill authorizes the issue of 3 per cent. bonds for the redemption of United States treasury notes and to pay current expenditures; also the issue of 3 per cent. certificates, to be sold at public depositories and at postoffices, and allows the issue of national bank currency to the par value of the bonds deposited therefor.

Both bills were read in full and were referred to the finance committee.

Mr. Pugh made an impassioned speech as he introduced his bill; in which he alluded to Mr. Vest's facetious characterization of senators Wednesday as a lot of "old Muscovy drakes" and condemned it as "degrading, mortifying and humiliating."

The pension appropriation bill (appropriating $140,000,000 for pensions) was passed with an amendment to abolish $2 and $4 disability pensions, and to make the minimum of them all $6 a month.

The army appropriation bill was then taken up, but got snagged on a question of change of army posts—a question on which Mr. Mitchell (rep., Ore.), and Mr. Blackburn (dem., Ky.), got heated up to a point which came dangerously near to a personal altercation.

The senate at 5:30, adjourned till to-day.

House Proceedings.

Most of another session of the house was spent in considering the Indian appropriation bill without disposing of the measure. It was discussed under the five-minute rule and was open for amendment. The principal change made was the adoption of an amendment offered by Mr. Cobb (dem., Mo.), appropriating $1,660,000 to pay the first installment, due March 1, 1895, upon the purchase of the Cherokee outlet.

Mr. Richardson (dem., Tenn.) took occasion, in the course of the discussion, to deny the statement that the restoration to congressmen of the franking privilege, contained in the bill to regulate the printing and distribution of public documents, was inserted surreptitiously. He pointed out that it had been offered on the floor of the house, discussed and adopted by a vote of 42 to 40.

By unanimous consent the bill to establish a park at Gettysburg went over until the first morning hour next week.

The enemy left all their dead and wounded and arms, ammunition and quantities of stores on the field. Among the wounded were several chiefs.

SURPRISE AT WASHINGTON.

The News of Faure's Election Favorably Received.

Washington, Jan. 18.—The news of the lection of M. Felix Faure as president of France was a surprise to the members of the French legation here. Ambassador Patenotre said:

"M. Faure, while not one of the most prominent men in France, has yet held a number of important positions. He has been president of the chamber of deputies, which shows that he is popular. He was minister of marine in the last cabinet, the one whose overthrow a few days ago led to President Perier's resignation. In politics he is a moderate republican, and held very nearly the same views as M. Perier. No doubt he will form a cabinet containing a number of the same men who were in the last one. This is not unusual in France. M. Faure is a man of middle age, tall and handsome. He is a very amiable man and is much liked personally.

The opinion is expressed that M. Faure will try to agree with the chamber and use more diplomacy than was shown by his predecessor. In many respects he will seek to be like Carnot, who made himself popular by his methods of dealing with men.

WILL BE PROSECUTED.

Unexpected Surrender of a Fall River Defaulter.

Fall River, Mass., Jan. 18.—John E. Blaisdell the defaulting bookkeeper of the Weetamoe mills, who surrendered yesterday to the police, was admitted to bail in $5,000, his father, ex-Judge Josiah C. Blaisdell, who gained extensive notoriety in the Borden murder cases, becoming his surety. Blaisdell's arrival was unexpected and created a big sensation, particularly in mill circles. The defaulter was known also to have been in correspondence with many acquaintances in this city, but his surrender was entirely unexpected, except to his father, who was informed of his son's coming. Pending action, the Weetamoe directors were called into special session. Blaisdell was allowed to go to his father's home till a decision of the directors relative to the defaulter's case is reached. The belief generally entertained that Blaisdell's surrender was contingent upon an agreement by the directors to endeavor to nol pross the indictment against him, was shattered, when after a two-hours discussion, the mill management decided to assist District Attorney Jennings in prosecuting the case.

IT CAME TOO LATE.

A Man Accused of Murder Dies on the Day of Acquital.

Nauvoo, Ill., Jan. 18.—Mrs. Ida Smith, of this city, departed yesterday for California with a petition, indorsed by prominent citizens, which she will submit to the legislature of that state. She petitions for an appropriation of $10,000 as a relief for herself and two little daughters.

Her husband was sent to the penitentiary for life for the murder of a San Francisco citizen on the evidence of men named Casey and Gordon, who turned state's evidence.

The California supreme court recently decided that Smith was innocent and that there was no well founded grounds even for suspicion of his guilt. Smith died the very day the decision was handed down. Mrs. Smith is a daughter of M. M. Morrill, who served several terms in the Illinois legislature, and a niece of Lot Morrill, who at one time was United States senator from Maine, and of Amos B. Morrill, who was governor of the same state.

SOUTH CAROLINA WANTS WAR.

The Governor Threatens to Seize an Italian Bark.

Columbia, S. C., Jan. 18.—Governor Evans threatens to seize and confiscate the Italian bark Fortunate, which is lying in the Charleston harbor, and which is believed to be a floating barroom and violating the dispensary law.

The governor is consulting with the attorney-general, and will seize the boat if advised that he has the authority to do so. He will also ask that Italian Consul Costello be recalled, as he rendered himself persona non grata by refusing to allow the Fortunate to be searched. International complications are threatened.

Wreck of an Old-Timer.

San Francisco, Jan. 18.—A dispatch to the Merchants' Exchange reports the wreck of the bark California, lumber laden, from Puget Sound for Pacamayo, Peru, at the latter port. The vessel was formerly known as the steamer California, built at Greenpoint, N. Y., in 1849. It arrived here Feburary 1, 1849, being the first steamer to enter this port from New York with gold-seekers.

His Suffering Ended After Using Munyon's Rheumatism Cure.

Mr. George Smith, of Tacony, Pa., says: "I suffered from rheumatism for 30 years, and had so many severe attacks that some of my joints were twisted out of shape. At times I suffered terrible pain, and, although I tried many remedies, I never obtained any permanent relief until I procured Munyon's Rheumatism Cure. The action of this remedy was wonderfully quick, and although I have only taken a small quantity, I consider myself permanently cured."

There's nothing so GOOD as Cottolene

The new vegetable shortening. Wherever introduced, it drives lard from the kitchen, and indigestion from the household. It has been tried by every test, and has met every requirement. It is as much superior to lard as the electric light is to the tallow-dip. The only question now is, will you give your family the benefits which its use bestows?

There's nothing LIKE Cottolene

In composition, in healthfulness, in flavor, or in economy. Its success has called out a lot of imitations and counterfeits made for the sole purpose of selling in the place and on the merits of Cottolene. Avoid them all. They are made to sell and they are a sell. Get the genuine COTTOLENE.

Sold in 3 and 5 pound pails.

A WOMAN OF FORTY SUMMERS.

Full of outline and fair of face,
Swinging her fan with languid grace,
White arms gleaming through folds of lace,
A woman of forty summers.

No thread of white in the auburn hair,
No line of age in the forehead fair,
A life unmarred by touch of care,
In spite of her forty summers.

A husband-lover and children sweet,
Pleasures to charm and friends to greet,
Roses scattered before her feet,
Through each of her forty summers.

Summers all, nor winters bold
Have snatched her sunshine and made her cold;
Have killed her roses and left her old;
Nothing she knows but summers.

Nothing she knows of laden cloud,
Of freezing air and tempests loud,
Of scows that weave for Hope a shroud;
Her life has been only summers.

So calm she sits in the balmy air,
No sorrows to fret, no cross to bear,
A summer idyl, a vision fair,
This woman of forty summers.

Yet cold and blast but make us strong,
After the snow the robin's song;
To the fullest life by right belong
The winters as well as summers.

And they whom fame shall carve in stone
The woman whom men would fain enthrone,
The women whom God has stamped His own,
Live winters as well as summers.

REED AS A CANDIDATE.

The Platform He Promulgated When He Considered His Candidacy a Joke.

Ex-Speaker Reed seems to be more seriously a candidate for the Presidency than ever before. In 1888 he regarded such a possibility as a joke. That year a New England paper declared that the most available men for the Republican nomination were Congressmen Reed of Maine, Hiscock of New York, and Long of Massachusetts.

"As soon as we saw this," said Mr. Reed at that time, "Long and I assembled ourselves together, held a caucus, and agreed that the announcement, so far as we are concerned, was both timely and judicious, but we decided by a unanimous vote that Hiscock was not available, for reasons that must suggest themselves to every thoughtful and patriotic man. This action having narrowed the contest down to Long and myself, I suggested, with the kindest and most disinterested motives, that for the sake of harmony he ought to withdraw. He demurred to the proposition, and did not appear to take much interest in it until I offered to make it an object to him. I volunteered to pay him $5 in lawful money if he would agreed to retire and make a speech nominating me in the Presidential Convention. He replied that he was not a five-dollar man, whereupon I raised him to eight.

"I'm running for the Presidency," continued Mr. Reed at that time (this was in the winter of 1887-8), "upon a broad and comprehensive platform, and if, I don't get the nomination it won't be because I'm not willing to give satisfaction to people of all colors, races, religions, and political views. I believe in giving every man equal rights and a fair show. I believe that it is the duty of Congress to pass a judicious silver bill, and am in favor of such a revision of the tariff as shall give the capital and labor employed in the manufacturing industries of the country every protection they ask, and at the same time place the luxuries as well as the necessaries of life within the reach of all. I believe that every man, woman and child should receive a pension who is entitled to it; that every just claim upon the Government should be promptly and duly paid, with interest to date; that sectional strife should be smothered in fraternal love, and that the dead issues of the war should be decently buried at Government expense. I am in favor of applying the principles of civil service reform to all the offices of the Government, so as to give entire satisfaction to those who are in as well as those who are out, and that all legislation intended to promote the prosperity of the country should be promptly enacted by Congress. On the labor question I am as sound as an oak saw log, and urge upon Congress the passage of a bill that will settle forever and set at rest all controversies between the employer and the employed. I believe that the surplus in the Treasury should remain unimpaired so far as is consistent with the financial welfare of the country, and that Congress should take such action in reference to the finances as will bring the greatest good to the greatest number. I hold it to be the duty of the President to protect the prerogatives of his office, and to hand them down unstained to his successor done up in tissue paper or in a silk handkerchief, and I will further say that if I have omitted to declare my position regarding any interest representing a considerable number of votes, it shall be my earnest endeavor to amend and enlarge my platform accordingly.

"The motto on my escutcheon is, 'I strive to please,' and my aim is to merit the approbation and secure the support of all Republicans, Democrats and Mugwumps. I desire to be considered a nonpartisan candidate and would prefer that my nomination should be unanimous."

New Tactics.

At the session of the school for noncommissioned officers of one of the companies stationed at Fort Wayne, the following questions was asked of Sergeant——:

"What is strategy? Give me an instance of it."

After studying for a moment or two the sergeant gave the reply:

"When in battle and you are out of ammunition and don't want the enemy to know it, it is good strategy to keep right on firing."

The captain gave the school a vacation till the first Monday in January.—Detroit Free Press.

HYPNOTIC POWER.

MARVELOUS CASE OF A BORN DEAF MUTE NOW CURED.

Awakening Sleeping Nerves by Mesmeric Influences. The Theories of Scientists Concerning Subjects. Remarkable Cases in This Country and Abroad.

When a man whose position is a very responsible one, who has made a name for himself as an authority on the treatment of deaf mutes and who is well known to be as practical and experienced as he is clever, announces that he believes in a power which many people still class with witchcraft and fortune telling, the public must needs pay some attention to him.

Dr. Currier, the principal of a New York Institution, for the instruction of the deaf and dumb, claims hypnotism will cure deafness even of congenital origin.

His theory is that organs and nerves which have never been called into service and are as dumb as death itself, should by mental influence be galvenized into life and action. He has in the asylum patients born deaf and of course dumb, which is always the case, who can now distinguish sounds, and tell the difference between the sound of the voice, the flute and piano. Professor Currier says that more than 16 per cent. of cases of children born deaf is due to prenatal paralysis of the nerves, which are only "slumbering," because the brain has not the will power to call them into service. And all these numb nerves need is to be awakened and strengthened. Speaking of one patient on whom Professor Currier has been experimenting for ten years, and who now can articulate and hear as well as any person, the believer in hypnotic influence says:

"Give this sleeping sense strength, and by the very act of giving it strength it becomes an assistant to the will, and that function becomes able to command it. We have shown that there are latent sensibilities of the paralyzed auditory nerves which are susceptible to development through exercise. What we want then is knowledge as to how these latent sensibilities can be developed the most rapidly and the most successfully. Now let us see what hypnotism will do. I am not a master of hypnotism and make no claim to produce these results myself. I speak therefore, as one who accepts the known results of recognized hypnotic experiments and seeks only to learn how similar experiments may be utilized successfully in the work of assisting in the development of the latent sensibilities of this slumbering nerve. Now, mark you! You and every one else will acknowledge that infinitely greater results follow where the method of exercising any stunted muscles or nerve of the system is natural rather than artificial.

"Now, will hypnotism do this? All those who are familiar with the subject and who can speak with authority tell us that the hypnotic operator has, while the subject is in the hypnotic sleep, absolute control of the mind of the subject.

"We are forced to operate now in exercising the paralyzed nerve of the deaf mute while the brain is busy with all the other senses. The nerves of vision are busy ticking off their messages as to what the eye sees, and the brain is replying what to do about it and what to look at next; the sense of touch is engaged in the same way; the smell, the taste, are sending their little paragraphs of news, and that wondrously busy brain up there near the cranium must record all the messages it receives and go on sending its replies. Only the operator, as soon as he places the patient in the hypnotic sleep, proceeds at once to give orders to the nerves of taste and touch and sight and smell to go on a vacation. 'Take a rest, I shall want you again,' he says. 'When I do I will call you.' The entire energy of the brain, let off from its occupation with the other senses, is put to work to bring this nerve of audience a command that shall wake it from its lethargy. The concentrated brain power acting under the command of the operator wakes up these nerves, tries them and gradually learns to use them.

"Twelve years ago when I advanced my theory of developing the latent sensibilities of the congenitally paralyzed auditory nerve people said, Ridiculous! French savants called it a jest. Finally the Germans took it seriously, listened, experimented, and to-day are producing the same results of which Mr. Jones is a specimen, and to-day deaf mutes all over Europe are reaping the benefit of it.

"If hypnotic influence can be utilized I am sure we will accomplish more than has ever yet been done in this line. From the University of Minnesota comes the news that a lad who for fourteen years has not articulated a single sound has had—and that only after a few months' operating in the hands of the hypnotist, the power of speech developed within him.

"In this case the boy could always hear distinctly. This was one of those very rare cases where the boy was afflicted with what is known as aphasia—that is, there was a prenatal paralysis of the nerves which act as messengers between the brain and the organs of speech.

Against the Nude in Art.

Iowa is considerably torn up over the question whether a figure which is to surmount a public monument shall be nude or draped. Opinions on the subject are various, and discussion waxes warm. The matter is talked of from the standpoints of art, propriety, morals and the weather.

The last named element is dragged into the argument by a newspaper which evidently wants to dodge the points made by objectors to the nude in art. The paper, which is published in Keokuk, urges that while a naked statue may be all right in a warm, southern clime, it is quite inappropriate to a high, chilly latitude like that of northern Iowa. Hence the statue should be draped, because its exposure to inclement weather would be out of harmony with all ideas of comfort, and might give the shivers to sympathetic observers.

A DRINK UNDER DIFFICULTIES.

A Camera Club Gets Evidence of Sunday Liquor Selling.

The camera is the weapon of the latest band of Brooklyn reformers, and the barred and bolted side doors of some of the most notorious resorts of the city on Sundays furnish conclusive evidence of the deadly work it is doing.

It has always been thought that the enforcement of the Excise law in Brooklyn was a physical as well as a moral impossibility, but, nothing daunted, twenty good, law-loving young men went right to work to devise some means of shutting up the saloons. With the cameras under their coats, and with their hats drawn down over their eyes in a way which would have done credit to a city vigilance sunbeam, the youthful reformers set out, and the collection of pictures they get during the day are highly interesting. There were pictures of men entering and leaving saloons, while policemen, with the most innocent looking expressions on their faces, stood by without interfering. Then there were other pictures of children carrying cans and pitchers full of foaming beer through the street, and still other pictures showing drunken men being pitched out of side doors by white aproned bartenders, while policemen stood and looked on.

As soon as the pictures are handed in by the reform detectives they are taken in hand by Mr. Tully, who reproduces them all on a white sheet by means of a stereopticon. It was only after this public showing of the success of the camera scheme that the real weapon of the society became known, and if any confidence is to be placed in the rumors that went flying around the next day, the police were very much disturbed over this heartless revelation of their lifelessness.

One scene is thus described: A tall man, with a silk hat and a coat elaborately trimmed with fur, came along. The reporter spotted him for a politician. The camera men had some such suspicion too, for they began to show signs of excitement.

"I wonder if he's worth taking," said one.

"He looks like a politician," said the other.

"Well," said the first, "if he goes in I'm going to take him," and he went across the street and stood in front of the saloon. The tall man walked right into the side door of one of the saloons, and just as he did so the young man with the camera pulled it out and pressed the button. It was all over in a few seconds, but a man on the curb saw the operation and let out a snort of disgust. The tall man turned around, saw the man with the camera, looked perplexed, and then, as the daring young reformer levelled his weapon at him again, he seemed suddenly to realize the true state of affairs, and darted into the saloon, closing the door behind him with a bang. The young man with the camera crossed over to his companion, coolly took out the plate, put in a fresh one, and remarked to his fellow worker:

"I wonder if he'd be angry if I went over and asked him his name."

One of the young men got a particularly interesting picture for exhibition at the next stereopticon display the society gives. This young fellow hied with his camera to a saloon on Atlantic Avenue. It was a corner saloon, and a policeman stood not a dozen feet from the side door. The officer was stout and good natured, and was immensely amused at the attempts of a drunken man to pilot himself through the door. He was in the midst of a prodigious fit of laughter when the society man snapped his camera on him.

WONDERFUL MARKSMANSHIP.

A Story of the Captain's Verified by the Victim Who Was Killed.

The Confederate captain told this yarn with the gravity of a truthful man:

"When I was commanding a cavalry outpost during the war I had occasion to make a personal examination of the land. I rode with my orderly to a knoll some half mile from my camp, and leisurely began to study my position with the aid of a field glass.

"Suddenly I jerked my head back involuntarily, and whizz, went a singing rifle ball so close to my ear that I could feel the wind of its flight. A puff of smoke was the only evidence of the sharpshooter. Not once, but five or six times, did this involuntary muscular action take my head backward from the line of the shot and save my life. I never could explain or understand that providential muscular action. Turning to my orderly I seized his carbine, aimed at that smoke a mile away, fired, and all was still again. No more shots came and we returned to camp. In the afternoon a party of us rode over the country, and coming to the spot where the shots had come from in the morning, heard groans.

"They proceeded from a wounded Yankee hidden behind a rail fence. He said he had fired several shots in the morning at a Confederate officer on yonder knoll, but had not been able to hit him, though he had a good range and was considered a wonderful sharpshooter, and the reb had fired but one shot at him and that with direful results. The ball buried itself in his leg, cutting one of the main arteries. The man was beyond human help. We gave him water and he soon lost all signs of life. We rode away and left all that was mortal of the poor fellow behind that fence."

This tale was too much. One by one the smokers arose and moved towards the door in silence deep and thinkative. The first man to reach the door turned, and in a rich New England twang, shouted, "I've been called a liar for telling that story, captain, but I'm the sharpshooter you killed that day."

is a virtuous vice. The world is better for it. It makes men ambitious—and it makes women careful of their personal appearance. It doesn't take much money to keep well-dressed now-a-days. Cleaning or dyeing makes it possible to use soiled or faded garments. And there's where our ax comes in. We are in the Cleaning and Dyeing business. Our cleaner is ready, and our dyer has his fall shades mixed.

PLAINFIELD, N. J., JAN. 18, 1895

FOR PLAINFIELD'S PROGRESS.

Jackson's Heroes Fire a Last Gun.

Jan. 18, 1815, added fresh renown to the American arms at New Orleans. On that day the British fleet was repulsed in the attempt to reduce Fort St. Philip, the stronghold in the defense of the Mississippi and the real key to Louisiana. On the 9th of January three British warships and two bomb vessels had anchored just out of range of the guns and opened a cannonade, which they kept up for the space of nine days, during which time over 1,000 heavy shells, besides round and grape shot and howitzer shells, struck the fort. The slender garrison of 360 men suffered the most terrible hardships, living nearly a week exposed to the winter storms without shelter, but under the leadership of their commandant, a hero of the Jacksonian stamp, Major W. H. Overton, they held out manfully, and on the night of the 17th succeeded in bringing a heavy mortar, mounted in the fort, to bear on the British ships. The fire from this gun, even in the darkness, proved so destructive that at daylight the English fleet ran from under and gave up the task of forcing the Mississippi. GEORGE L. KILMER.

The complaint of the correspondent "M" in this issue, that the prices of food in Plainfield are exorbitant, is contrary to the general experience of local buyers. Merchants there may be who foolishly charge more than the standard market price, but merchants there are who charge less than the New York markets. The advertising columns of The Daily Press give the names and addresses and often the price lists of dealers who for cash sell goods at a less figure than charged in larger cities. Plainfield has markets that will save even commuters money. "M" should look about his own town, and get acquainted with Press advertisers. It will afford him pleasure and profit.

DEAD FOR A YEAR.

The Court Refuses to Change Its Mind in the Bock License Case.

The motion of Alvah Clark for a rule to show cause why a rehearing should not be granted in the Bock license case, came up before the Court in Somerville this morning. Judge Bartine said "This Court does not reverse its decisions. The Bock application is refused, and stays refused. It is dead for a year."

The announcement caused much rejoicing among the North Plainfielders present who had been advocating the refusal of the application, and the anti-license citizens desire through The Press to thank Judge Bartine; for his honest and straightforward conduct and for his disposal of the case; also his associates for confirming his decision.

For The New Post Office.

Griffin & Co. have received the contract for the galvanized iron mail chute which is to be placed in the Babcock building. The chute will be of great convenience to the lodges and office people who occupy the building, as there will be an opening on each floor in which mail can be dropped and go down at once to the stamping room in the postoffice below. It can be used at all times and is similar in construction to the chutes in use in all modern office buildings throughout the country.

We learn that the call and lock-boxes soon to be placed in the new office will be numbered the same as those now in use, a fact that will be greatly appreciated by those who find it to their convenience to have boxes to which they can have access at all times.

Death of Rev. J. J. Pierson.

The sad news of the death of Rev. J Judson Pierson was received by his sister, Mrs. F. W. Bailey, 66 Duer street, about 1 p. m. today. Mr. Pierson was pastor of the Baptist Church at Bridgeton, and died at his home in that city at 10 this morning, after an illness of about four months, surrounded by his devoted wife and family of six children. The cause of death was Bright's disease, aggravated by sciatic rheumatism, causing intense suffering. Mr. Pierson was President of the State Society of Christian Endeavor, one of God's most active servants, and will be sadly missed.

AN EVENING OF RARE PLEASURE.

A Large Audience Enjoys the Congregational Concert and Recital.

The large assemblage in the Congregational church last evening was given a rare treat by the concert and recital. The arrangement and selection of the programme could not have been improved upon. A Plainfield audience rarely has the pleasure of enjoying an entertainment of such excellence, and that it was appreciated was shown by the frequent and hearty applause. An instrumental trio, "Overture Rosamunde," Schubert, by Mrs. M E. Dwight, piano, Mrs. B. T. Barnes, organ, and P. Ludwig Conde, violin, was delightfully rendered, and the three parts were blended in the sweetest harmony.

Miss Kathryn Krymer, contralto, of Brooklyn, is not a stranger here, and her appearance last evening was successful in every respect. Her selection, "Thinking," by White, gave an excellent opportunity for the full scope of her rich voice, and her pleasing encore was occasion for additional favor.

Those who have heard Miss Addie Parker Jackson were perhaps never more impressed with her work than they were last evening. Her interpretation of Mary Wilkins's charming story, "Silence", was impressive. She held her completely spellbound as she recited in most realistic manner this selection. Every detail was given proper stress, inflection, or emph ... Miss Jackson was compelled to respond to a hearty encore, and she won many new friends and admirers through her perfect work.

Miss Nellie Whiton, violinist, one of Mr. Conde's pupils, was very cordially received by her many friends present. "Selections from Faust", by Gounod, was given in the same style and manner characteristic of her teacher, and her mastery of the violin was shown in every stroke of the bow.

Too seldom are the opportunities to hear Alfred Holmes, whose singing is always a pleasure. "She alone charmed my sadness", by Gounod, was a choice selection, and well adapted to his voice. An encore was given, and his response was fully appreciated.

In part second "Maid of Athens" by Allen, was rendered by Miss Krymer in her usual excellent manner, and for an encore she gave a very pretty response to the recall.

Alfred Holmes sang "Bid Me to Live", by Dalton, and again he was greeted with hearty applause. Miss Jackson followed with a selection by Brooks entitled "Swing", and delighted her audience with the rendition. A dainty little selection was given in response to the encore.

The last number on the programme was an instrumental quintette, "Serenade", by Wido. Mrs. Dwight piano; Mrs. B. T. Barnes organ; Miss Nella Whiton violin; P. Ludwig Conde violin; and Fernin Ferrer 'cello. Every part was well played, and it was all thoroughly enjoyable.

Miss Alice Coard and Mrs. Dwight were the pleasing accompanists, adding much to the programme.

REMOVAL.

Dr. Lighthill begs leave to give notice that he has removed to

Dr. Lighthill refers with pardonable pride to the success of his practice in Plainfield and submits below a few of the many testimonials which he has received from grateful patients. A mass of similar ones can be seen at his office.

AN ALMOST MIRACULOUS CURE.

The Statement of Mr. Edward Teel, Jr., of Dunellen, N. J.

TO THE PUBLIC:

From a sense of duty I desire to call public attention to the almost miraculous cure which Dr. Lighthill effected in the case of my wife. For eleven years she had been afflicted with piles of an unusual severe and distressing character. She suffered every day of her life the most intense pain, attended with frequent and profuse hemorrhage. This state of things debilitated her entire system until she became a perfect wreck of her former self.

We made every effort to obtain a cure but they all resulted in bitter disappointment, although a number of physicians of excellent reputations for skill in that direction had treated her case. She grew worse and worse all the time, the pain became perfectly unbearable and I felt she could not bear the strain of her condition much longer. In this extremity, a friend of mine, Mr. W. E. Dilts, a resident of Roselle, N. J., a passenger conductor on the New Jersey Central told me that he had been similarly affected, and had been permanently cured by Dr. Lighthill, after other medical skill had failed. He assured me that the doctor would cure my wife, no matter how severe her case may be, and his prediction proved perfectly correct. In spite of her desperate condition, Dr. Lighthill, I am glad to say, has effected a complete and perfect cure in her case, and has given her new life.

Since the cure has been effected she has gained in health and strength and is so improved in appearance that her friends scarcely recognize her. They all consider her cure as almost miraculous, and Dr. Lighthill's praise is heard on every side. Our gratitude to Dr. Lighthill is unbounded and we only hope that other sufferers may be benefited by this publication.

EDWARD TEEL, JR.

A Flattering Testimonial from Colonel John Dietrich, One of Plainfield's Oldest and Best Known Residents.

16 ARLINGTON PLACE,
Plainfield, N. J., July 17, 1894.

I am profoundly grateful to Dr. Lighthill for his speedy and radical cure of a most painful malady of over ten years standing with which I was afflicted.

I deem it proper to say to all afflicted to place themselves under the care of this skilful physician and be permanently cured.

I will cheerfully impart any information I possess when called upon.

JOHN DIETRICH.

Mr. Thomas Callahan of No. 214 Richmond street Cured of a Very Distressing Trouble by Dr. Lighthill.

PLAINFIELD, N. J., June 1, 1894.

TO THE PUBLIC:

For some time past I have been greatly distressed with noises in the head. They were all over my head and troubled me constantly; they were loudest at night when everything was quiet and at such times would often keep me from sleep and disturb my rest. In fact they got to be so bad and distressing that they affected my whole nervous system as well as my health. I did not obtain the least relief until I placed myself under the care of Dr. Lighthill, of No. 132 Crescent avenue, who effected a complete cure in my case in a short time and made me a very happy man.

THOMAS CALLAHAN,
214 Richmond street.

A Card From Mr. T. R VanZandt, of Nos. 304 and 306 Park ave., Plainfield, N. J.

I certify with pleasure that Dr. Lighthill has effectually cured me of a most painful case of piles. For some time past I had been subject to its attacks, but the last attack was so exceedingly painful that it completely upset my whole system. The pain extended to my legs and in many other directions, and made me so nervous that I could neither sleep, sit down, lie down or move about without serious discomfort and distress. Such was my condition when I applied to Dr. Lighthill for relief, and I am glad to say that as soon as he took hold of my case, I began to improve, and in a short time found myself completely cured. Dr. Lighthill has also effected a radical and permanent cure in a most terrible case of piles on my cousin, Mr J. V. Z. Griggs, of Rocky Hill, N. J., whose flattering testimonial is in Dr. Lighthill's possession.

SAVED HER SLIPPERS.

A Bit of Hitherto Unpublished History of the War of 1812.

This is a chapter of semiofficial, semidomestic history, and it is vouched for by a granddaughter of the hero's family line, a Chicagoan who now lives on Dearborn avenue.

Prominent in Mr. Madison's cabinet sat, fourscore years ago, Secretary of the Navy Jones, the son of a famous shipbuilder, a man gallant not only in spirit, but in dress and manner. His fitness for his office is attested by the naval histories of the war of 1812. But the successful secretary had more wit than hair, and a wig was a sine qua non of his political and social life. All went well with this adornment until the luckless August day in 1814 when the British marched from Bladensburg upon Washington.

It will be remembered that President Madison and his cabinet stood not upon the order of their going on that occasion, but went at once—to a very retired summer resort. Every one knows how Lady "Dolly" remained behind long enough to save some valuable White House portraits from having their eyes put out by English bayonets, but few have heard how collected Mrs. Secretary Jones was in this national crisis.

Presence of mind is said to be promoted by absence of body. This lady displayed in the face of danger presence of both mind and body. As the secretary emerged from his doorway, his hands full of such family valuables as his agitated condition had allowed him to collect, Mrs. Jones confronted him with the appalling words:

"My dear, you have forgotten my slippers. You must go back and get them."

General Ross was almost at his door bringing imprisonment or death, but the unhappy man turned back to hunt the slippers, which, it is only fair to Mrs. Jones to add, were adorned with diamond buckles. In his headlong quest for these treasures—which he secured—his wig dropped off in a dark corner, and he did not dare to take time to hunt for it nor to attempt the purchase of another. The shorn appearance of the secretary, hitherto faultless in all appointments of dress, is said to have very much lessened the melancholy of the cabinet journey. It is further asserted that during the time of retirement, no matter how depressed any member of the presidential party felt over public and private woes, if he but glanced at Secretary Jones peal upon peal of irresistible laughter was sure to follow and that the despoiled Adonis cordially joined in these bursts of merriment.—Chicago Tribune.

A Malay Water Slide.

In Perak, a state in the Straits Settlements, the Malays have one form of amusement which is probably not to be enjoyed anywhere else in the wide world.

There is a huge granite slope in the course of a mountain river, down which the water trickles about two inches deep, the main stream having carved out a bed by the side of the bowlder. This rock, the face of which has been rendered as smooth as glass by the constant flow of water during hundreds of years, the Malays—men, women and children—have turned into a toboggan. Climbing to the top of the rock, they sit in the shallow water with their feet straight out and a hand on each side for steering and then slide down the 60 feet into a pool of water.

This is a favorite sport on sunny mornings, as many as 200 folks being engaged at a time and sliding so quickly one after another or forming rows of two, four or even eight persons that they tumble into the pool a confused mass of screaming creatures. There is little danger in the game, and, though some choose to sit on a piece of plantain, most of the tobogganers are content to squat on their haunches.—London Little Folks.

Life In Japan.

"It is a curious, but accepted truth," comments the wife of a naval officer who has resided a number of years in Japan, "that Americans, as a class, do not long stand up against Japan life. There is something in the air, or something lacking in it, which is peculiarly trying to us. So many naval officers serving a three or six years' duty there have come home with an incurable complaint that it is common talk in the service. Two admirals have died of abcess of the liver after several years' residence there, and other officers have had their health seriously impaired under similar conditions. I never was seriously sick in my life till I got out to the island empire, and throughout my whole stay I fought something. The English residents do not seem to suffer as we do, which is also a commented upon fact."—New York Times.

Pianos.

Excellent pianos may be bought in Europe at perhaps two-thirds the cost of a like instrument here, and even individuals can import pianos to advantage in spite of the tariff. But a fact that works pretty effectually to protect the home manufacturer is that either the American climate or the usual steam heat tends to destroy the imported piano, so that even the temptation of saving from $200 to $500 on the first cost does not induce many persons to take the risk of an instrument that cannot stand the climate.—Philadelphia Ledger.

England's Tobacco Law.

An antiquarian says that tobacco cannot be used in England save by a violation of law. In 1660 a law was made prohibiting the growth or importation of tobacco beyond a few hundred pounds of leaves every year, "to be used in medicine." It is said that this statute has never been repealed.

Bettered.

"I would like to improve my opportunities," said the good boy.

"Get the firm to leave more money in the cash drawer," suggested the lad of evil propensities.—Detroit Tribune.

Rathbone Sisters Benefit.

An entertainment and dance was given by Mrs. Andrew Cox last evening at her home 455 West Front street, for the benefit of Minerva Temple, No. 4, Rathbone Sisters K. of P. Over a hundred guests were present to enjoy the excellent entertainment and take part in the dance which followed. At least a dozen secret organizations of Plainfield were represented in the happy party.

The following programme was rendered: Dialogue, by Misses Bertha Clum, Try Mattox and Laura Raddin; Recitation, by Miss Lilly Haberle; Banjo solo, by Mr. Sherman; Recitation, by Miss Try Mattox, followed by Miss Emma Higgins who also recited.

Each number on the programme was excellently rendered and well received.

In the donkey party which followed, Mrs. Bert Thatcher won the first prize, a poodle dog, and Geo. Pope won the booby prize.

Dancing was then enjoyed to the excellent music provided by Bert Naylor, and refreshments were served until a late hour. It was fully 2:30 when the party separated. The affair was a social and financial success, quite a sum being realized for Minerva Temple No. 4.

Plainfield Avenue Social.

An enjoyable social arranged by the Misses Griffin was given at the home of David Barry on Plainfield avenue last evening. The time was pleasantly passed in singing and dancing. Music by Mr Johnson of Dunellen, and recitations by G. Kiely added much to the evening's enjoyment. An excellent supper was served

Among those present were Jennie Stuhl from New York, Katie Judge, Kate Kiley, Kate Harrington, Kate Lyons, Kate Griffen, Kate Mulherne, Mary Lyons, Mary Griffen, Bessy Dolan, Maggie Fitzgerald, Mr and Mrs Barry, Messrs Joen and Garret Powers, William and Garret Kiley Thomas Kelly, Howard Kelly, Andrew Judge, Jack Horan, Lou Farringer, Patrick Cullin and Michael Harrington.

There is good reason for the popularity of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. Davis & Buzard, of West Monterey, Clarion Co., Pa., say: "It has cured people that our physicians could do nothing for; we persuaded them to try a bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy and now they recommend it with the rest of us." 25 and 50c bottles for sale at Reynolds's pharmacy, Park and North avenues. T. Armstrong, manager.

Klotschiessen—What Is It?

Under the title of "A Game We Might Play," the Marquis of Lorne in Good Words puts in a plea for an open air winter pastime in the low countries of northern Europe which has for centuries enjoyed a sort of national reputation. It is a rough sort of golf, played without clubs or holes, is inexpensive and can be played by two single opponents or with two on a side. The article contains a very picturesque description of a match between two villages in Friesland, at which the writer was present, and conveys a striking impression of the popularity of the game and of the spirited emulation which it awakens. It is pointed out that in England there are many districts, especially in the east of the island, which are peculiarly well adapted to the game, there being in these parts much flat land where winter makes the ground hard. Wherever these conditions exist, there, we are told, the "klotschiessen," or "clotshot" game can be played with advantage.—London News.

Dabster Misunderstood.

Figg—What kind of a writer is Dabster? Is he possessed of descriptive powers?

Fogg—Unfortunately, yes.

Figg—Unfortunately?

Fogg—Yes. In his recent sketch of a western girl he spoke of her commercial traveler manner and her generous understanding. The Chicago people allowed that the "commercial traveler manner" was a compliment of which anybody except in the effete east might well be proud, but they suspected that the other characterization was a cheap fling at the size of women's shoes, and after that his writings were a drug in the western market—Boston Transcript.

Wholesale Elopement.

At Delnicze, near Flume, on the Adriatic, 26 girls were carried off on horseback in one night recently by lovers to whom their parents had refused to give them. It is not uncommon for Croatian girls to force consent to their marriage by an elopement, but an organized raid like this is unprecedented and has made a sensation even in Croatia.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

No Doubt About It.

Jack—Great crush at the De Myllions' ball last night.

Augustus (who had proposed there to Miss de Myllions and been rejected)—A tremendous crush.—New York Times.

He who unintelligently attempts what is beyond his power must leave undone his own proper work, and thus his time is wasted, be he ever so closely occupied.

TRAINING ANIMALS.

J. A. BAILEY SAYS IT IS NOT SO DANGEROUS AS IS BELIEVED.

Tact, which Includes Patience, the Principal Requisite in Teaching Wild Beasts Circus Tricks. The Instance of a Confiding German in the Lion's Den.

"Since the exhibition of trained animals has been added to the programme of the Barnum and Bailey show," said Mr. James A. Bailey recently, "I have been frequently asked as to the degree of danger attendant upon such performances. It is the general belief all over the world that a man who goes into a den of wild carnivorous beasts takes his life in his hands, and that each time he does so and escapes unharmed he has won by a lucky chance. Some persons believe that if the trainer who handles the animals in their acts was to turn his back upon them for a single instant they would leap upon and devour him. Others again believe that the lions and tigers only await an opportunity for concerted action to destroy their keepers, while there are still others who declare that it is only through the power of the human eye that the beasts are held in subjection. To all of these opinions and beliefs, and as a final answer to all questions on the subject, I wish to state here and now that there is no danger whatever to any person entering a cage of wild beasts. Such a statement, however, will scarce be believed without some further explanation and proof.

"It is a fact that many men have been maimed, and some killed, by lions and tigers in menageries and zoological gardens throughout the world, but in every case, I venture to say, the causes leading to such accidents and deaths were of their own making. Unmerited or too severe punishment is the most frequent cause. Nearly all animals, no matter how small and insignificant, will turn and fight when cornered and in fear of their lives. A cat will make a desperate and determined fight if so placed that it cannot get away from what it believes is a desperate enemy. Just so with the larger cat animals, and nearly all of the accidents that have occurred have been caused by the brutality of trainers, who, having lost temper, have pursued to extremes an animal that did not do what it was ordered, or which did not understand what was wanted of it. Trainers of the present day, however, have come to realize this, and accidents are of rare occurrence; and I maintain that any man or woman, an entire stranger to the animals, can go in with them, and in perfect safety.

"A case in point comes to my mind. A few years ago I employed an innocent sort of German to work in the menagerie, and one of the first tasks assigned him was cleaning the lions' den. Instead of taking an iron scraper and working the bars as customary, he took a broom, opened the iron door, went in the cage, and began to sweep the floor. When a lion got in his way he would punch it with the broom and tell it in German to go away; and it did so. The man repeated his experience every day, and was never harmed. I now make this positive statement—that in both the handling and training of these animals there is no more danger than attends the training of a domestic animal. The snarling and growling of the beasts is no more indicative of a desire to claw and devour than is expressed in the bark or snarl of a canine house pet, or the hiss of a sleek tabby when its tail is stepped upon. The big brutes may growl and crouch about their cages, look dangerous, and act ferociously, and all that, but I contend, and experience has taught me that my belief is correct, that it is only through a desire to escape from the man rather than to attack him.

"It takes time and patience, more than any one not in the business can imagine, to perfect the training of these animals, and every trainer has a method of his own.

"I would further explain that trained animals will not perform the tricks taught them unless the cue is given them. Even trained horses, which are supposed to have great intelligence, will only go through their performances when the ringmaster supplies the cue, whatever it may be. Sometimes it is a motion of the whip, at others a step backward or forward, when instantly the animal will respond.

"Now, all that is necessary for any one to put through their performance any kind of trained animal or number of them, is for him to know when to give the proper cue.

"I do not believe the animals know one trainer from another, unless one has been with them for a very long time, for when some of my trainers have been taken sick, been discharged, or for other causes left my service, the trained animal part of my show has not been interrupted, but has gone on just the same, a new man having been substituted; and it is safe to say that the animals never knew the difference between the men. I have changed the men as often as five times in a season, and one man has put the beasts through their tricks quite as well as another.

"Any person who will enter the arena fearlessly and confidently, can take the trainer's whip and make the animals perform as well as a person who has handled them for months, provided always he knows what tricks the beasts are required to do, and can supply the required cues.

"I am aware that this statement may appear to most people extraordinary, because it is at variance with their preconceived notions concerning the brutal nature of all wild beasts; but I am firm in my belief and have no hesitation in making it public."

Will Sue on a Campaign Promise.

Constable Thomas Tosh of Shenandoah, Pa., proposes to institute proceedings by quo warranto against Sheriff-elect Alexander Scott of Frackville.

Tosh says he was promised the appointment of deputy by Mr. Scott before the election in consideration of his services in working for his election, and that he has now thrown him over. W. D. Selzer has been retained by Tosh as his attorney. It is claimed that Scott made his deal with Tosh in the Convention which nominated Scott. He claims that two delegates in the Convention were parties to the deal, and he worked hard for Mr. Scott during the campaign, and was instrumental in securing the remarkably large vote for him in Shenandoah.

Indiana's natural gas supply will be exhausted in less than four years, according to the annual report just made by the State Gas Inspector. He estimates that at least $25,000,000 worth of gas has been wasted in Indiana alone.

REHEARSING AMATEUR MINSTRELS.

Some of the Trials of Young Ladies Who Black-up For Charity's Sake.

Fifty bright young women, all members of the Young Ladies' Charitable Society, gathered in a hall in East Fifty-eighth street the other day to rehearse for a minstrel performance they are going to give.

After divesting themselves of macintoshes, coats, hats, and umbrellas, the performers ranged themselves in the old familiar semi-circle,

"Well, ladies, are you all ready?" cried the violinist, when the young women were comfortably seated.

"Yes," came from all sides, and then the young woman who sat in the centre, and was supposed to be the interlocutor, spoke up:

"Oh, just let's sing this morning, and take the jokes and business some other time."

"Oh, no," cried a young woman who had been fondling a tambourine. "Let's have the jokes to-day and sing some other time."

"Stop your talking, ladies," put in the stout prompter, "Your gag there, miss."

"Sir!" exclaimed the interlocutor, drawing herself up. "My gag? I don't understand you."

"I meant joke," said the young man, apologetically. "You see, it's your turn to talk. Now, after the tambo on the end has made her joke, you turn and look toward the other side, and then those three bones on the end——"

The three young women on the end happened to be uncommonly thin, and about two seconds after the stout young man had made his remark, they were on their feet and demanded to know what he meant. With much embarrassment he explained that he had given them the title from the instrument they were to play.

"Oh!" came from all sides, "that was it," and for ten minutes the rehearsal had to be stopped to give the girls an opportunity to talk it over.

"Let's practise the Seely joke, now," said the interlocutor to the stout young man. "It's a new one we girls got up, and, of course, if you don't like it, why, we'll cut it."

"Oh, let it go," said the young man, impatiently. Then one of the end men spoke up:

"Now why, oh dear, I mean, what was the matter with Seely, the bookkeeper of the Shoe and Leather Bank?"

"What was the matter with Seely, the bookkeeper of the Shoe and Leather Bank? Now, what was the matter with Seely, the bookkeeper of the Shoe and Leathdr Bank?" rejoined the interlocutor, while all the other girls sat with mouths wide open. It was the first time the joke had been tried.

"Well," chuckled the end man, "he ought to have had more sole and stuck to his last. He didn't and now he's on his uppers, and—Oh, what's the matter with you all, any way?"

"Next!" interrupted the young man, with the violin, and the humorist subsided, highly indignant.

"I've got a new one, and it's awful good," exclaimed one of the young women on the other side. The stout young man groaned, and faintly murmured: "Go on."

"Why am I like—oh, I ought to explain here; you know my face is supposed to be blackened."

"Yes, yes, go on," said the violinist.

"Well, why am I like an Irishman?"

"Why are you like an Irishman?" repeated the interlocutor. "Well, really, I don't know. Now why are you like an Irishman?"

"Because I am in cork," said the young woman.

A dead silence followed, and was broken by a crash from behind. The girls jumped up in alarm and looked around in time to see the pianist getting up from the floor.

"Please don't do anything like that again," he sighed.

The girls didn't know whether to laugh or not, but decided not to. The girl whose joke brought about all the trouble wanted to say something, but the young man warded off the attack cleverly.

"'Nuff damage done," he said. "I understand some one's got a new song. Let's hear it."

"Oh, it's I," said a girl, springing up from her chair and spilling her tamborine in her haste. "It's just a lovely one, too. A friend of mine who writes for the newspapers wrote it, and——"

"Sing it," put in the young man with the violin.

The young woman began singing to the tune of "Take a day off Mary Ann." The chorus went:

Oh, darling Laura,
How I adore her,
How I——

"I think I will cut that out," said the violinist, and the young woman retreated to her seat, where she remarked to the girl next to her that it was a shame not to give the song a chance.—New York Sun.

JUNE BUTTER IN WINTER.

Artificial Ripening of Cream by an Inoculation Process.

Prof. H. W. Conn, in some experiments in his bacteriological laboratory at Wesleyan University, has made a discovery of importance to everyone interested in the making of butter. It is well known that as butter making has been conducted it has been impossible to make the best butter in the winter time. In spite of every effort, dairymen have been unable to produce from November to May butter equal in flavor to that made in the summer. The latter has a peculiar flavor, particularly noticeable in June. For this reason the best butter is often known as "June" butter. Prof. Conn's discovery will enable dairymen to produce a peculiarly fine quality of "June" butter throughout the year.

The first step in butter making is known as ripening the cream. It is a process much similar to the fermentation of beer, and is similarly produced by the growth and multiplication of millions of bacteria which were originally present in the cream. The quality of the butter depends almost wholly upon the kind of bacteria in the cream, and the reason why it has been impossible to make the best butter in winter is due to the fact that the species of bacteria which give the peculiar flavor to June butter are not present, naturally, during the cold weather. But they may be cultivated artificially, and that is just what Dr. Conn has done.

TROLLEY CARS HELD UP

Green Hands and Passengers Assaulted.

Brooklyn Police Club the Strikers—Indications That the Trouble Will Soon Be Ended—Several Lines Come to Terms with Their Men and Begin Operations.

Brooklyn, N. Y., Jan. 18.—The great trolley strike is still on, but there are indications that it will soon be ended. One company, that which operates the De Kalb avenue line, came to terms with its men and its cars are in full operation. Not a car was moved yesterday in the eastern or southern part of the city. Some forty lines are still tied-up, and at nightfall cars were stopped on all lines except the De Kalb avenue line, which was the only line operated without police protection through the day.

There were more instances of interference with the cars by strikers and their friends than any day since Monday, and the police had their hands full. Cars were held up, windows smashed, and green motormen and conductors assaulted. The police used their clubs freely and captured half a dozen men and one woman from the mobs of stone throwers.

One of the cars of the Fifth avenue line in charge of a green motorman and conductor, was held up by strikers just before it completed a round trip. The car was crowded with passengers and the conductor had collected many fares. When the police extricated the car from the crowd it was found that the conductor had disappeared, and taken the company's cash with him. The windows of the car were broken by flying stones and ice. Several passengers were hit but not seriously injured. The strikers claim that thirty of the new men on the Fifth avenue line have deserted the company. At 6 o'clock last night the crowd about the stables at Fifth avenue had increased and there were signs of trouble brewing if the company attempted to run the cars after night fall. At 7 o'clock this line stopped for the night.

The Putnam avenue and Halsey street line had considerable trouble all the afternoon. At 5 o'clock the crowd around the stables numbered fully one thousand. The strikers were in an angry mood. The police had great difficulty in keeping the tracks clear, and clubs were used freely whenever the crowd became boisterous. At 5 o'clock no more cars were sent out, and as fast as those on the line arrived they were housed for the night.

Mayor Schieren was appealed to by the executive committee representing the strikers, and asked to compel the companies to operate their roads or forfeit their charters. He heard their case, sent for the corporation counsel, and summoned Presidents Lewis and Norton. After a conference with them in which they refused to make any concessions to their striking employes, and refused to sign any agreement whatever with a labor organization, the mayor said that he had not accomplished anything, but would devote his energies to finding some way of settling the strike in the interest of the public.

Last evening a mass meeting of citizens called by merchants whose business is seriously affected by the strike, was held, and the action of the railroad companies in refusing to make terms with their employes was denounced.

Not a Model Family.

Greensburg, Pa., Jan. 18.—Simon Williams, aged 11 years and his sister Florence, aged 13 years, quarrelled. Simon attacked Florence with a stable fork. One of the sharp prongs passed through her cheek, another through her ear, and a third entered the neck, inflicting probably fatal injuries. The children were keeping house. Their mother recently committed suicide and their father is in jail, awaiting trial on a serious charge.

Death in a Snow Slide.

Spokane, Wash., Jan. 18.—Charles Mitchell and two other miners named Moore and McMillan, owners of the Eureka mine, while returning to the mine from Kaslo, B. C., were killed in a snow slide ten miles from that town. Two miners working on the Silverton mine in the path of the slide are missing, and there is no doubt they were killed. The mass of snow was 20 feet high and 200 yards long.

A New Cup Defender.

New York, Jan. 18.—Mr. William K. Vanderbilt, Commodore E. D. Morgan and Mr. C. Oliver Iselin, of the New York Yacht club, have decided to build a yacht to defend the America's Cup in the coming yacht races between the New York Yacht club and the Royal British squadron. Mr. Iselin will be placed in charge of the new cup-defender.

Protective League's Report.

New York, Jan. 18.—The American Protective Tariff league held its annual meeting yesterday. According to General Secretary Wakeman's report the total receipts of the league for the past year were $55,341.02 and the disbursements $52,265.92, leaving a cash balance of $3,075.10. The total membership is 959.

Murdered on a Train.

Perry, O. T., Jan. 18.—On a passenger train between Edmond and Oklahoma City, Will Classen, a prominent citizen of Edmond, shot and killed A. Wallace, a wealthy resident of Edmond. Wallace and Classen had been partners for years and it is alleged Wallace was intimate with Classen's wife.

Murdered by Anarchists.

Rome, Jan. 18.—Signor Celli, attorney-general of the province of Milan, was found murdered in his office in Milan. His body was horribly mutilated. There is every indication that the murder is the work of anarchists.

Hanged for Killing a Policeman.

New Westminster, B. C., Jan. 18.—Yesterday morning Louis Victor was hanged in the jail yard here for the murder of Peter, an Indian policeman at Cheam, on the 17th of September last.

AFFAIRS AT NICARAGUA

Clarence Still Chief of Mosquito Territory.

Urges Great Britain To Insist That the Rights of His People Be Respected — Gen. Cabezas' Ideas of a Popular Election — Remington Rifles as Persuaders.

Kingston, Jan. 18.—Prince, or Chief Clarence, has taken his cause and that of his people in hand, and is urging Great Britain to insist on the rights of the Mosquito Indians as guaranteed by the Managua treaty. The question has been in abeyance pending a careful investigation by Great Britain. Not only has Nicaragua violated her treaty with Great Britain but England has a real grievance of her own in the imprisonment and deportation of Mr. Edwin D. Hatch, H. B. M., vice-consul at Bluefields, Mosquito; in the withdrawal of the exequatur of Mr. Herbert Bingham, H. B. M., consul at Greytown, and in the large and substantial damages suffered by the British merchants and planters in the Mosquito reserve. At any hour one may expect to hear of a naval demonstration by Great Britain. H. M. S. Mohawk, is at Port Limon, Costa Rica, within one hundred and twenty miles of Bluefields, and other vessels are available. Nicaragua will be forced to make the amends for her deliberate insult to British representatives, and she will have to indemnify the sufferers. The Nicaragua-Mosquito plot has thickened. Recently the world has informed of the election of Andrew Handy as the successor to Chief Clarence, and Nicaraguan aversion in the election simply has strengthened Great Britain's claims. As usual, General Cabezas was the principal power the election was his handiwork. A chief had to be elected. By such an election Nicaragua sought to escape from the penalties that she has incurred by her forcing Chief Clarence to fly after three attempts on his life. The fact must not be lost sight of that the whole status of the Mosquito Indians has been clearly defined under the Managua treaty, or that accepted by Nicaragua and Great Britain. The latter provides for the absolute independence of the Mosquitos, who, for nearly two centuries were under a British protectorate. General Cabezas' ideas of a popular election are of the true Spanish-American type. He sent his deputies out into the reserve to bring in the Indians to elect a chief. The Indians are loyal, many well educated by the Moravian missionaries. They declined, were locked up and they were not released until they had promised to obey his orders. The usual Spanish-American persuaders—Remington rifles—were there, and nearly one thousand Nicaraguan soldiers are in the reserve. The presence of any soldier within the reserve is especially precluded by the treaty of Managua. The captive Indians, for such they were, were forced to walk into Bluefields and take part in the election. Andrew Handy was elected but his election was illegal and of no effect, nor does it in anywise impair Chief Clarence's acknowledged chiefainship of the Mosquito territory. Nicaragua's declaring him a rebel does not make him one. When General Cabezas came into power he issued a decree, acting for the president of Nicaragua, General Zelaya. The decrees are at variance with the treaty and in all probability will be ruled out in an ultimate settlement as ultra vires.

CRISP SERIOUSLY ILL.

Advised to Leave Washington, but Declines to Do So.

Washington, Jan. 18. — Speaker Crisp's friends are very anxious about his physical condition. At the capitol it is said by those close to the speaker that he is suffering from neuralgia of the muscles of the heart. The fact has been kept from him for some time past in the hope that the trouble might yield to treatment. Instead of improving, it has been aggravated by other complications brought on by a severe cold.

His physician advised him to leave Washington and seek absolute rest from all active mental and physical labor. Mr. Crisp hesitates to leave the speaker's chair at this stage in the session, and up to the present time he declines to follow the advice of his doctor, so far as leaving Washington is concerned.

Coleman; second vice-president, Christopher Ward; secretary, Charles W. Hoadley; treasurer, James P. Archibold, all of New York; legislative committee, James H. Dulin, P. H. McCormack and J. H. Doyle, all of Albany.

THE COOLER'S WHITE BRIDE.

Frank Craig Engaged to a Buxom English Lass.

New York, Jan. 18.—Frank Craig, the "Harlem Coffee Cooler," not content with demolishing fourteen lights of the English prize ring since Oct. 8, 1894, in battles none of which lasted more than four rounds, has now conquered the heart of a handsome English girl, 22 years of age, and well endowed with this world's goods. This is Bessie Burton, daughter of old "Bobby" Burton, well known in sporting and theatrical circles chiefly as "Pony" Moore's side partner. The facts were conveyed to this country in a letter from Edward Hoiske, editor of a London sporting paper, to "Doc" Ordway, of Boston.

The contrast in hues will not be reckoned as startling in England as it would here, for on the other side of the Atlantic there is no objection to colored men of any nationality. Since Craig's English expedition his fame has grown like a mushroom, and he is, comparatively speaking at any rate, rolling in money. He waited till after he had dispatched Teddy Pritchard with the utmost promptitude before he declared the love that had been smoldering in his manly bosom since Bessie's papa had feted the conqueror of Jack O'Brien at his Battersea residence. The marriage date has not been settled, and the happy pair will, at any rate, not be made one until, as Craig confidently expects, he has made a chopping block of Frank Slavin.

TEN YEARS FOR MURDER.

Mrs. Lodwon Sentenced with Her Baby in Her Arms.

Buffalo, Jan. 18.—Anna Lodwon was sentenced to ten years' imprisonment at Auburn for the part she took in the murder of her first husband, George Harowicz.

Mrs. Lodwon looked quite indifferent when she appeared in court. She carried in her arms the baby which has been the companion of her captivity. Her attorney made a very touching plea for leniency.

Judge Hatch commanded the prisoner to stand up, and she arose, still holding the baby, which was playing with a blue blotter. The court said the jury had been very charitable with the prisoner, and had recommended mercy, and the request would be heeded.

"The sentence of the court is that you be confined in the state prison for women at Auburn at hard labor for the term of ten years."

Mrs. Lodwon displayed no particular emotion, but muttered to herself as she sat down.

Lodwon, her accomplice, will be sentenced later.

Defalcation Leads to Suicide.

Beaver Falls, Pa., Jan. 18.—Last evening Harry W. Beegle, committed suicide at the residence of his brother Frederick, by shooting himself through the head. Beegle was a traveling salesman for W. K. Gillespie, wholesale grocer, Pittsburg, and widely known. Shortage in his accounts was the cause of the deed. An officer called upon him to serve a warrant for his arrest. When the officer approached, Beegle drew a revolver and sent a bullet into his head. He was 45 years of age, and leaves a wife and one child.

Paul Jones Ahead.

Vancouver, B. C., Jan. 18.—Among the passengers by the Empress of Japan is J. Nesse, the new Japan consul, Dr. O. Schmidt-Soda, who is en route to Samoa to assume the position of German consul-general, and Paul Jones, who started from New York to travel around the world on a wager. He left without a cent and had to accomplish the trip in a certain time, besides earning $5,000. He has already got $4,800, and has three weeks in which to get to New York. He is pretty sure to win the wager.

Digiake Miners Doomed.

London, Jan. 18.—The rescuing parties which have been at work in the Digiake colliery, at Henley, since the mine was overflowed by a rush of water from the old workings, have met with fresh and insuperable obstacles, and have, consequently, abandoned their efforts to reach the unfortunate men who were entombed alive. It is impossible that any of the miners whose escape was cut off by the flooding of the mine can still survive.

TWO BOTTLES CURED.

Cause for the Widespread Demand for Paine's Celery Compound.

The unequalled demand for Paine's celery compound among the people of this State is but an index of the great good that it is doing—

Not only in this vicinity, not only in every eastern State, but everywhere in the United States.

Paine's celery compound, the wonderful remedy that makes people well, is beyond question the most reliable production of modern medical science.

Nobody disputes it.

From the day it was first prescribed by that most eminent of American physicians, Prof. Edward E Phelps, it has been recommended, prescribed and its merits extolled by the ablest of physicians. The best medical journals have devoted almost unlimited space to the cures it has effected.

The daily press of the large cities has contained account after account of remarkable cases of "health restored by Paine's celery compound.

Some of the most famous men and women in the country have very recently "authorized the publication of their unsolicited testimonials They or their physicians have frankly told how, when all else had failed, Paine's celery compound made them well.

The Boston Herald has just devoted a page or more to interviews with prominent men and women in that city who had been made well the past year by Paine's celery compound.

There are many in Plainfield whom it has cured of serious illness.

Paine's celery compound is the one specific for those nervous disorders, indigestion, neuralgia and rheumatism, for heart trouble, lassitude, sleeplessness, from which men and women in this climate too generally suffer.

It cures not only speedily but permanently. It supplies the nerves with food it makes new blood; it removes the cause of disease. Mrs. H G Daniels of Rochester, N Y., whose portrait is given above, writes thus of her experience.

"Last spring," she says, "I had a severe attack of muscular rheumatism. At first I used a good deal of liniment which gave me some relief, but it finally settled in my feet, making me a hobbling cripple. I then began using Paine's celery compound and the second bottle cured me completely, so now I am a walking advertisement, and recommend Paine's celery compound most cheerfully. I can heartily recommend it, as an invaluable remedy, to all who are afflicted, and shall always keep it in the house to use in case of need."

Testimonials might be published by hundreds. They all go to show that for any of those complaints that arise from an impaired nervous system or impure blood Paine's celery compound should invariably be taken—for it makes people well.

ROGERS—OYSTERS

232 West Second Street

[Copyright, 1895, by Bacheller, Johnson & Bacheller.]

Stimson stood in a corner and glowered. He was a fierce man and had indomitable whiskers, albeit he was very small.

"That young tarrier," he whispered to himself. "He wants to quit makin' eyes at Lizzie. This is too much of a good thing. First thing you know, he'll get fired."

His brow creased in a frown, he strode over to the huge open doors and looked at a sign. "Stimson's Mammoth Merry-Go-Round," it read, and the glory of it was great. Stimson stood and contemplated the sign. It was an enormous affair; the letters were as large as men. The glow of it, the grandeur of it was very apparent to Stimson. At the end of his contemplation, he shook his head thoughtfully, determinedly. "No, no," he muttered. "This is too much of a good thing. First thing you know, he'll get fired."

A soft booming sound of surf, mingled with the cries of bathers, came from the beach. There was a vista of sand and sky and sea that drew to a mystic point far away in the northward. In the mighty angle, a girl in a red dress was crawling slowly like some kind of a spider on the fabric of nature. A few flags hung lazily above where the bathhouses were marshalled in compact squares. Upon the edge of the sea, stood a ship with its shadowy sails painted dimly upon the sky, and high overhead in the still, sun-shot air a great hawk swung and drifted slowly.

Within the merry-go-round there was a whirling circle of ornamental lions, giraffes, camels, ponies, goats, glittering with varnish and metal that caught swift reflections from windows high above them. With stiff wooden legs, they swept on in a never-ending race while a great orchestrion clamored in wild speed. The summer sunlight sprinkled its gold upon the garnet canopies carried by the tireless racers and upon all the devices of decoration that made Stimson's machine magnificent and famous. A host of laughing children bestrode the animals, bending forward like charging cavalrymen and shaking reins and whooping in glee. At intervals they leaned out perilously to clutch at iron rings that were tendered to them by a long wooden arm. At the intense moment before the swift grab for the rings one could see their little nervous bodies quiver with eagerness; the laughter rang shrill and excited. Down in the long rows of benches, crowds of people sat watching the game while occasionally a father might arise and go near to shout encouragement, cautionary commands, or applause at his flying off-spring. Frequently mothers called out: "Be careful, Georgie!" The orchestrion bellowed and thundered on its platform, filling the ears with its long monotonous song, while over in a corner, a man in a white apron and behind a counter roared above the tumult: "Pop corn! Pop corn!"

"YOU'D BETTER ATTEND STRICTLY TO YOUR BUSINESS."

A young man stood upon a small, raised platform, erected in the manner of a pulpit and just without the line of the circling figures. It was his duty to manipulate the wooden arm and affix the rings. When all were gone into the hands of the triumphant children, he held forth a basket, into which they returned all save the coveted brass one, which meant another ride free and made the holder very illustrious. The young man stood all day upon his narrow platform, affixing rings or holding forth the basket. He was a sort of general squire in this list of childhood. He was very busy.

And yet Stimson, the astute, had noticed that the young man frequently found time to twist about on his platform and smile at a girl who shyly sold tickets behind a silvered netting. This, indeed, was the great reason of Stimson's glowering. The young man upon the raised platform had no manner of license to smile at the girl behind the silvered netting. It was a most gigantic insolence. Stimson was amazed at it. "By jiminy," he said to himself again, "that fellow is smiling at my daughter." Even in this tone of great wrath it could be discerned that Stimson was filled with wonder that any youth should dare smile at the daughter in the presence of the august father.

Often the dark-eyed girl peered between the shining wires, and, upon being detected by the young man, she usually turned her head away quickly to prove to him that she was not interested. At other times, however, her eyes seemed filled with a tender fear lest he should fall from that exceedingly dangerous platform. As for the young man, it was plain that these glances filled him with valor, and he stood carelessly upon his perch, as if he deemed it of no consequence that he might fall from it. In all the complexities of his daily life and duties he found opportunity to gaze ardently at the vision behind the netting.

This silent courtship was conducted over the heads of the crowd who thronged about the bright machine. The swift, eloquent glances of the young man went noiselessly and unseen with their message. There had finally become established between the two in this manner a subtle understanding and companionship. They communicated accurately all that they wished. The boy told his love, his reverence, his hope in the changes of the future. The girl told him that she loved him, that she did not love him, that she did not know if she loved him, that she loved him. Sometimes a little sign saying "cashier" in gold letters, and hanging upon the silvered netting, got directly in range and interfered with a tender message.

The love affair had not continued without anger, unhappiness, despair. The girl had once smiled brightly upon a youth who came to buy some tickets for his little sister, and the young man upon the platform observing this smile had been filled with gloomy rage. He stood like a dark statue of vengeance upon his pedestal and thrust out the basket to the children with a gesture that was full of scorn for their hollow happiness, for their insecure and temporary joy. For five hours he did not once look at the girl when she was looking at him. He was going to crush her with his indifference; he was going to demonstrate that he had never been serious. However, when he narrowly observed her in secret he discovered that she seemed more blythe than was usual with her. When he found that his apparent indifference had not crushed her he suffered greatly. She did not love him, he concluded. If she had loved him she would have been crushed. For two days he lived a miserable existence upon his high perch. He consoled himself by thinking of how unhappy he was, and by swift, furtive glances at the loved face. At any rate he was in her presence, and he could get a good view from his perch when there was no interference by the little sign: "Cashier."

But suddenly, swiftly, these clouds vanished and under the imperial blue sky of the restored confidence, they dwelt in peace, a peace that was satisfaction, a peace that, like a babe, put its trust in the treachery of the future. This confidence endured until the next day, when she, for an unknown cause, suddenly refused to look at him. Mechanically, he continued his task, his brain dazed, a tortured victim of doubt, fear, suspicion. With his eyes he supplicated her to telegraph an explanation. She replied with a stony glance that froze his blood. There was a great difference in their respective reasons for becoming angry. His were always foolish, but apparent, plain as the moon. Hers were subtle, feminine, as incomprehensible as the stars, as mystic as the shadows at night.

They fell and soared, and soared and fell in this manner until they knew that to live without each other would be a wandering in deserts. They had grown so intent upon the uncertainties, the variations, the guessings of their affair that the world had become but a huge immaterial background. In time of peace their smiles were soft and prayerful, caresses confided to the air. In time of war, their youthful hearts, capable of profound agony, were wrung by the intricate emotions of doubt. They were the victims of the dread angel of affectionate speculation that forces the tired brain endlessly on roads that lead nowhere.

At night, the problem of whether or not she loved him confronted the young man like a specter, looming as high as a hill and telling him not to delude himself. Upon the following day, the battle of the night displayed itself in the renewed fervor of his glances and in their increased number. Whenever he thought he could detect that she too was suffering, he felt a thrill of joy.

But there came a time when the young man looked back upon these contortions with contempt. He believed then that he had imagined his pain. This came about when the redoubtable Stimson marched forward to participate.

"This has got to stop," Stimson said to himself, as he stood and watched them. They had grown careless of the light world that clattered about them; they were become so engrossed in their personal drama that the language of their eyes was almost as obvious as gestures. And Stimson, through his keenness, his wonderful, infallible penetration, suddenly came into possession of these obvious facts. "Well, of all the nerves," he said, regarding with a new interest the young man upon the perch.

He was a resolute man. He never hesitated to grapple with a crisis. He decided to overturn everything at once, for, although small, he was very fierce and impetuous. He resolved to crush this dreaming.

He strode over to the silvered netting. "Say, you want to quit your everlasting grinning at that idiot," he said, grimly.

She cast down her eyes and made a little heap of quarters into a stack. She was unable to withstand the terrible scrutiny of her small and fierce father.

Stimson turned from his daughter and went to a spot beneath the platform. He fixed his eyes upon the young man and said: "I've been speakin' to Lizzie. You better attend strictly to your own business or there'll be a new man here next week." It was as if he had blazed away with a shotgun. The young man reeled upon his perch. At last he in a measure regained his composure and managed to stammer: "A—all right, sir." He knew that denials would be futile with the terrible Stimson. He agitatedly began to rattle the rings in the basket and pretend that he was obliged to count them or inspect them in some way. He, too, was unable to face the great Stimson.

For a moment, Stimson stood in great satisfaction and gloated over the effect of his threat. "I've fixed them," he said complacently, and went out to smoke a cigar and revel in himself. Through his mind went the proud reflection that people who came in contact with his granite will usually ended in quick and abject submission.

PLAINFIELD THOUGHT SHE WON.

But 'Twas an Error in Addition, and Elizabeth Was True Victor.

A most interesting and closely contested game was rolled on the Trade Temple alleys last night between the Plainfield Bowling Club and the Young Men's Catholic Literary Association of Elizabeth, who have successfully defended the Elizabeth Journal trophy the last two years. It was witnessed by fully two hundred bowling enthusiasts, who yelled themselves hoarse at every possible occasion, and the occasions were of almost constant recurrence.

It was probably the most interesting game ever bowled on the alleys, every pin possible being needed by the contestants from start to finish. The P. B. C. went to the post as "odds on" favorites, and at the drop of the flag were off like a shot, leading in the stretch by 19 pins; but the Elizabeth boys trotted up to the bunch and led by a nose in the second, set the pace down the back stretch, and were never headed, leading at the wire by a neck.

Clogher's 202 was the feature of the game, and he was closely followed by Petrie of the home team, who pushed them over 194 times before the race was done.

The Elizabeth contingent was fully fifty strong, and as rooters they are distinguished successes according to the indisputable evidence of some of Netherwood's citizens, who solemnly assert they could hear them yell at frequent intervals during the game.

The P. B. C's and their rooters awakened the echoes as often as they could get their breath, and the collective vocal endeavors of the assembly to win the game for their favorites resulted in pandemonium itself when an error in addition made the official scorer announce "1605—1607 P. B. C." at the close of the contest.

Coats, hats, canes, voices, and arms, filled the air; and it was some time before the racket subsided sufficiently to allow the corrected score to be heard above the tumult.

Before departing the Y. M. C. L. A. were presented with the horseshoe which, many believed, was the P. B. C's mascot, but which turned out to be their mascot.

The score:

Cranford's First Home-Print.

The Daily Press extends its greetings to its valued neighbor, the Cranford Chronicle. Editor Potter has put in his own plant, and is prepared to show the people of the progressive town what a lively chap he can be with home facilities for printing not only the news in his paper but also whatever the citizens want in the nature of job work. Mr. Potter showed his good taste in selecting a North Plainfield girl for his halpmeet; since he became a Benedick he has prospered and progressed even greater than before. There's nothing like having a good counselor as well as a good head.

Professor Boyesen in Plainfield.

Professor H. H. Boyesen, the well-known novelist and critic, will deliver a lecture in the Casino next Monday afternoon, under the auspices of the Monday Afternoon Club. His subject will be "The Influence of Goethe", a theme which his studies in German literature must have rendered him specially fitted to treat. He is always an interesting speaker, and has been heard with much pleasure in Plainfield on former occasions.

The Weight Distributed.

A feature of the new style of rubber shoes now being tried on the fire department horses is that the foot steps squarely on the ground, and the weight is thus spread over the full flat surface instead of being borne on the toenails (so to speak) as is the case with the ordinary calked iron shoes.

Marvelous Results.

From a letter written by Rev. J. Gunderman, of Dismondale, Mich., we are permitted to make this extract: 'I have no hesitation in recommending Dr. King's New Discovery, as the results were almost marvelous in the case of my wife. While I was pastor of the Baptist Church at Rives Junction she was brought down by pneumonia succeeding la grippe. Terrible paroxysms of coughing would last hours with little interruption and it seemed as if she could not survive them. A friend recommended Dr. King's New Discovery; it was quick in its work and highly satisfactory in results. Sold by L. W. Randolph druggist. Regular size 50c and $1; our price 45c and 90c

LIVE BIRDS AT FANWOOD.

And Lively Shooting at Them by Expert Handlers of the Gun.

A large number of sportsmen assembled at the Benner shooting grounds yesterday to witness a match between John Benner and Alfred Heritage of Jersey City, and were much disappointed at the non appearance of Mr. Heritage, who telegraphed that he was detained by sickness. In lieu of the match a number of sweepstakes was shot, John Rothacker of Philadelphia being among those who were present in the events, which resulted as follows:

First event—five live birds, $3 entrance, T. H. Keller and J. Benner each killed five and divided first; C. Smith and J. Darby taking second with four; J. Rothacker scored three and Geo. Piercy two.

Event second—same conditions, T. H. Keller, C. Smith, D. Terry and Scott divided first with straight scores of five; J. Darby, Benner, Rothacker and Piercy taking second with four.

Third event—miss and out, $4 entrance was divided by T. H. Keller, P. Jay, C Smith and Scott each scoring five; Benner scored four; Darby, D. Terry and Bowlby two each; Rothacker one; Piercy dropping out on the first round.

Fourth event—eight birds, $5 entrance. J. Rothacker, D. Terry and Scott scored all their birds, dividing first money; C. Smith and T. H. Keller second with seven; Piercy, J. Darby and P. Jay third, with six; Benner five.

The last event was another miss and out affair in which Keller, Piercy and Scott divided the purse, each scoring four birds, D. Terry missing on fourth, Benner on third and Smith and Rothacker on second.

An Affectionate Testimonial.

[Contributed.]

The many warm friends of Rev. Dr. W. W. Page, whose brief ministry at the Church of the Heavenly Rest was so brilliant in its promise and so treacherously robbed of its fruitfulness, have sought more than once since the Doctor's resignation to express their esteem for him and their earnest gratitude for his devoted services during the months of his residence here, and for his beautiful example of Christian spirituality.

This sincere regard was delicately and touchingly expressed by a number of Dr. Page's former parishoners—all of whom are now connected with the Church of the Redeemer—when on Thursday afternoon they met at the home of Mrs. L. Davis on Clinton avenue to pack a box of dainties for Dr. Page's only son, Kent Page, who is lying very ill at Highland Falls, N. Y. The young man spent several weeks in town last Summer, and by his frank, pleasant manner made all his father's friends his own, while the mutual devotion of father and son won universal admiration.

The box of good things contained fruits, jellies, bouillons and every delicacy that could tempt an invalid's appetite, or "minister to the inner man" as one of the number phrased it, together with some beautiful cut flowers and several notes of affectionate and friendly sympathy.

How much more there was of the unselfish pleasure of giving and of ministering to those in trouble, cannot be expressed.

To Change the Meeting Place.

The Gospel Temperance meetings which have been held in Music Hall Sundays since October 21, will be continued in the rooms of the Women's Christian Temperance Union, corner of Watchung avenue and Fourth street, until further notice. The organization regret the necessity for the change, but owing to the cold and stormy Sundays the offerings did not meet the expense. A fund has been started, and when by the generosity of interested friends it has reached a sufficient amount to warrant the return to Music Hall, the meetings there may be resumed. Who will help in this good cause?

Rev. E. L. Hyde will address the meeting Sunday, Jan. 20.

Handles Plainfield Realty.

The busy man of the Spring is the real-estate broker, and none is more busy than E. C. Mulford of 169 North avenue, who is entrusted with so many properties that the wonder is how he manages them all. That ceases to be a wonder when one realizes his executive ability and his thorough knowledge of the real estate of Plainfield. He is busy all the year, and yet has time enough to satisfy all who have premises to dispose of or who are in search of new quarters. His lists contain all the desirable places.

Miss May Stockton Shreve of Grove street has set forth in the current number of Harper's Young People an attractive idea for a young girl's luncheon under the title of "A Literary Salad". The problem of how to provide entertainment of a nature not too frivolous for young people, without becoming pedantic and dull, has always been a difficult one, and Miss Shreve's suggestion will be remembered as one of the details of its solution. The article will be perused with interest, not only by her friends, but by all the readers of the Young People.

WHAT'S A GYM WITHOUT A BATH?

Classes Not to Begin Till the Swimming Tank Is Ready—Something About Examinations.

Words of commendation come from every quarter to The Press concerning the examinations of Physical Instructor MacPhie of the Y. M. C. A. gymnasium. He is a very busy man in the prosecution of the examination of candidates, and the men and youths of the town are finding out a great deal of important interest to themselves as a result of placing their bodies under his scrutiny. Mr. MacPhie makes a thorough study of the physical condition of all candidates for admission into his classes, and gives each a card telling the weight, height, measurements, lung capacity, and condition of the physical structure. He thus is enabled to know just how to proceed intelligently in the matter of body-building, and as each case develops the student has the satisfaction of seeing by his personal record just how he is progressing. The personal qualities of Mr. MacPhie are such that the examinations are conducted in the most gentlemanly and courteous manner.

It had been expected to begin the classes next Monday, but it was decided to wait till the swimming tank is in readiness, as the plunge is such a finishing touch to the exercises. The heater for the big tank is here, and George Tobin is rushing the plumbing through as fast as consistent with good work. The dates of classes will be announced as soon as possible. There will be a 5 o'clock class for business and professional men, and an evening class for the general members.

TRACTION COMPANIES' INTERESTS.

An Association of New Jersey Corporations Formed.

A meeting composed of representatives of many traction companies of New Jersey was held at the offices of the Consolidated Traction Company, 1 Exchange place, Jersey City, Thursday afternoon, the object of which was the formation of an organization to be known as the Street Railway Association of New Jersey. The purpose of the companies was stated to be mutual advancement and social intercourse, but it is reported that the power which will be wielded by the new association will be used for the purpose of obtaining favorable legislation.

The Plainfield company was not represented at the meeting, but it was stated that the officers had promised to join.

—The people of Putnam avenue complain of the owner of the property near the brook. The sidewalk has not been cleaned this Winter, and many people have had serious falls.

THE LABOR QUESTION.

Ex-Congressman Roswell G. Horr Gives an Entertaining and Convincing Lecture on the Great Problem of the Day.

Ex-Congressman Roswell G. Horr of Plainfield delivered a most interesting and entertaining lecture on the labor question in All Souls Church last evening before an appreciative audience. Mr. Horr has an inexhaustable fund of pertinent anecdote and amusing incident, and, though speaking in the facetious vein for which he is noted, unearthed frequent nuggets of wisdom and reason.

It is not in the nature of things that all should possess a like amount of this world's treasures, for just as natures vary so do the abilities of individuals to accumulate and save.

Some have more than others because some use all they can get and borrow more, while many use only a part of what they receive, be it ever so little.

The great trouble with many young men of today is that they believe it necessary, in order to be a good fellow, to drink and smoke on all occasions. "This is a fallacy"—emphatically remarked the lecturer—"and no one is a better judge than I, for I have done without either all my life."

"Not what one gets but what he saves will make him rich", yet the libraries of this country fairly groan with literature to prove that a person has no right to own a dollar's worth of real estate. The speaker cited Henry George's statement that the rich grow richer and the poor poorer in this country each succeeding year and that civilization is a humbug and government a failure; saying that the only possible objection he could see to this theory was that it was n't true. Several interesting reminiscences of the speaker's early life were given to show that the first proposition was wholly wrong, and that the people had more today because their needs were greater than formerly.

Talmage said not very long ago he hoped the day was not far distant when no more labor-saving machinery would be invented. The ex-Senator easily proved the fallacy of this desire from the fact that when, owing to the removal of any number of men because of the introduction of labor-saving machinery, new channels are found for their labors, and invention is stimulated.

Forty years ago grain was garnered with the hand scythe, and a man who could cut down half an acre in a day knew that he had been working, and he did n't stop in eight hours either.

Yet when the cradle scythe was introduced with which one man could do the work of six, the other five men could and did turn their hands to other channels.

"Any man" continued the lecturer, "who invents a machine which will lessen labor and improve the finished product is a benefactor to the human race and the time will never come when manual labor and drudgery will be wholly abolished."

The introduction of the friction match, which at first cost a penny apiece and can now be bought in boxes of 300 for what one cost then, if it had not proved a blessing to mankind would never have grown to the enormous industry it is today, when two factories in the State of Michigan each use 14,000,000 feet of white pine lumber in the manufacture of the convenient little torches every year.

The marketable price of products should regulate wages and never until it does will the question of labor and capital be finally settled. Brotherly love, the world-wide principle, "Do unto others as you would that they should do to you" is the natural and the only basis on which labor and capital can amicably come together.

The lecturer strongly emphasized the divine right of every man to be the architect of his own fortune, citing many apt illustrations applicable to the assertion, which did not fail to bring a smile of pleasure, oft times audible, to his attentive listeners. "In conclusion", said ex-Senator Horr, "I wish I could save my fellow-countrymen from three things: First, the greed of employers; next, from useless expenditure; and, most important of all, save them from following the advice of false teachers, who create discord and unrest by their harmful doctrine."

The lecture was earnest, instructive, interesting, scintillated with keen wit and dry humor, and was certainly worthy of a vastly larger audience than that which smiled and thought with Plainfield's orator last evening.

Why Not?

The exhibition game which was scheduled for last evening between the C. Y. M. L. bowlers and the Institutes of Newark on the Lyceum alleys was declared off, as the Institutes failed to materialize.

—The Parks will bowl the Roselles on the North Plainfield alleys Monday night.

Many stubborn and aggravating cases of rheumatism that were believed to be incurable and accepted as life legacies, have yielded to Chamberlain's Pain Balm, much to the surprise and gratification of the sufferers. TROOPS UNDER ARMS

Second Brigade Guarding the Trolley Cars.

The Brooklyn Railroads Will Now Have To Show Whether They Can Produce Enough Men To Run Their Systems—Scenes and Incidents of Yesterday.

Brooklyn, N. Y., Jan. 19.—Mayor Schieren decided last evening that troops would be needed to preserve order this morning, and sent a letter to Brigadier General McLeer asking him to furnish 600 to 700 men to act as guards at the railroad depots and stables. Before midnight special messengers were scurrying around town in the snow which was falling, and militiamen were notified to report to their armories at 4 a. m., in the morning.

The call is issued under section 162 of article 10, chapter 559 of the laws of 1893, which provides that in case of any breach of the peace, tumult, riot, or resistance to process of this state, or imminent danger thereof, the sheriff of any county or the mayor of any city, may call upon the commanding officer of the national guard stationed therein or adjacent thereto. The commanding officer upon whom the call is made shall order in aid of the civil authorities the force or any part thereof under his command.

The entire brigade of some 3,000 men are held in reserve at the armories except six or seven hundred who are doing guard duty at the companies depots.

Bullets flew in Brooklyn yesterday and the strike situation assumed so serious an aspect that the advisibility of calling out the militia was under consideration by Mayor Schieren and his advisors. Incipient riots, assaults and other disturbances of the peace were frequent in different parts of the city during the day. Hope of settlement by arbitration was abandoned. A fight between the companies and their men to be waged to the bitter end is on. The police force of the city is totally inadequate to preserve order and protect the cars, depots and new employes of the companies. One line which has been idle all the week started up and a small riot followed. It was the Tompkins avenue and Fulton street line. One car was disabled, others had windows broken, and attempts were made to overturn other cars at different points along the line. There were a few arrests made but in most cases the men who caused the trouble escaped. There was a disturbance early in the day at the stables of the Court street line, and two shots were fired from the crowd without effect.

The Putnam avenue and Halsey street cars ran all day, and there was plenty of trouble along the route. In one melee shots were fired at the motorman and a passenger inside the car had a narrow escape from being hit.

On the Flatbush avenue and Fifth avenue lines cars were stoned and new men assaulted. No attempt was made to start the Williamsburg lines, or any of the other lines which have been idle since Monday morning. The De Kalb avenue line and that on Jay streets—the two lines which have signed agreements with their men—were in full operation and did a dividend-paying business. All lines except these two stopped running last night.

President Norton of the Atlantic avenue system, sent a formal demand to Police Commissioner Welles for proper police protection for the property of his company, and announced that he would start cars on all lines this morning, and hold the city responsible for any damage that results.

That there will be serious trouble in this programme if carried out is certain, and the officials of the line asked that the militia be called out to preserve the peace.

President Lewis of the Brooklyn Heights company, expects to open new lines this morning.

President Wicker of the Williamsburg lines, announces that he will start his cars and give the strikers all the fight they want. All of the companies have hundreds of new men who have been brought from Boston, Philadelphia, Newark, Jersey City and other points, and they demand police protection in order to operate their roads, and utilize the men who are under pay from the time of their arrival.

All of the police captains were summoned to headquarters last evening and given instructions by the superintendent of police. Sheriff Buttling was in conference with Commissioner Welles and the captains. Volunteer squads of militiamen were on duty at all armories last night.

Wood Sent to Jail.

Altoona, Pa., Jan. 19.—Sol Wood, a hotelkeeper of this city and David Douglass, his bartender, have been arrested charged with being implicated in the robbery of the city treasurer's office recently. Wood is charged with having tried to sell $8,000 worth of Altoona city bonds to Daniel McSweeney, formerly a detective in the government service.

CONFESSES HIS GUILT

How the Mercantile Bank Was Robbed.

Broker Quigley Secured Advances of About $144,000 on Forged Securities—The Prisoner's Property Attached—That Will Bring the Loss Down to $50,000.

New York, Jan. 19.—Edward O. Quigely, a broker, of the firm of Quigley & Tuttle, dealers in bonds and other investment securities, was committed to the tombs yesterday. The charge against Quigley is the hypothecation of forged bonds amounting to $160,000 with the Mercantile National bank, corner of Dey street and Broadway. Quigley secured advances of about $144,000 on the forged securities.

The bank, however, will not lose this sum in its entirety, attachments having been levied against securities held by the prisoner.

Quigley admits his guilt, but denies that his partner, Tuttle, is in any way implicated.

The discovery was made by President William P. St. John through the presentation by his bank on Wednesday last of a coupon cut from a one-thousand dollar bond of the city of Cleveland, O.

Treasurer Armstrong, of the American Exchange bank, the local financial agents of Cleveland, thought the coupon had a strange appearance and asked for time before paying the $22.50 which it called for.

He at once wired to Cleveland a description of the coupon and received an answer pronouncing the coupon a forgery. The American National Exchange bank notified President St. John of this fact.

The Mercantile National bank at once caused an examination of all the securities hypothecated by Quigley. The major portion of them were found to be forged. The list of spurious securities, with their respective amounts is as follows: $57,000 city of Cleveland, O.; $68,000 city of Springfield, O.; $35,000 city of Harrisburg, Pa., and $6,000 city of Zaneville, O.—a total of $166,000.

The firm of Quigley & Tuttle was organized in 1890, Quigley having been previously connected with the firm, who were among the Mercantile National bank's oldest customers.

The new firm was organized under the advice of Tuttle's father, one of the most substantial and respected citizens in New Haven, Conn., and a long time friend of the bank and President St. John. It was but natural, therefore, that the new firm should open their account with the Mercantile. According to President St. John the account was an active one, the deposits large, and loans and repayments frequent.

When the securities were presented that have been since found to be forged, the bank did not for a moment question their authenticity, owing to the apparent respectability of Quigley.

Another fact which gave the bank confidence in the securities was that the engraving firm was one well known by President St. John and Cashier Schenck as a most careful institution, and whose investigations of the securities they were asked to produce was always most searching and thorough.

President St. John, when seen at the bank, said the revelation came in the nature of a shock to him. He had always held the highest opinion of Quigley and his partner. He said that the securities were not all hypothecated at one time, and the advances upon them were made on a dozen different loans.

When confronted by the authorities of the bank Quigley finally admitted his guilt and attributed his downfall to speculation, of which he kept no account in the books, but depended upon memoranda in order to blind his partner and employes. He insisted that his partner, Tuttle, a resident of New Haven, is entirely ignorant of the forged securities or the fact that they were hypothecated.

President St. John said that the loss would fall entirely upon the stockholders of the bank, but that a recent report of that institution's condition showed a surplus and profits of $1,103,000, in addition to its capital of $1,000,000, with which to meet it.

So far as can be ascertained among his intimate acquaintances Quigley possessed no vicious habits and attended closely to his business. His manner of living was modest and neither he nor his family were given to extravagence.

He has been a prominent figure in social circles at Orange, where he owned considerable property and kept a stable of fine horses. His wife is a prominent woman suffragist and temperance leader.

It is said that when the amount of the porperty attached is taken into consideration the loss of the bank will below $50,000.

WORK OF CONGRESS.

No Final Action Taken on the Japanese Treaty.

Washington, Jan. 19.—The senate spent nearly two hours in secret session considering the question of ratifying the pending treaty with Japan. No final action was taken, and the matter was postponed till next Friday.

While in legislative session the army appropriation bill was passed—Mr Mitchell (rep., Ore.) having carried his point for the retention of the military posts at Vancouver and Walla Walla so contemptuously described by Mr. Blackburn (dem., Ky.), as a "Military barnacle."

A joint resolution was passed to revive (for the benefit of Maj.-Gen Schofield), the grade of lieut.-general of the army.

Another financial bill was launched on the turbid stream of legislation by Mr. Peffer (pop., Kan.),—the title of it being "To replenish the treasury and provide an abundant and safe currency." It was referred, as all other projects of like character, to the finance committee. The Nicaraguan canal bill was taken up and Mr. Caffery (dem., La.) continued his speech against the constitutionality of the measure in which speech he had been interrupted last week. An ineffectual effort was made to have a time fixed (next week), for taking a final vote on the bill. The senate at 5:10 adjourned till to-day.

No business of a general character was accomplished in the house. By unanimous consent the District of Columbia had been given the right of way. Before 2 o'clock, the district committee surrendered the floor and the rest of the day was spent in further consideration of the Indian appropriation bill in committee of the whole. Without finishing the bill, the committee rose at 4:20 o'clock and the house took a recess until 8 o'clock.

The evening session was devoted to the consideration of private pension bills.

AMERICA'S CUP DEFENDER.

General Satisfaction at the Outlook for a Good Boat.

New York, Jan. 19.—Commodore Smith is delighted at the turn the cup defence affairs have taken. He said "Every one can rest easy so far as the defence of the cup is concerned. We will have a good boat—the best ever turned out in fact.

"I don't know anything of any other syndicate and I don't think that more than one boat will be built. I have written a letter on behalf of the America's Cup committee to Mr. George Gould, thanking him for his courtesy in offering to bring the Vigilant back to this country and place her at the disposal of the cup committee."

Commodore Smith scouts the idea of their being any feeling among yachtsmen about the syndicate.

"You can say for me, that every one is well satisfied," he said. "Commodore Brown called upon me. He is well pleased with the outlook, and I think that things could not be better than they are."

DEATH OF MISS STEVENSON.

Her Remains To Be Carried to Bloomington for Interment.

Asheville, N. C., Jan. 19.—Miss Mary L. Stevenson, eldest daughter of Vice-President Adlai E. Stevenson, died here yesterday. Miss Stevenson came to Asheville about the middle of October, accompanied by her mother, suffering from what was at first thought to be a heavy cold, which she had contracted on the coast of Maine. This, however, developed into chronic pneumonia with tuberculosis and complications of kidney trouble resulting in her death. All of her family, except her brother, Lewis G. Stevenson, were present at the bedside.

Preliminary funeral services will be held in the parlors of the Battery Park hotel this afternoon at 2 o'clock, and the remains will leave Asheville in a special car for Bloomington, Ill., at 4 o'clock, where the interment will be made Monday.

STOCK HELD BY WORKINGMEN.

Failure of an Investment Company a Financial Blow to New Haven.

New Haven, Con., Jan. 19.—Of the $500,000 worth of stock issued by the Bankers Loan & Investment company of New York city which as gone into the hands of receivers, it is estimated that about $350,000 is held in this city and vicinity. It is believed to be the worst finacial blow which has struck New Haven in many years.

Of the $30,000 worth of installment stock a considerable proportion is held by workingmen and women who placed their saving in the company because of the standing of the New Haven men who were interested. Cashier John A. Richardson, of the Yale National bank, was formerly vice-president of the company and is now a director. Secretary C. W. Clark of the company is also of this city.

Indian Claim Against Oil City.

Harrisburg, Pa., Jan. 19.—Solomon Oball, grandson of Cornplanter, the famous Indian chief, and Andrew Johns, Seneca Indians, from the Cattaraugus reservation in Erie county, New York, are here to represent a claim against the state which Oball has had descended to him from his ancestors. Among the land grants given Cornplanter was one covering the territory upon which the whole of Oil City is now located. It is claimed by Oball that this land was never deeded by Cornplanter to anybody but was pre-empted by the white man. Oball is now 80 years old and he wants the state to recompense him as he is the only heir.

MAY MARRIAGES UNLUCKY.

Old Superstition Which Has Powerful Influence With European Bridal Couples.

The municipal statistics of the city of Marseilles show the observer that on the 28th of April, 1894, there were registered at the mayor's office in that town no less than 94 marriages. Why this enormous number? Because, according to an ancient tradition, couples that marry in the month of May expose themselves to great danger—death will soon smite the unfortunates, or, at the very least, their union will not be blessed with children. Therefore a large number of Marseillaise lovers availed themselves of the last days of April to join themselves in wedlock.

This curious superstition is by no means confined to Marseilles. M. le Blaut, a French investigator, ascribes to it an origin in Roman antiquity. The Roman poet Ovid said that May was no time for widows to marry or for young girls, and adds that the imprudent woman who braves fate by so doing will die early. Plutarch agrees to the truth of this.

It may be because of this ancient principle that the Roman Catholic church has made the month of May sacred to the Virgin. However this may be, the idea has certainly perpetuated itself with singular persistence. Tassoni, writing about the middle of the seventeenth century, relates that among the inhabitants of Ferraras many young nobles and princes who were married in May died only a few days afterward. "It is the observation of this strange fact," he observes, "that induced the Ferrarese, so it is said, to follow the ancient custom."

At the present day the superstition has not ceased to show itself in certain regions of Italy, in Roumania, in south Germany, Bohemia, Westphalia, England and France, notably in Saintonge and in the Cevennes, where every one acknowledges the truth of the proverb, "The month of flowers is a month of tears."

"Perhaps," said Plutarch, "the month of May is regarded as unlucky because it comes between April and June, the months respectively of Venus and Juno, the tutelary goddesses of marriage, or perhaps it is because May is the month of the feast of the Lemures, the souls of the dead."—Paris Letter.

TREE PLANTING IN FRANCE.

Useless Sand Dunes Converted Into Valuable Land With Pines.

The French thoroughly appreciate the advantages to be derived from systematic tree planting. Tracts of sand have been covered with pine forests, and the word lande, borrowed, as it is thought, from the German, is losing its meaning of "waste." Till a century ago a large portion of the forest of Fontainebleau consisted of bare sand hills, but the planting of pines was begun. A variety capable of standing the severest winters was evidently found, and millions of trees now diffuse healthy and agreeable odors, besides furnishing timber for fuel.

The decomposed fir needles, moreover, gradually form a crust of vegetable mold, permitting the growth of trees and shrubs less able than the pine to live on air. The department of the Landes, once a barren region, with sand so loose that people had to walk on stilts, is covered with pines, and the problem of draining the subsoil has been solved, as described in Edmond About's story of "Maitre Pierre."

The losses by fire and anxiety to produce something more remunerative than pine are now, however, inducing schemes of artificial fertilization. In many French watering places dunes have been transformed into woods, thus holding out to seaside visitors the attraction of agreeable shade and a change from monotonous beach. Shifting sands have been prevented from extending inland. In some cases dunes have been acquired by companies, which, after planting them, have cut them up into building lots and have seen them dotted with villas.

Elsewhere municipalities have taken up the matter, and in large operations the district or the department has provided the funds.—London Times.

He Loves to Work.

The foreman of a bootblacking shop in Madison square is a continual surprise to the customers. His employer is a padrone, and he is left in complete control. His conduct justifies his employer's confidence. He is the hardest worker among the half dozen employees and frequently takes the brushes from one of his subordinates when there are not enough customers to keep all busy. He never allows a customer to go away unless he is satisfied that his boots have been polished in the best manner possible. He is ever full of enthusiasm and works with as much energy at the end of a busy day as at the beginning. His humor never lags, and his muscles never tire.

"It is as good as a bracer to watch that fellow," said a rounder. "He is the only man I ever saw who always seems to love to work."—New York Sun.

Dutch Toast.

Dutch toast is a simple dish for using up scraps of bread. Crumble the bread and place in a frying pan with a slice of butter or drippings. Add salt, pepper and sage if liked. It should be seasoned quite well. Add a small quantity of boiling water, cover closely so the steam will soften the bread, stir several times and serve hot. What with cream toast, codfish and fruit toast, we may have this turco cooked bread frequently without its becoming monotonous.—Philadelphia Ledger.

In the house of a Pompeiian sculptor were found 32 mallets, 15 compasses, 3 levers, several chisels, together with jacks for raising blocks, and nearly 30 statues and busts, in every stage of manufacture.

The grains of cornstarch are only about one-fourth the size of those of the starch made from the potato.

THE KING OF INNISHKEA.

He Dwells on an Irish Island and Rules a Mayo Tribe.

About 16 miles from Dugort, in Achill island, out to sea, looking like a thin line of sand in the waves of the Atlantic, is the island of Innishkea. One fine morning our party started to visit it in a trusty hooker. As the hooker came in sight of the shore great excitement was visible among the islanders, and it was very hard to realize that we were still but 36 hours' journey from London.

The inhabitants turned out en masse. The women and children in their scanty garments of red flannel crouched outside their cabins, while numbers of the men ran down to the beach and put out in their coracles on chance of rowing us to land. It was a strange scene and curiously like a picture plate in a boy's book of adventures. We knew there was a king of Innishkea, and soon a tall, bronze faced man was pointed out to us as his majesty. On landing all the party were introduced and conducted by him to the palace, where the queen dowager, with her daughter, bade us welcome in true Irish fashion.

The old lady was in her picturesque native costume—red dress and plaid shawl over her head. The princess, however, had evidently on first sight of the hooker arrayed herself in modern fashion to do us honor, and we were amused on penetrating into the reception room to find advertisements from shops in Buckingham Palace road and St. Paul's churchyard hung up to embellish the wall, though only by a favored few could they be read.

The island was destitute of any school or means of instruction for the children, a very small proportion either understood or spoke English, and there was neither watch nor clock among the people, who had a happy go lucky idea of time and troubled themselves little as to Greenwich regulations.

There were no church bells to ring, no trains to catch, no office hours requiring punctuality, so when the sun was high in the heavens they would get through their not arduous farming duties, and when he sank in the great waste of waters they could sleep. The king's word settled all disputes. It was a hereditary monarchy, and his people, so far as he was concerned, were untaxed. Happy those states, thought some of the visitors, where royalty could be maintained with so little grandeur! However, I am in honesty bound to add we found King Philip had other means of filling his coffers besides levying taxes on his faithful subjects and learned the art of making good his opportunity whenever the Saxon stranger ventured to land on his shore. But Innishkea has an interest altogether apart from its situation, surrounded as it is by lovely views of mountain cliff and rocky headland. On this spot, hundreds of years ago, early Christian missionaries landed, and on top of a shelly mount, half a mile from the beach, are Christian remains of great antiquity. West of the island there stand also the ruins of a church said to have been built by the successors of St. Columba.—Leisure Hours.

Jenny Lind.

Jenny Lind must have been the most simple, unpretending prima donna that ever lived. When she first came to England she was bound to sing only at the Royal Italian Opera House, and when commanded to sing at the queen's concert she was obliged to refuse. Very sorry to be compelled to notify this, she ordered her carriage and drove straight to Buckingham palace. She handed her card to an official, who, not unnaturally, declined to take it in. A higher authority happened to pass and took it upon himself to present it. As soon as her majesty saw it she said, "Admit her, by all means." Jenny Lind appeared and said simply that she was so very sorry to be unable to sing at her majesty's concert that she thought it better to call herself and explain. The queen was charmed with her natural manner, gave her a cordial reception and promised to be her friend.—Today.

A Fine Polish For Tinware.

When the kitchen range is cleaned out, there will be found in the flue under the oven a considerable quantity of gray dust. It is not ashes exactly, not yet soot, but a smoke deposit as near akin to lampblack as a coal fire is able to produce—soft, light, impalpable, finer than the finest flour. Not many among those who throw this into the ash bin are probably aware that this is the best thing in the world for polishing tinware, far surpassing all the prepared powders and pastes sold for that purpose. Apply it to the tin with a damp cloth, and a few strokes will produce such a luster as is on new ware or as the engraver puts upon his zinc plates by the use of charcoal.—Exchange.

Triumph of Bad Spelling.

Mr. R. E. Bartlett, Chelmsford, writes: "I can beat the achievement of Charles Edward, who, by spelling box 'botsk,' made more mistakes than the letters admit of. I have in my possession a letter addressed many years ago to my father, in which 13 mistakes are made in a single word of five letters. The word is, or was meant to be, usage; the spelling is yowzitch. There are thus five sins of omission and eight of commission; total, 13."—London News.

Pretty Thin.

They have recently made gold leaf by electro-chemical processes as thin as four-millionths of an inch thick, if you can imagine that. It was exactly 1-2,798,000 of an inch. The highest previous thinness ever reached was 1-367,650. This is 10,584 times thinner than ordinary thin writing paper.—Journal of Education.

Unconscious Candor.

"Some women can't believe a word their husbands say," she remarked.

"Well," confided the other, "I'm not quite so badly off as that. My husband talks in his sleep occasionally."—Washington Star.

The figures are interesting, and show that the money deposited with the Institution is in most excellent and profitable hands.

A Night of Blessed Communion.

The prayer meeting in Trinity Reformed Church last evening was marked for its spiritual uplift. The Holy Spirit of God seemed to pervade the room, and many of those present were impelled to speak of His goodness and saving powers. Confessions were given, and several made the start of crossing the line. Elder George L. Van Emburgh led the meeting, and so enjoyable was the session of refreshing that it was nearly 9:30 before Pastor Schenck pronounced the benediction.

North Plainfield School Notes.

A new and instructive exercise was held in the Eighth grade Friday afternoon. It was a history match, and two sides of twelve each were chosen and captained by Miss Lizzie Hoagland and Orville Waring. The ringing of the bell for the close of school put an end to the exercise before it was completed.

The members of the Sixth grade expressed their esteem for their former classmate, James Perrine, by a floral pillow.

—The mails were late in being distributed today. Geo. Godown, Assistant Postmaster, was ill, and Postmaster Hetfield was doing all he could. He must have an extra clerk and an extra carrier, or the service will be late at all times.

FITZSIMMONS INDICTED.

Syracuse, N. Y., Jan. 19—The Grand Jury of Onondago County today returned an indictment of manslaughter in the first degree against Pugilist Robert Fitzsimmons for the killing of his sparring partner, Con Riordan, in an exhibition at the Jacobs Opera House, this city, Nov. 17.

Hope Chapel Lost.

The bowlers of Hope Chapel and friends, about 25 in number, drove to Rahway last evening to bowl a friendly game with the Y. M. C. A. of that place. The game was quite exciting, though it was seen from the start that the Plainfield boys were not in it. Last evening was the first time the visitors had ever bowled on the Y. M. C. A. alleys. The score:

SCOTCH PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

Miss Billings of Bartle avenue is confined to her home with a severe cold.

Mrs. Cora Miller of Front street has the grip.

Twilight Council, J. O. U. A. M., held its regular meeting in the rooms last evening. Routine business only was transacted.

Election of officers of Excelsior Hook and Ladder Company will take place at the meeting Monday evening.

Ernest Marsh is confined to his bed with a severe cold.

Col and Mrs C K Moore are preparing to leave Fanwood, and will take up their residence in New York city, where the Colonel was fortunate enough to land a political plum with $4,000 a year. The best wishes of a host of Scotch Plains and Fanwood friends go with them.

Fanwood Council, R A, will meet at their rooms next Tuesday evening, when the newly elected officers will hold their chairs for the first time.

R S Fisher, Frank Allen, and several others of the place, have been supœnaed to appear at the Court House in Camden, Monday, Jan. 21, to testify in a $30,000 suit for damages brought by a person who was struck by a train near the station about a year ago.

The Choral Union met Thursday evening with Mr Fitzhurh as leader. Quite a number attended, and the prospects are more than encouraging. It is proposed to take up something in the shape of a cantata or oratorio to be given in the early Spring.

The Fanwood Township Committee met in Excelsior Hall last evening to receive the report of the Committee appointed to get signers for the branch of the trolley road. Chairman Terry called the meeting to order. The regular business was laid over, and the Committee's report was taken up. Mr Nichol, the chairman of the Committee, reported that they had been unable, through circumstances, over which they had no control, to render a report of finished business. Mr. Gaddis, General Manager of the road, arose and said he did not think the Committee intended to do any injustice to the company, but by carrying the matter over for two weeks before granting the franchise for the main line they were standing in the way of an investor who was ready as soon as as the link from point to point was finished to advance their money to go on with the construction. He would guarantee in four-days time to place in the hands of the Town Committee an application for a branch road. When the engineer and himself drove over the proposed route it was decided if possible to build a branch road to the village. "Make"— he said—"the branch ordinance amending the main ordinance, and we will be compelled to build the branch." Town Counsel Codington was asked for his opinion. He said he would advise the matter over until the time asked for, and he urged the Committee to make the company put in the application for the branch before granting the one for the main line, as the company could not be compelled to build the branch any other way. Mr Nichol asked the Committee what they would do with their report. Mr Miller moved that the report be accepted and the Committee continued. Chairman Terry put the motion, Mr Miller and Terry voting for, and Mr Downer against it. The motion was carried, and the Committee's report was accepted. The trolley matter was laid over for two weeks, and the regular business was taken up. The minutes of the previous meeting were read and approved. The Treasurer reported a balance on hand of $1,988 35. The report was accepted. A petition was read from residents on North street, Clinton avenue and Forest asking the Committee to change the names to that of Forest avenue, as the streets named were one continuous street. The petition was received and placed on file, and an ordinance was ordered prepared. Bills were paid, and the Committee adjourned to meet in two weeks to receive the report of the Trolley Committee.

Endeavorers Sing and Play.

The Junior Christian Endeavor Society of the Trinity Reformed Church enjoyed one of their delightful socials yesterday afternoon. The affair was in charge of Miss Mary Berg and Miss Lulu Snediker, and was a success in every particular.

The programme consisted of songs by May Williams, Laura Wyckoff, Florence White, Geo. Reynolds, C. Sutphen and Fred Donavan, a recitation by May Williams, and a piano solo by Isabella Edwards. All were fully appreciated.

Excellent refreshments were served, after which all participated in playing games.

The happy company departed for home well pleased with the afternoon's entertainment.

—Edsall again offers astonishingly low prices on specials of Saturday evening.

REMOVAL.

Dr. Lighthill begs leave to give notice that he has removed to
NO. 132 CRESCENT AVE.
(a few doors from his former location) where he can be consulted on all chronic diseases of whatever name and nature.

Dr. Lighthill refers with pardonable pride to the success of his practice in Plainfield and submits below a few of the many testimonials which he has received from grateful patients. A mass of similar ones can be seen at his office.

AN ALMOST MIRACULOUS CURE.

The Statement of Mr. Edward Teel, Jr., of Dunellen, N. J.

TO THE PUBLIC:

From a sense of duty I desire to call public attention to the almost miraculous cure which Dr. Lighthill effected in the case of my wife. For eleven years she had been afflicted with piles of an unusual severe and distressing character. She suffered every day of her life the most intense pain, attended with frequent and profuse hemorrhage. This state of things debilitated her entire system until she became a perfect wreck of her former self.

We made every effort to obtain a cure but they all resulted in bitter disappointment, although a number of physicians of excellent reputations for skill in that direction had treated her case. She grew worse and worse all the time, the pain became perfectly unbearable and I felt she could not bear the strain of her condition much longer. In this extremity, a friend of mine, Mr. W. E. Dilts, a resident of Roselle, N. J., a passenger conductor on the New Jersey Central told me that he had been similarly affected, and had been permanently cured by Dr. Lighthill, after other medical skill had failed. He assured me that the doctor would cure my wife, no matter how severe her case may be, and his prediction proved perfectly correct. In spite of her desperate condition, Dr. Lighthill, I am glad to say, has effected a complete and perfect cure in her case, and has given her new life.

Since the cure has been effected she has gained in health and strength and is so improved in appearance that her friends scarcely recognize her. They all consider her cure as almost miraculous, and Dr. Lighthill's praise is heard on every side. Our gratitude to Dr. Lighthill is unbounded and we only hope that other sufferers may be benefited by this publication.

EDWARD TEEL, JR.

A Flattering Testimonial from Colonel John Pietrich, One of Plainfield's Oldest and Best Known Residents.

16 ARLINGTON PLACE,
Plainfield, N. J., July 17, 1894.

I am profoundly grateful to Dr. Lighthill for his speedy and radical cure of a most painful malady of over ten years standing with which I was afflicted.

I deem it proper to say to all afflicted to place themselves under the care of this skilful physician and be permanently cured.

I will cheerfully impart any information I possess when called upon.

JOHN DIETRICH.

Mr. Thomas Callahan of No. 214 Richmond street Cured of a Very Distressing Trouble by Dr. Lighthill.

PLAINFIELD, N. J., June 1, 1894.

TO THE PUBLIC:

For some time past I have been greatly distressed with noises in the head. They were all over my head and troubled me constantly; they were loudest at night when everything was quiet and at such times would often keep me from sleep and disturb my rest. In fact they got to be so bad and distressing that they affected my whole nervous system as well as my health. I did not obtain the least relief until I placed myself under the care of Dr. Lighthill, of No. 132 Crescent avenue, who effected a complete cure in my case in a short time and made me a very happy man.

THOMAS CALLAHAN,
214 Richmond street.

A Card From Mr. T. R VanZandt, of Nos. 304 and 306 Park ave., Plainfield, N. J

I certify with pleasure that Dr. Lighthill has effectually cured me of a most painful case of piles. For some time past I had been subject to its attacks, but the last attack was so exceedingly painful that it completely upset my whole system. The pain extended to my legs and in many other directions, and made me so nervous that I could neither sleep, sit down, lie down or move about without serious discomfort and distress. Such was my condition when I applied to Dr. Lighthill for relief, and I am glad to say that as soon as he took hold of my case, I began to improve, and in a short time found myself completely cured. Dr. Lighthill has also effected a radical and permanent cure in a most terrible case of piles on my cousin, Mr J. V. Z. Griggs, of Rocky Hill, N. J., whose flattering testimonial is in Dr. Lighthill's possession.

T. R. VAN ZANDT,
304 and 306 Park avenue.

Dr. Lighthill

MANY SOLDIERS, FEW CARS.

Brooklyn, Jan 19—Nearly three thousand members of the Second Brigade of the National Guard in Brooklyn are under arms this morning in response to Mayor Schieren's call to assist the police of the city and prevent further violence on the part of the striking motormen and conductors of the trolley roads.

President Norton, of the Brooklyn City road, declared yesterday that if given proper protection he would start up all his lines, beginning at 7 o'clock this morning.

Notwithstanding this assertion, comparatively few cars were run up to noon. The strikers say the officials have not enough men to carry out their promise, and that Norton's assertion was simply a bluff to induce them to return to work at the old terms.

Not a single line in the city ran its full complement of cars up to noon. There was comparatively little violence save at the Halsey street depot, where several cars were stoned.

Plainfield Hospitality.

Nicholas O'Brien, an old soldier claiming to be a member of Co. H, 1st New York, Lincoln Cavalry, came to town last night, having walked from New York.

He applied for a night's lodging at the station-house, which was given him. His story was that about five months ago he took a man who was an invalid to England, and was then unable to get back, having no money. He sought the American consul, who obtained transportation for him back to New York.

Thence he walked to Plainfield and was on his way to the Soldiers Home in Hampton, Virginia

This morning he secured his breakfast through friends; and later the sympathies of Commander W. W. Corlell of Post 73, and several comrades and citizens were enlisted in his behalf. Money was raised to pay his fare to Camden where, he says, he can get transportation to his home from Gen'l. Sewell.

The man was suffering from a very sore leg and found it very difficult to get along.

Bruised His Face.

Joseph B. Morrison of East Fifth street met with a severe accident at the Crescent bowling alleys last evening. He was standing behind a friend who was bowling, and was struck in the mouth with the ball swung back.

Fatally Stabbed His Wife.

Derby, Conn., Jan. 19.—Timothy Flaherty, a Shelton farmer, while drunk, stabbed his wife in the stomach with a jack knife, inflicting a wound two and one half inches deep. The woman's condition is critical and she will probably die.

Miss Wanamaker Engaged.

Philadelphia, Jan. 19.—The engagement of Miss Wanamaker, daughter of ex-Postmaster General Wanamaker, to Mr. Barclay H. Warburton, publisher of the Evening Telegram, this city, is announced.

Railroad Men Must Shave.

Boston, Jan. 19.—Supt. Robeson, of the Boston & Albany Railroad company, has issued an order to conductors and brakemen of passenger trains, in which they are required to shave every day.

THE NUMBER THREE.

Some Curious Superstitions Regarding It In the Popular Mind.

There is a superstitious regard for the number three in the popular mind, and the third repetition of anything is generally looked upon as a crisis. Thus an article may twice be lost and recovered, but the third time that it is lost it is gone for good. Twice a man may pass through some great danger in safety, but the third time he loses his life. If, however, the mystic third can be successfully passed, all is well. Three was called by Pythagoras the perfect number, and we frequently find its use symbolical of Deity. Thus we might mention the trident of Neptune, the three forked lightning of Jove and three headed dog of Pluto. The idea of trinity is not confined to Christianity, but occurs in several religions.

In mythology also we find three fates, three furies and three graces, and, coming nearer to our own times, Shakespeare introduces his three witches. In public house signs three seems to play an important part, for we frequently meet with "Three Cups," "Three Jolly Sailors," "Three Bells," "Three Tuns," "Three Feathers"—in fact, the number of almost anything of which a fertile imagination can conceive a trio. In nursery rhymes and tales this number is not unknown, and if we look back to the days of our childhood most of us will call to mind the three wise men of Gotham who took a sea voyage in a bowl, not to mention the three blind mice that had their tails cut off by the farmer's wife. Perhaps there is some occult power in the number which governs the division of novels into three volumes and induces doctors to order their medicine to be taken thrice daily. It is said that some tribes of savages cannot count beyond three. But, although they may have no words to express higher numbers, perhaps we should be scarcely justified in assuming that they are incapable of appreciating the value of the latter.—New York Advertiser.

THE POET OF THE HEART.

Epworthians and Their Friends Spend an Evening with Longfellow.

An attractive and novel entertainment, prepared by Mrs. Herbert Randolph and Miss Grace Carroll, was enjoyed in Grace M. E. Church last evening.

It was called "An Evening with Longfellow", and a more interesting subject could hardly be chosen.

Miss Conroy opened the programme with a piano solo, which was well played and appreciated.

Mrs. Randolph then called by numbers the quotations prepared from Longfellow's works, which proved to be very interesting.

A delightful reading of Longfellow's life was given by Miss Alice Loomis. Miss Edna French pleasingly recited "Hiawatha's Wooing". This was followed with a vocal solo, "The Rainy Day", by Miss Grace Carroll, whose excellent voice added to the impressiveness of the song.

Mrs A. A. Taft read "The Skeleton in Armor" in effective manner, and the famous story of Paul Revere's ride was brought vividly to the minds of all as recited so realistically by Miss Lizzie Hoagland.

The programme was concluded with a sketch by Miss Emma Stevens, entitled "Hyperion."

The young women of the church under the direction of Mrs. Randolph and Miss Carroll then served to all, delicious mince pie, with coffee as an excellent accompaniment. Thus closed a happy and profitable evening with Longfellow and the Epworthians.

There is good reason for the popularity of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. Davis & Buzard, of West Monterey, Clarion Co., Pa., say: "It has cured people that our physicians could do nothing for; we persuaded them to try a bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy and now they recommend it with the rest of us." 25 and 50c bottles for sale at Reynolds's Pharmacy, Park and North avenues. T. S. Armstrong, manager.

Canine Rush.

As Garret W. Wood was passing in front of The Daily Press office last evening about 5:30, a large Newfoundland dog attacked an Irish setter. The dogs made a rush, and as Mr. Wood happened to be in their path they upset him, throwing him on his side. Sergeant Kiely came to the rescue, and separated the dogs, while Mr. Wood continued on his way without serious injury.

—You'd better hurry down to Peck's, for as soon as the news gets out that he has opened that new importation of embroideries the crowd will simply be immense.

A WOMAN'S POWER.

IT IS THE GREATEST ON EARTH.

It Establishes Thrones and Destroys Nations.

[SPECIAL TO OUR LADY READERS.]

The influence of women upon the civilization of the world could never be measured.

The flash of her eye, the touch of her hand, and we have the marvelous power of women, glorious in the possession of perfect physical health. Lydia E. Pinkham, by her wonderful discovery of the Vegetable Compound has done much to place this great health power in the hands of women. She has lifted them out of the misery brought by displacement of the womb, and all the evils that follow diseased uterus.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound restores natural cheerfulness, destroys despondency, cures leucorrhœa, backache, strengthens the muscles, restores the womb to its normal condition, regulates menstruation, removes inflammation, ulceration, and tumors of the womb, etc.

Here are two women who speak from experience, and for the benefit of others.

Miss Helen Smith, 43 22d Place, Chicago, Ill., says:—"I was troubled with irregularity and leucorrhœa. I followed Mrs. Pinkham's advice, took her Vegetable Compound, and used her Sanative Wash. I now feel like a new woman, and am perfectly healthy."

Mrs. E. Fox, Woodstown, N. J., writes:—"I had been sick 10 years with womb trouble and leucorrhœa. Doctors could not help me. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound did. Employment of any kind does not trouble me now, and I can stand nearly all day and not feel tired I cannot thank you enough. I recommend the Compound to every woman who has any weakness."

Reply to John Clacy.

In reply to the statement of John Clacy in The Press of last night that the story was untrue that he had a wife and family in England, I would state that I have left at the office of The Press for the inspection of all interested, a copy of the photograph of himself and wife, and have abundant proof that he has a wife and family in England. The family consists of three children, to my own knowledge, which I can prove.

EPWORTH LEAGUE.

Lesson For the Week Beginning Jan. 20. The Priest the Topic.

SCRIPTURE READINGS.—Ex. xxviii, 1; Heb. v, 1, 5.

The best explanation of the meaning of the ceremonies and symbols of the Mosaic ritual is found in the book of Hebrews. As Aaron and his sons, taken from the Israelites, were the appropriate priestly intercessors, so Christ becomes, by His calling of God, His earthly life and death, resurrection and ascension, to all them that obey Him, the author of eternal life. He is the high priest of the whole race and has gone into the heavens after one offering of Himself to appear before the mercy seat of God, where He ever liveth to make intercession for us.

John Wesley.

In any land and in any age he would have been a commanding figure and influential in shaping the destinies of his fellow men. As truly as Paul, the apostle to the gentiles, was mainly instrumental in determining the worldwide extension and adaptation of early Christianity and rescued it from the danger of degenerating into a mere Jewish sect, so John Wesley was the one who in God's providence so helped to arouse and shape the religious life of the eighteenth century that vital piety was saved from threatened eclipse or extinction in the English speaking world and society in Britain from a revolution more bloody and terrible than that of France. The history of his life reads like romance. Highly educated in the best schools of the kingdom, a fellow for years of Lincoln college, Oxford, he was yet a man popular with the people. Conservative by nature, he found himself conscientiously and providentially led into practices which seemed at times radical, if not revolutionary. They generally proved to be only reformatory. Persecuted often by mobs of the lowest elements of society instigated by officers of the church and state, he lived to disarm all opposition and receive honors such as few men ever have received from their countrymen. His influence a century after his death is vastly more than during his life. Nations unborn in his day hold his name in honor and reverence God for the gift of such a man.

JOHN WESLEY.

Christian Unity or Union.

Much is heard regarding Christian and church union at the present time. A reunion of the Methodist Episcopal church and the Methodist Episcopal Church South is greatly desired by many.

The matter of slavery, over which the division occurred in 1844, has long been settled. Some dream of and fondly hope for the union of all Protestant bodies in one grand church organization. Cardinal Gibbons voices the hopes of many others that all Christendom may speedily acknowledge one spiritual head on earth and become one fold under such a shepherd. That sectarian animosities are greatly abated and practical co-operation in benevolent enterprises, revival efforts and reform measures are rapidly drawing Christians of all names more closely together is apparent. Doctrinal differences are less emphasized, and doctrinal standards are being greatly modified. Views are becoming much alike in churches once widely separated in creed. Emphasis is laid on true personal piety of heart and helpful activity. Fraternal relations are strengthening with the passage of years. Real and substantial Christian unity is becoming a fact. The intermingling of the young people of various denominations in conventions under the auspices of a common society, the recognition of each other as pursuing one common aim, is powerfully assisting the work of unifying the Christian church. But Christian fraternity and unity is one thing, while organic union is a far different matter. It is doubtful if the latter ever will be desirable. Local government by states is found desirable in our national life. Probably denominational organization, with a large measure of co-operation and entire spirit of fraternity, will always be advisable. Christian unity always, organic union—not yet!

Christian Truth Unmovable.

It is the connection of every truth with the mediation of Christ that makes real Christianity to be not afraid of the progress of any class of truths. Sometimes in the infancy of any given science plausible theories are advanced as having a tone of contradiction to Scripture, but the discipline of a mature philosophy never fails to show that the contradiction is not real. Truth in the Christian system is full, universal and free, and no more fears the developments of any truths than the mighty ocean dreads the digging up of new wells or the sun the new discoveries of optics.—Jenkyn.

Pointers.

A prosperous iniquity is the most unprofitable condition in the world.—Jeremy Taylor.

A man has a right to do as he pleases only as he pleases to do right.

Wickedness is never more thoroughly ruined than by its own success.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Topic For the Week Beginning Jan. 20. Comment by Rev. S. H. Doyle.

TOPIC.—A Christian's problems and perplexities.—I Kings iv, 29-34; Luke xi, 31; ii, 46, 47. (A question box meeting suggested.)

This life is largely made up of mysteries. There are problems and perplexities in every walk of life, and the Christian's life is no exception. God has revealed many precious things to us, and yet in the spiritual as well as in the material universe there are many things that have not been revealed. It could scarcely be otherwise. God is infinite. We are finite, and if God had revealed these things perhaps we would not have been able to comprehend or understand them. Christ practically said as much to Nicodemus when he questioned Him about the mysteries of the regeneration of the soul, for He said, "If I tell you of earthly things and ye cannot understand, how can you understand if I tell you of heavenly things?"

Still there is in the human mind an intense craving, so far as possible, to understand these problems and perplexities, and there is nothing wrong in this desire nor the attempt to satisfy it, but something may be wrong in the way we attempt to solve these problems. True wisdom comes from God in some way. Solomon was the wisest man who ever lived, and yet he obtained all his wisdom direct from God. But God has given us one even wiser than Solomon, even Jesus Christ, His own Son, and His wisdom surpassed that of all men because He was God as well as man. Therefore Christ should be our final court of appeal in all the problems of life. When worried and perplexed, we should go to His word to see what He has to say upon the subject, and when He does not satisfy every desire or craving we should leave it all with Him and trust God for what has not been revealed. "The secret things belong unto the Lord our God, but the things that have been revealed belong unto us and to our children forever, that we may do all the works of this law."

The great lesson that these problems and perplexities should teach us is simple childlike trust in God. God knows what is best for us. He knew what to reveal for our good and what not to reveal. The secret things, the mysteries of life, belong to Him. Let us leave them with Him. The things that have been revealed belong to us. Let us live up to what has been revealed, and we may rest assured that if we do the day will come when we shall understand even the Christian problems and perplexities.

Bible Readings.—Gen. vi, 3; Deut. xxix, 29; Math. vii, 28; Mark i, 12; John iii, 1-12; Luke viii, 5-11; John vi, 51-53; Rom. i, 16; I Cor. xv, 35-44, 51-58; II Cor. ii, 15-17; I Tim. iii, 16.

Keep Looking Up.

An instructive and beautiful story is related of a little girl, who was playing near the edge of a precipice, when she suddenly felt the ground give way beneath her feet. Before she had time to spring back to a place of safety she had slipped over the brow of the abyss. With the instinct of despair, that love of life implanted in us all, she snatched at the grass and tall weeds within her reach. Her little fingers dug deep into the ground and staid her downward course. There she hung, suspended in the air.

Moments seemed ages until she heard a voice, which sounded very far off, saying in a firm, encouraging tone: "I am coming! Keep looking up!" Instinctively she obeyed. She never glanced downward, but clung faster to her only chance of safety. Again the voice, this time nearer, spoke hopefully: "I am coming! Keep looking up!" In another moment two strong hands had seized her own in a firm clasp, and she felt herself drawn gently and cautiously upward. Then she was lifted into great, loving arms and closed her eyes upon her father's breast. Children, "keep looking up!"—Selected.

Make Use of God's Gifts.

God will not take His own back again the same as He put it in your hands. He gave the principal, and He expects interest. He plants seeds, and He looks for flowers. He sets germs, and He requires development. There is an immense capability of expansion in everything God has given you. The business of your life is to draw these gifts out.—Rev. J. A. Henry, D. D.

A Divine Gift.

The truly spiritual nature is a personal endowment found in individuals of every creed, especially belonging to no one creed in distinction from others. It is a divine gift, like an ear for music, which some, not all, are born with.—Oliver Wendell Holmes.

Christian Endeavor Gossip.

Indiana has 367 Junior societies, with a total membership of 13,780. They have given $456 to home missions and $309 to foreign missions.

Here is Pennsylvania's reported record of giving for the year: For missions, $11,525.26; for other benevolent objects, $12,694.11. In this the Juniors are represented with $2,154.96.

The Christian Endeavor constitution has now been translated into Hindoo and in this language will reach a large constituency, for it is spoken by fully one-fourth of the inhabitants of India.

Last year the Christian Endeavor societies of the Presbyterian church in the United States gave to missions $31,397.79. Of this, $13,607.17 was given to home missions and $17,790.62 to foreign missions.

Endeavor work in China is but four years younger than in the United States. The first society was organized in Fuchan in 1885. The oldest native Christian Endeavorer is Mr. Ling. He signed the pledge nine years ago.

Maryland is a small state, almost cut in twain by the Chesapeake, but her 15,000 Christian Endeavorers, divided among 350 societies, challenge comparison. Christ cares less for numbers than for individuals.

BUT LITTLE IMPROVED

The Business of the Week Shows Slight Change.

Leading Manufacturing Industries Report That Extreme Conservatism in Purchases Will Mark the Spring Trade—Improved Demand for a Few Commodities.

New York, Jan. 19.—With few exceptions, according to Bradstreets, commercial, financial and industrial features indicate only a retention of improvement heretofore noted. Among the more favorable phases of trade is found a somewhat improved demand for Bessemer pig iron and steel billets, woolens, rubber goods, shoes, hardware, and, to an extent, for leaf tobacco. Although steel and iron have advanced a trifle from lowest quotations recorded, print cloths have gone down to a "lowest price on record." London wool sales opened 5 per cent. off, which affected prices here unfavorably. One southern pig iron company is reported to have taken an order under $6, and woolen and cotton goods manufacturers in eastern, central and middle states declare prices are so low and broken there is practically no profit. Other declines in prices this week are wheat and corn 1c. each, oats ¼c., pork 25c. and lard 15c., while the only important advances in addition to those specified are on lumber at some western markets, and coffee ⅛c. General lines of cotton goods are effected by conditions resulting in depressing prints, and although ginghams are more animated and demand for foreign woolen dress goods is noticeable, domestic woolen dress goods remain quiet, with little new business for the mills. Large quantities of foreign piece-dyed serges and clay worsteds are here in bond, pointing to competition with corresponding domestic fabrics.

Heavy gold exports, aggregating $4,750,000, and the corresponding reduction of the treasury gold reserve to under $70,000,000 have not affected stock prices at New York. Speculative activity on the stock exchange is very restricted, but there is an underlying tone of strength, based on an apparent belief that currency legislation will be secured. Investment buying of bonds and high priced dividend-paying stocks also increases the power to resist unfavorable news.

The number of business failures decreased this week, the total for the United States being only 378, against 405 last week and 404 in the week a year ago. As contrasted with two years ago the increase is marked, 378 against 290, but in the like week in 1892 the total was 405.

Leading manufacturing industries and larger wholesale houses at business centres report that extreme conservatism in purchases will mark business during the spring; that interior buyers are not inclined to anticipate wants more now than in the previous year; that prices generally continue at very near the lowest reported for many years, and that wages, with rare exceptions, are as low as they have been at any time during or since the panic of 1893. A redeeming feature is found in a moderately increased number of industrial employes at work compared with one year ago, but rates of compensation have not advanced.

Bank clearings throughout the United States for six business days ending with January 17 aggregate $977,809,000, about 6 per cent. less than last week, but 6.7 per cent. more than in the third week of January, 1894. Compared with the like week in January, 1893, the falling off this week is one-third, and as compared with the corresponding week in 1892 the decline is 24 per cent.

The total quantity of wheat (flour included as wheat) exported from both coasts of the United States this past week has jumped up sharply at New York, San Francisco and Portland, Ore., amounting altogether to 3,564,000 bushels, compared with 2,587,000 bushels the week before, 3,332,000 in the week a year ago, 3,637,000 two years ago, and 4,522,000 bushels three years ago.

COUNTERFEITERS ARRESTED.

Raid Made in New York City and a Complete Outfit Secured.

New York, Jan. 19.—An important raid of alleged counterfeiters was made by secret service agents last night, when Frank Soldano, May Soldano, his wife, Felix Camerone, and Giusseppe Conforto were arrested. The three men were found in No. 328 East Seventy-fourth street, where the agents discovered a number of moulds for making spurious dollar, half dollar, quarters, and ten and five-cent pieces, and about $100 in counterfeit coin.

When arraigned before United States Commissioner Shields, Conforto broke down and confessed his guilt. He said he "might as well be sentenced at once." He was held to await the action of the grand jury. The other three prisoners were held in $5,000 bail each for examination on Jan. 25.

Badger and Panel Worker Arrested.

Niagara Falls, N. Y., Jan. 19.—The police have under arrest a tall slender young woman richly dressed who came here a few days ago and rented furnished rooms, and hung out a fortune-tellers sign bearing the name of Mme. St. Elmo. Since then it has been learned that she is one of the most clever badger and panel workers in Canada and but a few days previous to her arrival here victimized a prominent business man of Niagara Falls, Ont., to the extent of $1,000.

Sentenced for Illegal Voting.

Lowell, Mass., Jan. 19.—Michael Keegan who was arrested Saturday night on a charge of voting at the recent city election in the name of Michael Wall, was tried before Judge Hadley. The defendant was found guilty and fined $150 and sentenced to five months in jail.

The Dry Goods Market.

Nw York, Jan. 19.—Business in the direction of store trade in the dry goods market has been quiet throughout, only a limited number of buyers putting in an appearance, but in most directions some improvement is reported in the mail order demand.

REVOLUTION IN HAWAII

Followers of Queen Lil Rise in a Vain Revolt.

The Little Republic Promptly Suppressed the Royalists, and Many of the Rebels Were Arrested—Several Lives Lost and a Number of Persons Injured.

San Francisco, Jan. 19.—Correspondence of the United Press, per steamer Alameda:

Honolulu, Jan. 10.—On the 5th, per Australia, I reported what seemed an attempt on the 3d to arm natives at Kakaako beyond the marine railway. Such an attempt was actually made to land rifles from the steamer Waimanato. It was frustrated by the vigilance of the police, but a second attempt was successful.

On the evening of Sunday, the 6th, as many as 600 rifles were landed between Waialae and Diamond Head, nearly six miles from town. Some 500 natives were collected there and received guns and ammunition from the schooner Norma, of Victoria, if our information is correct.

The natives were under the command of Bob Wilcox and Sam Nowlein. They captured during the day and detained eight or ten white persons of both sexes found taking Sunday afternoon strolls beyond Diamond Head.

The wires of the telephone on the Head were cut, so that no information could reach the city.

It was this intention to rush in early in the evening and surprise the city while the people were at church. The authorities received information towards night that arms were being landed at Diamond Head, at the house of George Bertelman, a half white royalist leader, well under the base of the Head.

A strong squad of mounted police was immediately sent out to search Bertelman's house.

The police were fired upon from the beach by rebels.

The rebels were scattered by a resolute attack. Troops aided the police.

Several lives were lost and many injured.

On Monday morning John Dunn, one of the most trustworthy men in the government employ, received instructions to enter the lines of the enemy if such could possibly be done, and ascertain the true situation of the revolutionists.

Leaving Honolulu Dunn made his way out to Waikiki and found the party consisted of over 150, all natives. The men were mostly lying down, while several were walking up and down in order to keep warm. They had only a few blankets and wraps and many of them it was noticed were in their shirt sleeves. Robert Wilcox was in command, and it was to him that Dunn chiefly addressed his conversation. Wilcox described how the royalists would make a detour of the country, be reinforced at different points en route and finally enter Honolulu by way of the plains, with over 1,000 men at his command. They had plenty of food, ammunition and guns, and would surely succeed in overturning the hated missionaries.

Early Tuesday morning Wilcox called 125 men together and spoke to them in their tongue. What he said evidently pleased them as they seemed anxious to depart. Before starting, however, Wilcox turned to Dunn and told him he was going to march straight for Ponchbowl, and would capture the government powder magazine. Dunn was to proceed immediately, notify Nowlein of his intention and tell him to join him at Punchbowl with his entire command as soon as he could get there. "I will capture and hold Punchbowl until he (Nowlein) arrives; but all haste must be made by him to join me there."

Wilcox said a large force of natives under the command of Evans, a Canadian, who was then supposed to be in the vicinity of Moanalua, would also join him at Punchbowl.

In the Evans party there were seven white men, all of whom had seen service in Canada during the Riel rebellion. Part of them came to Honolulu recently in the pay of a well known royalist. With these parting words Wilcox and his party moved away on foot and at a fast pace. The remainder of the natives were told before hand to follow Dunn and join Nowlein. Under the pretense of going, he followed to see how the land lay. Dunn managed to elude the natives and started for Honolulu as fast as he could travel. Travel-stained, foot sore and weary, he reached the police station with a story that startled all those who heard its narration.

After a hurried consultation with officers there, Dunn was taken to President Dole's residence and there recounted his experience. The recital of the story caused the government to take steps to occupy Punchbowl. In accordance therewith companies E and B with field pieces were ordered to that locality at midnight. A short time afterward Punchbowl and surrounding points had been occupied by government troops no sign of the enemy being visible.

It was by the testimony of the natives captured later that the officials were able to discover the instigators of the insurrection. Soon a net of conviction was woven about many prominent royalists in town.

Cautioned To Obey the Law.

Philadelphia, Jan. 19.—President Geo. B. Roberts, of the Pennsylvania railroad, has issued a notice to the officials of the company's system drawing their attention to provisions of the new constitution of New York forbidding the soliciting or issuing of free passes to and person holding a public office, and cautioning them to obey the law.

Protest Against Taxation.

Vienna, Jan. 19.—Dispatches from Athens say that mass meetings are held daily in many parts of Greece to protest against the increase of taxation. While much excitement is manifested there have been no outbreaks as yet and no revolution is expected.

NOT ENTITLED TO INHERIT.

Decision in a Case Involving Property Willed by Former Slaves.

Washington, Jan. 19.—In the District of Columbia circuit court Judge Bradley decided, in a case involving property willed by free colored parents, formerly slaves, to their children, that where there was no proof of actual marriage between the slave parents within the limits of time allowed by an act of congress of 1879 and various acts of state legislature, legitimizing children born of slaves, such children were not entitled to inherit, as legitimate issue.

The case, besides being of general interest, is of importance to many property holders in the District of Columbia. Valuable property in this city is involved through its former ownership by colored people, as to whose legal marriage and the rights of dowery of their wives no satisfactory evidence could be obtained.

Much of this property has been transferred in recent years and in order to minimize the chances of litigation through clouded titles arising from its former ownership by children of slaves, or freed men, careful speculators have taken the precaution to have it pass by technical purchase through the hands of numerous wealthy citizens, before deeding it to the actual purchaser. By this means, a bulwark of responsibility is imposed between any embarrassing and expensive litigation.

$400,000,000 AT STAKE.

Holmes' Heirs Have Secured Mayor Johnson To Prosecute Their Suit.

Springfield, O., Jan. 19.—Mayor James Johnson, of this city, has begun active work as attorney for the heirs, scattered all over the country, of James Holmes' estate of $400,000,000 in the bank of England and Dublin.

A big meeting of the heirs held Wednesday at Decatur, Ill., resulted in Mayor Johnson's appointment, his success in securing money from the big Woods' estate in England for the American heirs two years ago operating to his advantage. The estate is the largest undivided one in the world.

Holmes was a South Sea Island trader and died in 1727. An effort was made 60 years ago to obtain possession of the property and was abandoned on account of the death of the principals. The heirs at present interested have plenty of money, and will make every effort to get the property.

Among the prominent heirs the country over are: Chicago, Judge Alfred Ennis, Mrs. A. B. Buford; New York city, James Nimrod; St. Louis, Dr. Alex Holmes Shaw; Cincinnati, Dr. James Baldridge; Pittsburg, John Baldridge; Springfield, O., Dr. J. T. McLaughlin.

THE ICE CROP.

Hudson River Companies Preparing for the Harvest.

Kingston, N. Y., Jan. 19.—The superintendents of the companies that have ice houses along the river are getting so anxious about the securing of a crop that they will not wait for anything over eight inches to begin the harvest. If cold weather continues, cutting will probably begin by Tuesday or Wednesday of next week.

Gangs of men were at work at about every house on the river north of this city, either tapping the ice to flood the snow, or scraping and cleaning it off. The ice averages from five to six inches in thickness, and if the light snow upon it can be flooded it will be a protection to the fields if another thaw should occur.

Up the river cutting has commenced, and the Jersey City Ice company are storing nine inch ice at Stuyvesant. The Staats Brothers are harvesting nice ice at Castleton, while the Greene County Ice company are storing eight and one half inch ice cut from the Coxsackie channel, and McCabe is harvesting nine inch ice at Athens. At Hudson nine inch ice is being cut.

SUGAR TRUST RIVAL.

A $3,000,000 Refinery To Be Erected at Camden, N. J.

Camden, N. J., Jan. 19.—The sugar trust is threatened with a rival refinery in this city. At least it is said that plans are now being prepared by Adolph Segal, a builder of manufacturing plants, to erect a $3,000,000 sugar refinery here which will have a capacity of 4,000 barrels of refined sugar a day.

A site is said to have been purchased at the foot of Cooper street, having a frontage of 500 feet and running out 1,350 feet to the Riparian line. Men are at work clearing up the ground, and the building will be erected as speedily as possible.

Mr. Segal declines to say by whom the plant will be operated, but it will be run in opposition to the sugar trust.

A gentleman prominently interested in the refining of sugar states that the new concern may be composed of Boston independent operators.

Lord Rosebery's Views.

London, Jan. 19.—Lord Rosebery said in a speech in Cardiff last evening that Welsh disestablishment would be the first measure of the next parliamentary session. He did not doubt that the established church in Wales was doomed, but everybody must remember that the house of lords presented a permanent barrier to the measures on which the Welsh had set their hearts. The position of the lords was the supreme question of the hour. When the government resolution dealing with this question should be submitted, it would involve the dissolution of parliament.

Big Fire at Macon, Ga.

WHAT THEY ALL SAY.

Beautiful Women Give Some Wonderful Information Concerning Female Beauty. We Do Not Think It Will Take Women Long to Act Upon This Idea.

The poet and philosopher, Ralph Waldo Emerson says:

"If eyes were made for seeing,
Then beauty is its own excuse for being."

Beauty of feature and elegance of form have ever been the desire of the feminine mind And it is a perfectly laudable and natural ambition. Women are born to sway the hearts and minds of men as much by their beauty and attractiveness, as by the subtler charms of goodness and purity.

And yet how few women attain the beauty which should be theirs, and in those few who are beautiful how quickly their beauty fades! This is wrong. Women are naturally beautiful—at least of pleasing and attractive appearance—and in nearly all the cases where women lack these physical charms, the fault is their own.

Good looks and beautiful forms are entirely dependent upon good health. One must have strong nerves and pure blood to be beautiful Failing to have these, is to fail of good looks and fine figure, and the woman who becomes broken in health, even in the slightest degree, will see her beauty gradually fade. The moment women realise this, that moment will they understand that physical beauty is a matter within their own control. And just how it is so, is told by Mrs. Francis Lytle, of 2 Hunter ave., Rochester, N. Y.

"I was very pale and delicate," she says, "and had no color, and had female weakness I am now well, thanks to Dr Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy. My face is plump and my cheeks red, and my complexion pure. When I began the use of this remedy, I only weighed eighty-one pounds, and now I weigh 115 pounds and am still gaining. Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy is a wonderful medicine. I have not had any trouble since I began taking it."

Miss Emma Marlatt of Oxford, N. J., says: "I have been a sufferer for ten years, and the victim of a large tumor weighing twenty pounds, which I had removed, and I suffered untold anong for many months after.

"I tried the skill of many physicians, all of whom utterly failed to give me any relief.

"I then used that wonderful medicine, Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy, and after using a few bottles I was entirely cured.

"To those who have been suffering from various diseases, and have failed to find any relief, I am today, a living testimony and witness to the wonderful and marvelous curative powers of this great medicine. To persons suffering from various diseases, I earnestly recommend the use of this remedy if they would be cured. For further information I will willingly, cheerfully and promptly respond.

Miss Delia T. Shea of 210 Lexington st., East Boston, Mass., makes the following statement:

"About seven years ago I began to feel very uncomfortable after eating, so much so that I found it impossible to keep the lightest food on my stomach. I grew worse for three months so I was obliged to give up work and go to the hospital.

"I tried many remedies and doctors, but they did me no good. A friend advised me to try Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy.

"I began using it, and after a week felt much better. When I had taken four bottles the weakness in my stomach was all gone and I could eat anything without distress, while a short time before I found it impossible for weeks at a time to even drink a glass of milk and keep it in my stomach.

"I was unable to wear anything but a loose dress and I did not go out of the house for months at a time. I am now cured of my troubles and am well and strong. My cure is wonderful. Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy has done what the hospitals, doctors and other medicines could not do.

"It is a splendid medicine, and I urge every suffering person to use it. I love to think of the good it is doing, and wish every one who is not perfectly well would take it."

Miss Rose McCarthy, of 347 East 87th st., New York City, writes as follows.

"For a long time I was troubled with nervousness and violent headaches. I would lie awake nearly all night, and was in constant misery. Previous to this, my complexion was a very healthy color, but now it became very bad.

"I took three bottles of Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy and was entirely cured. My nervousness and headaches left me, my good complexion returned and I slept perfectly. I can safely say to everybody who is suffering just give it a trial and you will be cured. I hope my statement will find relief for many people who do not know the benefit of such a wonderful medicine."

It is thus evident that women can get well—can secure perfect health, strong nerves and pure blood by using the great vital restorative, Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy. If, therefore, women will maintain their health and strength by this remarkable medicine, we will guarantee them beauty of face and form, the bright eyes, pink cheeks and clear complexion of youth, and the rounded form graceful lines and elastic step of vigorous physical development.

This remedy can be used without hesitation by all as it is purely vegetable and is endorsed by physicians; indeed it is the prescription and discovery of our most successful physician in curing nervous and chronic diseases Dr. Greene of 35 West 14th st., New York City who can be consulted at any time without charge personally or by letter.

TODAY IN HISTORY.

A Famous Deed of Arms.

Jan. 19, 1812, Wellington won three new handles to his name by a brilliant and audacious assault on the walls of Ciudad Rodrigo, in Portugal. The English batteries rained shot upon the French ramparts 12 days, and when two breaches showed themselves on the afternoon of the 19th Wellington declared, "Ciudad Rodrigo must be stormed this evening."

Standing upon the ruins of the convent of Francisco, he pointed out to Major Napier of the Light division the spot where he was to lead in 300 volunteer stormers. Having done this, he said, "Now do you understand exactly the way you are to take so as to arrive at the breach without noise or confusion?"

"Yes, perfectly," answered Napier and gave the signal. One of Wellington's aids then said to the major, "Why don't you load?"

"No," he responded bluntly, "if we can't do it without loading, we shall not do it at all."

"Leave him alone," exclaimed Wellington.

NAPIER.

A company of sappers had been ordered to precede the stormers with sacks of hay to fill in the ditch, but when the great cathedral clock told the hour of 7 the forlorn hope set off without waiting, and Major Napier led his little column forward close at their heels. The soldiers sprang quickly to their task, jumped into the ditch, which was 11 feet deep, and scaled a perpendicular wall, facing the low exterior rampart. A terrible shower of grape and bullets struck them at the ditch and on the wall. Half way up they saw the breach barricaded and strongly manned by the French. For personal defense each one of the stormers instinctively snapped his piece, although it was not loaded. Major Napier meanwhile had fallen with a terrible wound made by a grapeshot. Lying on the ground, he shouted and gestured to the men to trust to their bayonets. Officers with streaming wounds rushed ahead of the soldiers, who went furiously on and on and on until there stood along the rampart 52 out of the 300 who had begun the ascent. The defenders were bayoneted at their guns, and the English supporting columns, following, turned right and left down the wall. By this means the great breach was flanked.

GEORGE L. KILMER.

A Battle Tragedy at Mill Springs.

On the 19th of January, 1862, the Confederates met with a severe disaster at the hands of General George H. Thomas' troops on the field of Mill Springs, Ky.

Thomas set out from the interior of Kentucky to drive the enemy from the upper Cumberland region and across the mountains of east Tennessee. On the north bank of the Cumberland, opposite Mill Springs, the Confederates held a fortified position, which Thomas approached, cautiously moving his force in two columns. The Confederates, led by Generals George H. Crittenden and F. K. Zollicoffer, sallied out of their intrenchments on the night of the 18th, bent upon attacking Thomas' advance column, which lay west of Fishing creek and separated from the reserves by that stream. Crittenden expected to dispatch the Union columns in detail.

Zollicoffer led the attack, drove in Thomas' cavalry pickets and burst upon the camp of General M. D. Manson before it was fairly daylight. The last regiment of Manson's to turn out at the alarm was the Fourth Kentucky, led by Colonel Speed Smith Fry. This command started at double quick in the direction of the firing and halted behind a fence on the edge of a field across which Zollicoffer's men were advancing. Fry crossed the fence and rode off to the flank to reconnoiter.

GENERAL ZOLLICOFFER.

Returning from his reconnoissance, Fry met a strange officer, whose uniform was veiled by a white gum cloak. The stranger evidently recognized an enemy in Fry, but in order to cover himself he said, pointing to some of his troops advancing out of line, "We must not fire on our own men." "Of course not," Fry answered and rode toward his regiment. In a few seconds another stranger appeared, who fired his revolver at Fry. The latter turned and sent a fatal bullet into the cloaked figure riding away, who proved to be Zollicoffer.

On the fall of their leader the Confederates broke in confusion, but Crittenden, who opportunely reached the spot, ordered a general advance. Thomas also appeared at the head of a fresh body of men and handled them so skillfully that the Confederates were first checked, then finally routed, by a rush of the Second Minnesota and a superb bayonet charge by the Ninth Ohio "Prussian" regiment. Meanwhile the Union column east of Fishing creek got across, and Thomas chased the Confederates beyond the Cumberland, turning their retreat into a Bull Run stampede.

GENERAL S. S. FRY.

GEORGE L. KILMER.

BIG WARS CAUSED BY TRIFLES.

A Shaven Chin Cost France Three Million Lives—Modena's Bucket.

Many times it has happened that a great and costly war has been brought about by an incident trivial and even ridiculous.

Thus the war of the Spanish succession is said to have been caused through a glass of water. A lady, Mrs. Masham, was carrying a glass of water when she was obstructed by the Marquis de Torey. A slight scuffle ensued, and the water was spilled.

The marquis thereat took offense, and bad feeling ensued between the English and French courts, with the ultimate result that a war was declared.

The campaign cost France many severe battles—viz, Blenheim, 1704; Ramillies, 1707; Audenarde, 1708, and Malplaquet, 1709.

Quite as absurd in its origin was the war that took place during the commonwealth of Modena.

A soldier stole a bucket from a public well belonging to the state of Bologna. Although the value of the article did not exceed a quarter, its annexation was the signal for a fierce and prolonged war.

Henry, the king of Sardinia, assisted the Modenese to retain the bucket, and in one of the subsequent battles he was made a prisoner. The bucket is still exhibited in the tower of the cathedral of Modena.

A third instance of a war resulting from a trifling cause was that between Louis VII of France and Henry II of England.

The archbishop of Rouen decreed that no one should wear long hair upon their heads or chins. Louis submitted to the decree, whereupon his wife, Eleanor, rallied him upon his appearance. A quarrel ensued, which resulted in the dissolution of the marriage and Eleanor's marriage with Henry.

By this marriage the broad domains in Normandy formerly belonging to Louis passed into the possession of Henry. Louis, hotly incensed, made an attack on Normandy, and henceforth, for nearly 300 years, arose those bloody and devastating wars which cost France upward of 3,000,000 of lives.—London Answers.

CARDINAL ANTONELLI.

The Great Papal Statesman as He Appeared to a Painter.

Rudolph Lehmann's visit to Rome in 1857 led to the painter's introduction to the great papal statesman, Cardinal Antonelli. He says:

Before me sat that execrated statesman, "the best hated man in Rome," in the most affable of moods. His bronzed and somewhat oriental features were certainly far from handsome, but they were full of character, energy, and, according to some, cruelty, with the large, dark, piercing eyes overshadowed by a heavy brow, the strong aquiline nose and the full sensual lips. He was in a talkative mood and spoke freely of the difficulties that beset his onerous ministry, of the position of the papacy becoming daily more threatened through the ever increasing energy of its wicked enemies, or what he called "the modern spirits." "But," he added, "history teaches us that it has always triumphed in the long run, and it will do so now." He also told me that the worldly interests of the brothers Antonelli had never been separated; that they possessed all their worldly goods in common, one brother being director of the Banca Romana; one, the Conte Gregorio, taking care of their vast possessions in the Pontine marshes, a third being syndaco of Rome and the youngest being employed in diplomatic missions by the secretary of state.

During a short rest he showed me, with evident pride, over his elegant apartment, furnished with all the latest modern comforts. But the crowning climax was the bedroom, combining with the solemnity and mystery of the abode of a prince of the church all the luxuries of the boudoir of a petite maitresse. The walls, the curtains, as well as the hangings round the spacious four poster, were of the heaviest crimson damask, looped up with enormous tassels.—Boston Herald.

The Beauties of the Alleghanies.

The Alleghanies are fertile to the very summits, and not the least of their glories are their magnificent forests of oak, hickory, chestnut, maple, pine and other noble trees, in the spring when they are budding forth, in the summer when they are in the full bloom of maturity and when the laurel is in blossom, and in the fall, when the brilliant tints of red and gold and green and purple overwhelm one with a sense of Mother Nature's æsthetic genius in always harmonizing such a profusion of colors.

After all, it is the thoroughly satisfactory sport to be had with the game sheltered in these mountains that most endears them to the man who has any taste whatever for that sort of thing. The conditions are perfect. The game ranges from quail, or, as the Virginians call it, partridge, to deer and bear, and especially this is one of the last strongholds of that noble game bird, the wild turkey.—Magazine of Travel.

The Nonprofessional Profile Head.

"I don know how many times I have seen people—I don't mean artists, but all sorts of people, including children—draw profile heads. It is common enough for anybody to draw them on a slate, a scrap of paper, anywhere," said Mr. Billtops, "but I don't remember ever to have seen any of them draw a right handed profile—I mean one facing to the right. I suppose there is some very simple reason for this, but I am acquainted only with the fact."—New York Sun.

"You brought all that beautiful china back with you?" exclaimed the caller. "Didn't you break anything?"

"Nothing but the customs laws," replied the young lady, who had just returned from Europe.—Washington Star.

ADMIT ITS EFFICACY.

The interest taken in the almost miraculous cures made by Dr. Kennedy's Favorite Remedy, at Athens, N. Y., and other places, resulted in the Albany, N. Y., Journal sending a special representative to Athens to investigate the cases, and it was found that many of the cures made by this medicine were simply wonderful.

In the cases of Mr. Lewis Clow, who had chronic kidney disease, Mrs. Casper Brooks, suffering from female troubles, and Mrs. Wm. Tiffany, who suffered from general prostration, all of these cases were abandoned by their attending physicians. Dr. David Kennedy's Favorite Remedy was then used by them and in every case an absolute cure was effected.

The Company Should Pay.

Inspector Herbert Chamberlain yesterday found that two of the North Plainfield fire-alarm boxes were burned out by the electric-light contact of a few nights ago. The damage is expensive to repair, and should be paid by the Gamewell Fire Alarm Telegraph Company, which in constructing the system ought to have established thorough insulation.

The reader of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly on the blood and mucous surface of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer $100 for any case that it fails to cure.

CRESCENT AVENUE RECEPTION.

Plainfield Bestows Honors on Rev. Dr. Henry Blodgett and Wife.

The reception given to Rev. Dr. Henry Blodgett and Mrs. Blodgett in the Crescent Avenue Church Saturday evening was a most enjoyable occasion, calling together fully two hundred friends of the guests of honor who were most pleasantly entertained and edified during the early evening by Dr. Blodgett, who gave a most interesting resume of his forty-one years experience as a missionary among the Chinese. For over thirty years he was located at Pekin, and though at first working under the most adverse circumstances and in the face of seemingly insurmountable obstacles, he had the satisfaction of seeing his work prosper by the grace of God and become the means of elevating and Christianizing many who had been buried in the depths of superstition and idolatry. Several instances of personal conversion were spoken of in a most interesting manner, unconsciously showing, as the speaker related them, how deeply at heart the good Doctor had the salvation of all with whom he had made his home, and whose uplifting has been his life work. Robert E Speer, for years a secretary of the Board of Foreign Missions in New York, followed Dr. Blodgett, speaking with warm words of praise of the many translations which the modest Doctor had neglected to touch upon, and mentioning the untold benefit which these scholarly volumes had been in carrying forward the good work.

The assembly then adjourned to the parlors where a bountiful banquet which had been prepared by the Ladies Aid Society was discussed. The pleasant social intercourse which is always a feature of the Crescent Avenue gatherings seasoned the repast.

Plainfield Indians Abroad.

Messrs. J H. Carney, H. C. Runyon, L K. Clarke and William F. Trust, who went to Port Oram Thursday to attend the installation of the local tribe of Red Men, were royally entertained. That they did their share during the evening session goes without saying, the genial "Jack" being right in his element and bringing down the house, which was packed to the doors, with his witty and laughable sallies. The others of the Plainfield party were a close second, and fully maintained the reputation of Paugh-Caugh-Naugh-Sinque, No, 193 To show their appreciation of the visitors the Port Oram Tribe gave them the freedom of the town and escorted by the mayor and aldermen the party were piloted through mines, furnaces and smelters and were shown all the historical points of interest in the city. The boys finally had to tear themselves away and were followed to the train by the fife and drum corps and the Port Oram military band, being allowed to purchase tickets for Plainfield only after making sworn affidavit that they would return inside of six months and give another entertainment.

Union C. E. Services Tonight.

At Trinity Church this evening at 7:45 will occur the annual election of officers of the local Christian Endeavor Union for the ensuing term.

Rev. Dr. J. Clement French, the President of the New Jersey State Union, whose eloquent and interesting lectures have won him many friends throughout our city, as in fact wherever he has spoken, will deliver the principal discourse of the evening.

The Christian Endeavor Gospel Hymns will be used, and Endeavorers are requested to wear their badges. The yearly reports will be read during the meeting.

In the City Court.

Charles Davenport who was ordered by Officer Kiely to appear before Judge Coddington this morning to answer to the charge of reckless driving and cruelty to his horse yesterday was given a hearing and fined three dollars, which he paid.

Terence McCabe, who was found by Officer Frederickson Friday evening in a drunk and disorderly condition on Front street, was allowed to depart after depositing $3 with the Judge.

By Conan Doyle.

The Daily Press tomorrow will contain the latest copyrighted story of that most popular author, A. Conan Doyle, entitled "Recollections of Captain Wilkie". It is copyrighted, and will appear in this paper alone. The length is nine columns, and the story is handsomely illustrated.

Marvelous Results.

From a letter written by Rev. J. Gunderman, of Dismondale, Mich., we are permitted to make this extract: 'I have no hesitation in recommending Dr. King's New Discovery, as the results were almost marvelous in the case of my wife. While I was pastor of the Baptist Church at Rives Junction she was brought down by pneumonia succeeding la grippe. Terrible paroxysms of coughing would last hours with little interruption and it seemed as if she could not survive them. A friend recommended Dr. King's New Discovery; it was quick in its work and highly satisfactory in results. Sold by L. W. Randolph druggist. Regular size 50c and $1; our price 45c and 90c

$500 OR $2,000?

Which One of These Prizes Will You as a Clever Plainfielder Win?

In The Daily Press tomorrow will be published the announcement of a $2,000 capital prize which may be won by any Plainfielder who has the ability to fulfil the requirements of the contest. For the encouragement of those modest persons who are sure they would not win the first, a second prize of $500 is offered. The competition is an honorable and interesting one, and may develop a wonderful genius from among the Plainfield people. Its requirements are easy, and anyone may enter. The details will be given in The Press tomorrow, and in no other paper.

Skating Reserve.

Owing to Percy Ohl having an altercation with some roughs on his pond who had insulted some ladies, Mr. Ohl decided to allow only those to skate who left their names at the house and procured tickets, which are sold at twenty-five cents and are good for the season.

That this has been fully appreciated, is shown by the fact that among the names registered are the following: Frank Talmadge, R H Cox, C L Runyon, E F Dorman, H N Hall, E W Erickson, W Wadsworth, C P Halloway, Harvey, Gus and Charley Fisk, Dan Bunkie, Morris Dumont, Howard Miller, the Misses Patterson, Stanley and Gracie Peck, E and H Stockton, A Finch, Owen Fleming, Edith Boone, F Richardson, H E Swayze, H J and P Phillips, Miss Cone Lela Howard, Miss E Corlies, Thad. Dufion, Jack Hall, E Perkins, H Baker, Robert Tilney, H W Brower, Frank Stevenson, Frank Dumont, R Parry, Miss Cruikshank, the Misses Whiton, Miss Bogert, the Misses VanZandt, R W Erickson, Gilbert and Miss Lovell, Charlie Davis, F Squires, S Hunter, P W Mason, E Beveridge, Miss E Bowen, J W Talmage, J W Middlediith, J Walz, Miss Miller, the Misses Hyde, B G Harman, Grace Abbott, E H Sterling, J P W Taylor, Miss DeWilde, L L Gilbert, T E Erickson, and a great many others. Mr Ohl has given to their subscribers the entire use of the skating privileges on the pond, and they arrange for the keeping of it in order.

Plainfield Riding Club's Proposed Fair.

At the special meeting of the Plainfield Riding Club Saturday evening the following men were appointed a committee to arrange for a fair to be held at the riding academy February 22.

Messrs. J. W. McQuaide, F. R. Van Boskerck, William J. Roome and W. E. Pentz were named.

A complete programme has not been formulated as yet but that the affair will be a most successful event is assured by a glance at the names of the popular leaders. Among the special features will be winding the May pole, tent pegging, high hurdling and the execution of many intricate feats both bareback and in the saddle.

Death of Edward Wilson's Bride.

A most distressing bereavement is the death of May Hayden Taylor, daughter of the late Morgan S. Taylor, and wife of Edward Taylor Wilson, which occurred suddenly this morning. The happy young people were married but this Winter, and Death's untimely ending of their honeymoon arouses the deepest sympathy of all their friends.

Fainted During Service.

Mrs. C. S. Myers of Kensington avenue fainted during the evening services of the East Third Street Mission yesterday, but was readily revived after being taken to the open air. Mrs. Myers has suffered on previous occasions in a similar manner, the cause being attributed to an affection of the heart.

Business Increasing.

George Kirch, the ever-busy grocer of 196 Somerset street, has just had a 1 400-lb safe put in his store from the National Safe and Lock Co. of Cleveland, Ohio.

—7,000 soldiers are on duty in Brooklyn today. There is little disorder. More cars are running.

—The Epworth League of the Monroe Avenue Chapel will entertain in the chapel Tuesday evening, Jan. 29.

—Mrs. James Coleman Drayton today asked for more time to prepare her reply to her husband's petition for divorce.

—Revival services are to be held in Grace church every night this week at 8, with the possible exception of Saturday. A feature will be singing by the chorus choir.

Miss May Stockton Shreve of Grove street has set forth in the current number of Harper's Young People an attractive idea for a young girl's luncheon under the title of "A Literary Salad". The problem of how to provide entertainment of a nature not too frivolous for young people, without becoming pedantic and dull, has always been a difficult one, and Miss Shreve's suggestion will be remembered as one of the details of its solution. The article will be perused with interest, not only by her friends, but by all the readers of the Young People.

THE PASTOR'S POKER.

Housebreakers Put to Flight by the Plucky Rev. Hauser.

The lights had been put out in the front part of the house, and the clergyman and his wife were in the kitchen, when, at 10:15 Saturday night, Rev George Hauser of Duer street and Park place heard some on the front stoop working at one of the windows.

Taking a stout poker, Mr. Hauser noiselessly unlocked the front door and stepped out on the stoop. There was a man at the window, and one at the gate.

"What are you doing there?" said the pastor.

The window operator made a motion as if to grapple with the parson, but that athletic gentleman gave him several whacks over the head with the poker, till it was bent out of shape.

"Don't do that!" screamed the man, at the top of his voice, and broke away and ran to the street. Both he and his companion took to their heels, and the last seen of them they were running up Duer street.

"You got in the wrong place that time!" shouted the dominie.

Mr. Hauser took the lamp to investigate the damage to the window, and found a well-worn woolen cap which the robber had dropped.

The audacity of the attempted housebreaking is seen in the fact that the houses of the neighborhood were illuminated, and the time for sleeping had not come. The people of the section were startled by the outcry.

Studying Local Charities.

At the meeting of the Plainfield Branch Alliance of Unitarian and Other Christian Women, to be held in the lecture room of All Souls Church tomorrow at 3 p. m., the topic will be "Local Charities", and the matters discussed will be their cost, how they are administered, how the methods compare with those of neighboring cities, whether some better method can be devised for the care of paupers, whether pauperism is increasing in proportion to population, the tramp question, and provision for defective classes.

A Master of the Art.

A. Wehner, the ever good natured musician whose ability as an instructor on the piano is of the high grade expected of a graduate of the Conservatory of Leipsic, already has three pupils in Plainfield, though his introduction to the town is but recent. He desires a few more Plainfielders under his tuition, and will speedily answer all letters addressed to him in care of The Daily Press.

Protecting Animals.

The esteemed correspondent writing to The Press of the cases of cruelty to animals that have come under her notice is informed that the State laws give ample protection, and on her complaint, or that of any citizen, the abuser of any animal will be arrested and punished as the evidence warrants. Any justice of the peace will take complaint.

Died of Hiccoughs.

Mrs. Fred J. Mitchell of Plainfield avenue has gone to Providence because of the death of her father, C. W. Morris, who for the past two weeks has been suffering with hiccoughs and who died Saturday night as a result of the attack.

Spiriing Up.

Several members of John Hand Camp will meet tomorrow evening to be measured for uniforms. Any of the other members wishing information about them can receive it by seeing any of the officers.

Minnie Lester's Return.

The plays to be given by the Minnie Lester company on their return to Music Hall the week of March 25 will be: "Out in the Streets", "Waifs of New York", "Ragged Jack", "The Devil's Mine", "Miss Rora", and "Beacon Lights".

Music Hall Prices.

The new scale of prices in Music Hall is as follows: Front four orchestra rows, $1; balance of floor, 75 cents, except rear three rows, which are 50 cents; gallery, front three rows, 50 cents; rear three, 35; admission without seat, 25 cents.

Send Along a Better One.

The Daily Press is in receipt of a long letter in reply to American, so full of personal abuse and so empty of genuine argument as to be unworthy of the cause it champions.

Wear the Badge.

At the meeting of the local Christian Endeavor Union in Trinity Reformed Church tonight every Endeavorer should wear the badge of the society.

Many stubborn and aggravating cases of rheumatism that were believed to be incurable and accepted as life legacies, have yielded to Chamberlain's Pain Balm, much to the surprise and gratification of the sufferers. THE PLAINFIELD WATER-SUPPLY INVESTIGATION.

Complete Official Report of the Common Council Committee, With Counselor Marsh's Review of the Thirteen Questions, and an Additional Explanatory Letter by Councilman Frost in Reply to President Frank Bergen's Caustic Criticisms.

The great public importance of the report of the councilmanic committee on Plainfield's water-supply investigation makes it imperative that every citizen should study it; and the nicety of the legal points involved demands that the answers of the Corporation Counsel to the 13 questions submitted, be given fullest circulation in their entirety.

Realizing the gravity of the case, and true to its office of the people's paper, The Daily Press has undertaken what all others have neglected, the widespread circulation of the complete report.

Everything of the report is published complete in this issue, including the illustrations which were so carefully prepared; and a copy is put into every home in the town.

In addition to the committee's report (which includes Counselor Marsh's answers) there is printed a letter from Chairman Frost citing the committee's authorities, and answering the criticisms made against the report by President Frank Bergen of the Water Supply Company.

This matter is of great concern to every local landowner and inhabitant, and the issue is extremely valuable and should be preserved.

The Honorable the Common Council of the City of Plainfield:

In the matter of that portion of the Mayor's message, viz:

"Another question which sooner or later "may be of importance to the people of "Plainfield is connected with the Water Com-"pany. This company, or its promoters, have "undertaken to furnish Fanwood, Westfield, "Cranford, Roselle and Elizabeth with water "drawn from our own source of supply. How "long this drain can continue without being "seriously felt by our people, is a question "worthy of serious consideration. At the "present time danger may not be imminent, "but the natural increase in the population of "the places referred to may in time result in "an insufficient supply for our purposes. I "recommend that during the year some action "be taken by your honorable body to obtain "information both as to the extent of the dan-"ger referred to, and as to our legal rights in "the premises."

Your Committee, to whom it was referred, submit the following:

Concerning "the extent of the danger referred to," any investigations of the subject of a subterranean water supply are necessarily indefinite: from the experience of numerous investigators much valuable information is obtainable, yet the conclusions are only approximate, and may vary very widely; it is only by actual test that the can be absolutely determined.

Your Committee has prepared a contour map from the State Geological Survey, showing the area of the Plainfield watershed, also profiles and sections, from which a fair conception of the situation may be obtained, with an approximate estimate of the available water supply, and its liability to prove insufficient for the future needs of the City of Plainfield, if any considerable proportion of the natural existing supply is diverted to other communities.

SOURCE OF SUPPLY.

The water for our industrial and domestic uses is obtained from the loose porous sand and gravel, and from the open fissures in the rocks underlying any given watershed. The quantity normally held in such soil is not the same, but differs from the kind and structure. It is estimated that in a free, open soil, such as underlies Plainfield, about one-fourth of the rainfall percolates into the ground, and the balance is taken up by evaporation and vegetation, or runs off over the surface to the streams and ponds. As the laws of gravity govern the flow of water through the soil in the same way as in streams, retarded only by the frictional resistance of the material through which it passes, the more compact the material the greater head required to force itself to an outlet, hence the great difference in the level of the ground water, even in localities of small area.

HYDRAULIC PRINCIPLES.

In order to determine the availability of a district to furnish a supply of ground water, the topography and geological formation must be carefully studied. If it is to be depended upon as the only source of supply, then the storage capacity must be equal to the maximum consumption during the months of the year when the percolation is less than the demand.

If, as in the case at Plainfield, by pumping, the level of the water is quickly drawn down and continued with a uniform yield and quick recovery of the original level upon stopping the pumps, then it may be assumed that the storage area is small, but the supply is constant through open strata. If the yield should be equal to the capacity of the pipes without lowering the ground water, then may the supply be assumed to be abundant. If the level of the water is reduced slowly, and has an equally slow recovery, it would indicate a storage reservoir without material supply.

THE "UNDERGROUND RIVER"

from which we obtain our supply of clear and wholesome water is of purely local origin—the rainfall over an area of about (10) square miles—and the volume of flow is subject to the variations of the seasons of average or excessive rainfalls of ordinary dry weather or severe droughts. This "underground river" takes its rise near Springfield, and, flowing in a southwesterly course, parallel to the Watchung Mountain, gathers volume from the steep sides of the mountains on the right and from the lesser slopes of the "short hills" on the left, until it passes the corner of the terminal moraine at Netherwood, where it broadens out to the southeast, and in a wider and presumably shallower stream, finds its way through gravel and shale to the Raritan River.

The upper surface of this "underground river" is easily determinable anywhere over its entire extent by the simple process of boring in the ground until water is reached. If the records of all the well-borings in Plainfield and vicinity are plotted on profile paper, the points showing the surfaces of the water in the wells will be found to be on a tolerably uniform slope, which, between the city line on the east and the surface of the water in the Raritan, varies from one foot in 500 feet to one foot in 300 feet. This line is practically permanent as to slope, but will rise or fall two or three feet, according to the wetness or dryness of the season, and with it the surface of the wells it supplies will experience similar variations of level, the changes occurring between May and September. This line is called the hydraulic slope or "water table" of the "underground river" and it is the resultant of the exact equality the force of gravity and the retarding influence of the material through which the water flows in its course to the outlet. Differences in the permeability of the strata through which the stream flows will affect the velocity of flow; there may be veins of water owing, to the greater porosity of the strata, and at depressions of the ground where the plane of the water table comes above the surface there will be springs and flowing streams. But the general flow will be constant, and the slope will vary only between narrow limits.

If, now, it were possible to make an absolutely correct survey of the surface of the red sandstone which underlies our entire watershed, it would also be quite possible to obtain a close estimate of the volume of the "underground river" and its availability as a water supply for the needs of our city and adjacent communities. It is, however, impossible to make such a survey, and the best we can do is to study carefully the geological structure of the district, and from this knowledge, and the records of well-boring, compile such a map of the rock bed as it is possible to do.

THE AREA OF THE WATERSHED

tributary to the well of the Plainfield Water Supply Company at Netherwood is about five square miles. The red sandstone underlying this area has been furrowed deeply in places by glacial action; bowl-like depressions, similar to what is seen on the surface among the "short hills" have been formed, as also rock mounds, the counterpart of surface topography. These irregularities are overlaid by the "boulder drift," composed of small boulders, gravel, sand, shale, and clay, and it is through this material that the "underground river" flows in its course to the Raritan.

AVAILABLE SAFE VOLUME.

If we allow 25 feet as an average depth of boulder drift above the rock, and 15 feet as an average from the surface of the ground to the water table, there is 10 feet depth of saturated gravel and shale from which the total yield of water must come. The total volume of water held in suspension in the interstices of a gravel bed such as that of the Plainfield watershed, extending over five square miles and 10 feet deep is 3,136,320,000 gallons, allowing 30 per cent. of the total cubical contents to be water. This volume is moving in a stream the entire width of the valley, and cannot possibly all be intercepted by a single pumping system. Allowing one-third of it to be intercepted at the Plainfield Water Company's wells gives 1,045,000,000 gallons as the permanent storage basin to be drawn upon. At 2,000,000 gallons per day pumped, there is a supply for 522 days, or less than one and one-half years, after which time the supply would have to be provided from the water which soaked into the ground from the rainfall.

If we allow 12 inches of the annual rainfall as reaching the storage area, it will amount to a daily yield of 2,875,000 gallons. But only about one-half of this can be depended upon for a permanent supply, hence the amount available will be less than 1,500,000 gallons per 24 hours. During the dry months, from May to September, the ordinary rainfall never reaches the saturated bed; it is, therefore, from the storage basin, or the so-called "underground river," that the supply is drawn in these months. As the storage basin is drawn upon by pumping, the level of the water table is lowered; after a time the yield becomes so lessened that the pumps must be lowered, and this is what occurred at the Plainfield Water Supply Company's pumping station in the dry season of 1894, when the water table was lowered six or seven feet, and necessitated lowering the pumps eight feet one inch below their original positions. Engineer Brush, in referring to this necessity, stated that it was an indication "that the supply was not inexhaustible."

THE "AREA OF INFLUENCE."

To explain this effect of pumping upon the ground water more fully: At the normal volume of the "underground river" the water table, representing the surface, maintains its permanent slope and its distance from the ground surface; when pumping begins the water falls at first rapidly, afterwards more slowly, until, if the discharge of the pump be uniform, a point is reached where the water is supplied at exactly the same rate as delivered by the pump, and therefore pumping can go on indefinitely; but if the pumping is forced, the water line sinks, and in doing so assumes the shape of a flattened, inverted cone, of which the pumping well is the apex, and the absolute depth of the cone cannot extend 30 feet below the surface of the water in the saturated bed. The average suction lift of the pumps of the Plainfield Water Supply Company was 20 to 23 feet during the original tests, and within a year after commencing to pump, the natural result of excessive pumping—lowering the water table—occurred. The immediate area subject to the influence of the pumps is presumably a circle, with the center of the well for its center, but in the case of a system of gang wells such as those of the Plainfield Water Supply Company, the form will be that of an ellipse, and allowing for a depth of 50 feet, the area of the influence will be about 100 acres; the westerly limit will be about 200 feet west of Leland Ave., and the easterly limit about at Terrill Road; the sides of the ellipse will be distant about 1,100 feet on each side of the pumping station; allowing 25 feet depth of the saturated bed gives 35,000,000 cubic feet of gravel, or 66,500,000 gallons of water. On account of intermittent pumping time is allowed daily for a partial refilling of the area of influence, but as consumption increases so is the time of pumping lengthened, and as the water in the cone (or pyramid) is lowered, the discharge is diminished proportionately as the head is diminished. If the pumping be kept at the rate of maximum yield the cone of influence will eventually be emptied, when no more water can be obtained until after such time as it can be partly or wholly replenished from the natural rainfall reaching the saturated bed. There may, however, be water below this limit of suction, and to reach it deeper and larger wells must be driven and the pumps lowered to within 30 feet or less of the surface. The old wells of the Plainfield Water Supply Company were driven 40 to 45 feet deep, but it has become necessary to sink new and deeper wells to the north of the old line of wells.

CONCLUSIONS.

From our investigations thus far we can state:

1st. The source of the Plainfield Water Company's supply is local.

2d. Tests of numerous dug wells from the water-works eastward and northward over the watershed along Front St., Terrill Road, Martine ave., and at Scotch Plains, give evidence of a lowering of the water table, and consequent lowering of the storage basin.

3d. Inquiries disclose the fact that several wells eastward of the water-works have been deepened within two years.

4th. There has been general complaint of lowering of water in all the wells in the city and vicinity.

5th. The action of the Water Supply Company in lowering their pumps and boring wider and deeper wells indicates exhaustion of the storage supply.

While we do not find that there is immediate danger of an insufficient supply for the needs of this city, reasoning from the experience of other localities with an underground water supply, the records of which we have examined, the inference is that the probability of a very much diminished supply in the near future is imminent.

POSSIBLE CONTAMINATION.

There is, however, a consequence of excessive pumping which directly concerns the people of Plainfield. In the slow percolation through sand and gravel, water is very thoroughly filtered, and is delivered to consumers in a safe and wholesome condition; the action of forced pumping is to create a more porous condition of the soil, and, indeed, to create open channels through which the supply of water will be temporarily greatly increased, but at the expense of the purity and wholesomeness; as every drop which reaches the pumps has passed downward from the ground surface through the intervening strata, so must the supply be more or less contaminated at the start by the condition of the soil through which it passes. It is a fact that in the Plainfield watershed are barnyards, manured fields, cesspools, privy vaults, and cemeteries, and a portion of the rainfall which soaks through these is pumped into the pipes of the Plainfield Water Supply Company, and delivered to consumers. Thorough filtration is secured by slow percolation, although absolute purification is not. If a series of channels is induced by forced pumping, is it not clear to any intelligent person that the danger arising from the delivery of possibly contaminated water is greatly increased?

The remedy for this condition of our public water supply is to secure a sufficient watershed as free from contaminating influences as possible, and take from it only such supply as is needed by the citizens of Plainfield and such adjoining communities as can safely be supplied.

OUR LEGAL RIGHTS.

Regarding our legal rights in the premises thirteen questions were submitted to the Corporation Counsel, and the following copy of his opinion upon each of these questions is appended to and made a part of this report, viz:

Office of Counsel to the Corporation of the City of Plainfield.

To the Committee on Water and Sewerage:

Gentlemen—This opinion deals with the thirteen written questions submitted by your Committee in the order in which such questions were propounded. The question in each instance is first quoted in full, and my opinion thereupon follows before the next question is taken up.

The first question is: "Is the Act of the Legislature of the State of New Jersey incorporating 'The Plainfield Water Supply Company', being Chapter DLIV of the Laws of 1869, constitutional and valid?"

No suggestion is made in the inquiry submitted as to any particular ground on which the constitutionality of the Act is doubted. If it has been supposed that the act is unconstitutional because it is special legislation (as it has been intimated to be orally), the answer is that at the time the Act was approved, there was no constitutional provision prohibiting special legislation conferring corporate powers. Such special legislation as to the future was prohibited by the Constitutional Amendment of 1875. If it was supposed that the act is unconstitutional on the ground that it authorizes the taking of private property for use of the corporation, the answer is that the corporation is a quasi public corporation, on which it is legitimate, under our constitution, to confer the power of eminent domain. In the Act under consideration, it is expressly provided that the rights of owners damaged under the Act shall be legally obtained and paid for; that if the company cannot agree with the owner or occupants of any land or water intended to be taken, commissioners shall be appointed to assess the damages; and that an appeal may be taken to the courts from the determination of the commissioners. In short, the Act provides the usual preliminaries to the exercise of the right of eminent domain, and if the company disregard these provisions, the trouble would not be with the charter, but with the violation of the charter. The question whether there is any defect in the title of the Act whereby the Act is rendered unconstitutional or invalid is a more troublesome question. The title is "An Act to supply the Town of Plainfield, Union County, and towns adjoining with water for public and private use," and the Act itself is in substance and effect a charter of a stock corporation. The constitutional provision applicable at the time the Act was approved, was, as to the point referred to, the same as at present, viz.: "To avoid improper influences, which may result from intermixing in one and the same act such things as have no proper relation to each other, every law shall embrace but one subject, and that shall be expressed in the title." (Constitution of 1844, Art. 4, Sec. 7, Par. 4; Constitution, as amended, Art 4 Sec 7, Par. 4)

The doubt suggested to my mind is not as to whether the creation or the corporation has a proper relation to the supply of Plainfield and surrounding towns with water, but as to whether the title truly expresses the real object of the Act, or, in other words, as to whether the creation of the corporation, with its powers and franchises, may not be said to have been the leading object of the legislation—the object which, under the Constitution, is required to be not only embraced in the title, but expressed in the title. Said Mr. Justice Vanseykel, in Camden & Amboy R. R. Co. v. Mays Landing, etc., R. R. Co. (19 Vr., 531, at page 560), speaking for the majority of the Court of Errors: "The constitutional restraint could not be invoked for a more salutary purpose than to suppress a scheme to amplify corporate powers in a way which effectually conceals the intention to do so." Citing Jersey City v. Elmendorf (18 Vr., 283). So Chief Justice Beasley, in Rador v. Township of Union, already cited, in discussing the question whether the title, "An Act in relation to streets in Union Township, Union County," was sufficient to validate an act which created a municipal corporation, uses this illustration: "And so, a law entitled 'An Act in relation to silk goods' would not indicate in the faintest outline a purpose to incorporate a body for the manufacture of such fabrics. Such titles would be idle and inefficacious for every purpose. And yet the latter example of a nugatory title is not unlike the one prefixed in the act under consideration. It is described as being in relation to streets in Union Township, but its immediate purpose is to create a corporation to take charge of such streets." The title in the case last cited was held insufficient and the Act declared unconstitutional.

On the other hand, a reference to similar acts, and even to general laws authorizing the formation of water companies, shows that the kind of title adopted was not unusual. The Act of April 1, 1876, which authorized the formation of water companies generally in certain municipalities, was entitled "An Act for the construction, maintenance, and operation of water-works, for the purpose of supplying cities, towns, and villages of this State with water" (Rev. Supp., 650) There is nothing in the title referring to the purpose of authorizing the formation of corporations, and yet the Act provides for the incorporation of stock corporations, and nearly a hundred New Jersey water companies owe their charters to that act. That act was attacked as being unconstitutional, and the attack was conducted with great vigor, by one of the ablest constitutional lawyers of this State, and no question was raised as to the sufficiency of the title. It became my duty, on behalf of the City of Plainfield, in that case, to endeavor to sustain the constitutionality of the Act, and the city was successful. (See Lewis, Pres., v. Moore, 25 Vr., page 121) On the whole, the question would seem to be, may the titles of the act under consideration, and the other acts referred to, be taken to express the objects of the acts respectively, and the incorporation of the stock companies be taked to be merely the means by which that object was to be accomplished. If the act in question will bear that construction, the title would be sufficent, as it is not necessary to state in the title the methods by which the object of the statute is to be effected. (See Rader v. Township of Union, 10 Vr., 500, 518; Newark v. Orange, 26 Vr., 514) While the constitutionality of the act on the point under discussion is a debatable question, yet in view of the declaration made by Chief Justice Beasley, in State v. Hammer, 13 Vr., 435, that it is only in perfectly plain cases that it is proper for the courts to vacate statutes on the ground in question, I incline to the opinion that the title under consideration would be held sufficient. The Court of Errors and Appeals, per Mr. Justice Vanseykel, in Paul v. Gloucester City (21 Vr., 583, 590), held that "to be in doubt is to be resolved in favor of the law."

No other grounds of attack under the provisions of the Constitution have been suggested to me, nor have any occurred to my own mind in the time which I have been able to give to the consideration of the Act.

It has been suggested that the charter of Plainfield repealed the charter of the company. There is no force in the suggestion. As was tersely said by Mr. Justice Depue in the North Hudson Co. Railway v. Hoboken (12 Vr., 71, 78): "The charter of a private corporation, created for purposes of business or trade, will not be modified, altered, or impaired by a statute creating a municipal corporation, unless the intent to effectuate that purpose is plainly to be deduced from the language employed by the Legislature."

There is no language in the charter of this city expressing or implying such a legislative intent. The fact that years after the date of the city charter, the Legislature passed the 1874 supplement to the company's charter hereinafter referred to is conclusion of the contrary intent.

On the last point, I furnished an opinion to the same effect as above stated, to the Common Council of 1890. An appeal was taken to the opinion of ex-Chancellor Runyon, who was specially employed for the purpose, with the result that my opinion was in all points affirmed.

The second question is: "Has that company, by reason of non-user, or otherwise, lost any, and if any, what franchises rights, or powers granted by that act?"

The facts relied upon in propounding this question have not been laid before me.

A supplement to the company's charter (see P. L., 1874, page 1,100) provides that the charter shall not become void or inoperative because of any failure, past or future, to hold elections or elect officers, and that the officers last elected shall hold over until others are elected. Provision is also made as to how a quorum of directors shall give notice of election, etc.

I understand that for more than sixteen years after the date of the supplement of the Plainfield Water Supply Company's charter the company had no plant, obtained no source of supply, laid no pipes, and, of course, supplied no water, under its charter or otherwise, and that the first steps taken in these directions were taken by the company in the year 1889. As to the organization of the company under its charter, election of directors, etc., the city obtained some information from original sources four years ago.

By reference to correspondence which in 1890, was conducted between the city and the company, I find under the hand of the president of the company the following statement, addressed to the Corporation Counsel, under date of Oct. 30, 1890:

"In reply to your letter of the 28th inst., I will say that the records of the Plainfield Water Supply Company show that the incorporators named in the charter met on the 4th of May, 1889, in Plainfield, and organized, by the election of the late Enos W. Runyon as President, James Clark, Vice President, and S. D. Horton, Secretary and Treasurer. Shortly after they adopted a seal and by-laws. The incorporators, as directors of the company, remained in office until the 15th of June, 1889, three, however—Messrs. Lane, Hyde and Coddington—died prior to 1889 (June 15.) At a meeting held on that day, Messrs. Frank H. Collins, John O. White, John W. Murray, Townsend Cox, Jesse W. Starr, H. M. P. Burkenbine, E. N. Ackerson, J. F. Hubbard, Peter L. Voorhees, Elias R. Pope, James C. Pope, and James F. Cox, were elected directors. They remained in office until Aug. 4, last, except three, who died in the meantime. On Aug. 4, last, the present directors were elected."

Assuming the facts to be as above stated, I am of opinion that the company did not by non-user forfeit its charter rights. Vice Chancellor Van Fleet, in the case of Elizabethtown Gas Light Company v. Green (1 Dick., 118, 128), after referring to the facts that for nineteen years the Metropolitan Company had made no active use of the franchises granted to it in 1870, but had continuously refrained from putting them into active exercise, and that nothing had ever been paid on the stock subscribed in 1870, and that the company for all those years was without either officers or property, except its franchises, proceeded to say:

"There can be no doubt that the Legislature might have repealed its charter for its neglect, for so long a time, to put its franchises into exercise, but I think it may be doubted whether any court would, even in a proceeding instituted by the State, on its own behalf, deprive a corporation of its franchises simply on the ground of non-user, where, as in this case, nothing can be found in its charter indicating, either by express words or implication, that a non-user of its franchises should operate as a surrender, or work as a forfeiture of them. In a standard treatise on the Law of Corporations (Ang. & A. Corp., Sec. 773) it is said: 'Mere non-user of its franchises by a corporation is not a surrender; nor are courts warranted in inferring a surrender from an abandonment of the franchises in intention only, unless there be something in the act of incorporation to justify it.'"

This case was affirmed in the Court of Errors and Appeals. (See 4 Dick., Ch. 329.)

Whether the non-user or other facts referred to in the question submitted would be sufficient to induce the Attorney-General (ex-officio) in the exercise of the discretion which the law gives him to ask for a forfeiture of the charter, is, of course, another question, which the Attorney-General alone, or those having power over him, can decide. (State v. Paterson & Hamburg Turnpike Company, 1 Zab., 9.)

The third question is as follows: "Can the City of Plainfield, as a municipal corporation, initiate and maintain any action or judicial proceeding to determine whether the Act referred to be unconstitutional, or whether the company created thereby has for any reason lost any franchise, right, or power purporting to be thereby granted to it, or, if the exercise by the company of any such franchise, right, or power, be unlawful, to restrain such exercise, or must action for any such purpose be by or through the Attorney-General of the State, and what, in any case, is the nature of the appropriate proceeding, and is the previous consent of the Supreme Court to such a proceeding necessary? If previous consent of the court be necessary, is such consent ordinarily granted in such cases as a matter of course?"

If it can be shown that the property or rights of the City of Plainfield have been unlawfully taken or injured by the Plainfield Water Supply Company, the appropriate action for redress may be brought before the proper tribunal, and if the company should attempt to justify under its charter, all questions as to the constitutionality of the charter would be subject to judicial investigation and decision. If the acts of the company cause a public nuisance, the company may be indicted, and its charter, whether constitutional or not, would afford no defence. If the city can make out a case of irreparable injury, the Chancellor would have jurisdiction to grant an injunction upon a bill and information being filed in the name of the Attorney-General at the relation of the city. (See Newark Plank Road Company v. Elmer, 1 Stock., 754; Attorney-General v. The Hudson River Railroad Company, 1 Stock., 527)

Other offences against the rights or property of the city, falling short of a public nuisance, or irreparable injury, may be the subject of the corresponding common-law action. If the acts of the company are not such as to make it amenable to any of the remedies above pointed out, but still such acts are supposed to be in violation of its charter, the Attorney-General has the power to take proceedings to dissolve the corporation. An attempt was once made to induce the Supreme Court to grant certain citizens leave to use the name of the State in a proceeding to dissolve the corporation known as the Paterson & Hamburg Turnpike Company, on the ground of gross neglect and violation of duty on the part of the corporation, and reliance was placed upon our statute of quo warranto. Said Judge Carpenter, speaking for the Supreme Court:

"An information for the purpose of dissolving a corporation, or seizing its franchises, cannot be prosecuted in the name of the State, at the relation of private persons, though leave be asked of the court. Such proceeding can be instituted only by the Attorney-General on the part of the State, either merely ex-officio, or under special directions from the proper authority. The statute of 9 Anne extends only to individuals usurping offices or franchises in a corporation, and not to the corporation as a body. (Citing cases).

"This distinction is well settled, and is a safe and proper rule. The State, said C. J. Parsons, in a case cited, may waive any breaches of any condition, express or implied, on which the corporation was created, and the court cannot (or ought not) to give judgment for the seizing of the franchise of any corporation unless the State itself be a party in interest in the suit, and thus assents to the judgment."

Judges Whitehead and Randolph concurred in the opinion, and the latter says, on page 12 of the report:

"Our statute (Rev. Laws, 209), like that of Anne (ch. 20) only applies to individuals who usurp or intrude into a franchise or an office. (Citing cases). The law does not contemplate the use of this writ by individuals to redress the wrongs of the State. I think the rule should be discharged. (State v. Paterson Turnpike Co., 1 Zab., 9.)"

The consent of the court is necessary under our statute when an action of quo warranto is brought in the name of the Attorney-General at the relation of other persons before the information can be filed. If a proper case can be presented under that statute, the practice is to apply to the court in the first instance for a rule to show cause why leave should not be granted. On the return of the rule both sides are heard, and it then remains discretionary with the court whether to grant or refuse leave. See State v. Stevens, 4 Vr., 195, in which Depue, J., states the question before the court to be as follows:

"The next question will be as to the expediency of permitting the inquiry into the title of these defendants to proceed. The question is entirely independent of the question whether the title of the defendants is valid or not. It involves nothing more or less than—conceding that the defendants' title is bad—will the public interest be injuriously affected by a successful prosecution of proceedings to oust the defendants from the office."

In that case it was shown that great public inconvenience would result from granting leave to file the information, though it was conceded that the title of the de facto officials was defective, and the Court refused leave and allowed the de facto officers to continue to govern the city. It follows, of course, that the consent of the Court refused leave and allowed the de facto officers to continue. The Court will pass upon each case as it is presented, and will grant or withhold leave to file the information as the interest of justice may dictate.

"The rules," said Mr. Justice Depue, in case cited, "which ordinarily govern the Court in the exercise of this discretionary power appear to be these: First, that the relator is not a mere stranger coming in to disturb a corporation with which he has no concern. Secondly, that he has not consented to the which he afterwards complains of as illegal, and, third, in the absence of fraud, or a will violation of law, that public or private interests will not be seriously impaired by the ouster of the officer whose title to office is proposed to inquire into."

As has been shown, however, it has been held in this State that when public corporations are once de facto formed and are exercising corporate powers, proceedings by quo warranto to declare such corporations inoperative and in effect dissolved, can only be in the name of the Attorney-General acting ex-officio, and the Supreme Court has no authority to direct such information, but will leave the matter to the discretion of the Attorney-General (State v. Paterson, &c., Turnpike, Co., supra.) In the case last cited, the opinion of Mr. Justice Randolph quotes with approval the language of Achhurst, J., in Rex v. Pasmore (3 B., 244), as follows:

"A scire facias is the proper mode of proceeding against a legally existing body for an abuse of power, or where delinquency is imputed to them. But a quo warranto is necessary when there is a body de facto, but from some defect in their constitution, they cannot legally exercise the power they affect to use."

In the case of the Attorney-General v. Stevens (Sax., 369), an information was filed by the Attorney-General to restrain the defendants, who proposed to act under the authority of the Camden & Amboy R. R. Co., and also said company from erecting a bridge. It was claimed that the company had no legal existence because the terms of their charter had not been complied with. The Chancellor said:

"It is proper to inquire in this place how far this Court will undertake to look into the matters thus incidentally brought before it and decide upon their illegality or irregularity. Here, then, is a set of men, claiming to be a legally incorporated company under an act of the Legislature, exercising all the powers and functions of a corporation. They are a corporation de facto, if not de jure. Everything necessary to constitute them a cortion has been done, colorably at least, if not legally, and I do not feel at liberty in this incidental way, to declare all their proceedings void, and treat them as a body having no rights or powers. It has been seen that the Court will not do this where a corporation, properly organized, has plainly forfeited its privileges, and there is but little difference, in principle, between the two cases. In both the corporation is actually in existence, but whether legally or rightfully so is the question. And it appears to me that if the Court can take cognizance of the matter in this case, it must in all others where it can be brought up, not only directly, but incidentally. * * * The corporation is now organized, and, if acting without authority, is liable to be brought up at any time before a competent tribunal, in a mode the legality of which cannot, as I apprehend, be questioned."

The case in Saxton was decided in 1831, and the Court of Errors and Appeals declared in 1880, in the case of the National Dock & R. R. Co. v. Central R. R. Co. (5 Stew., 755, at Page 762): "This decision was rendered half a century ago, and its propriety has never hitherto been doubted." The case in Saxton was followed by the Court of Errors in the case last cited, and Mr. Justice Dixon, speaking for the entire bench, used this language, which is directly in point on the third question submitted to me:

"Whenever it is sought to impugn the legality of a corporation which exists under the forms of law, the remedy is by quo warranto, or information in the nature thereof, instituted by the Attorney-General. Said Ashhurst, J., in Rex. v. Pasmore (3 R., 199, 244): 'A quo warranto is necessary where there is a body corporate de facto who take upon themselves to act as a body corporate, but from some defect in their constitution, they cannot legally exercise the powers they affect to use.' And in Rex v. Corporation of Carmarthen (2 Bar., 869), it was asserted by Lord Mansfield and Mr. Justice Denison, and conceded by all the counsel, 'that there was no instance of any information in nature of a quo warranto being brought against any corporation, as a corporation, for an usurpation on the Crown, but by and in the name of the Attorney-General on behalf of the Crown'. These views are approved in State v. Paterson & Hamburg Turnpike Co. (1 Zab., 9), and are maintained and applied in numerous cases cited in the text-books on this subject. We think they are accurate statements of the law applicable to the case in hand."

"4. ARE THE franchises, rights, and powers granted by the Act referred to limited to the purposes expressed in the title of the Act, namely, 'to supply the town of Plainfield, Union County, and towns adjoining with water, for public and private use,' and what is the meaning of the expressions 'towns adjoining' and 'adjoining towns' in the title and body of the Act?"

As already pointed out in the answer to the first question, it is not necessary that the title of the Act should go beyond expressing the object, to specify the means and methods by which the object is to be accomplished; but the title of an Act has undoubtedly the effect of a constitutional limitation on the franchise, rights, and powers conferred in the body of the Act. (Dobbins v. Northampton, 21 W., 496 499.) If the title is not broad enough to cover the powers conferred in the body of the Act, the Act does not conform to the constitutional requirement, and one of two things necessarily follows, viz.: either that the provisions which are too broad for the title will be held nugatory, and the rest of the Act valid, or else that the whole Act is unconstitutional and void. The test as to which result follows is, does the obnoxious provision of the Act stand by itself, separable as a distinct thing from the body of the Act, and is there any reason to suppose that the portion thus eliminated constituted an essential motive to the enactment of the law. (See Rader v. Township of Union, supra, at page 514; Van Riper v. North Plainfield, 14 Vr., 349, for two cases in which the obnoxious provisions were held separable.) If, therefore, the body of the statute contains any provision purporting to authorize the supplying of other places than Plainfield, Union County, and towns adjoining, with water for public and private use, such provisions are in any case illegal, and if not separable in any way suggested, they would render the charter null and void.

The expressions "towns adjoining" and "adjoining towns" have reference to the towns which were immediately adjacent to the town of Plainfield, without intervening territory of other political divisions. This is the ordinary and natural interpretation of the words. The word "adjoining" was construed in the case of Akers v. United N. J. R. R. Co. (14 Vr., 110, 112.) The question in that case was concerning the right of a railroad corporation to condemn lands "adjoining their road as constructed on their right of way as located." Mr. Justice Dixon read the opinion in the Supreme Court. He said:

"The next question is as to the meaning of the word 'adjoining,' for the Act only authorizes the condemnation of lands adjoining the road, etc. The defendants claim that it means 'near'; the prosecutors that it means 'touching,' 'in contact with.' The latter is the proper signification, and it is the more readily to be adopted in this case, because it thus restricts the grant of eminent domain, which is never to be extended by unnecessary implication. It is, perhaps, true that under this construction the power to condemn will always be limited by the width of the property belonging to the owner of the lands contiguous to the railway, and it may sometimes be convenient for the corporation to take lands that lie beyond; but the Courts do not, for the sake of corporate convenience, regard lands as subject to the exercise of the sovereign power, where the Legislature has not plainly declared them to be so."

See also American Dock & Improvement Co. v. The Trustees of Public Schools (12 Stew., 409, at page 435.)

"5. DOES THE power by that Act granted to the company to take water 'within the County of Union or adjoining counties,' and to store and convey such water 'through the lands, streets, and roads of the town or village of Plainfield and adjoining towns,' authorize the company to take and convey water from any place within those counties outside of 'the town or village of Plainfield and adjoining towns'?"

The act in plain terms describes the limits within which the company is authorized and empowered to take water from any lake, pond, stream, or spring. That territory is described as being the territory "within the County of Union or adjoining counties, except the Rahway River and its branches." If the question is pointed to the fact that there is nothing in the title of the Act to suggest the conferring of power to go outside of Plainfield and towns adjoining in the matter of taking water, the answer is that it was not necessary, as shown by the authorities already cited, to refer in the title to the Act as to the sources of the water supply. Mr. Justice VanSyckel, in the case of Newark v. Orange, already cited, regards a similar proposition as not open to question. In that case it was contended that the Sewerage Act of April 7, 1890 (P. L., page 192)—being the same Act under which the Plainfield system of sewerage is being introduced—was unconstitutional, because, among other things, the title "An Act to provide for drainage and sewerage in cities of this State," did not express the object of the Act, inasmuch as the Act authorizes cities to carry their sewers through other townships and municipalities to tidewater, and the point made was that the title did not sufficiently indicate its purpose to grant the right to invade adjacent territory. After discussing the question at some length the learned Justice concludes that branch of the case in these words:

"If the title of the Sewer Act is not sufficiently particular to validate the legislation on which the ordinance before us rests, then under the title, 'An Act to provide for a water supply in the cities of this State,' it would not be competent to provide for obtaining water ab extra. It appears to me that the title in the one case is quite as suggestive that the Act may provide for carrying the sewage beyond the city boundary as it is in the other that it may permit the water to be conducted from and through adjacent territory into the city. In either case I deem the title to be sufficient to support the legislation, and that a narrower construction is in accord neither with a wise policy nor with the current of judicial decision in this State."

"6. DOES THE grant by the Act referred to, of the right to supply water to 'towns adjoining' Plainfield, authorize the company now to supply water to any place which, at the time of the approval of the Act, was within the limits of a town adjoining Plainfield, but which, by reason of change of boundaries or the creation of new towns, is not now within any town adjoining Plainfield?"

I am of opinion that the powers conferred by the charter under consideration have not been impaired by any subsequent alteration of the boundaries of the political districts of this State. To determine whether the company's charter conferred the right on the company to distribute water for public and private purposes at any given point, the test would be, was that point, at the date of the charter, within the territory covered by the description "town or village of Plainfield and adjoining towns"?

"7. IS THE right of the corporation, under the Act to supply water, limited to the supply of water for public and private use in Plainfield and adjoining towns; and can the corporation lawfully convey water for public or private use to any place outside of Plainfield and adjoining towns?"

To the first inquiry I answer Yes; to the second, No.

Under the charter the right of the company to supply water is limited to the supply of water for public and private use in Plainfield and adjoining towns, as above defined, and under its charter the company cannot lawfully convey water for public or private use to any place outside of Plainfield and adjoining towns. This I take to be plain meaning of the language of the company's charter, and, as Vice-Chancellor Van Fleet declared in National Trust Company v. Miller (Stew., 155 162):

"It is a cardinal rule of the law of corporations that a corporation created by statute can exercise no power and has no rights except such as are expressly given or necessarily implied." (Citing cases.) "This rule, for a long time, has formed part of our statutory system." (R. S., 136, sec. 3; Rev., 177, sec. 3; Trenton, etc., Ins. Co. v. McKeleway, 1 Beas., 133.) "Nor can the powers of a corporation be in the slightest degree enlarged or extended by the assent of its stockholders or by any action they may take." The learned Vice-Chancellor adds: "While it must be admitted that this country has not received the sanction of every judge who has been called upon to enforce it, yet I think it is now vouched for by such august authority and is so manifestly supported by sound reason and the highest considerations of policy, that it must hereafter be accepted, universally, as expressing the true rule of judgment in such cases."

"8. DOES THE power granted by the Act 'to take water from any lake, pond, stream, or spring within the County of Union, or adjoining counties, except the Rahway River and its branches,' authorize the company to take water from any underground stream or body of water by means of wells sunken for the purpose?"

The answer to this question must be in the affirmative. The Legislature did not undertake to specify the means by which the company should obtain water, whether by wells or otherwise, but gave the broad power to "take water from any lake, pond, stream, or spring within the County of Union or adjoining counties, except the Rahway River and its branches." These words are broad enough to authorize the company to take water by wells or otherwise from streams, underground or surface, or from any other body of water coming within the description "lake, pond, stream, or spring," within the territory mentioned, except the Rahway River and its branches.

"9. CAN THE company, by means of wells sunken within Plainfield or any adjoining town, lawfully take and divert and convey to any place outside of Plainfield and adjoining towns for public or private use water from any stream or body of water flowing or existing beneath the soil of Plainfield or any adjoining town, to such extent as to lessen the flow of surface streams in Plainfield or diminish the supply available for municipal purposes by means of wells sunken by the city, or otherwise, or to any what extent, and upon what conditions can the same be so taken and diverted and conveyed?"

I am clearly of the opinion that the company cannot lawfully take and divert and convey to any place outside of Plainfield and adjoining towns water for public or private use, whether from streams on the surface or streams under ground, or from any other body of water, to any extent whatever, and this irrespective of the question whether Plainfield's supply would be damaged much or little, or not at all. As before stated in this connection, the limit of the company's powers is to be found in its charter, and there is nothing in its charter to authorize the company to do any of the things suggested in the ninth question (National Trust Co. v. Miller, supra.)

"10. IS ANY right or interest of the city in respect of water which may be taken from beneath the surface of the ground in Plainfield or any adjoining town dependent upon or affected by the circumstances that the body from which it is taken is an underground stream flowing from beyond the limits of those towns, or is the result of percolation through the soil, and, if so, how and to what extent?"

This question cannot be satisfactorily answered in all its phases without first determining the character of the "underground stream" referred to. No description of this body of water has been laid before me, nor have I any independent knowledge of its character or extent—that is to say, as to whether the underground source of supply consists of a lake, a pond, a stream, with known and fixed flow and channel or otherwise, or water that has percolated through the soil, and is contained in more or less saturated sand or gravel. I understand that some data on this question have been obtained, but they are not set forth in the question propounded, nor have I any knowledge of their character. Under these circumstances I can only give the general principles of law applicable to the several possible conditions, and leave the law to be applied when the actual conditions are made known.

If it can be shown that the underground stream referred to has a known and well-defined channel, with a regular and constant flow of water, the law of surface streams applies, and any unlawful interruption or diversion thereof may be restrained by injunction (Haldeman v. Bruckhart, 45 Penn St., 514; Dudden v. Guardians of the Poor, 1 H. & N., 627; Grand Junction Canal Co. v. Shugar, L. R., 6 Ch. App, 483. See also 2 Washburn on Real Property, 355; Smith v. Adams, 6 Paige, 435; Wheatley v. Baugh, 25 Pa. St., 528; Whetstone v. Bowser, 29 Pa. St., 59). These cases hold that a stream of water flowing underground, having known channel and outlet, is subject to the same rules and restrictions as streams flowing on the surface of the earth. The burden of proof is on him who alleges that the underground stream has such a known channel and outlet (Hansom v. McCue, 42 Cal., 303; Moiser v. Caldwell, 7, Nev., 363.) The case of Haldeman v. Bruckhart, above cited, was one in which the plaintiffs, a mining corporation, in developing their mine, excavated a tunnel into the side of the mountain. In so doing, they struck a large and valuable stream of water, which was a source of great revenue to them. The defendants also excavated a tunnel from a point some distance away to a point directly under the stream of water, and the result was that the whole stream of water was diverted into the defendants' tunnel, and by them appropriated to their own use. This was held to be an unlawful diversion by the defendants, which entitled the plaintiffs to an injunction.

If it can be shown that the underground stream in question is of the character last above referred to, the question would remain, what rights over such a stream were given to the Plainfield Water Supply Company by its charter, and the answer is, only such rights as they would have in a surface stream—that is to say, the right to take the waters thereof by purchase or condemnation under the power of eminent domain.

If, on the other hand, it should be made to appear that the subterranean water in question does not flow in any definite channel, or does not flow at all in the ordinary sense, but oozes through the soil according to the quantity of rain that may chance to fall, the weight of authority is that the owner of the soil may deal with it as he pleases, and turn it wholly to his own use (see cases cited in 3 Waite's Actions and Defenses, page 713, sec. 10).

An instructive New Jersey decision directly in point is the case of Ocean Grove v. Asbury Park reported in 13 Stew. Eq., page 447. In that case the Ocean Grove Camp Meeting Association applied for an injunction, and showed by their bill the following facts: Fifteen years previously they purchased a large tract of land fronting on the ocean chiefly for the purpose of a summer resort and to exercise the right of worship. The place soon became densely populated. To preserve the good health of the residents and visitors, it became necessary to improve the water supply and sewerage system. To this end, the complainants bored for water on their own grounds, and at a depth of over four hundred feet struck water which gave them a flow of fifty gallons per minute at an elevation above the surface of twenty-eight feet. With this water, which they carried to the city by means of pipes, they supplied about seventy hotels and cottages, and flushed their sewers. The volume of water continued to flow undiminished in quantity and with unabated force until the action of the defendants against which the complaint was made.

The adjoining community of Asbury Park found difficulty in procuring sufficient water for municipal purposes by sinking wells upon their own lands, and thereupon they obtained from owners of certain Ocean Grove property a right to sink a shaft into the public highway in Ocean Grove within five hundred feet of the complainants' well. This bore extended to the depth of four hundred and sixteen feet, and by means of it a flow of water was secured at the rate of thirty gallons per minute, and the flow from the complainants' well was almost immediately decreased from fifty gallons to thirty gallons per minute. The Asbury Park authorities proposed to sink other wells still nearer the complainants'. The bill of complaint prayed that the Asbury Park authorities be prohibited from so doing, and that they be compelled to close the well already opened, which, it was alleged, was supplied from the same source that the complainants' well was supplied from.

Vice-Chancellor Bird decided this case in 1885, and in the course of his opinion said:

"The complainants are first, in point of time. They are upon their own land and premises. They procure water from their own soil to be used in connection with their said premises, in the improvement and beneficial enjoyment of their occupation.

"In this they have exercised an indefeasible and unqualified right. It matters not whether the water which they obtain is from a pond or underground basin, or only the result of percolation, or from a flowing stream. The defendants went from their own land upon the land of strangers, and obtained permission to bore for water, and there sink their shaft, procuring water from the same source that the complainants procured their water, and diverted it and carried it to their premises, three-eighths of a mile, for use.

"Can they be restrained from doing this? A very careful consideration of a great many authorities leads me to the conclusion that they cannot at the instance of the complainant (citing cases).

"The Courts all proceed upon the ground that waters thus used and diverted are waters which percolate through the earth, and are not distinguished by any certain and well defined stream, and, consequently, are the absolute property of the owner of the fee as completely as are the ground, stones, minerals, or other matter, to any depth whatever beneath the surface. The one is just as much the subject of use, sale, or diversion as the other. The owner of a mine encounters innumerable drops of water escaping from every crevice and fissure; these, when collected, interfere with his progress, and he may remove them, although the spring or well of the land owner below be diminished or destroyed. So, the owner or owners of a bog, marsh, or meadow may sink wells therein and carry off the water collected in them, to the use or enjoyment of a distant village or town, although the waters of a large stream upon the surface be thereby so diminished as to injure a mill owner who had enjoyed the use of the waters of the stream for many years. Upon these principles there can be no doubt but that every lot owner in Ocean Grove or Asbury Park could sink a well on his lot to any depth, and in case one should deprive his neighbor of a portion or all of his supposed treasure, no action would lie. A moment's reflection will enable every one to perceive that such conditions or contingencies are necessarily incident to the ownership of the soil.

"In the case before me there is no proof that the waters in question are taken from a stream, and I have no right to presume that they are. The presumption is the other way.

"It seems to be my very plain duty to discharge the order to show cause, without costs." (Citing authorities.)

"11. ARE THE franchises and rights and powers by the Act granted to the company exclusive?"

The answer is Yes, subject to the qualification that other water companies may now become incorporated under general laws, and thereby become possessed of similar powers, and subject to the other qualifications contained in the answers to the next question (No. 12.)

In Elizabethtown Gas Light Co. v. Green (supra), Vice-Chancellor VanFleet, in speaking of a decision of the Court of last resort in this State, said:

"The latter Court held that every grant of a franchise is, in its very nature, exclusive against everybody but the State, and that an attempt by a person to exercise a like franchise, without legislative authority, to the detriment of the grantee, is a public nuisance. Chief Justice Beasley, in delivering the opinion of the Court, expressed the judgment of the Court on this point, in this language: 'When, therefore, the complainants obtained from the State the right to establish their road, I think that, by the intrinsic force of such grant, such franchise was exclusive against all persons but the State. A competing road, set up without legislative license, is a fraud upon such grant, and is a plain public nuisance. The consequence is, that the case of the complainants, in my opinion, does not, necessarily rest upon the express clause in their charter guaranteeing to them an exclusive privilege. After January 1, 1869, when the effect of this clause will be spent, the defendants, as at present constituted, will have no greater right than they now have to establish a line of railroad to compete in business with the complainants between the cities of New York and Philadelphia.' (2 C. E., Gr. 572.)"

"12. IS THE City of Plainfield, by reason of the contract heretofore entered into with the company referred to, estopped from questioning the validity of the Act by which the company was incorporated, or the exercise by the company of any of the franchises, rights, or powers granted thereby, or claimed to exist thereunder, or deprived of the power to obtain a supply of water for any municipal purpose through means other than the instrumentalities of the company?"

If the city should be sued for hydrant service furnished by the company under its contract with the city, it is doubtful whether the city would not be estopped from setting up, in that action, defenses alleging invalidity of the company's charter or invalidity of the exercise of the company's franchises. But this is hardly material, since it is quite clear that even if such defenses would be available as to the express contract, the city would still be held liable under an implied contract to pay for what it had expressly ordered and the benefit of which it had already enjoyed (see 2 Dillon, Municipal Corp., 4th Ed., sec. 930, and note).

It is equally clear in my opinion that, apart from liability to pay for service actually performed by the company and accepted by the city, the contract in question does not estop the city from invoking any remedy based upon the alleged unconstitutionality of the company's charter, or any alleged illegal act of the company in the exercise of its franchises, rights or powers. Furthermore, any taxpayer of the city, who has not been barred by laches, would be at liberty, under the precedent established in the case of State, Lewis, Pros. v. Moore et als., already cited, to have the validity of the contract reviewed by the Supreme Court on certiorari. In such a proceeding, the question of the constitutionality of the company's charter would be open to review, if the Court should follow the precedent referred to.

To the other inquiry in question No. 12, I answer that the City of Plainfield is not by the contract in question deprived of the power to obtain a supply of water for any municipal purposes through means other than the instrumentalities of the said company. See P. L., 1888, page 366, for an Act authorizing the Common Council of any city to make or enter into a contract or agreement with any water company or other company, contractor or contractors, for one year or a term of years (not longer than twenty-five years in any one term) for the obtaining and furnishing of a supply, or a further or other supply of water to such municipal corporation, for the purpose of extinguishing fire, and for such other lawful purpose or purposes as may be deemed necessary and convenient.

See also Rev. Supp., page 650, for a general act applicable to Plainfield, whereby another water company may (if the city consent) be formed, with necessary powers to use streets of the city, to acquire land, etc., by exercise of the right of eminent domain, and to sell and dispose of water, etc.

There are also other public Acts whereby the City of Plainfield may construct its own water-works and supply water for municipal purposes, as well as for private consumption, which Acts may readily be found by referring to the appropriate title in the Revision, Revision Supplement, and the pamphlet laws since the year 1876.

"13. IF THE city possesses any right which has been or is infringed by the company, what remedy has the city therefor, and what action or judicial proceeding or other means can be lawfully taken to establish and protect such right?"

This question has been mainly answered in the answers already given to the preceding questions. If the alleged unlawful acts constitute or cause a public nuisance, the remedy is by indictment; if they make out a case of irreparable injury, the remedy is by bill and information in equity in the name of the Attorney-General at the relation of the city. Before such a bill could be filed, it would be necessary to procure the consent of the Attorney-General to the use of his name, but this would offer no serious obstacle, as the Attorney-General would unquestionably consent to the use of his name if he thought the case a proper one for submission to the Court. If the alleged unlawful acts injure the property or rights of the city, but not to the extent of creating a public nuisance or so as to make the injury irreparable, the remedy is by action in tort or by other common law action; if such acts relate merely to the organization of the company, or if they consist of alleged breach of conditions imposed by the company's charter, or in the exercise of its franchises in a manner not authorized by its charter, or in usurpation of powers or franchises, or other acts ultra vires, not producing a public nuisance or irreparable injury or special damage, the remedy is by scire facias or quo warranto, to dissolve the corporation or forfeit its charter to be instituted by the Attorney-General ex officio.

FOR PLAINFIELD'S PROGRESS.

PLAINFIELD, N. J., JAN. 21, 1895

The Westfield Standard, anxious to say a good word for Senator Voorhees, gives him an honor that he does not merit, in stating that he bolted the Sewell caucus. As a fact, the benign Foster voted for Sewell, and the Voorhees who bolted was the Assemblyman from Bergen. When Pearsall ventures out of the Westfield woods he needs a compass.

The unwisdom of printing pamphlets for the circulation of important public documents is shown by the heap of junk in the City Treasurer's office composed chiefly of the copies of the book issued in 1893 containing the Mayor's message and the annual reports of the city government. The people paid for the job, and it was money that should have been expended with the newspapers of the town in giving thorough circulation to the reports and message. The newspapers reach the people; the pamphlets reach chiefly the junkman, and form a costly library that he does not appreciate.

The complete publication in this issue of the report of the Councilmanic Committee on the water-supply investigation is a characteristic piece of enterprise on the part of The Daily Press. The people have been demanding to see all that the committee said; and since the Council would not authorize the legitimate expense of official publication except in limited-edition pamphlet form, The Press decided to do the work of popular publication, and to put a copy into every house, store and office in the city and borough. Hereafter no one can plead ignorance of the matters of grave importance contained in the report now published.

It is the fashion for all Plainfield to read The Daily Press every day, but some there be who borrow and not subscribe. To all such The Press suggests a trial subscription of one week. For 10 cents a week the faithful carrier of any section will leave the paper at the door, and those who wish to keep thoroughly informed on the world's progress will find The Press an unfailing guide. Besides giving the complete local news it summarizes the despatches of the entire globe, and provides a feast of the best and freshest literature. Its copyrighted stories from the pens of the favorite living authors are a feature unapproached by any other Plainfield paper. The town's leading merchants keep its advertising columns filled with the latest news of trade, and altogether the Plainfield Daily Press is so unexcelled a home newspaper that that Plainfield home is cheerless and incomplete which does not read it regularly.

COUNCILMAN FROST REPLIES.

Concerning Alleged Misstatements in the Report on the Water-Supply.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE DAILY PRESS:—When the Committee on Water and Sewers was instructed to prepare a reply to that portion of the Mayor's message of 1894 relating to the future water supply of Plainfield and the legal rights of the citizens of Plainfield regarding it, the Committee did not consider the commission a mere perfunctory one and that a statement from the Plainfield Water Supply Company showing number of gallons of water pumped during one or two years past, together with a quotation from the Company's Comprehensive Charter, showing how absolutely in possession of the territory it was, would be all that was expected by the citizens of Plainfield on this interesting subject.

Concerning the legal rights of the city, a series of questions covering, so far as was deemed necessary, the whole subject, was prepared by an eminent lawyer and submitted to our very clever Corporation Counsel, with the result as shown in the report, which can be judged on its own merits by the citizens of Plainfield. If the Committee, by provoking criticism, as it desires to do, succeeds in gaining additional light upon the legal methods of the Plainfield Water Supply Company it is thankful; meanwhile it disclaims any other purpose than a sincere desire to accomplish that for which its inquiry was instituted.

Concerning that portion of the report which relates to the purely physical conditions of our water supply, a method quite similar to that employed by the Corporation Counsel was pursued, viz: Consulting the most competent known authorities on the subject of subterranean water-supply and recording the results with special application to the local conditions. While Frank Bergen's qualifications as a "pipelayer" both in Union County and at Trenton were thoroughly recognized, yet the Committee regrets to say that up to the time of completing its report it had seen no evidence upon which to place Mr. Bergen on the list of competent authorities to be consulted, and nothing in his published utterances since has given any reason for a change of opinion. Among the authorities consulted are the following:

Minutes of Evidence taken before the Royal Commission on London Water Supply, 1892, 4 volumes with maps.

In addition to these the levels of the Plainfield fire wells, and of a number of other wells between Richmond street and Scotch Plains and Fanwood were taken several times during the last half of the year; inquiries of well borers were made, and several visits were made to the Water Company's pumping station. The results of these labors are shown on the sectional map prepared by A. J. Gavett from information gained.

Among the authorities quoted attention is called to the paper by Mr. Tribus, who was the resident engineer during the construction of the water-works and whose paper was prepared from personal knowledge. It is a very favorable exhibit of the underground resources of the Water Supply Company and is probably a familiar document to Mr. Bergen. Mr. Tribus says (page 377):

"During the long continued dry weather of 1891, the water level became so low that difficulty arose with the extreme suction lift obtained from 20 to 28 feet., according to rate of pumping, a fall of some 6 or 7 feet, since the earlier observations, so that in the Summer of 1892 it was deemed best to lower the pumps which was done to the depth of 8 ft. 1 in. below the former positions."

Chas. B. Brush, engineer-in-chief for the Water Supply Company, said, in discussing the paper of Mr. Tribus:

"The year in which the work was done was a wet one; there had been a considerable fall of rain and it was believed that the level of the water in the ground would remain practically constant, but the first year after the supply was put in use happened to be very dry. That indicates that the supply was not inexhaustible. The ground-water fell to a considerable depth below what was supposed to be its permanent level. That necessitated the lowering of the pumps some 8 ft., after the works had been in operation a couple of years."

But neither engineer refers to any "mistake" in locating the pumps, as Mr. Bergen now makes capital of.

The report did not give 10 feet as the thickness of the water bearing gravel of the Netherwood wells; it allowed 25 feet; the profile shows the character of the strata in which the wells are driven—the number, 10 feet, is given as an average over five square miles, and Mr. Bergen nor any other man can say positively that it is an understatement; if it is too small, double or quadruple it; there is no objection, since it does not alter the principle of ultimate exhaustion of the water bearing gravel if more is drawn out than is taken in by percolation from the annual rainfall.

Concerning the possible pollution of the water there is no reason to alter the language of the report, and indeed from first to last the statements of the report are reiterated with the request, however, that it be subjected to intelligent criticism in the interest of the public good and not of personal gain or petty malice. Sooner or later a vastly increased population of Union County and "Adjoining townships" of Plainfield will necessitate vastly increased drafts upon our available uncontaminated watershed, and it is very proper that this flourishing city of ours should inquire in season "What is it going to do about it?" REMOVAL.

Dr. Lighthill begs leave to give notice that he has removed to

Dr. Lighthill refers with pardonable pride to the success of his practice in Plainfield and submits below a few of the many testimonials which he has received from grateful patients. A mass of similar ones can be seen at his office.

AN ALMOST MIRACULOUS CURE.

The Statement of Mr. Edward Teel, Jr., of Dunellen, N. J.

TO THE PUBLIC:

From a sense of duty I desire to call public attention to the almost miraculous cure which Dr. Lighthill effected in the case of my wife. For eleven years she had been afflicted with piles of an unusual severe and distressing character. She suffered every day of her life the most intense pain, attended with frequent and profuse hemorrhage. This state of things debilitated her entire system until she became a perfect wreck of her former self.

We made every effort to obtain a cure but they all resulted in bitter disappointment, although a number of physicians of excellent reputations for skill in that direction had treated her case. She grew worse and worse all the time, the pain became perfectly unbearable and I felt she could not bear the strain of her condition much longer. In this extremity, a friend of mine, Mr. W. B. Dilts, a resident of Roselle, N. J., a passenger conductor on the New Jersey Central told me that he had been similarly affected, and had been permanently cured by Dr. Lighthill, after other medical skill had failed. He assured me that the doctor would cure my wife, no matter how severe her case may be, and his prediction proved perfectly correct. In spite of her desperate condition, Dr. Lighthill, I am glad to say, has effected a complete and perfect cure in her case, and has given her new life.

Since the cure has been effected she has gained in health and strength and is so improved in appearance that her friends scarcely recognise her. They all consider her cure as almost miraculous, and Dr. Lighthill's praise is heard on every side. Our gratitude to Dr. Lighthill is unbounded and we only hope that other sufferers may be benefited by this publication.

EDWARD TEEL, JR.

A Flattering Testimonial from Colonel John Dietrich, One of Plainfield's Oldest and Best Known Residents.

16 ARLINGTON PLACE,
Plainfield, N. J., July 17, 1894.

I am profoundly grateful to Dr. Lighthill for his speedy and radical cure of a most painful malady of over ten years standing with which I was afflicted.

I deem it proper to say to all afflicted to place themselves under the care of this skilful physician and be permanently cured.

I will cheerfully impart any information I possess when called upon.

JOHN DIETRICH.

Mr. Thomas Callahan of No. 214 Richmond street Cured of a Very Distressing Trouble by Dr. Lighthill.

PLAINFIELD, N. J., June 1, 1894.

TO THE PUBLIC:

For some time past I have been greatly distressed with noises in the head. They were all over my head and troubled me constantly; they were loudest at night when everything was quiet and at such times would often keep me from sleep and disturb my rest. In fact they got to be so bad and distressing that they affected my whole nervous system as well as my health. I did not obtain the least relief until I placed myself under the care of Dr. Lighthill, of No. 132 Crescent avenue, who effected a complete cure in my case in a short time and made me a very happy man.

THOMAS CALLAHAN,
214 Richmond street.

A Card From Mr. T. R. VanZandt, of Nos 304 and 306 Park ave., Plainfield, N. J.

I certify with pleasure that Dr. Lighthill has effectually cured me of a most painful case of piles. For some time past I had been subject to its attacks, but the last attack was so exceedingly painful that it completely upset my whole system. The pain extended to my legs and in many other directions, and made me so nervous that I could neither sleep, sit down, lie down or move about without serious discomfort and distress. Such was my condition when I applied to Dr. Lighthill for relief, and I am glad to say that as soon as he took hold of my case, I began to improve, and in a short time found myself completely cured. Dr. Lighthill has also effected a radical and permanent cure in a most terrible case of piles on my cousin, Mr. J. V. Z Griggs, of Rocky Hill, N. J., whose flattering testimonial is in Dr. Lighthill's possession.

The reader of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer $100 for any case that it fails to cure.

A CORN-CURE THAT CURES CORNS.

We have never said much about our Corn Cure—though it is one of the best made—because the market is full of cures, so-called. But such positive testimony to its merits has recently been volunteered that we feel justified in "talking up" this little specialty. Our COLLOID CORN CURE is easily applied, gives relief quickly, and will cure every case of Corns, hard or soft, that can be cured, if used as directed. Sold in square vials with brush for applying. Reply to John Clacy.

In reply to the statement of John Clacy in The Press of last night that the story was untrue that he had a wife and family in England, I would state that I have left at the office of The Press for the inspection of all interested, a copy of the photograph of himself and wife, and have abundant proof that he has a wife and family in England. The family consists of three children, to my own knowledge, which I can prove.

Vanity

is a virtuous vice. The world is better for it. It makes men ambitious—and it makes women careful of their personal appearance. It doesn't take much money to keep well-dressed now-a-days. Cleaning or dyeing makes it possible to use soiled or faded garments. And there's where our ax comes in. We are in the Cleaning and Dyeing business. Our cleaner is ready, and our dyer has his fall shades mixed.

Ask for our little booklet "Re-Freshing Thoughts." It tells about cleaning men's clothing.

A GHASTLY DISEASE.

Different Doctors Give It Different Names.

The Result Always the Same.—Speedy Death.—Until Recently, Considered Hopeless.—Now, New Methods. Salvation.

Nothing is more alarming than diseases of an ulcerous nature. A continual gnawing away of life-generating tissue, until a vital spot is reached, an artery is severed, or from sheer weakness death ensues.

Especially in Gastritis—ulcers of the stomach—is terrible suffering experienced. The symptoms, though not at first alarming (seemingly a slight attack of indigestion), gradually become worse, so that no nourishment can be retained on the stomach, and unless the trouble-causing ulcer produces death by perforation, the patient

Dies of Starvation.

In Consumption, where the ulcers attack the lungs, the termination is very similar, as it is, in fact, in any of the wasting diseases to which are given various names, according to the organs affected.

By the methods of physicians of to-day thousands of lives are being saved in cases that a few years ago were considered hopeless. The first step now taken to effect a cure is to make new blood and tissue, give the patient strength, and keep him "on the gain" by administering Bovinine.

Bovinine is not a medicine, but a greatly concentrated extract of the most vital elements of lean raw beef. The life-maintaining qualities of this wonderful preparation are simply marvellous. Dr. A. M. Cook, of New Castle, Pa., states that he maintained life in his wife, while suffering from gastric ulcers, for three weeks without giving her anything through the mouth, injecting Bovinine instead.

With such results as this, it is not to be wondered at that Bovinine is indorsed by physicians everywhere, and has become recognized as the greatest factor in saving life, hastening recovery from sickness, and warding off disease, ever given to man.

MORE TROOPS CALLED

The First Brigade Ordered Out by Gov. Morton.

Nearly 8,000 Men Mobilized in Brooklyn to Help the Police Keep Order and Protect Railroad Property—The Mayor Issues a Proclamation to the Citizens.

Brooklyn, N. Y., Jan. 21.—Notwithstanding that the city was under the control of the police and militia all day yesterday, the companies did not succeed in running as many cars as they have during the past few days of the strike. President Lewis still holds that he has not enough protection, while the strikers claim that he and President Norton are only bluffing, and that they have not the available force to run the cars.

Mayor Schieren, after being in consultation all day with both the officers of the road and the labor leaders, and apparently without doing anything to bring the company and strikers closer together, last night issued a proclamation to the citizens of Brooklyn and the public in general, requiring all persons within the limit of the city to refrain from unnecessary assembling in the streets during the present disturbed condition and until quiet is restored, ending his proclamation by exhorting all persons to assist in the observance of his request. Mayor Schieren's proclamation caused much indignation both among the citizens and strikers, because the entire day, considering that between 7,000 and 8,000 men are on strike and that the local transit system was largely suspended in consequence, was passed in a remarkably peaceable manner.

At a consultation yesterday afternoon between Mayor Schieren and Col. Olin, of the staff of Brig.-Gen. Fitzgerald, the colonel was requested by the mayor to return to New York and ask Gov. Morton for more troops. At this request the governor ordered the whole of the First Brigade, which consist of five regiments and two battalions of infantry, two batteries, a troop of cavalry and a signal corps, aggregating 4,710 men.

At 6 o'clock last night the cars which had been operated on the Fifth avenue, Seventh avenue, Ninth avenue and Bergen street lines of the Atlantic avenue system; the Sumner avenue cars of the Brooklyn, Queens county and Suburban system, and the Court street, Fulton street, Putnam avenue and Flatbush avenue lines of the Brooklyn Heights company, stopped running, as none of the lines wanted to risk running cars after dark. The two lines not affected by the strike operated day and night. The troops on guard at all of the car houses and depots during the day were relieved by those who had been on reserve duty. Guards were kept at all of the armories. Brigadier General McLeer was at his headquarters in the hall of records building all day, and held several consultations with Mayor Schieren and with Police Commissioner Welles.

Superintendent of Police Campbell said last evening that the troops of the Second Brigade are practically at the disposal of the police, and are acting as their aids. He said he did not know what disposition would be made of the troops of the First Brigade when they arrive.

Several hundred strikers attended the services at Rev. C. S. Williams' Methodist Episcopal church, Flatbush avenue and Fennimore street, last evening. Mr. Williams said that the men had his sympathy. He advised them to be orderly and hoped for their success.

Meetings of union men in other trades were held during the day and evening in various parts of the city.

The principal disturbance of the day occurred in the vicinity of Broadway and Flushing avenue. Thousands of New Yorkers crossed on the Grand street ferry to the foot of Broadway during the day. There were workingmen, out for their Sunday holiday, who came over to see a scrap or two between strikers and non-union men, and there were toughs who came over to take a hand in any rows that were on. People from all parts of Williamsburg also gathered on Broadway until the sidewalks were a mass of slowly moving people for two miles back from the ferry. There were fully 5,000 persons in the crowd.

About 3 o'clock in the afternoon a trolley car of the Sumner avenue line was besieged by the crowd at Gwinnette street and Broadway. Captain French, of the Sixteenth precinct, who rashly got on the front platform of the car and stood by the motorman, was hit on the nose with a stone thrown from the crowd. His nose was cut slightly, but he refused to go to the station house to have the wound dressed. He remained with the car until Captain Martin and a squad of mounted police forced the crowd back and obtained a semblance of order. The police were reinforced by detachments from half a dozen other precincts, and all the afternoon squads of mounted men, followed by patrolmen on foot, passed up and down Broadway between Flushing avenue and the ferry, keeping the crowds off the car tracks and scattering the people whenever the crowd became congested.

President Lewis, of the Brooklyn Heights company, stated late last night that he expects to operate the Court street, Fulton avenue and Putnam avenue lines this morning and later in the day open other lines. He said he would be governed by the situation at 10 or 12 o'clock. He expects to have fifty miles of roads in operation at noon and it is now the plan of all roads to run cars until midnight. Mr. Lewis said that Mr. Norton expects to operate the Atlantic avenue lines more fully than any day since the strike began. Mr. Wicker's intentions are to start the Reid, Ralph and Sumner avenues lines, but he might forego the attempt to start the first two lines and run only the latter. Mr. Lewis was asked how many cars his company had run during the day. He replied that really he had been too busy to ascertain the exact number, and would not hazard a guess.

There is a possibility of federal troops being asked for in view of the interference with roads which carry the mail.

FORTY WERE DROWNED

The State of Missouri Sunk at Alton, Ind.

Struck a Rock and Went Down in Fifty Feet of Water—The Frantic Efforts of Passengers as They Were Carried Away by the Swift Current of the River.

Owensboro, Ky., Jan. 21.—Brief and fragmentary details of the destruction of the big passenger steamer State of Missouri, at Alton, Ind., 100 miles above here, have been received. She struck a rock and sank in fifty feet of water.

The reports say that at least forty passengers were drowned, but no names are given.

The State of Missouri was a very long stern-wheeler, plying between Cincinnati and New Orleans. She had on board a fairly large cargo of freight and 100 persons including a crew of 60.

At Alton the river narrows, and the water being high an extremely swift current results. This threw the stern of the boat in toward the Indiana shore. Before the pilot could regain control of the boat she hit a rock, tearing a long hole in the hold at the water line.

The shock was terrific and the boat trembled from bow to stern. Consternation seized upon the passengers and in a moment they were frantic.

Without regard to consequences they rushed to the upper decks in the hope of delaying the inevitable, as the boat was rapidly sinking.

Women and children were trampled upon, but it is believed all got out of the cabin. Then the scramble for seats in the yawls began. It was a fight for life, in which many combatants are believed to have gone to their death.

The first yawl launched was sunk within twenty feet of where it struck the water. It is believed every one in it was drowned in sight of the affrighted people huddled together on the sinking steamer.

A second yawl was then pushed off. It contained four women. This is believed to have reached shore. Just when there seemed some hope that by means of this yawl the passengers could be saved, the steamer gave another terrific lurch and literally broke to pieces, and in ten minutes from the moment the rock was struck nothing but the hull remained.

The cabin and the pilot house floated away, dragging down into the water everyone upon it. The lighter freight was washed from the main deck, and on this men, women and children clung as best they could, many, however, only to fall back into the ice-cold water. Several succeeded by this means in getting into the willows and trees, and were rescued by farmers and passing steamers.

On the City of Owensboro, which passed here last night, were four of the passengers who had been rescued from the trees.

Two of them were W. C. Leathers, of Hopkins county, Ky., and Mr. Gregory, of Cave-in-ehe-Rock, Ill. The names of the other two could not be learned.

Mr. Leathers thinks at least 40 people were drowned. He saw four men go under within five feet of him, but the current was so swift he could render no assistance. Mr. Leathers says there were fifteen cabin passengers, thirty deck passengers and a crew of sixty on board.

The steamer Tell City, bound for Louisville, hove in sight yesterday and took most of the survivors to Louisville.

Alton, Ind., where the wreck occurred is thirty miles from a telegraph station, with almost impassable roads. The news secured came by steamers passing here.

The Missouri, it is stated, was well insured. Captain Conlon, master of the vessel, is only 28 years old, but is an experienced river man and very popular.

Had an Apoplectic Fit.

Doylestown, Pa., Jan 21.—Asher Dungan, a butcher, 83 years of age, was found at his residence, just south of the borough, frozen stiff with a number of cuts and bruises on his forehead and his face covered with blood. This first led to a supposition that he had been murdered, but after a post-mortem examination a jury decided that Dungan had an apoplectic fit, after which he had frozen to death.

French Missionaries Expelled.

London, Jan. 21.—The Daily Chronicle correspondent in Rome says: "The documents which Gen. Baratieri seized in Chief Ras Mangascia's tent after the last battle prove that the French Capucians fomented the present native revolt against the Italians. Therefore Gen. Baratieri ordered that all French missionaries be expelled from the territory occupied by the Italians."

Successful Anti-Toxine Treatment.

Bridgeport, Conn., Jan. 21.—A severe case of diphtheria has been successfully treated with anti-toxine here. The son of John McManus, aged 5 years, was stricken Friday. He was given an injection Friday evening, when nearly dead. A second injection was made Saturday, and the child is now out of danger.

Shoe Company Assigns.

Beverly, Mass., Jan. 21.—The news that the Seth Northwood Shoe company had assigned caused great surprise here. The liabilities are not known but a member of the firm intimated them to be between $70,000 and $80,000. The cause of the failure was heavy losses.

Girl Strikers Return to Work.

Reading, Mass., Jan. 21.—The strike of the girls in the shoe factory of E. R. Richardson here is ended, and all the girls, with the exception of four, have returned to work at the old schedule of wages.

Creedon Wins an Easy Victory.

Galveston, Tex., Jan. 21.—Dan Creedon, the Australian middleweight, won an easy victory over Berneau, of Texas, last night, knocking his man out in the second round.

COULD HARDLY BREATHE.

Catarrh of the Nose, Throat, and Stomach—Life Made Miserable by Headaches, Pain and Cough.

Lida McCandless, No. 1230 South Thirtyfifth street, Philadelphia, in conversation with a reporter, said: "I had a very bad case of catarrh of the nose, throat and stomach, with frequent headaches, pain under the shoulder blades and a horrible cough. I had to keep my mouth constantly open day and night to breathe, and felt as miserable as one possibly could. I was advised to try Munyon's Catarrh Cure. I am happy to say that from the beginning I felt relieved and continued to grow better until now I am entirely well. I am so thankful that this remarkable remedy was ever discovered, and hope others will take advantage of my experience."

Have you Catarrh? Are you willing to investigate a treatment that cures Catarrh by removing the cause? If so ask your druggist for a 25c bottle of Catarrh Tablets. The Catarrh Cure will eradicate the disease from the system, and the Tablets will cleanse and heal the affected parts and restore them to a natural and healthful condition.

Munyon's Homœopathic Home Remedy Company, of Philadelphia, put up specifics for nearly every disease, which are sold by all druggists, mostly for 25 cents a bottle.

The WREN in Business

It is characteristic of the Wren that it will sneak in and occupy the nest made by another bird, in preference to building one of its own. This same trait is often seen in business. It is shown by the imitators of

COTTOLENE

No sooner has the wonderful merit of this new vegetable shortening, so much better than lard, created for it a remarkable sale and popularity, than the business wrens are ready to move upon the market with many worthless counterfeits. Any housekeeper can be easily and cheaply convinced of the value of COTTOLENE by simply giving it a trial. They will then be unwilling to go back to lard, or go down to fraudulent imitations.

EARLY INTELLIGENCE.

—The colored concert troupe known as the Nightingales will entertain in Bethel Chapel Feb. 14.

—The cheap crayon portrait manufacturer who recently took rooms in the Schwed Building has vanished.

—The postage-stamp chain has been broken. Miss Brown of Illinois, who wanted 1,000,000, has more than 3,000,000 already.

—The horse that draws Allen's stage fell down this morning on Park avenue and had to be unharnessed before he could rise.

—A special committee meeting of Benate Lodge, K. of H., was held Saturday evening at Doane & Edsall's to audit the 1894 books.

—The Young Ladies Mission Band of the Crescent Avenue Church will hold a cake and candy sale in the church parlors on Saturday, Jan. 26 at 2:30 p. m.

—D. W. Littell is busily engaged on the tinning, plumbing and heating contract recently awarded him for the large residence of Wm. H. Cook of Newark.

—The dialogue, "Swinging on the Gate," given in Monroe Avenue Chapel on January 2, will be repeated Tuesday, January 29. There was music on banjo and guitar.

—While skating on Johnston's pond, Saturday afternoon, Harry Anderson and George Stewart broke through the ice. They reached the shore with nothing more serious than a wetting.

—The lathe and other tools at J. G. Daniel's Plainfield manual training school are being kept very busy by the pupils making pretty little souvenirs to be given away at their reception January 24.

—"Hark, Hark, My Soul" was excellently sung by a male quartette, Messrs. Robert and Edward Clark, F. S. Cutter and A. J. Moore, in the Trinity Reformed Church last evening, during the offering.

—The men's meeting at the Y. M. C. A. yesterday was the largest yet held in the new building. The address by Capt. Morrison on the coastliness of service deserves special mention. The solos, with autoharp accompaniment, were also very effective.

—While Noah Terry of Cushing road was engaged in killing pigs on his farm Friday was severely bitten through the left hand by one of them. The animal already had its throat cut, and its jaws had to be pried open to release Mr. Terry's then lacerated hand.

—The special sale inaugurated by Doane & Edsall Saturday evening was so successful that these sales will be made a regular Saturday night feature, some special line of goods being sold at actual cost on each occasion to attract the public to this leading footwear establishment.

Netherwood Hotel Furniture Not to Be Sold.

For the benefit of the insurance companies who have policies on hotel and contents, and the people who are laboring under the impression that everything in the hotel is to be sold, I wish to say that the notice of an auction at the hotel tomorrow has seemed to give a false impression unintentionally. All there is to be sold is a few articles of the "Hotel Netherwood Co." which is an entire separate organization from the hotel and its contents which belong to Chas. Hyde and is in no way affected by the sale.

J. F. MACDONALD,
Agt. for Chas. Hyde.

Organizing a Choir.

T. G. Smith, formerly of the Boston Conservatory of Music, who is the new organist and musical director of the Crescent Avenue Church, was met by a number of the vocalists of the parish in the church parlors, Saturday afternoon, who gathered for the purpose of forming a new chorus choir. Mr. Smith expresses much pleasure at the number of excellent voices which he had to select from and hopes at no far distant day to have a choir second to none in the city.

The Parish Lyceum.

A meeting of the Clinton Avenue Lyceum will be held Tuesday evening, Jan. 22, at 8, in the Parish House of the Church of the Heavenly Rest. Every member is earnestly requested to be present, and also those interested, as important business is to be brought before the Lyceum.

Bucklen's Arnica Salve.

The best salve in the world for cuts, bruises, sores, ulcers, salt rheum, fever sores, tetter, chapped hands, chilblains, corns and all skin eruptions, and positively cures piles or no pay required. It is guaranteed to give perfect satisfaction or money refunded. Price 25c. per box. For sale by L. W. Randolph, Druggist.

Not a Forfeit.

The Institute bowlers did not forfeit a game by their failure to appear at the C. Y. M. L. alleys Friday evening, as stated in another paper. The position of the clubs in the race is not affected as the game was to be an exhibition game, not a league contest.

Costly Circuit.

It transpires that all but two of the borough fire-alarm boxes, and all of the coils, were burned out by the electric-light wire contact.

The Missing Found.

John Hennessy of North avenue, Netherwood, who mysteriously disappeared, is home again. He was seized with pneumonia and taken to Bellevue Hospital.

PERTINENT TO PLAINFIELD.

Sample of What Might Happen Here, According to the Councilmanic Committee's Report.

(From Crecs & Howell's Report on the Additional Water Supply for Newark.)

A good illustration of the effect of a constant draught in permanently lowering the level of the ground water is afforded by the well in Prospect Park, Brooklyn, N. Y The well was constructed in 1869

The elevation of water table as first found, November, 1868, was 15.6 feet above tide level. Elevation of water table, May, 1869, 15.2 feet above tide level. Elevation of water table on completion of well, December, 1869 14.55 above tide level.

Pumping began regularly on June 5, 1870; the effect has been as follows:

Year	Average number of gallons per day.	Average elevation of water table.
1870	300,000	14.15
1871	272,000	13.03
1872	437,000	10.56
1873	288,000	11.29
1874	333,000	10.70
1875	294,000	9.83
1876	235,000	9.83
1877	252,000	9.21

It seems here that an average draught of only 304,000 gallons per day has lowered the water table five feet in eight years, and also that the yield is diminishing, for while in 1873 a daily draught of 288,000 gallons permitted the water table to rise five inches, in 1876 a draught of 235,000 gallons was just equal to the supply, and in 1877 a draught of 252 000 gallons again lowered the water.

Independently of the manifest insufficiency of this mode of supply, serious objection is to be made to it in the case of Newark, in that the gathering-ground must necessarily be in a region where the population will rapidly increase, and for many years the water will be exposed to the worst possible contaminations, the drainage from privies and cesspools. A district which is growing, and as yet not supplied with sewers, furnishes the most unwholesome water that can be used. The shallowness of the earth over the rock makes it certain that any well supply will be fou.

May Revive the Coaching.

A rumor, which had its birth in Philadelphia is going the rounds that the coaching route between Philadelphia and New York, by way of Plainfield, which attracted so much attention last season, will be re-established. A Quaker City coaching enthusiast is quoted as saying: "There are no prospects that the New York Coaching Club will do anything. Over there the coaching club exists in name only, and here is a chance for Philadelphia again to come to the front."

The members of the New York Coaching Club have given no thoughts to taking up these trips. Prescott Lawrence said that the "subject had never entered his mind". Another member of the club said: "I never heard that we intended to establish the route, but if the Philadelphia people wish to go ahead, I presume the New York club would willingly co-operate. My memories of the trip are that the ride is too long and dusty to be pleasant. Shorter trips are far more enjoyable."

This Perfect Board Perpetual.

The annual congregational meeting for the election of trustees and the transaction of other business was held in the Crescent Avenue Church last evening.

During the evening the financial condition of the church was discussed, and found to be eminently satisfactory.

The old trustees were re-elected as follows: Charles Place, president; Harry James, Ephriam Miller, Isaac W. Bushmore, J. K. Myers; William Arnold, secretary and treasurer.

The congregation are so highly pleased with the board that they have no desire to make any change, and would not let any of them insist on resigning.

Fun for the Boys.

Sixty members of the Boys Club enjoyed last Saturday's entertainment. They were delighted with the performance of Samuel W. Waldron of New York, on the autoharp, piano and bones, and roundly applauded him again and again. The Silver Leaf Quartette also gave great delight by their fine singing, while the jig dancing of two of its members was, as one boy said, "bully".

Next Saturday night a novel feature in the entertainment line will be introduced, which is sure to captivate the boys. A large attendance is looked forward to.

In a Little Corner.

The House Committee of the Scotch Plains Public Library, a report of which was given in the Plainfield papers last week, will give an afternoon tea at the Library rooms Friday afternoon, Jan. 27. Mrs Thomae of Bound Brook will read a paper, entitled "In a Little Corner with a Little Book". All interested in the Library are cordially invited.

Fell Into Parody.

An insecure pedestrian, wending her way over the icy streets yesterday morning, might have been heard saying:

Little piles of sawdust,
Little grains of sand,
Make the slippery pavement
So that folks can stand.

THE PARK BOWLERS' RECORD SCORE.

They Walk Right Away from the Roselle Casino Team, Setting the Pace from the Start to the Wire, and Making a Garrison Finish.

Last evening's league contest on the Park alleys between the home team and the Roselle bowlers was one of the most interesting games of the entire series, and the weather which would naturally be looked upon as a hoodoo was a mascot for the Parks who came up smiling at the call of time and outpointed their adversaries from start to finish, keeping Walter Murray, who held the bottle in their corner, busy during the entire ten rounds marking strikes and spares to their credit.

Captain Matthews was unavoidably absent from the alleys and Dr. Thiers temporarily filled his place. Whenever the genial doctor stepped from his corner he did nothing but make strikes and spares, and it did n't seem to trouble him the least bit in the world; all he counted was 212—five strikes and five spares without a single break—and the boys, well, they simply fell all over him as he kept the pace up to the end.

The score of the Parks was the largest ever made by them, and is not many pins under the record score of the entire league. The game throughout was replete with brilliant plays, and it was most unfortunate that the weather was such as to keep many enthusiasts in doors for the evening. The score:

Off Its Trolley.

Car No. 6 of the Front street trolley line had quite a lively trip this morning. It was inclined to be gay when it left the car house for the down trip, but Conductor Jesse Hetfield decided to make the run and things went fairly well until Grove street was reached, when in some manner the current was "short circuited", and the lower part of the car began to blaze in a lively manner. The trolley was at once released and the circuit cut, the passengers finishing their trip on foot and the smoking car stood quietly in front of Peck's until the car following came to "push it along".

Growth of Grace.

There was a delightful company of earnest people at Grace M. E. Church last night, notwithstanding the very unfavorable weather. Mr. Randolph developed the thought that true Christians are living epistles, known and read of all men. The hour passed quickly, with hearty singing, short voluntary prayers and interesting testimonies. The meetings will continue during the week.

Singing School.

It has been proposed by some of the Congregational people to start an old-fashioned singing school for instruction in sight reading and the practice of part songs. Invitation has been given to all interested to meet at the close of the prayer meeting tomorrow evening, and talk over arrangements. Others than members of the congregation will be welcomed.

CHICKEN THIEVES.

Marshal Pangborn Makes a Skilful Capture—Both Prisoners Held.

The case of the State against William Deane and Edward Drake, on complaint of M. Stites, came up before Justice Crosley this morning at 10.

The complainant charges that five chickens were stolen from his coop Saturday evening, Jan. 12. He placed the matter in the hands of Chief Marshal Pangborn, who with his usual skill succeeded in capturing the guilty persons.

Lawyer DeMeza appeared for Deane and Drake, while Marshal Pangborn looked after the interest of Stites.

Stites was put on the stand and stated that he owned nine chickens; that they were all in the coop Saturday afternoon at 4. On Sunday morning about 8 he went to the yard and found only four.

Edward Drake was called next and proved to be an unwilling witness, refusing to give any information, in spite of the fact that he voluntarily had made a statement disclosing his entire whereabouts at the time in question. His counsel refused to let him answer any question of importance.

Policeman Lines stated that Drake had previously made confession. Albert Brown, Drake's employer, was put on the stand, but knew little of the case.

Mrs. Barry said that she found four chickens in her coal box, and that Deane had brought them in the house for the purpose of cooking them, which she did, Deane having told her that he won them at a raffle.

Drake was again put on the stand and additional information was obtained.

Lawyer DeMeza then asked for a dismissal of the case as far as Drake was concerned, but the justice did not grant his request.

William Deane as principal in the crime was held in $150 bail for the Grand Jury, and Edward Drake, as an accomplice, in the sum of $100.

Marshal Pangborn deserves great credit for the way in which he has handled the case. Even after an attempt was made to get Stites out of the way, he defeated the efforts, and waited till midnight at the Barry home, when he had the house surrounded and the fugitive hunted out.

TRIBUTE TO UNCLE PETER.

(From The Sabbath Recorder.)

Peter Wooden was born in Plainfield, N. J., May 24, 1800. He died Jan. 14, 1895, in the ninety-fifth year of his age. April 28, 1825, he was married to Rachel, daughter of Nehemiah Randolph, who died Oct. 11, 1837. In 1840, March 22, he married Margarett Cory, who died March 22, 1890, the date of their "Golden Wedding." Bro. Wooden united with the Seventh-Day Baptist Church of Plainfield, by baptism, Feb. 11, 1843; being baptized by Rev. David Clawson. He was a man of simple habits, in which economy, humility, and honesty held the first place. He was loyal to all his church relations, and always at the house of God on the Sabbath unless detained on account of sickness. His life embodied quiet, but genuine Christian faith and character in an eminent degree. He was "Uncle Peter" to a large circle of acquaintances and friends; enemies he could not have.

He passed the last day on earth in usual avocations about his home. During the afternoon he visited a neighboring place of business in his usual pleasant way. Just at nightfall he came in from attending to little duties about the place and sat down by the stove for warmth and rest. A little later those sitting in the adjoining room heard him fall from his chair. His warm heart, under the strain of more than ninety-four years, had come to its final rest without pain or struggle.

Spiritually, "Uncle Peter" was ripe, waiting for the call, ready and fully fitted to enter into the rest that remaineth for the people of God. Never were these words of the poet more appropriate:

"And I am glad that he has lived thus long,
And glad that he has gone to his reward;
Nor deem that kindly nature did him wrong,
Softly thus to disengage the vital cord.
When his weak hands grew palsied,
And his eyes dim with the mist of age,
It was his time to die."

Truly God giveth his beloved sleep on earth but everlasting waking in the blessed life beyond.

—Heath & Drake, the Newark house who have won such a trade throughout the State, have entered on their inventory sale, and offer wonderful bargains, as announced on Page 8, Col. 6.

—Anyone desiring to go, can get free tickets for the Madison Square Bicycle Show, good Thursday evening only, New Jersey's night, on application to W. H. Rogers or John Petrie. A crowd from the Crescent Wheelmen will attend.

Many stubborn and aggravating cases of rheumatism that were believed to be incurable and accepted as life legacies, have yielded to Chamberlain's Pain Balm, much to the surprise and gratification of the sufferers. One application will relieve the pain and suffering and its continued use insures an effectual cure. For sale at Reynolds's pharmacy, Park and North avenues. T. S. Armstrong, manager.

A WOMAN WORTH KNOWING.

Mrs. Florence Howe Hall, Daughter of Julia Ward Howe, and Herself a Writer, Lecturer and Leader.

[From The New York Recorder.]

The clever writing and speaking of Mrs. Florence Howe Hall have earned her the title of "the woman humorist of the country". She does, indeed, possess a notable ability for presenting the gravest questions in a manner that carries weight because of its liveliness and wit. She is identified with many varied interests. From her father she has inherited an aptitude for organization, and is thus never happier than when planning fairs, lecture courses, sewing circles, reading classes, clubs, etc. She was a charter member of the Monday Afternoon Club of Plainfield, and for two years its president. In the work of the General Federation she has also been active and is now serving her third term as State Chairman of Correspondence for New Jersey. She was the first to propose a State Federation in New Jersey, and used both voice and pen to bring it about.

Mrs. Hall has long been known to literature. Soon after her marriage to David Prescott Hall, a well-known New York city lawyer, she took up the work of writing for the press and the periodicals. With her sister, Mrs. Maud Howe Elliott, she has for some years been engaged in writing the life of her father's famous pupil, Laura D. Bridgman, who was the first blind deaf-mute ever taught the use of language. Mrs. Hall is the author of a number of farces which will soon appear in book form. One of these, a satire on the anti-woman suffragists, has already won hearty plaudits before amateur footlights.

The suffrage question has been the theme of many of her most successful addresses and papers. Her speech at the Federation meeting in Philadelphia last May, was a humorous plea in its behalf, and excited wide interest. She is the president of her State's Suffrage Association, and president of the Plainfield Branch Alliance of Unitarian and Other Liberal Christian Women.

As a lecturer, Mrs. Hall has enjoyed an unusual success, and has found much pleasure and profit, she says, in addressing her audiences. n accordance with Dr. Howe's theories that every woman should have at her finger's end some means of support, Mrs. Hall was early trained in bookkeeping. Her published volumes include "Social Customs" and "The Correct Thing." She has four children, the eldest, Samuel Prescott Hall, having been recently graduated from Harvard College with classical honors at the age of 20.

C. E. ANNUAL MEETING.

THE EIGHTEEN SOCIETIES OF THE LOCAL UNION WELL REPRESENTED.

Eloquent and Earnest Address by Rev. Dr. J. Clement French, on Good Citizenship—Election of Officers and Annual Reports.

The annual meeting of the local Christian Endeavor Union held last evening in Trinity Reformed Church called together a goodly representation of the eighteen societies of which it is comprised who gathered despite the inclement weather to listen to the eloquent discourse of Rev. Dr. French of Newark and to hear the gratifying reports of progress during the year just brought to a close.

The meeting was opened with a service of song led by Precentor H. J. Martin who at the close of the concert singing sang the beautiful solo "Scatter Sunshine", in the chorus of which the entire audience joined. President E. M. Cave offered prayer and was followed by Rev. Cornelius Schenck, who read a scripture lesson and offered an earnest prayer in which he asked that a special blessing might come upon the work which all Endeavorers have so much at heart, the uplifting and Christianizing of their fellow men.

Dr. J. Clement French, of Newark, who was next introduced by President Cave, before announcing his subject spoke in a most pleasant way of the difficulties which had seemed thus far to block his way at each attempt he had made to speak to a Plainfield audience. His first audience numbered less than one hundred and they seemed to wish themselves where all the other citizens were at the time—viewing the Boice fire. Again he found nearly all the residents following the band which had in a great political demonstration, and last evening the elements seemed to conspire against him yet he was there enthused with the great work already accomplished by Endeavors throughout the world and hopeful as to the still greater work to be accomplished during 1895 for the uplifting of souls and the purification of municipal governments.

The learned Doctor announced Good Citizenship as his subject and spoke in no uncertain tones of the putridity now existing in the leading municipalities throughout the length and breadth of this fair land of ours. Touching a more local field he spoke at length of the good work accomplished by the Good Citizenship Committee of Newark (of which he is the efficient head), and stated that instead of being jeered and sneered at, as was the case when the movement was first inaugurated, all classes of citizens were now interested in the movement, some through fear that their evil deeds would be discovered, many more with an earnest and honest desire to help in every possible manner the good work which had been started in the face of so many apparently insurmountable obstacles. "Be it understood", continued Dr. French, "that the Good Citizenship Committee has no affiliation whatever with any political party, but is wholly and unconditionally opposed to political wire pulling, regardless of who the transgressors may be."

It is opposed to bribery, blackmail, corruption, and the machinations of scheming politicians, no matter in what way they cloak their wickedness. No one can fail to read the lesson taught by the recent terrible expose in New York city and what is true of New York is true in greater or less degree of every municipality throughout the land. God be praised there are good men holding public office; men who walk uprightly, with the fear of the Lord in their hearts, but these men are in the minority; hasten the day when they will be the great majority. The moral putridity of our cities is simply appalling, and it is against this rottenness that the good citizenship committee must constantly direct their efforts to the final extermination of gambling dens and other resorts which in the face and eyes of the law continue to disobey the statute restricting the liquor traffic.

Still again must this body of earnest workers make a firm stand toward the repression of those law-breakers who desecrate the Holy Sabbath with bands of music, picnics and unseemingly demonstrations, all of which is emphatically against the law of our statute book. The apathy of good men is surprising in view of the plain, unvarnished truth which presents itself at once when the matter is investigated. But despite failure and discouragement this noble work is going on, thanks to the faith, courage and zeal of its promoters. During his discourse, the learned Doctor paid a glowing tribute to the life and works of J. Judson Pierson, the former President of the State Endeavor Union, who was for some time previous to his death so prominently identified with the Good Citizenship Committee.

Throughout his lecture Dr. French held his audience by his eloquence, ofttimes facetious, always interesting, with a fund of incident and anecdote drawn from years of personal experience, seldom if ever before has a Plainfield audience been so highly edified or so deeply stirred as they were last night.

After the double quartette had rendered a selection, Miss Florence Hawkins, the secretary of the local union, called the roll, a larger portion of the eighteen societies being represented. Miss Hawkins also read the minutes of the last meetinn as well as the able reports of progress in her own work as secretary and treasurer.

An interesting report prepared by President Cave was also read by the efficient secretary, mention being made in the paper of the fact that the Executive Committee has added to the Constitution the following articles:

Article X, Correspondence Department, so that the local union may the more fully keep in touch with all that transpires among the vast army of Endeavorers. Article XI, Missionary Department, which shall be a bureau of information in its special sphere, and Article XII, Good Citizenship Department, which will follow in the way set forth by the lecture of the evening, arrange for rallies, mass meetings, etc. The annual election resulted as follows: President, E. E. Anthony; Vice-president, E. W. DeForrest; Secretary and Treasurer, Miss Florence Hawkins.

President Anthony on taking the chair thanked the members for the great honor conferred upon him in his election as president and mentioned the 950 Christian workers enrolled in the local union as a regiment ready at all times to fight for the Lord Jesus Christ and his Kingdom. After unanimous votes of thanks had been extended to Rev. Dr. French for his earnest discourse, and to retiring President Cave for his efficient work during his term of office, the benediction was pronounced by the Rev. A. I. Martine.

GRAND ARMY INVESTIGATION.

They Will Hear the Complaint of a Tramp Against Sergeant Kiely.

Nicholas O'Brien, the old soldier from Hampton, Va., who stopped in Plainfield last Friday night for lodging, after having walked from New York, claimed that he was abused at the police station-house.

He says he met Policeman Cooney, and when he asked for a place to sleep he invited him in.

There were several other policemen present at the time, among them Frederickson, Hartpence and Vanderweg.

Soon afterward Sergeant Kiely came in, and, looking in one of the cells, saw a man there. Cooney told him he was an old soldier, when the former, he claims, said, "Hang him"; and made other remarks of a like nature. The wayfarer also claimed that he was asked by the same policeman why he did n't stay where he belonged, and if he did n't get a pension.

Then, he says, Policemen Cooney and Kiely had a dispute in which some strong language was used, and that the former seemed to be down on him, and was not at all friendly.

Both Chief Grant and Sergeant Kiely went to see the soldier Saturday morning, and the two officers asked the latter what he had been reporting about them, whereupon he told the same story, which was denied emphatically by the police. Still the soldier claimed that he had been ill-treated, and says that he can prove it by any that were present in the station house.

The complaint of the veteran was reported to the Grand Army men of this city, and they feel much incensed, if what the soldier reports is true, and the matter will be brought up at their meeting this evening.

If they find the soldier's report substantiated, it is likely that resolutions will be drawn and forwarded to the Mayor asking for the removal of the officer complained against.

One Great Man on Another.

The lecture given by Professor H. H. Boyesen, the well-known novelist and writer, in the Casino yesterday afternoon was a rare treat fully enjoyed by the large audience of women.

His subject was "The Influence of Goethe", and his treatment of it was a delight to all.

The subject was divided into five parts: "Poetry", "Estimates of Woman", "Dramatic Works", "Scientific Discovery", and "Ideals of a World of Literature".

He spoke of the great poet as being the last great man who desired to know something of all. In the scientific world he made important discoveries, and much of his time was given to the theory of evolution.

The enthusiasm of the speaker in his lecture made it an ideal one, and the professor would meet a very much larger audience should he return to Plainfield.

"I know an old soldier who had chronic diarrhoea of long standing to have been permanently cured by taking Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy,' says Edward Shumpik, a prominent druggist of Minneapolis, Minn. I have sold the remedy in this city for over 7 years and consider it superior to any other medicine now on the market for bowel complaints. 25 and 50c bottles of this remedy for sale at Reynolds's Pharmacy. PROCEEDINGS DELAYED

Mrs. Drayton Gets a Stay in the Divorce Case.

She Wants the Privilege To Amend the Bill Answering the Charges of Her Husband — What Mr. Drayton's Counsel Thinks of the Last Move in the Suit.

Trenton, N. J., Jan. 22.—Mrs. J. Coleman Drayton, through her counsel, R. V. Lindabury, has filed an order of the court of chancerry of New Jersey delaying the taking of testimony in the divorce suit brought against her by her husband, James Coleman Drayton. From this it is evident that Mrs. Drayton intends to fight the suit. She will arrive in this city on Thursday and will then proceed to fight her husband in every possible way.

It is said that already detectives are at work, and it is expected that evidence enough will be found to warrant Mrs. Drayton's attorney in filing a cross bill against Mr. Drayton.

The order delaying the taking of evidence is signed by Vice-Chancellor Green; and it also cites James Coleman Drayton to appear before the chancellor at Newark on Jan. 29, and show cause why Mrs. Drayton shall not have the privilege to amend her bill answering her husband's charges of adultery with Allsop Borrowe.

Somerville, N. J., Jan. 22.—When Hon. Alvah A. Clark, counsel for J. Coleman Drayton was seen at his home here last night he at first refused to say anything about the famous divorce suit, but when Mr. Clark was shown the statement in an evening paper intimating that counsel for Mrs. Drayton have new facts in their possession upon which she would file a cross bill Mr. Clark said:

"Mr. Drayton courts the fullest investigation into his personal affairs. This step has only been taken for the purpose of delay as has been their mode of procedure all along. We have been ready time after time only to be delayed just as often by the other side."

On good authority it has been learned that arrangements had been entered into by Mr. Clark and the counsel for Mrs. Drayton that forty-eight hours after Mrs. Drayton landed the examination should be begun. This time was further extended to four days by Mr. Clark and it was agreed that testimony should be taken in Bernardsville, N. J., on Jan. 28 before Special Master in Chancery Herbert Knight, of Newark. Of course these proceedings are now stopped by the order to show cause, granted by the vice-chancellor and which will be argued at chancery chambers in Newark on next Tuesday.

It is said that Mrs. Caroline Astor, mother of Mrs. Drayton, would be summoned to appear in the case and tell what she knew about it. It was also stated that she knew the true facts as intimated by her in letters written to Mr. Drayton and which he has in his possession. About a week ago, after the arrangement to take testimony had been made, Mr. Clark wrote to Mr. Shipman asking him if Mrs. Astor would come voluntarily to New Jersey. This fact, it is thought, displeased the friends of the defendant and the last step to further delay the suit was taken.

It is now said that the only reason that Mrs. Drayton has for contesting the suit brought against her by her husband is the hope that she will be given the custody of the children and thus she will again push into her former social rank. There are many people who believe, however, that her trip to this country is only a scheme to enlist sympathy and that she will return at once and never appear personally in the case at all.

BOURGEOIS GIVES UP.

President Faure Turns for Advice to Poincarre and Cavaignac.

Paris, Jan. 22.—MM. Peytral, Cavaignac, Poincarre and Barthou in a conference agreed that the political situation was such as to require the formation of a ministry of republican concentration, and they expressed the belief that M. Bourgeois was the man to lead such a cabinet.

But they also considered that an agreement would be more likely attained among men less definitely committed than themselves in financial matters, and they therefore requested M. Bourgeois to release them from their promises to accept portfolios in a cabinet over which he was to preside.

M. Bourgeois did so, and immediately afterward went to the Elysee palace, where he notified the president that he was compelled to renounce the task of attempting to form a ministry. M. Faure consulted with MM. Poincarre and Cavaignac last evening.

Major Goodspeed Dead.

Salt Lake, Utah, Jan. 22.—Major Henry Goodspeed, a native of Cape Cod, Mass., and a resident of this city for 35 years, is dead after a long illness. He was in the hardware business at Hartford, Conn., and wrote for eastern papers before coming here. He helped to establish Hammond Hall, an anti-Mormon institution here, and declined the governorship under President Garfield. He handled millions of mining money.

Gold Shipped to St. Johns.

New York, Jan. 22.—The Bank of Montreal, which has undertaken to reestablish international enchange in Newfoundland, and to bring order out of the monetary chaos there, shipped $100,000 gold to St. John's yesterday. The gold, like that exported to Europe, was withdrawn from the subtreasury in this city in exchange for legal tenders.

HAWAIIAN DISCUSSION

Debate Follows Mr. Lodge's New Resolution.

Senator Gray, of Delaware, Defends the Administration—The Chicago Public Building Bill Passed in the House After Several Amendments Had Been Accepted.

Washington, Jan. 22.—The senate entered promptly upon the discussion of the Hawaiian question—the minister from that young republic occupying one of the front seats in the diplomatic gallery, and being the most interested listener. The discussion was opened on a resolution offered by Mr. Lodge (rep., Mass.) approving the dispatch of a ship of war to the islands last Saturday, and expressing the opinion that one should be kept there for the present; favoring the construction of a submarine telegraph cable from San Francisco to Honolulu; and declaring that "steps should be taken to secure possession of the Sandwich islands by their annexation to the United States."

This resolution was objected to on the democratic side of the chamber and went over under the rule till today. But then the resolution on the same subject which Mr. Frye (rep., Me.) had offered on Saturday was taken up and was the text for an important debate which lasted until the close of the morning hour, when the matter again went over. In this debate the president of the United States and the course pursued by the administration in connection with the Hawaiian islands found an advocate and defender in Mr. Gray (dem., Del.), who asserted that the attitude of the administration had been in exact accordance with the time-honored precedents of the United States for a hundred years, and that the president had, amid much clamor and detraction, maintained the honor and fame of the country. The opposition of the question, was represented by Senators Frye (Maine), Lodge (Mass.) and Hawley (Conn.)

Mr. Frye made an effort to have a vote taken on his resolution but objection was made by Mr. Mills, (dem., Tex.) The subject, however, will come up again to-day.

The conference report on the urgent deficiency bill was also debated at length, and finally the senate voted to recede from its amendments on the subject of the income tax, and to leave the bill, in that respect, the same as it came from the house. An arrangement was made by unanimous consent for a vote on the Nicaraguan canal bill at 5 p. m., on Friday next; and then the senate adjourned.

House of Representatives.

The recent Hawaiian revolution was not aired in the house through the medium of Mr. Boutelle's resolution which he offered on Saturday. Late in the afternoon, at a time when all the spectators who had taken seats in the galleries expecting to witness some lively debate over the resolution, had gone away disappointed, Mr. Boutelle endeavored to bring the matter before the house, but democratic protests and the point of "no quorum," finally forced an adjournment until to-day.

The major part of the day was given up to the consideration of a number of bills providing for public buildings in various cities. The Chicago public building bill was the subject of an interesting debate, Chairman Sayres of the committee on appropriations, leading the opposition to the measure on the contentions that the present building was not unsafe and inadequate as to space, as charged by the committee on public buildings and grounds, and that a new building could not be completed within the time fixed by the bill. Several amendments accepted by the committee on public buildings and grounds minimized these objections to some extent and the bill was finally passed by a vote of 179 to 51.

Bills were also passed for public buildings at Newport, Ky.; Brockton, Mass.; Paterson, N. J.; South Omaha, Neb.; Pottsville, Pa., and Cumberland, Md. These last named bills carry no appropriations.

FOUR BOLD BURGLARS.

Masked Men Enter a House in the Suburbs of Baltimore.

Baltimore, Jan. 22.—Four masked burglars visited Pikesville, a suburb of this city, and entered the house of A. Watts who they thought had in his possession $2,400, money he had recently received from the sale of some property. Each of the desperadoes had two pistols. The Watts family, husband, wife and five children were "rounded up" and marshalled in one room. The husband fired a pistol point blank and at close range at one of the men but the ball missed its mark as just as the pistol exploded one of the gang struck Watts in the head from behind, felling him.

The thieves used all their persuasion and then torture to get Watts to tell where his money was hidden but he assured them that they had struck the wrong house. They visited every room in the place, Watts' store adjoining where each thief fitted himself out in a new suit, hat and shoes. Then they returned to Watts' parlor and three of them had a dance, while one played an accompaniment on the mandolin.

The robbers finally left and visited several other houses in the neighborhood with more or less success and then disappeared. Lynching parties are now on the hunt.

POSTMASTER COBBS' ARREST.

Circumstances of His Incarceration by Turkish Officials.

London, Jan. 22.—The Daily News correspondent in Constantinople gives the circumstances of Postmaster Cobb's arrest there by the Turkish officials. The Turkish police arrested one of his letter carriers named Osgan, an Armenian, whom they accused of trying to pass a bad half-penny.

They handcuffed him, beat him and started him for jail. When Mr. Cobb protested, he, too, was taken in charge and was locked up with his employe.

The Mornig Post confirms this version of the incident, adding that Mr. Cobb has laid the matter before the British embassy.

A FEMALE DESPERADO.

The woman is accused by Frank Thiel, of this city, with striking him on the head with a billy and then robbing him of $8, while he was walking along Railroad avenue here, three weeks ago.

After the robbery the woman left the city, and on Thursday she had her trunks removed to 26th street, New York. In this way the detectives learned here whereabouts.

The identity of the real culprit has never been clearly established.

LIFE WAS A BURDEN.

A Pain-Racked Sufferer Tells an Interesting Story—How He Was Tortured for Years and Finally Cured by Munyon's Remedy.

Charles Wark, of 14 N. Twenty-fourth St., Philadelphia, has been a constant sufferer from rheumatism for years. He was cured by the use of Munyon's Rheumatism Cure. This is his story:

"I was afflicted with rheumatism in the righ shoulder and suffered the most excruciating agony. Sharp shooting pains darted through it so intense I could not sleep night. Even the weight of the bedclothes was more than I could bear; neither could I lie on the right side or my back. Life became a perfect burden to me. I could not raise my hand to my head, and when I attempted to put on my coat or any article of dress the torture was enough to drive me wild. Many remedies were suggested and tried, but none did me the slightest good, and I began to despair of ever being able to obtain relief. Some time ago, however, I procured a bottle of Munyon's Rheumatism Cure. It afforded me relief after the first few doses, and by the time the little 25 cent bottle was gone I was entirely free from pain. I have had no return of my old enemy, and I feel satisfied I am permanently cured. It seems so wonderful I can hardly realize it, and can only show my appreciation of the merits of the Cure by recommending it to other sufferers."

Munyon's Rheumatism Cure is guaranteed to cure rheumatism in any part of the body. Acute or muscular rheumatism cured in from one to five days. It never fails to cure sharp, shooting pains in the arms, legs, sides back or breast, or soreness in any part of the body in from one to three hours. It is guaranteed to promptly cure lameness, stiff and swollen joints, stiff back, and all pains in the hips and loins. Chronic rheumatism, sciatica, lumbago or pain in the back are speedily cured.

Munyon's Homoepathic Home Remedy Company, of Philadelphia, put up specifics for nearly every disease, which are sold by all druggist, mostly for 25 cents a bottle.

[Copyright, 1895, by Bacheller, Johnson & Bacheller.]

"Who can he be?" thought I, as I watched my companion in the second-class carriage of the London & Dover railway.

I had been so full of the fact that my long-expected holiday had come at last, and that for a few days at least the gayeties of Paris were about to supersede the dull routine of the hospital wards, that we were well out of London before I observed that I was not alone in the compartment. In these days we have all pretty well agreed that "three is company and two is none" upon the railway. At the time I write of, however, people were not so morbidly sensitive about their traveling companions. It was rather an agreeable surprise to me to find that there was some chance of whiling away the hours of a tedious journey. I therefore pulled my cap down over my eyes, took a good look from beneath it at my vis-a-vis, and repeated to myself: "Who can he be?"

I used rather to pride myself on being able to spot a man's trade or profession by a good look at his exterior. I had the advantage of studying under a master of the art, who used to electrify both his patients and his clinical classes by long shots, sometimes at the most unlikely of pursuits; and never very far from the mark. "Well, my man," I have heard him say: "I can see by your fingers that you play some musical instrument for your livelihood, but it is a rather curious one—something quite out of my line." The man afterwards informed us that he earned a few coppers by blowing "Rule Britannia" on a coffee pot, the spout of which was pierced to form a rough flute. Though a novice in the art, I was still able to astonish my ward companions on occasion, and I never lost an opportunity of practicing. It was not mere curiosity, then, which led me to lean back on the cushions and analyze the quiet, middle-aged man in front of me.

I used to do the thing systematically, and my train of reflections ran somewhat in this wise: "General appearance, vulgar, fairly opulent and extremely self-possessed—looks like a man who could outchaff a bargee, and yet be at his ease in middle-class society. Eyes well set together and nose rather prominent—would be a good long-range marksman. Cheeks flabby, but the softness of expression redeemed by a square-cut jaw and a well-set lower lip. On the whole, a powerful type. Now for the hands—rather disappointed there. Thought he was a self-made man by the look of him, but there is no callous in the palm and no thickness at the joints. Has never been engaged in any real physical work, I should think. No tanning on the backs of the hands; on the contrary, they are very white, with blue projecting veins and long, delicate fingers. Couldn't be an artist with that face, and yet he has the hands of a man engaged in delicate manipulations. No red acid spots upon his clothes, no ink stains, no nitrate of silver marks upon the hands (this helps to negative my half-formed opinion that he was a photographer). Clothes not worn in any particular part. Coat made of tweed, and fairly old; but the left elbow, as far as I can see it, has as much of the fluff left on as the right, which is seldom the case with men who do much writing. Might be a commercial traveler, but the little pocketbook in the waistcoat is wanting, nor has he any of those handy valises, suggestive of samples."

I give these brief headings of my ideas merely to demonstrate my method of arriving at a conclusion. As yet I had obtained nothing but negative results; but now, to use a chemical metaphor, I was in a position to pour off this solution of dissolved possibilities and examine the residue. I found myself reduced to a very limited number of occupations. He was neither a lawyer nor a clergyman, in spite of a soft felt hat, and a somewhat clerical cut about the necktie. I was wavering now between pawnbroker and horse-dealer; but there was too much character about his face for the former; and he lacked that extraordinary equine atmosphere which hangs about the latter even in his hours of relaxation; so I formed a provisional diagnosis of betting man of methodistical persuasions, the latter clause being inserted in deference to his hat and necktie.

Pray, do not think that I reasoned it out like this in my own mind. It is only now, sitting down with pen and paper, that I can see the successive steps. As it was, I had formed my conclusion within sixty seconds of the time when I drew my hat down over my eyes and uttered the mental ejaculation with which my narrative begins.

I did not feel quite satisfied even then with my deduction. However, as a leading question would—to pursue my chemical analogy—act as my litmus paper, I determined to try one. There was a Times lying by my companion, and I thought the opportunity too good to be neglected.

"Do you mind my looking at your paper?" I asked.

"Certainly, sir, certainly," said he most urbanely, handing it across.

I glanced down its columns until my eye rested upon the list of the latest betting.

"Hullo!" I said. "they are laying odds upon the favorite for the Cambridgeshire. But perhaps," I added, looking up, "you are not interested in these matters?"

"Snares, sir!" said he violently; "wiles of the enemy! Mortals are but given a few years to live, how can they squander them so! They have not even an eye to their poor worldly interests," he added in a quieter tone, "or they would never back a single horse at such short odds with a field of thirty."

There was something in this speech of his which tickled me immensely. I suppose it was the odd way in which he blended religious intolerance with worldly wisdom. I laid the Times aside with the conviction that I should be able to spend the next two hours to better purpose than in its perusal.

"You speak as if you understood the matter, at any rate," I remarked.

"Yes, sir," he answered; "few men in England understood these things better in the old days before I changed my profession. But that is all over now."

"YOU SEE, I HAVE NOT FORGOTTEN MY OLD CUNNING."

"Changed your profession?" said I, interrogatively.

"Yes; I changed my name, too."

"Indeed?" said I.

"Yes; you see, a man wants a real fresh start when his eyes become opened, so he has a new deal all round, so to speak. Then he gets a fair chance."

There was a short pause here, as I seemed to be on delicate ground in touching on my companion's antecedents, and he did not volunteer any information. I broke the silence by offering him a cheroot.

"No, thanks," said he; "I have given up tobacco. It was the hardest wrench of all, was that. It does me good to smell the whiff of your weed. Tell me," he added, suddenly, looking hard at me with his shrewd gray eyes, "why did you take stock of me so carefully before you spoke?"

"It is a habit of mine," said I. "I am a medical man, and observation is everything in my profession. I had no idea you were looking."

"I can see without looking," he answered. "I thought you were a detective, at first; but I couldn't recall your face at the time I knew the force."

"Were you a detective, then?" said I.

"No," he answered, with a laugh; "I was the other thing—the detected, you know. Old scores are wiped out now, and the law cannot touch me, so I don't mind confessing to a gentleman, like yourself, what a scoundrel I have been in my time."

"We are none of us perfect," said I.

"No; but I was real out-and-outer. A 'fake,' you know, to start with, and afterwards a 'cracksman.' It is easy to talk of these things now, for I've changed my spirit. It's as if I was talking of some other man, you see."

"Exactly so," said I. Being a medical man I had none of that shrinking from crime and criminals which many men possess. I could make all allowances for congenital influence and the force of circumstances. No company, therefore, could have been more acceptable to me than that of the old malefactor; and as I sat puffing at my cigar, I was delighted to observe that my air of interest was gradually loosening his tongue.

"Yes; I'm converted now," he continued, "and of course I am a happier man for that. And yet," he added wistfully, "there are times when I long for the old trade again, and fancy myself strolling out on a cloudy night with my jimmy in my pocket. I left a name behind me in my profession, sir. I was one of the old school, you know. It was very seldom that we bungled a job. We used to begin at the foot of the ladder, the rope ladder, if I may say so, in my younger days, and then work our way up, step by step, so that we were what you might call good men all through."

"I see," said I.

"I was always reckoned a hard-working, conscientious man, and had talent, too—the very cleverest of them allowed that. I began as a blacksmith, and then did a little engineering and carpentering, and then I took to sleight-of-hand tricks, and then to picking pockets. I remember, when I was home on a visit, how my poor old father used to wonder why I was always hovering around him. He little knew that I used to clear everything out of his pockets a dozen times a day, and then replace them, just to keep my hand in. He believes to this day that I am in an office in the city. There are few of them could touch me in that particular line of business, though."

"I suppose it is a matter of practice?" I remarked.

"To a great extent. Still, a man never quite loses it, if he has once been an adept—excuse me; you have dropped some cigar ash on your coat," and he waved his hand politely in front of my breast, as if to brush it off. "There," he said, handing me my gold scarf pin, "you see I have not forgot my old cunning yet."

He had done it so quickly that I hardly saw the hand whisk over my bosom, nor did I feel his fingers touch me, and yet there was the pin glittering in his hand. "It is wonderful," I said as I fixed it again in its place.

"Oh, that's nothing? But I have been in some really smart jobs. I was in the gang that picked the new patent safe. You remember the case. It was guaranteed to resist anything; and we managed to open the first that was ever issued, within a week of its appearance. It was done with graduated wedges, sir, the first so small that you could hardly see it against the light, and the last strong enough to prize it open. It was a clever managed affair."

"I remember it," said I. "But surely some one was convicted for that?"

"Yes, one was nabbed. But he didn't split, nor even let on how it was done. We'd have cut his soul out if—" He suddenly damped down the very ugly fires which were peeping from his eyes. "Perhaps I am boring you, talking about these old wicked days of mine?"

"On the contrary," I said, "you interest me extremely."

"I like to get a listener I can trust. It's a sort of blow-off, you know, and I feel lighter after it. When I am among my brethren I dare hardly think of what has gone before. Now, I'll tell you about another job I was in. To this day, I cannot think about it without laughing."

I lit another cigar, and composed myself to listen.

Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly on the blood and mucous surface of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer $100 for any case that it fails to cure.

LINEMEN ON STRIKE.

A New Feature of the Situation in Brooklyn.

The strike situation was materially changed in Brooklyn this morning by the action of the linemen. The District Assembly of which they are members met at half-past eight and after a short session ordered a strike of its members. The linemen who had been out repairing wires took back their trucks to the depots and stopped work. This leaves the companies in a worse position than yesterday, for breaks in the wires cannot now be repaired until new operators are secured, and it will be necessary to hire electricians at once.

REMOVAL.

Dr. Lighthill begs leave to give notice that he has removed to

NO. 132 CRESCENT AVE.

(a few doors from his former location) where he can be consulted on all chronic diseases of whatever name and nature.

Dr. Lighthill refers with pardonable pride to the success of his practice in Plainfield and submits below a few of the many testimonials which he has received from grateful patients. A mass of similar ones can be seen at his office.

AN ALMOST MIRACULOUS CURE.

The Statement of Mr. Edward Teel, Jr., of Dunellen, N. J.

TO THE PUBLIC:

From a sense of duty I desire to call public attention to the almost miraculous cure which Dr. Lighthill effected in the case of my wife. For eleven years she had been afflicted with piles of an unusual severe and distressing character. She suffered every day of her life the most intense pain, attended with frequent and profuse hemorrhage. This state of things debilitated her entire system until she became a perfect wreck of her former self.

We made every effort to obtain a cure but they all resulted in bitter disappointment, although a number of physicians of excellent reputations for skill in that direction had treated her case. She grew worse and worse all the time, the pain became perfectly unbearable and I felt she could not bear the strain of her condition much longer. In this extremity, a friend of mine, Mr. W. E. Dilts, a resident of Roselle, N. J., a passenger conductor on the New Jersey Central told me that he had been similarly affected, and had been permanently cured by Dr. Lighthill, after other medical skill had failed. He assured me that the doctor would cure my wife, no matter how severe her case may be, and his prediction proved perfectly correct. In spite of her desperate condition, Dr. Lighthill, I am glad to say, has effected a complete and perfect cure in her case, and has given her new life.

Since the cure has been effected she has gained in health and strength and is so improved in appearance that her friends scarcely recognize her. They all consider her cure as almost miraculous, and Dr. Lighthill's praise is heard on every side. Our gratitude to Dr. Lighthill is unbounded and we only hope that other sufferers may be benefited by this publication.

EDWARD TEEL, JR.

A Flattering Testimonial from Colonel John Pietrich, One of Plainfield's Oldest and Best Known Residents.

16 ARLINGTON PLACE,
Plainfield, N. J., July 17, 1894.

I am profoundly grateful to Dr. Lighthill for his speedy and radical cure of a most painful malady of over ten years standing with which I was afflicted.

I deem it proper to say to all afflicted to place themselves under the care of this skilful physician and be permanently cured.

I will cheerfully impart any information I possess when called upon.

JOHN DIETRICH.

Mr. Thomas Callahan of No. 214 Richmond street Cured of a Very Distressing Trouble by Dr. Lighthill.

PLAINFIELD, N. J., June 1, 1894.

TO THE PUBLIC:

For some time past I have been greatly distressed with noises in the head. They were all over my head and troubled me constantly; they were loudest at night when everything was quiet and at such times would often keep me from sleep and disturb my rest. In fact they got to be so bad and distressing that they affected my whole nervous system as well as my health. I did not obtain the least relief until I placed myself under the care of Dr. Lighthill of No. 132 Crescent avenue, who effected a complete cure in my case in a short time and made me a very happy man.

THOMAS CALLAHAN,
214 Richmond street.

A Card From Mr. T. R. VanZandt.

of Nos 304 and 306 Park ave.,

Plainfield, N. J

I certify with pleasure that Dr. Lighthill has effectually cured me of a most painful case of piles. For some time past I had been subject to its attacks, but the last attack was so exceedingly painful that it completely upset my whole system. The pain extended to my legs and in many other directions, and made me so nervous that I could neither sleep, sit down, lie down or move about without serious discomfort and distress. Such was my condition when I applied to Dr. Lighthill for relief, and I am glad to say that as soon as he took hold of my case, I began to improve, and in a short time found myself completely cured. Dr. Lighthill has also effected a radical and permanent cure in a most terrible case of piles on my cousin, Mr J. V. Z. Griggs, of Rocky Hill, N. J., whose flattering testimonial is in Dr. Lighthill's possession.

LOVE AND PROPOSALS.

How Men and Women Act In This Interesting Juncture.

There is a clever statistician who could teach a thing or two to the novelist. This statistician has attempted to classify the action and methods of proposals, and as a result has presented tabulated figures extremely interesting to psychologists. Out of 100 cases 36 gentlemen take lady in arms, 67 gentlemen kiss lady on lips, four gentlemen kiss lady on cheek, three gentlemen show very good taste by kissing lady on eyes, and two gentlemen kiss lady on hand. It is to be presumed these two out of 100 are the timid, diffident kind, though it is possible that they might be of the quietly sentimental nature. One gentleman kisses lady on nose. It must be added that the statistician is careful to insert the saving clause of "by mistake."

There is even a record of a man kissing a lady on edge of shawl, but, thank goodness, there is only one in 100, and the chances are that this man is peculiar.

Seventy-two hold lady's hand, 17 hold it very tightly, 14 have lumps in their throats, and nine exclaim aloud, "Thank God!" Only seven out of 100 declare themselves to be deliriously happy, and five are too full for utterance. Three out of 100 stand on one foot when they make proposal, and two go down on one knee, while nine make a formal prelude—something like the slow music at the play, we suppose, when the villain appeals to heaven to witness the consuming flame of his affection for the heart he plots to ruin, etc.

The behavior of the lady under the circumstances is equally entertaining and instructive. Out of 100 cases 81 sink into the arms of gentlemen, 68 rest their heads on gentleman's breast, and only one sinks into the arms of a chair. Eleven clasp their arms around the gentleman's neck, six weep tears of joy silently, and 44 weep tears aloud—whatever that means. Seventy-two have eyes full of love, and nine out of 100 rush from the room to tell somebody. Only four are greatly surprised, and 87 of 100 knew that something was coming. Five giggle hysterically, and one even sneezes. Only one of 100 struggles not to be kissed, while six kiss gentleman first. If we believe the statistician, one out of 100 women will say, "Yes, but don't be a fool."—Philadelphia Times.

ABLE TO TRANSFER LUNACY.

Uncanny Result of an Experiment In Hypnotism Made by a Paris Doctor.

A series of very wonderful experiments which have just been concluded by Dr. Luys of Paris, whose observations and discoveries in connection with magnetism and electricity in relation to hypnotism made a profound impression upon the scientific world some time ago, has led to a remarkable result. The latest discovery establishes the fact that cerebral activity can be transferred to a crown of magnetized iron, in which the activity can be retained and subsequently passed on to a second person. Incredible as this may seem, Dr. Luys has proved its possibility by the experiments just referred to.

He placed the crown, which in reality is only a circular band of magnetized iron, on the head of a female patient suffering from melancholia, with a mania for self destruction, and with such success was the experiment attended that within a fortnight the patient could be allowed to go free without danger, the crown having absorbed all her marked tendencies.

About two weeks afterward he put the same crown, which meanwhile had been carefully kept free from contact with anything else, on the head of a male patient suffering from hysteria, complicated by frequent recurrent periods of lethargy. The patient was then hypnotized and immediately conducted himself after the manner of the woman who had previously worn the crown. Indeed he practically assumed her personality and uttered exactly the same complaints as she had done. Similar phenomena have, it is reported, been observed in the case of every patient experimented upon. Another experiment showed that the crown retained the impression acquired until it was made red-hot.—London Telegraph.

Seedless Fruits and Vegetables.

Writers often express wonder that any fruit or vegetable should be found without seeds, the acme of surprise seeming to be with respect to the seedless orange. The fact of the case is that such examples are met with in almost every variety of fruits and in several kinds of vegetables. An instance which can be cited in the apple is Mennecher's Nocore, so named because of both "core" and seed pits being entirely absent.

The Rutter pear is a so called seedless variety of that species of fruit, but I believe that abortive seeds are occasionally found in isolated specimens. The "zante," or seedless currant of the grocery stores, is not a currant at all, but a small species of seedless grape.—St. Louis Republic.

A Clever Dog.

Mr. Stacy Marks' anecdote of the money finding dog, which he attributes to Landseer, is a very prince among all stories of the kind. The dog's master, in the presence of a skeptical friend, hid a £5 note in the bole of a tree when the dog was paying him no attention. "Go, fetch!" he said, some time afterward, while returning by another road, without further explanation.

The dog trotted off, and it was a few hours before he joined the two at home. As there were no signs of a note, the skeptical friend grew satirical. But the host opened the dog's mouth, and 5 sovereigns were concealed under his tongue. He had found the note, been to the banker's and exchanged it for gold.—Spectator.

Clean Sweep.

"I don't see why they say the De Spug girls got their beauty from their mother."

"They probably took all there was."—Detroit Tribune.

EUGENE FIELD INTERVIEWED.

That Is, He Fired Talk For Nine Minutes at a Reporter.

Eugene Field, the humorous poet, famous for his beautiful children's verse, I was told, had just come in from Chicago and would be at the Authors' club that night. I reached the Authors' club about 10 o'clock and learned that Field had gone.

"Where?"

"To Washington."

"What train?"

"Eleven o'clock."

I was in Jersey City and in that train at 10:50.

"Whip out your notebook and write for all you're worth," said Mr. Field, throwing himself and his bag in the seat. "You've only nine minutes. Time enough, though, for two uneventful biographies like mine."

"Never mind that. You're fond of the quaint and curious, Mr. Field. What'r' your fads, pets and so on?"

"Well, listen for your life now. I'm fond of dogs, birds and all small pets. My favorite flower is the carnation. My favorites in fiction are Hawthorne's 'Scarlet Letter,' 'Don Quixote' and 'Pilgrim's Progress.' I believe in ghosts, in witches and in fairies. I should like to own a big astronomical telescope and a 24 tune music box. I adore dolls. I dislike 'politics,' so called. I should like to have the privilege of voting extended to women. I am unalterably opposed to capital punishment. I favor a system of pensions for noble services in literature, art, science, etc. I approve of compulsory education. I believe in churches and schools. I hate wars, armies, soldiers, guns and fireworks. I do not care particularly for sculpture or for painting. I try not to become interested in them, for the reason that if I were to cultivate a taste for them I should presently become hopelessly bankrupt. I dislike all exercises, and I play games very indifferently. I love to read in bed. I am extravagantly fond of perfumes. My favorite color is red. I am a poor diner, and I drink no wines or spirits of any kind, nor do I smoke tobacco. I dislike crowds, and I abominate functions. I am 6 feet in height and have shocking taste in dress, but I like to have well dressed people about me. I do not love all children. I have tried to analyze my feelings toward children, and I think I discover that I love them in so far as I can make pets of them. I believe that, if I live, I shall do my best literary work when I am a grandfather."

"And how did you become a humorist, Mr. Field?" I asked, while the porter besought me with tears in his eyes to leave the train before it started.

"Oh, they're not made. They're born."

"All aboard!" And Eugene Field was gone.—Demorest's Magazine.

Missouri 40,000 Years Hence.

According to the engineers of the hydrographic bureau, the level of the gulf of Mexico is one foot higher than it was in 1859, and, of course, the encroachment on the surrounding coasts has been greater or less, pending on their character. In some places, where the marginal lands are composed of high, rocky bluffs, this change of level has gone on from year to year without attracting attention. On the other hand, many low lying points (some that were once inhabited by the primitive inhabitants or by the pioneer white settlers), are entirely submerged. The cause of this change of level has not as yet been ascertained, but it is reasonably certain that it is the result of either a settling of the dry land or of a general and uniform rising or upheaval in the gulf bed. No man who has given the matter a moment's thought will argue that there is more water in the gulf now than there was 35 years ago. On the contrary, there isn't the least doubt but that there is much less. However this may be, if this aqueous encroachment is steadily maintained, Keokuk will be a deep water harbor and St. Louis and the whole of Missouri will be entirely submerged in less than 40,000 years from Jan. 1, 1895.—St. Louis Republic.

On Reading.

To sit down in a chair without an object is to jump into a thicket of temptations. A vacant hour is always the devil's hour. When time hangs heavy, the wings of the spirit flap heavily and slow. Then it is that a book is a strong tower, nay, a very church, with angels lurking among the leaves as if they were so many niches. Reading helps to make conversation harmless, by making it less petty and censorious, by furnishing us with other topics than our neighbors' faults and foibles. It is very hard for a person who does not like reading to talk much in company without sinning. Furthermore, a taste for reading often hinders our taking the wrong side in practical questions which are mooted in the world, but bear upon the church. It does this either by the information it has enabled us to obtain on the subject itself, or by making our instincts accurate and sensitive through our familiarity with right principles.—Faber.

Both Wicked.

"My husband," said the large, fleshy lady, "has a habit of marking paragraphs in the paper that say mean things about women."

"So you will not fail to see them, eh? Still that is not as mean a trick as mine plays. He cuts them all out. Then I have to get another paper only to find that I have been fooled again."—Indianapolis Journal.

Sage Jury Disagrees.

The Polite British Waiter.

The extreme politeness of the average English waiter is a continual source of merriment.

He thanks you when he brings your soup, again when he brings your napkin, when he takes away your plate, when he happens to find you looking at him—in fact, he says, "Thank you," at every turn, and says it in such a jerky, mechanical fashion that you cannot repress a smile. His example is followed by the bus conductor, who thanks you for your fare and thanks you again when he hands you your ticket, and by the theater usher when he seats you, and by every servant you meet, in the most inappropriate manner. They overdo the "thank you" business, and always employ the same jerky manner and mechanical tone.—Chicago Record.

Budding Creatures.

Sea anemones and some other marine creatures of low degree increase their species by budding. A small knot or wart appears on the body of the animal, and by and by develops into a perfect, though minute animal of the same species, separates from its parent and sets up in business for itself.

A Tragic Complication.

"So you refuse me!" said Charley Callow bitterly.

"Of course," said the charming widow.

"Won't you even be a sister to me?"

"No. I'm engaged to marry your father. I'll be a mother to you."—Washington Star.

A pair of spectacles cost in the sixteenth century at least $5.50. It was fashionable to wear them, and the larger they were the better they were supposed to support the dignity of the wearer.

A NOBLE GIFT

PLACED IN A DAUGHTER'S HANDS

In Order That a Life's Work May Be Perpetuated.

(SPECIAL TO OUR LADY READERS)

It was an eventful day.

One of the noblest women of the age felt the weight of years upon her.

Her whole life had been given to one grand work, and her name was known throughout the civilized world.

Before her was a younger woman, and they were seated in the great "record room," where were stored many women's stories of sorrow and joy.

Letters by the thousands, together with great books of record, containing the important points of advice and treatment in special cases, were all about them.

The elder woman turned over the leaves and read:—

"I was sorely afflicted with chronic inflammation of the womb . . . . I am now well."

Turning over another page she read:—

"They said I was consumptive, and sent me away . . . But you opened my eyes to the truth, and through you I am well."

Another page and:—

". . . . Your remedy came to me with hope, then the truth dawned upon me. You saved my life, and I bless you continually."

Then the book was closed and placed in the hands of the younger woman.

"These are the records of my victories over the peculiar diseases of women. They give the history of each case, and how it was treated.

"I am growing old. Some day I must give up the effort, and I bequeath to you my life work for the physical salvation of women. Carry it forward that all may be cured."

The elder woman was Lydia E. Pinkham. The younger was her daughter, Mrs. Charles H. Pinkham, the one woman fully equipped to carry out the requirements of this noble legacy, not only by natural endowments, but from her knowledge through constant study and years of experience in assisting her mother in her voluminous correspondence and personal treatment of woman's diseases.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will redeem women from the fearful consequences of all diseases of the womb. All druggists have it for you.

AN AWFUL PREDICAMENT

She Don't Know How She Got Into It.

BUT SHE DOES KNOW JUST HOW SHE GOT OUT.

And That is the Most Curious and Interesting Part Of It.

She never could tell how she got into the terrible predicament.

No one can ever tell exactly how trouble comes about.

But with Shakespeare we realize:

"One woe doth tread upon another's heel,
So fast they follow "

And Mrs. Eva Dyer, of 46 South Orange avenue, Newark, N. J., who tells the following interesting story, indeed, felt the truth of this.

"About five years ago," she began, "I was taken suddenly sick, and I continued to grow worse until I was unable to do any work at all. My nerves got so bad that I would have spasms nearly every day, and I would feel so I was dying in every one I had.

"My stomach was in such a weak condition that it wouldn't contain the lightest food and altogether I was so weak and run down that I was obliged to remain in bed the greater part of the time.

"I tried doctor after doctor, but their medicines did me no good, and I was ready to give up hopes of ever getting better, when a friend advised me to try Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy.

"So I resolved to try it, and have found it a success. The first bottle I took I thought I felt some better, and so I continued taking it. I have now taken seven bottles, and I feel that I am cured.

MRS. EVA DYER.

"I don't have any more spasms and my stomach is so I can eat anything without its hurting me I am no longer weak and nervous, and I am able to do my own work and feel like a new woman.

"I advise everyone who is sick and ailing to try Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy, and be convinced of its wonderful power to cure, as I have been."

Thousands of people are today in a predicament more or less like that of Mrs. Dyer. They may not be so seriously sick as she was, but they may come even to a worse condition if they allow their present ailments and weaknesses to run on. Nine times out of ten the great prostrations of health, the breaking down of mind and body, the utter wreck and shattering of these delicate fibres which send weakness and despair throbbing and shivering through unstrung nerves, are traceable directly to the neglect of the first slight and apparently trivial symptoms.

If you would save yourselves from the black night of sickness, the hopelessness of despair, do not allow the first symptoms, the dizzy, aching head, the nervousness the restlessness, the sleeplessness, the utter weakness of weary days and hours, to continue for one moment when you know that Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy will surely cure you—will surely make you strong and well.

Physicians recommend it everywhere. Dr. Greene, of 35 West 14th st., New York City, its discoverer, is our most successful physician in curing nervous and chronic diseases, and he tells you to use it that it will make you well. You can consult him free, personally or by letter.

THE SITUATION SERIOUS

Fighting Results from Attempts To Run Cars.

Volleys Fired by the Militia, But No One Hurt in the Fusilade—Cars Wrecked and Policemen Shot—Linemen May Help the Strikers—Incidents of the Day.

Brooklyn, N. Y., Jan. 22.—This morning dawned with a determination on the part of the railroad companies to operate the balance of their cars, and also with an equal determination on the part of the strikers to persuade the new men to leave the employ of the roads and join their ranks. The entire city yesterday was under martial law and the militia patrolled most of the streets operated by the railroads. All of the depots were guarded by soldiers and at the East New York car house the First Battery had its four cannons planted to command the four principal streets.

Police Commissioner Welles is very much incensed at the reports of inefficiency on the part of the police, and charges that they were aiding the strikers. He issued a manifesto asking for proofs of these charges and announced that he would dismiss any officer proven to be negligent in the discharge of his duty.

The common council took a hand in the trouble in the afternoon. They have been asked to pass resolutions calling upon the companies holding franchises for the operation of the surface lines to observe the conditions of their charters and furnish the public with transportation and accommodation forthwith or tell the public the reason why. The councilmen began a hearing on the subject at 2 p. m. Alderman Foyle introduced a resolution calling upon the legislators to amend the charter of the companies so as to increase the license fee of $20 per car to $100 per car.

Alderman Cohn introduced a resolution calling attention to the railroad tie-up, the inconvenience to the public, the bad effect on business and consequent damage to citizens. The resolution blames the railroad companies for this state of affairs, attributing it to their stubbornness and asks the board to express disapproval of the attitude and conduct of the railroad companies, and also calls for the examination of men who are to act as motormen. It requests that a license board of three persons be appointed to examine candidates for motormen, the board to consist of two members of the common council and one man to be appointed by the mayor. It also requests the legislature to take up the question of licenses.

During the afternoon many altercations occurred between the militia and police on the one side and the strikers on the other. The Seventh regiment was under fire for a few minutes before 6 o'clock last evening. Shots were fired from the crowd into the militia, and the soldiers in return fired over the heads of the mob. So far as known no one was injured.

Mrs. Josephine Zeigler, 69 years old, was run over by a car in the hands of a green motorman at Broadway and Hayward streets, and is in a serious condition. The motorman was arrested and locked up.

Police Officers Collins and De Gan were accidentally shot, supposed by Seventh regiment men, at Gates and Stuyvesant avenues, last evening. Their wounds are not serious.

Elmer P. Van Dyke, of No. 25 West 12th street, New York, a member of the Twelth regiment, fell from the roof of an armory and sustained a compound fracture of the skull.

Policemen Shackleton, Coolison and Burke were seriously injured by stones thrown from the roofs of houses last evening. Shackleton's skull was fractured.

A car on the Fifth avenue line started from Fifth avenue and Twenty-third street shortly after 4 o'clock. At about three blocks from the depot it was surrounded by a mob. A detachment of the Thirteenth regiment under Major Cochrane charged the mob with fixed bayonets and the crowd scattered. August Brown received a bayonet wound in the hip. He was taken to a neighboring drug store and was treated there, after which he went home.

At 6 o'clock last night a feed wire was cut on the Bergen street railroad between Rogers and Nostrand avenues. Patrolman Collins, who was riding on a car, saw four men run and gave chase. He arrested Edward Dugan, of 1,505 Dean street, who was recognized as a motorman on the Sackett street railroad.

At 6:15 o'clock a mob of over 1,000 men surrounded a Gates avenue car at Nostrand avenue. Sticks and stones were thrown and shots were fired by men in the crowd. The reserves from the Ninth precinct station house hurried to the scene. After some trouble and hard fighting in which three policemen were seriously injured the mob scattered.

There was a report at military headquarters at midnight that it had been decided if the cars were not in operation in the morning that the militia would be sent back to New York, and the city officials would take charge of the crowds.

It is stated this morning that the linemen are in sympathy with the strikers and may possibly refuse to mend the wires. This will seriously cripple the railroad companies.

All cars stopped running a little after midnight and quiet prevailed throughout the early morning.

THE GING MURDER TRIAL.

Vague Hints on the Part of the Defense To Corrupt Jurors.

Minneapolis, Minn., Jan. 22.—The trial of Harry T. Hayward for the murder of Catherine Ging, which opened before Judge Seagrave Smith, developed a sensation before the noon recess, and now there are vague hints of attempts on the part of the defense to corrupt the jurors.

W. W. Erwin, chief counsel for the defense, stated that he would summon a witness to prove that Juror Andrew Carlson had made prejudiced statements to a man at his house. The judge was apparently startled by the assertion.

"I want to say right here," said the judge in forcible tones, "that if any of the attorneys in this case have gone about looking up the jurors on this panel for the purpose of ascertaining their opinions in this case that is contempt of court, and they will be called to account for it as sure as I sit on this bench."

Attorney John D. Smith remarked "Allow me to say that the defence has been to the trouble of examining as it has a right to, the records of all the jurors on this panel, as to their habits, morals and means of life, in order——"

"You, sir, as an attorney of law know what I mean and what you have a right to do," exclaimed the court.

"But the court must understand," said Mr. Smith, "that we have done nothing of the kind."

"We will see about it later," said the court. "The court is adjourned."

After adjournment two jurors said that men had called at their houses to see them since they had been drawn on the jury.

TO BE REORGANIZED.

Second Avenue Surface To Be Transformed Into a Cable Road.

New York, Jan. 22.—S. H. G. Stewart has secured the control of the Second avenue surface railroad for a syndicate headed by J. & W. Seligman, Emerson McMillin, and Clark, Ward & Co. The company will be reorganized and bonds will be issued to transform the road into a cable road. A meeting will be held to-morrow at which details will be perfected.

The syndicate intends to put in a cable system and proposes to reorganize the company under a new organization, capitalized as follows: $7,500,000 first mortgage five per cent. bonds, $2,000,000 second mortgage five per cent. bonds and $6,500,000 of stock. Of the first mortgage bonds enough will be set aside to retire existing first mortgage bonds, about $1,900,000, and the balance will be offered to the public.

The new second mortgage bonds may be given to the contractors who will put in the cable system. Some of the new securities may also be used to acquire additional property.

CRASH IN BINGHAMTON

Examiner Clark Closes Two of Its Institutions.

The Merchants' Bank and the Firm of Erastus Ross & Son, Private Bankers, Suspend — Unfortunate Speculation and Depreciation of Real Estate the Causes.

Binghamton, N. Y., Jan. 22.—A Binghamton bank closed its doors for the first time in the history of the city. The insolvent institution is the Merchants' bank. This bank was organized by Erastus Ross, who is also interested in the private bank of Erastus Ross & Sons. This institution also closed its doors soon after the parent institution had drawn its curtains.

The startling announcement came like a thunderbolt from a clear sky, as the bank was believed to be as solid as any similar institution in the country and enjoyed the confidence of merchants and citizens.

State Bank Examiner B. S. W. Clark in the course of his routine work through the southern tier last week inspected the Merchants' bank, reporting daily to Charles M. Preston, state superintendent of banking. On Saturday a telegram from headquarters called Mr. Clark to Albany. There the condition of the bank was considered too serious to be allowed to continue. Mr. Clark returned on Sunday night with the necessary papers and instructions from the state superintendent of banks to take possession on Monday morning. Some of the bank directors, however, assured the examiner that the Ross paper would be secured as soon as the papers could be drawn and executed. Upon this consideration Examiner Clark permitted the bank to open and it continued until the same directors gave notice that the security would not be given. Mr. Clark then closed the doors upon Binghamton's first bank failure.

Between five and six hundred thousand dollars of the bank's funds belong to the depositors. This sum, it is confidently expected, will be paid in full.

Ten days ago Erastus Ross executed a mortgage in favor of the bank, which as been placed on record. This secures all his indebtedness to the institution. It covers the four-story brick block on the corner of Court and Water streets and the fine seven-story brick building on Court, adjoining State street. These are estimated by competent judges to be a good investment at $150,000, although at a forced sale, it is believed, could hardly realize that sum.

One of the officers said: "With these collateral securities, the assets are sufficient to cover all liability unless needlessly wasted in receivers' fees and shrinkage by enforced collections. With the Ross paper fully paid, all liabilities could be met without material impairment of the capital stock."

The attorney general will immediately apply for the appointment of a receiver. Until one is appointed and qualifies, Bank Examiner Clark will retain the custody of the bank's assets. The Merchants' bank was originally a national bank, but in 1891 reincorporated under the state banking laws. It is capitalized at $100,000, of which the Rosses hold $54,000, with a surplus of $85,000. The assets are stated to include $16,000 owed by nearby banks, as well as $50,000 in cash.

The private bank is not a state banking corporation, but conducts its business in much the same manner as an ordinary business firm. The depositors of this bank have a claim upon the individual members of the firm, but subservient to the demands of the Merchants' bank creditors.

Various causes are assigned for the catastrophe and each appears to have some foundation. Unfortunate speculations contributed their share. In the Rossville Cigar company a moderate fortune was sunk. The Binghamton Hydraulic Power company consumed considerably less, but the amount was nearly $60,000. The cigarmaker's strike in 1890 seriously affected many of the various enterprises of Mr. Ross, from which he never fully recovered. The depreciation in real estate values and personal property consequent upon the recent financial difficulties of the country was another cause. A goodly sum was expended toward the construction of the Binghamton & State Line railroad. Much money was borrowed by the officers of the bank and the investment brought poor returns. The notes given therefor are now due and payments cannot be made.

The class of depositors at the Merchants' bank did not include many poor people, as the bank dealt mostly with business firms.

Business Complications Relieved.

Watertown, N. Y., Jan. 22.—The business complications which came to the firm of Dodge & Predmore, lumber dealers, of Gouverneur, by the defalcation and disappearance of Henry S. Predmore, one of the partners, have been relieved by an agreement between Mr. Dodge, sr., and Mr. Bigelow, of Rochester, father-in-law of Predmore, to settle the firm's account. It is stated that Mrs. Predmore has begun suit for divorce.

PART II.

One evening, a week after Stimson had indulged in the proud reflection that people who came in contact with his granite will usually ended in quick and abject submission, a young feminine friend of the girl behind the silvered netting came to her there and asked her to walk on the beach after "Stimson's Mammoth Merry-Go-Round" was closed for the night. The girl assented with a nod.

The young man upon the perch holding the basket for the rings saw this nod and judged its meaning. Into his mind was born a little plan for defeating the watchfulness of the redoubtable Stimson.

When the merry-go-round was closed and the two girls started for the beach, he wandered off aimlessly in another direction, but he kept them in view and as soon as he was assured that he had escaped the vigilance of Stimson, he followed them.

The electric lights on the beach made a broad band of tremoring light, extending parallel to the sea, and upon the wide walk there slowly paraded a great crowd, intermingling, intertwining, sometimes colliding. In the darkness stretched the vast purple expanse of the ocean, and the deep indigo sky above was peopled with yellow stars. Occasionally out upon the water a whirling mass of froth suddenly flashed into view, like a great ghostly robe appearing, and then vanished, leaving the sea in its solemn, mystic darkness, from whence came those bass tones of the water's unknown emotion. A wind, cool, reminiscent of the wave wastes, made the women hold their wraps about their throats and caused the men to grip the rims of their straw hats. It carried the noise of the band in the pavilion in gusts. Sometimes people unable to hear the music glanced up at the pavilion and were reassured upon beholding the distant leader still gesticulating and bobbing and the other members of the band with their lips glued to their instruments. High in the sky soared an unassuming moon, faintly silver.

"YOU WERE ANGRY WITH ME YESTERDAY."

For a time the young man was afraid to approach the two girls. He followed them at a distance and called himself a coward. At last, however, he saw them stop on the outer edge of the crowd and stand silently listening to the voices of the sea. When he came to where they stood, he was trembling in his agitation. They had not seen him.

"Lizzie," he began. "I—"

The girl wheeled instantly and put her hand to her throat. "Oh, Frank, how you frightened me," she said brilliantly.

"Well, you know I—I—" he stuttered.

But the other girl was one of those beings who are born to attend at tragedies. She had for love a reverence, an admiration that was greater the more she contemplated the fact that she knew nothing of it. This couple with their fine emotions, awed her and made her humbly wish that she might be destined to be of some service to them. She was very homely.

When the young man faltered before them, she, in her sympathy, actually overestimated the crisis and felt that he might fall dying at their feet. Shyly, but with courage, she marched to the rescue. "Won't you come walk on th' beach with us," she said. The young man gave her a glance of deep gratitude which was not without the patronage which a man in his condition naturally feels for one who pities it. The three walked on.

Finally the being who was born to attend at this tragedy said that she wished to sit down and gaze at the sea, alone.

They politely urged her to walk on with them, but she was obstinate. She wished to gaze at the sea, alone. The young man swore to himself that he would be her friend until he died.

And so the two young lovers went on without her. They turned once to look at her.

"Jennie's awful nice," said the girl.

"You bet she is," replied the young man, with great feeling.

They were silent for a little time.

At last the girl said: "You were angry at me yesterday."

"No, I wasn't."

"Yes, you were, too. You wouldn't look at me once all day."

"No, I wasn't angry. I was only putting on."

Though she had, of course, known it, this confession seemed to make her very angry. She flashed a resentful glance at him. "Oh, were you, indeed!" she said, with a great air.

For a few minutes she was so haughty with him that he loved her to madness. And directly this great poem which stuck at his lips came forth lamely in fragments.

When they walked back toward the other girl and saw the patience of her attitude, their hearts swelled in a patronizing and secondary tenderness for her.

They were very happy. If they had been miserable they would have charged this fairy scene of the night with a criminal heartlessnes, but as they were joyous, they vaguely wondered how the purple sea, the yellow stars, the changing crowd under the electric lights could be so phlegmatic and stolid.

They walked home by the lakeside way and out upon the water, those gay paper lanterns, flashing, fleeting and careering, sang to them, sang a chorus of red and violet and green and gold, a song of mystic lands of the future.

One day when business paused during the dull, sultry afternoon, Stimson went up town. Upon his return he found that the popcorn man from his stand over in a corner was keeping an eye upon the cashier's cage, and that nobody at all was attending to the wooden arm and the iron rings.

He strode forward like a sergeant of grenadiers. "Where in thunder is Lizzie?" he demanded, a storm of rage in his eyes.

The popcorn man, although long associated with Stimson, had never got over being dazed. "They've—they've—gone round to th'—th' house," he said, with difficulty, as if he had just been stunned.

"Whose house?" snapped Stimson.

"Your—your house, I 'spose," said the popcorn man.

Stimson marched round to his home. Imperial denunciations surged, already formulated, to the tip of his tongue, and he bided the moment when his anger could fall upon the heads of that pair of children.

He found his wife convulsive and in tears.

"Where's Lizzie?"

And then she burst forth: "Oh—John—John—they've run away—I know they have. They drove by here not three minutes ago. They must have done it on purpose to bid me good-by, for Lizzie waved her hand sad-like, and then, before I could get out to ask where they were going or what, Frank whipped up the horse and they were gone."

Stimson gave vent to a dreadful roar. "Get my revolver—get a hack—get my revolver, d——, do you hear—what the devil"—his voice became incoherent in a chaotic rage.

He had always ordered his wife about as if she were a battalion of infantry, and despite her misery, the training of years caused her to spring mechanically to obey, but suddenly she turned to him a shrill appeal.

"Oh, John—not—the revolver."

"Confound it, let go of me," he roared again and shook her from him.

He ran hatless upon the street. There was a multitude of hacks at the summer resort, but it was ages to him before he could find one. Then he charged it like a bull. "Up town," he yelled, as he tumbled into the rear seat. The hackman thought of severed arteries and broken bones. His galloping horse distanced a large number of citizens who had been running to find what caused such contortions by the little hatless man.

It chanced as the bouncing hack went along near the lake, Stimson gazed across the calm, gray expanse and recognized a color in a bonnet and a poise of a head. A buggy was traveling along a highway that led to Sorrington. Stimson bellowed: "There—there—there they are—in that buggy."

The hackman became inspired with the full knowledge of the situation. He struck his horse a delirious blow with the whip. His mouth expanded in a grin of excitement and joy. It came to pass that this old vehicle, with its drowsy horse and its dusty-eyed and tranquil driver, seemed all suddenly to awaken, to become animated and fleet. The horse ceased to ruminate on his state, his air of reflection vanished. He became intent upon his gait and spread his aged legs in quaint and ridiculous devices for speed. The driver, his eyes shining, sat critically in his seat. He watched each motion of this rattling machine down before him. He resembled an engineer. He used the whip with judgment and deliberation as the engineer would have used coal or oil. The horse clacked swiftly upon the macadam, the wheels hummed, the body of the vehicle wheezed and groaned.

Stimson, in the rear seat, was erect in that impassive attitude that comes sometimes to the furious man when he is obliged to leave the battle to others. Frequently, however, the tempest in his breast came to his face and he howled: "Go it—go it—you're gaining; pound 'im; thump the life out of 'im; hit 'im hard, you fool." His hand grasped the rod that supported the carriage top, and it was clenched so that the nails were faintly blue.

Ahead, that other carriage had been flying with speed, as from realization of the menace in the rear. It bowled away rapidly, drawn by the eager spirit of a young and modern horse. Stimson could see the buggy-top bobbing, bobbing. That little pane, like an eye, was a derision to him. Once he leaned forward and bawled angry sentences. He began to feel impotent; his whole expedition was the tottering of an old man upon the trail of birds. A sense of age made him choke again with wrath. That other vehicle, that was youth, with youth's pace, it was swift-flying with the hope of dreams. He began to comprehend those two children ahead of him, and he knew a sudden and strange awe, because he pursued the power of their young blood, the power to fly strongly into the future and feel and hope again, even at that time when his bones must be laid in the earth.

The dust rose easily from the hot road and stifled the nostrils of Stimson. The highway vanished far away in a point with a suggestion of intolerable length. The other vehicle was becoming so small that Stimson could no longer see the derisive eye.

At last the hackman drew rein to his horse and turned to look at Stimson. "No use, I guess," he said. Stimson made a gesture of acquiescence, rage, despair. As the hackman turned his dripping horse about, Stimson sank back with the astonishment and grief of a man who has been defied by the universe. He had been in a great perspiration, and now his bald head felt cool and uncomfortable. He put up his hand with the sudden recollection that he had forgotten his hat.

At last he made a gesture. It meant that at any rate he was not responsible.

[THE END.]

Marvelous Results.

From a letter written by Rev. J. Gunderman, of Diamondale, Mich., we are permitted to make this extract: "I have no hesitation in recommending Dr. King's New Discovery, as the results were almost marvelous in the case of my wife. While I was pastor of the Baptist Church at Rives Junction she was brought down by pneumonia succeeding la grippe. Terrible paroxysms of coughing would last hours with little interruption and it seemed as if she could not survive them. A friend recommended Dr. King's New Discovery; it was quick in its work and highly satisfactory in results. Sold by L. W. Randolph druggist. Regular size 50c and $1; our price 45c and 90c

[Copyright, 1895, by Bacheller, Johnson & Bacheller.]

"It was when I was a youngster," said he. "There was a big city man in those days who was known to have a very valuable gold watch. I followed him about for several days before I could get a chance; but when I did get one, you may be sure I did not throw it away. He found, to his disgust, when he got home that day, that there was nothing in his fob. I hurried off with my prize, and got it stowed away in safety, intending to have it melted down next day. Now, it happened that this watch possessed a special value in the owner's eyes because it was a sort of ancestral possession—presented by his father on coming of age, or something of that sort. I remember there was a long inscription on the back. He was determined not to lose it if he could help it, and accordingly he put an advertisement in an evening paper offering thirty pounds reward for his return, and promising that no questions should be asked. He gave the address of his house, 31 Caroline square, at the end of the advertisement. The thing sounded good enough, so I set off for Caroline square, leaving the watch in a parcel at a public house which I passed on the way. When I got there, the gentleman was at dinner; but he came out quick enough when he heard that a young man wanted to see him. I suppose he guessed who the young man would prove to be. He was a genial-looking old fellow, and he led me away with him into his study.

"'Well, my lad,' said he, 'what is it?'

"'I've come about that watch of yours,' said I. 'I think I can lay my hands on it.'

"'Oh, it was you that took it!' said he.

"'No,' I answered; 'I know nothing whatever about how you lost it. I have been sent by another party to see you about it. Even if you have me arrested, you will not find out anything.'

"'Well,' he said, 'I don't want to be hard on you. Hand it over, and here is my cheque for the amount.'

"'Cheques won't do,' said I; 'I must have it in gold.'

"'It would an hour or so to collect in gold,' said he.

"'That will just suit,' I answered, for I have not got the watch with me. I'll go back and fetch it, while you raise the money.'

"I started off, and got the watch where I had left it. When I came back, the old gentleman was sitting behind his study table, with the little heap of gold in front of him.

"'Here is your money,' he said, and pushed it over.

"'Here is your watch,' said I.

"He was evidently delighted to get it back; and after examining it carefully, and assuring himself that it was none the worse, he put it into the watch pocket of his coat with a grunt of satisfaction.

"'Now, my lad,' he said, 'I know it was you that took the watch. Tell me how you did it, and I don't mind giving you an extra five-pound note.'

"'I wouldn't tell you in any case,' said I; 'but especially I wouldn't tell you when you have a witness hid behind that curtain.' You see, I had all my wits about me, and it didn't escape me that the curtain was drawn tighter than it had been before.

"'You are too sharp for us,' said he, good humoredly. 'Well, you have got your money, and that's an end of it. I'll take precious good care you don't get hold of my watch again in a hurry—good night—no; not that door,' he added as I marched towards a cupboard. 'This is the door,' and he stood up and opened it. I brushed past him, opened the hall door, and was round the corner of the square in no time. I don't know how long the old gentleman took to find it out, but in passing him at the door I managed to pick his pocket for the second time, and next morning the family heirloom was in the melting pot after all. That wasn't bad, was it?"

The old war-horse had evidently forgotten all about his conversion now. There was a tone of triumph in the conclusion of his anecdote which showed that his pride in his smartness far surpassed his repentance of his misdeeds. He seemed pleased at the astonishment and amusement I expressed at his adroitness.

"Yes," he continued with a laugh, "it was a capital joke. But sometimes the fun lies all the other way. Even the sharpest of us come to grief at times. There was one rather curious incident which occurred in my career. You may possibly have seen the anecdote, for it got into print at the time."

"Pray let me hear it," said I.

"Well, it is hard lines telling stories against one's self, but this was how it happened: I had made a rather good haul, and invested some of the swag in buying a very fine diamond ring. I thought it would be something to fall back upon when all the ready was gone and times were hard. I had just purchased it, and was going back to my lodgings in the omnibus, when as luck would have it, a very stylishly-dressed young lady came in, and took her seat beside me. I didn't pay much attention to her at first; but after a time something hard in her dress knocked up against my hand, which my experienced touch soon made out to be a purse. It struck me that I could not pass the time more profitably or agreeably than by making this purse my own. I had to do it very carefully; but I managed at last to wriggle my hand into her rather light pocket, and thought the job was over. Just at this moment she rose abruptly to leave the 'bus, and I had hardly time to get my hand with the purse in it out of her pocket without detection. It was not until she had been gone some time that I found out that in drawing out my hand in that hurried manner the new and ill-fitting ring had slipped over my finger and remained in the young lady's pocket. I sprang out and ran in the direction in which she had gone with the intention of picking her pocket once again. She had disappeared, however; and from that day till this I have never set eyes on her. To make the matter worse, there was only four pence half-penny in coppers inside the purse. Serve me right for trying to rob such a pretty girl; still, if I had that two hundred quid now I should not be reduced to—Good heavens, forgive me! What am I saying?"

He seemed inclined to relapse into silence after this; but I was determined to draw him out a little more, if I could possibly manage it. "There is less personal risk in the branch you have been talking of," I remarked, "than there is in burglary."

"Ah!" he said, warming to his subject once again, "it is the higher game which is best worth aiming at. Talk about sport, sir, talk about fishing or hunting! why it is tame in comparison! Think of the great country house with its men servants and its dogs and its firearms, and you with only your jimmy and your center bit, and your mother wit, which is best of all. It is the triumph of intellect over brute force, sir, as represented by bolts and bars."

"People generally look upon it as quite the reverse," I remarked.

"I was never one of those blundering life-preserver fellows," said my companion. "I did try my hand at garrotting once; but it was against my principles, and I gave it up. I have tried everything. I have been a bedridden widow with three young children; but I do object to physical force."

"You have been what?" said I.

"A bedridden widow. Advertising, you know, and getting subscriptions. I have tried them all. You seem interested in these experiences," he continued; "so I will tell you another anecdote. It was the narrowest escape for penal servitude that ever I had in my life. A pal and I had gone down on a country beat—it doesn't signify where it was—and taken up our headquarters in a little provincial town. Somehow it got noised abroad that we were there, and householders were warned to be careful, as suspicious characters had been seen in the neighborhood. We should have changed our plans when we saw the game was up; but my chum was a plucky fellow, and wouldn't consent to back down. Poor little Jim! He was only thirty-four round the chest, and about twelve at the biceps; but there is not a measuring tape in England could have given the size of his heart. He said we were in for it, and we must stick to it; so I agreed to stay, and we chose Morley hall, the country house of a certain Col. Morley, to begin with.

"Now this Col. Morley was about the last man in the world that we should have meddled with. He was a smart, cool-headed fellow, who had been about and seen the world, and it seems that he took a special pride in the detection of criminals. However, we knew nothing of all this at that time; so we set forth hopefully to have a try at the house.

"The reason that made us pick him out among the rest was that he had a good-for-nothing groom, who was a tool in our hands. This fellow had drawn up a rough plan of the premises for us. The place was pretty well locked up and guarded, and the only weak point we could see was a certain trapdoor, the padlock of which was broken, and which opened from the roof into one of the lumber rooms. If we could only find any method of reaching the roof, we might force a way securely from above. We both thought the plan rather a good one, and it had a spice of originality about it which pleased us. It is not the mere jewels or plate, you know, that a good cracksman thinks about. The neatness of the job and his reputation for smartness are almost as important in his eyes.

"We had been very quiet for a day or two, just to let suspicion die away. Then we set out one dark night, Jim and I, and got over the avenue railings and up to the house without meeting a soul. It was blowing hard, I remember, and the clouds hurrying across the sky. We had a good look at the front of the house, and then Jim went round to the garden side. He came running back in a minute or two in a great state of delight. 'Why, Bill,' he said, gripping me by the arm, 'there never was such a bit of luck! They've been repairing the roof or something, and they've left the ladder standing.' We went round together, and there, sure enough, was the ladder towering above our heads, and one or two laborers' hods lying about, which showed that some work had been going on during the day. We had a good look round, to see that everything was quiet, and then we climbed up, Jim first and I after him. We got to the top, and were sitting on the slates, having a bit of a breather, before beginning business, when you can fancy our feelings to see the ladder that we came up by suddenly stand straight up in the air, and then slowly descend until it rested in the garden below! At first we hoped it might have slipped, though that was bad enough; but we soon had that idea put out of our head.

"'Hullo, up there!' cried a voice from below.

"We craned our heads over the edge, and there was a man, dressed, as far as we could make out, in evening dress, and standing in the middle of the grass plot. We kept quiet.

"'Hullo!' he shouted again. 'How do you feel yourself? Pretty comfortable, eh? Ha! ha! You London rogues thought we were green in the country. what's your opinion now?'

Foster, Henry Meigs Popham, C. Herbert Davis, and S. Hall Berry were the ushers. The maid of honor was Miss Mary DePeyster Lincoln Bache, and Miss Henrietta B. Wilmerding and Miss Hortense P. Armstrong were bridemaids.

A Good Record.

(From The Jersey City Journal.)

It may not be of any interest to anybody outside of the "press gang", and it may not convince anybody that newspaper men are not all utterly depraved and irredeemably wicked, but we mention the fact that, while the police records of the city of New York show that there were 77,000 persons arrested there last year, there was not a single newspaper man or woman among the number. There were among the arrested parties more than a hundred lawyers, ninety-eight physicians and eleven clergymen, but not a single member of the "fourth estate". This must be assumed as indicating one of two facts: either that the members of the press are exceptionally law-abiding and well behaved, or that they are smart enough to keep themselves out of the grasp of the minions of the law—and either way, it is a good record for the newspaper fraternity.

THE POWDER BALL.

PLAINFIELD SOCIETY ADORNS THE COSTUMES OF THE PAST.

Park Club-House a Scene of Real Beauty and Stately Gallantry.

There was a sound of revelry by night,
And Plainfield's social set had gathered then
Her beauty and her chivalry, and bright
The lamps shone o' er fair women and brave men;
Two hundred hearts beat happily; and when
Music arose with its voluptuous swell,
Soft eyes looked love to eyes which spake again,
And all went merry as a marriage-bell.
—Adapted from "Childe Harold".

As the arriving guests stepped from the star-canopied night through the open portals of the Park Club, it almost seemed as if they were greeted with a scene from the court of Louis XIV, brought back to life once more by the genial social atmosphere which always pervades this home of gaiety. Courtly gallants were everywhere attending the beautiful dames whose presence graced the tastily decorated assembly hall.

Stately dutchesses, fair women of the court, bonny, bright-eyed maids of honor, with here and there a gayly decked Dolly Varden or merry milk maid, seemed to float rather than dance to the witching music of Issler's orchestra of Newark, which was in perfect touch with that air of medieval romance that for the time being seemed to animate the gay picture, which looked as though it were ready at the stroke of midnight to step back again within the time-worn frame from which it had emerged to join in revelry. It were idle to say "the happy party enjoyed themselves", for one need only recall that the affair was held under the Park Club's arching roof, whose rafters echoed and re-echoed the merry pealing laughter on this, as on many another social occasion given by these hospitable hosts. Yet it can be safely said that none among the joyous party who exchanged bon-mots or sought some nook for a moment of quiet chat during the intervals of the dance last evening, could have more gaily or more happily whiled away the swiftly speeding hours, for that were well-nigh impossible.

The cosy gallery was well filled with a party of on lookers, which was augmented from time to time by some friend from the ball-room below, who left the lively scene only to be irresistibly attracted back again by its ever changing beauty. Occasionally would be noted the temporary absence of some well-known masculine face, but the searcher had only to glance down through the billiard room or toward the alley, where could be seen Counselor Reed and G. T. Rogers dallying with the ivories, or Messrs. Matthews, W. O. Worth, Dr. Thiers, and Julius Erickson rapidly piling up strikes and spares in quick succession. Promptly at eleven o'clock the beautifully gowned dames and damsels invaded the billiard hall, attracted by the bountiful collation which was in waiting, brilliant repartee and happy social intercourse adding zest to this most pleasant interruption. Long did the merry groups linger to enjoy the rest or watch the athletes as they sent the heavy spheres dancing down the polished alleys, sweeping everything before them with the regularity of clock-work. But once more it was "on with the dance, let joy be unconfined", and the beautiful kaleidoscopic picture was again presented to the gaze as the merry makers "tripped the light fantastic toe" to the sweet symphonies of music. The stars had almost run their courses in the blue-vaulted heaven when the picture dissolved, yet it will always be a pleasing memory to guest and host alike, that the Bal Poudre at the Park was in every way a most flattering success.

The patronesses last evening were: Mrs Charles A Reed, Mrs Samuel Townsend, Mrs George D Hallock, Mrs B A Hegeman, Jr., Mrs J H Howell, Mrs F G Grant, and Mrs William J Roome. Mrs Hegeman and Mrs Howell were unfortunately absent because of sickness.

A full representation of the club members was present and among the guests might be mentioned: Mr and Mrs Percy Stewart, Mr and Mrs H J Runyon, Mr and Mrs James B Roy, Mr and Mrs J K Myers, Mrs Scott Brown, Mrs C J Powers, Miss and Mr Moore, Miss Dryden, Miss J Louise Pangborn, Miss Florence V B Myers, Miss Katherine Manning, Miss Florence J Marsh, Miss Long, Miss Shannon, Miss Louise Kopper, Miss Annie Stewart, Miss Lord, Miss Katherine Underwood, Dr and Mrs Thiers, Mr and Mrs Van Deventer, Mr and Mrs Edwin Douglass, Mr and Mrs Herbert Brooks, Mr and Mrs Edward W Hooley, Mr and Mrs W L Saunders, Mr and Mrs Lemuel Serrell, Mr and Mrs G T Rogers, Mr and Mrs W O Worth, Miss Horne, Miss Pauline M Sandford, Miss and Mr Weltmann, Miss Daniels, the Misses Barlow, Miss Florence Abbott, Miss Edith Clapp, Miss Wilkins, Miss Edith Harold, Miss Bisley and Miss Helen Dunham, New York, friends of Dr and Mrs Grant, Miss and Mr French, and the Messrs Wesley Abbott, Chapman, J M Leonard, Carl Brown, Middledith, George Freeman, Irving West, Clifford McGee, Charles Faber, Walter Place, C E Frost, George Van Boskerck, J H Hallock, A B Laing, F E Richards, J H Worth, George F Brown, Percy Ingalls, H A Patten, James Middleton, Meredith Dryden, Julius Erickson, John Moon, and Peter Matthews.

The fair women were all beautifully gowned in an endless variety of filmy costumes which almost beggar description, yet in this gorgeous array were noticeable the costumes of Mrs Chas A Reed, radiant as "The Duchess" in a beautiful gown of pink silk elaborately trimmed with pink ribbons; Mrs Wm J Roome as "Lady Teazle", accompanied by Mr Roome in full court costume and periwig; Mrs F G Grant as "Martha Washington"; Miss Barlow as "Dolly Varden"; Mrs Saunders, beautiful in an elaborate Dresden gown; Miss Louise Kopper of Madison, a guest of Mrs Reed, attired in organdie over pink silk; Mrs G D Hallock, in yellow satin with black lace; Miss Daniels in an empire gown of blue crepon; Miss Catherine Underwood in lavender satin beautifully trimmed with violets; Miss Nellie Underwood in blue chiffon; Miss Laura Underwood in yellow satin trimmed with green chiffon; Miss Wilkins in blue striped silk; Miss Katherine Manning in black point d' esprit with white bertha; Mrs Geo T Rogers in an empire gown draped with blue crepon; Mrs Herbert Brooks in dainty white point d' esprit; Miss Woltmann in yellow silk with black trimming; Mrs Thiers in beautiful white silk; Mrs Douglass in blue brocaded satin; Miss Minnie Brookein white chiffon trimmed with smilax; Miss Molly VanDeventer in an elaborate white silk; Miss Dunham in pink point d' esprit over satin; Miss Horne in dainty white; Miss Harold in white chiffon and lavender velvet; Miss Bisley in white satin embroidered with pink roses; Miss Lord in yellow brocaded satin with thread lace bertha; Miss Abbott in lavender crepon; Mrs Thompson in white brocaded satin; Mrs Lemuel Serrell in lavender silk covered with lace; Mrs Sandford in white point d' esprit with white ribbons; and Miss Grace Barlow in pink satin and white lace.

CHARITY AT HOME.

Plainfield Women Discuss Methods of Municipal Alms-Giving.

The Plainfield Branch Alliance of Unitarian and Other Liberal Christian Women held one of their most interesting meetings yesterday afternoon in All Souls Church.

The subject for discussion was charity, and its relations to Plainfield. Mrs. B J Shreve read the first paper, on the "Administration and cost of our present charity system". It was an historical account, starting with mention of the old-fashioned method of hiring the poor out by contract. Mrs. Shreve spoke of the benefits of the Relief Association and Citizens Organized Aid. She also paid a tribute to Mrs. Tiffany, who organized the Relief. The problem of caring for the poor was yet unsettled, she said; and then told of the system employed in Burlington, where a poor farm had been established since 1800, and was admirably carried on. The cost for each inmate was only $50 per year. Plainfield was in need of a better system.

Mrs. Horace Kimball presented a paper on the adoption of a better plan. She described graphically the bad results of our present system. An interesting fact was noted that the matter of poverty was more or less hereditary, and cited as an instance that three generations were represented at present on the charity list. She thought that if an almshouse were established many would exercise their strength and intelligence, rather than become inmates.

Extracts were read from a letter by R. Treat Paine, on pauperism, showing that pauperism was fostered by indiscriminate giving.

Mr. H. B. Opdyke in a very interesting paper told of the tramp question, and stated that whenever a tramp was sent to E. H. Holmes's coal and wood yard with a ticket he would get enough work to obtain a good meal. She thought that attention should be given to able-bodied applicants, and that the unskilled should be trained.

Another letter was read from Mrs. Benjamin Williams, Secretary of the State Charities Aid Association, urging that provision should be made for the defective classes. There are at present only two institutions for this class, one at Trenton and the other at Vineland, and the State Society was endeavoring to get an appropriation from the State for the building of an asylum for the blind.

An informal discussion followed on the papers, which was participated in by Mrs. D. P. Hall, Mrs. G. F. Opdyke, Mrs. E W. Conklin, Mrs. E. C. Pearson, Miss Mary Tweedy, Miss Kate Martine and Miss E. O. Reynolds.

At the next meeting, Tuesday, Feb. 26, the subject of "Criminal Classes" will be taken up, and H. P. Reynolds will furnish a very interesting paper.

OFFICIAL OPINION ON WELL WATER.

(From Report of State Board of Health, Mass., 1893.)

When any part of a territory from which a well derives its supply is populated and the waste waters of this population are discharged into the ground, these waters percolate downwards until they reach the level of the water in the ground, and then, mingling with the natural ground water, filter slowly toward the well. In such a case the dissolved mineral matters (for instance, common salt, and the salts of lime and magnesia which make water hard) are not removed by the filtration; but the organic matter may be decomposed and wholly transformed into harmless mineral matters by filtering through the ground for a sufficient distance.

There is scarcely a doubt that the waste water discharged into the ground from the more distant points will continue to be thoroughly purified before reaching the well, and the effect of an increase in population at these points would be to increase the hardness of the water rather than to render it injurious to health. There is a greater probability that the water may at some time be polluted by the wastes which enter the grounds at nearer points, say within a distance of from 600 to 800 feet from the well.

"The Lost Paradise."

In "The Lost Paradise", to be presented in Music Hall tomorrow night, a pretty, interesting love theme prevails, and sufficient comedy is infused to alleviate the sombre effect of the troubles of the working class. As a man of intensity and strong, heroic manhood, William Morris, the chief actor, shines most brilliantly. The completeness of his character in the part of the superior of the men in position and their equal as a man is most notable.

Neither Side Appeared.

The case of Guttman against W. A. Coddington, adjourned to yesterday before Judge Moore at Fanwood, was called at 2, the hour for which it was set down, and though the Court waited patiently till 3, neither side appeared, and the Judge returned to New York.

THE COST OF LIVING.

Plainfield Markets Defended Against the Outside World.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE DAILY PRESS:—In a recent issue of The Daily Press I noticed a communication signed by M. in reference to the high prices charged for all kinds of provisions in Plainfield, special reference having been made to grocers and butchers. As one of the latter I beg you to devote sufficient space to this article to give our side of the case.

There is no necessity for any commuter taking his market basket to New York, provided he will do his marketing here on the same terms he does it there. In New York he leaves his basket and his order, pays for his goods and carries them home or has them sent by express. Here we are expected to send a wagon for the order, deliver it, charge it, and then wait until our customer gets good and ready to pay for them. Any business man knows that this means expense and that this expense is added to the cost of the goods.

When M says he buys as good a roast in New York at 14 cents as that for which he pays 18 and 20 cents here, it probably tastes as good to him because it is cheap—but he forgets to mention the fact that to his 14 cents he has to add express charges, which I am informed is about 1½ cents per pound. At 16 cents per pound and on the same terms he can buy a better roast here than he can in New York for the same money.

I will admit that poultry is dearer here than it ought to be, but that is because people here won't buy the same kind of poultry that they do in New York. Here unless a chicken or turkey is scalded people don't want them; in New York they will buy anything so long as it is cheap.

The remedy is in the people's own hands. If they will buy here as they do in New York we can dispense with our horses, wagons, drivers and bookkeepers, which will necessarily reduce the cost on all provisions.

OBITUARY.

Mrs. Abner Bartlett.

The mother of Abner Bartlett, Jr., passed away today after several months of suffering. She only lived seven months after her husband's death, and was constantly attended by two nurses and Dr. Jule of New York and Dr. Stryker, a son-in-law, of Philadelphia. She was 72 years of age, born in Louisville, Ky., of the well-known Easton family.

Song and Sermon.

An increase of interest was evident at the meeting at Grace M. E. Church last night. There was a large attendance, and the services were of a spirited character. Mr. Moon sang effectively a solo, "Oh, wonderful words of the Gospel", and Miss Carroll, the organist, rendered acceptably "In the secret of His presence". There was a full chorus choir, and the singing was greatly enjoyed. Rev. H. F. Randolph preached a consecration sermon from the words "Sirs, we would see Jesus". The thought he enforced was devotion to the service of Christ, pressing the duty on believers to lead inquiring souls to the Saviour. Dr. Carroll added a few words of exhortation in the brief after-meeting.

Everybody's Experience.

A Plainfield man in Newark yesterday met Mr. Hart of the house of Hillier & Co., the favorite cleansers and dyers, and the conversation turned on advertising, of which Mr. Hart is a devoted disciple. He said he had found that good advertising was a trade-maker, and to it Hillier & Co. owed much of their success. In Plainfield he had always used The Daily Press, and he was pleased with the honorable treatment and great results of that paper. He would always use The Press, he said, and no other paper in the town.

Comrades and Sons to Attend.

An invitation has been accepted by Winfield Scott Post, No. 73, and John Hand Camp, No. 28, S. of V., to attend the meeting of the Women's Relief Corps, No. 10, Friday evening, when the president-elect, Mrs. M. C. Dobbins, will be installed.

Marvelous Results.

From a letter written by Rev. J. Gunderman, of Dismondale, Mich., we are permitted to make this extract: "I have no hesitation in recommending Dr. King's New Discovery, as the results were almost marvelous in the case of my wife. While I was pastor of the Baptist Church at Rives Junction she was brought down by pneumonia succeeding la grippe. Terrible paroxysms of coughing would last hours with little interruption and it seemed as if she could not survive them. A friend recommended Dr. King's New Discovery; it was quick in its work and highly satisfactory in results. Sold by L. W. Randolph druggist. Regular size 50c and $1; our price 45c and 90c

JUDGE RICKS CENSURED

Judiciary Committee Disapprove His Methods.

Not Satisfied That He Has Been Guilty of Wrong Committed While on the Bench, But Condemn the Manner in Which He Made Up His Accounts.

Washington, Jan. 23.—The house committee on the judiciary in open session considered the charges against Judge Augustus J. Ricks, of Cleveland, O. Judge Ricks was present with his attorney. The Cleveland Central Labor union was represented by two attorneys. But one member of the committee, Mr. Terry, of Arkansas, was absent. In reply to an invitation from Chairman Culberson, Judge Ricks made a statement and produced affidavits from clerks of several courts to show that the practice of the clerk of charging himself with the completed records in advance of their completion was a general one.

Chairman Culberson inquired why he had not returned the accounts to the attorney general's office in on report instead of scattering them through several years, and the judge replied:

"It was not my duty to complete all records but it was my option or privilege so I charged myself with those in which the parties were solvent. Had I charged those in which the parties were insolvent, and I well knew that some of them were, I would have become a guarantor to the government for the cost of the work.

"I hold that a clerk is not obliged to make returns until the work is done." Had he done otherwise than he did it would have been necessary for him to advance the money, some $1,700, he said, when he became judge, and run the risk of collecting when the work was done.

In answer to Mr. Boatner's question what right he had after he became judge to complete cases which he had not reported to the attorney general while clerk, the judge said that he had no legal right, but that his course was the most convenient to all parties.

In reply to a question, he said that he had never as judge passed on his own accounts as clerk, and that there had been no contest over them.

The committe spent two hours in executive session discussing the matter. Mr. George P. Harrison (dem., Ala.) offered the following resolution:

"That while the committe is not satisfied that Judge Ricks has been guilty of any wrong committed while judge, that will justify it in reporting a resolution of impeachment, yet the committee cannot too strongly censure the practice under which Judge Ricks made up his accounts."

This resolution was adopted by a vote of nine to seven as follows: Yeas, Goodnight (Ky.), Layton (O.), Wolverton (Pa.), Harrison (Ala.), Ray (N. Y.), Powers (Vt.), Broderick (Kan.), William A. Stone (Pa.), and Childs (Ill.) Nays, Culberson (Tex.), Stockdale (Miss.), Boatner (La.), Lane (Ill.), Bailey (Tex.), De Armond (Mo.), and Updegreff (Ia.)

Mr. Bailey will still persist in reporting in favor of the impeachment of Judge Ricks and when the matter comes up in the house will endeavor to have that body adopt his recommendation.

HE WOULDN'T EXPLAIN.

Mrs. Baker Greeted a Visitor During Her Husband's Absence.

Belvidere, N. J., Jan. 23.—The people of this town are gossiping over a scandal in the household of Chief of Police Baker. On Monday night Chief Baker was compelled to remain in his office until a late hour. When he entered the yard leading to his house he was surprised to see the parlor brilliantly lighted.

He quietly slipped in through the back door and heard hurried footsteps in the hall. He had hardly stepped into the parlor when he saw a man leaving by the front door. Baker followed and called upon him to halt. The stranger quickened his pace. Baker again shouted to the man to stop, but this only caused the visitor to increase his speed. Baker then fired two shots at the stranger, who was soon lost to view in the fog and darkness.

Baker returned home and asked his wife who the man was, but she refused to give an explanation to her husband a stormy scene ensued. She said that he was a friend of hers, who had dropped in to make a friendly call. It is generally understood that the stranger was a well-known man about town, and it is said there will be trouble over the matter.

ONE MORE JUROR OBTAINED.

Sympathetic Move for Hayward in the Ging Murder Case.

Mr. Erwin said that about three weeks ago a fellow prisoner invited Hayward to join in the conspiracy. Hayward, so Mr. Erwin deciared, brought the matter before his attorney who in turn notified the jail authorities and a search revealed a well developed scheme for a jail delivery.

Byond this incident there was nothing of interest in the case except when a young lady created a scene by attempting to present Hayward with a bunch of violets.

ATTENTION OF THE JAPS

Will Not Attempt to Reach Pekin This Winter.

Advices Received by Steamer Peru Say That It Has Been Decided To Capture Wei-Hai-Wei—Statistics Showing China's Loss at Present To Be About 80,000,000 Yen.

San Francisco, Jan. 23.—The steamer Peru, just arrived, brings Tokio news to Jan. 8. Under date Jan. 2, the Japan Gazette says:

"We understand that no attempt will be made to reach Pekin this winter. The reason is obvious, but it would never do to let the army remain idle nor to permit the national enthusiasm to cool through a passive policy. Hence it is reported that it has been decided to capture Wei-Hai-Wei.

"If it was not for the bad weather this diversion would not be attempted, as the Chinese fleet is afraid to fight and Wei-Hai-Wei is no obstacle to a march on the capital. But since forward movement of any magnitude are at present impossible the value of capturing Wei-Hai-Wei is easily comprehensible. It would destroy the last refuge of the Chinese fleet and in all probability the fleet itself.

"Being close to shore the sailors could be depended upon to desert and it is very unlikely that the Chinese gunners in the forts will offer any more determined resistance than that exhibited by the cowards at Port Arthur. Its capture then would be simple, and apart from the moral effect of the blow, the destruction or surrender of the Chinese fleet would destroy the last chance of China again acting on the offensive. Before the end of January we believe Wei-Hai-Wei will be in Japanese hands."

Writing under date January 8, the United Press correspondent at Tokio says:

"In addition to two first class fortresses and a dockyard with all appliances, as well as a great tract of territory, China has lost in the present war fighting ships aggregating 13,346 tons and valued at 11,000,000 yen (five and a half million gold dollars.) Of these vessels three were captured by the Japanese; the rest sunk or burned. Among other spoils taken by the Japanese are 607 cannon; 7,400 stand of rifles; 2,801,741 rounds of cannon ammunition; 77,458,785 rounds of small arm ammunition; 16,957 Koku of rice; specie and coin to the amount of one million yen; 3,326 tents; 18 sailing ships and steamers and a quantity of other things the value of the whole, including the fortresses and dock-yard being about eighty million yen.

"The Japanese armies in the field consists of three divisions and a half. The first division and one half of the second are now in the Liao Tung peninsula where they form the second army. Their inaction since taking Port Arthur has been a subject of comment. The brigade forming half of the sixth division remained to garrison Port Arthur and the first division has been massed at Chin Chow and Talien. The reasons for this inertia are apparent. The first division has been held in readiness for another expedition over the sea. It could not, therefore, undertake any operations involving a long march inland. The expedition in question is an attack upon Wei-Hai-Wei. China's only remaining fortified harbor in the Gulf of Pechili. The first division will not proceed alone. It is to be joined by the third division, now on the point of embarking from Hiroshima. The place of landing in the Shan Tung province is kept a profound secret, but the Chinese know that Wei-Hai-Wei is to be attacked and have been doing everything in their power to fortify its back door. It is a tremendous undertaking to carry an army of 20,000 men into the Gulf of Pechili and land them on the Shan Tung shores in midwinter.

"The situation of the left wing of the first Japanese army in Shin King is not strategically sound. Lieut.-Gen. Katsure at Hai-Cheng is between two Chinese forces, each of them numerically nearly twice as strong as his own command. An element is wanting to make practicable and effective a plan of campaign, and that element is a northward movement of Japanese troops from the Liao Tung peninsula so as to operate upon Katsura's south and engage one of the Chinese armies threatening him. Every one supposed that such a movement was contemplated especially when Marshal Oyama pushed from Chin Chow to Fuchow and occupied the latter place December 5. By continuing his march sixty-three miles further north, he would have found himself under the walls of Kai Ping, the headquarters of Gen. Sung. But he fell back to Chin Chow, being under orders to hold his troops ready for embarkation. On the 28th of December, however, another brigade took the ship from Hiroshima for the Liao Tung peninsula. It is probable that on the arrival of that brigade the northward movement alluded to above will be undertaken. Not that the force then in the peninsula will be stronger than the force there at present; on the contrary the first division now at Chin Chow and Talien having been withdrawn for the expedition against Wei-Hai-Wei and replaced by the brigade, there will only be a division in the peninsula instead of a division and a half. But it is not a question of numerical strength. The northern movement could have been made long ago had not Marshal Oyama been obliged to keep the bulk of his troops within easy reach of Talien bay with a view to speedy embarkation."

FIGHTING FOR LIFE.

A Suffering Woman Testifies.

Mrs. Henrietta Burton, of Janvier, N. J., writes: For a long time I suffered from a disordered stomach. My appetite was gone and what little I ate distressed me terribly. My health failed rapidly. I became very weak and feared I should never be well. After reading your "Guide to Health," I was encouraged to try Munyon's Dyspepsia Cure. Its action was so prompt that I soon felt like a new woman, and am now completely cured."

ASK THEM Why?

Ask the men who are making imitations of COTTOLENE, the new vegetable shortening, why they give up lard and try to trade on the merits of COTTOLENE? Perhaps you can guess why.

ASK HIM Why?

Ask the grocer who attempts substitution, why he tries to sell an imitation when people call for that pure, palatable and popular vegetable shortening, COTTOLENE? Perhaps you can guess.

ASK YOURSELF Why?

Why should not YOU use COTTOLENE, instead of lard or any other compound, for all cooking purposes? It has the highest possible endorsement; from Physicians as to healthfulness; from Cooking Experts as to superiority; from housekeepers as to economy. Use COTTOLENE and stick to it.

RIPANS TABULES

(Copyright, 1893, by Bacheller, Johnson & Bacheller.)

"We both lay still, though feeling pretty considerably small, as you may imagine.

"'It's all right; I see you,' he continued. 'Why, I have been waiting behind that lilac bush every night for the last week, expecting to see you. I knew you couldn't resist going up that ladder, when you found the windows were too much for you—Joe! Joe!'

"'Yes, sir,' said a voice, and another man came from among the bushes.

"'Just you keep your eye on the roof, will you, while I ride down to the station and fetch up a couple of constables?—Au revoir, gentlemen! You don't mind waiting, I suppose?' And Col. Morley—for it was the owner of the house himself—strode off; and in a few minutes we heard the rattle of his horse's hoofs going down the avenue.

"Well, sir, we felt precious silly, as you may imagine. It wasn't so much having been nabbed that bothered us, as the feeling of being caught in such a simple trap. We looked at each other in blank disgust, and then, to save our lives, we couldn't help bursting into laughter at our own fix. However, it was no laughing matter; so we set to work going round the roof, and seeing if there was a likely water pipe or anything that might give us a chance of escape. We had to give it up as a bad job; so we sat down again, and made up our minds to the worst. Suddenly an idea flashed into my head, and I groped my way over the roof until I felt wood under my feet. I bent down and found that the colonel had actually forgotten to secure the padlock! You will often notice, as you go through life, that it is the shrewdest and most cunning man who falls into the most absurd mistakes; and this was an example of it. You may guess that we did not lose much time, for we expected to hear the constables every moment. We dropped through into the lumber-room, slipped downstairs, tore open the library shutters, and were out and away before the astonished groom could make out what had happened. There wasn't time enough to take any little souvenir with us, worse luck. I should have liked to have seen the colonel's face when he came back with the constables and found that the birds were flown."

"Did you ever come across the colonel again?" I asked.

"Yes; we skinned him of every bit of plate he had, down to the salt spoons, a few years later. It was partly out of revenge, you see, that we did it. It was a very well-managed and daring thing, one of the best I ever saw, and all done in open daylight, too."

"How in the world did you do it?" I asked.

"Well, there were three of us in it—Jim was one; and we set about it in this way: We wanted to begin by getting the colonel out of the way, so I wrote him a note purporting to come from Squire Brotherwick, who lived about ten miles away, and was not always on the best of terms with the master of Morley hall. I dressed myself up as a groom and delivered the note myself. It was to the effect that the squire thought he was able to lay his hands on the scoundrels who had escaped from the colonel a couple of years before, and that if the colonel would ride over they would have little difficulty in securing them. I was sure that this would have the desired effect; so, after handing it in, and remarking that I was the squire's groom, I walked off again, as if on the way back to my master's.

"After getting out of sight of the house, I crouched down behind a hedge; and, as I expected, in less than a quarter of an hour the colonel came swinging past me on his chestnut mare. Now, there is another accomplishment I possess which I have not mentioned to you yet, and that is, that I can copy any handwriting that I see. It is a very easy trick to pick up if you only give your mind to it. I happened to have come across one of Col. Morley's letters some days before, and I can write so that even now I defy an expert to detect a difference between the hands. This was a great assistance to me now, for I tore a leaf out of my pocketbook and wrote something to this effect:

"'As Squire Brotherwick has seen some suspicious characters about, and the house may be attempted again, I have sent down to the bank, and ordered them to send up their bank-cart to convey the whole of the plate to a place of safety. It will save us a good deal of anxiety to know that it is in absolute security. Have it packed up and ready, and give the bearer a glass of beer.'

"Having composed this precious epistle, I addressed it to the butler, and carried it back to the Hall, saying that their master had overtaken me on the way and asked me to deliver it. I was taken in and made much of downstairs; while a great packing-case was dragged into the hall, and the plate stowed away, among cotton-wool and stuffing. It was nearly ready, when I heard the sound of wheels upon the gravel, and sauntered round just in time to see a business-like closed car drive up to the door. One of my pals was sitting very demurely on the box; while Jim, with an official-looking hat, sprang out and bustled into the hall.

"'Now, then,' I heard him say, 'look sharp! What's for the bank? Come on!'

"'Wait a minute, sir,' said the butler.

"'Can't wait. There's a panic all over the country, and they are clamoring for us everywhere. Must drive on to Lord Blackbury's place, unless you are ready.'

"'Don't go, sir!' pleaded the butler. 'There's only this one rope to tie.—There; it is ready now. You'll look after it, won't you?'

"'That we will. You'll never have any more trouble with it now,' said Jim, helping to push the great case into the car.

"'I think I had better go with you and see it stowed away in the bank,' said the butler.

"'All right,' said Jim, nothing abashed. 'You can't come in the car, though, for Lord Blackbury's box will take up all the spare room. Let's see—it's twelve o'clock now. Well, you be waiting at the bank door at half-past one, and you will just catch us.'

"'All right—half-past one,' said the butler.

"'Good-day,' cried my chum; and away went the car, while I made a bit of a short cut and caught it around a turn of the road. We drove right on into the next county, got a down-train to London, and before midnight the colonel's silver was fused into a solid lump."

"YOU'LL NEVER HAVE ANY MORE TROUBLE WITH IT."

I could not help laughing at the versatility of the old scoundrel. "It was a daring game to play," I said.

"It is always the daring game which succeeds best," he answered.

At this point the train began to show symptoms of slowing down, and my companion put on his overcoat and gave other signs of being near the end of his journey. "You are going on to Dover?" he said.

"Yes."

"For the continent?"

"Yes."

"How long do you intend to travel?"

"Only for a week or so."

"Well, I must leave you here. You will remember my name, won't you? John Wilkie, I am pleased to have met you. Is my umbrella behind you?" he added, stretching across. "No; I beg your pardon. Here it is in the corner," and with an affable smile, the ex-cracksman stepped out, bowed, and disappeared among the crowd upon the platform.

I lit another cigar, laughed as I thought of my late companion, and lifted up the Times, which he had left behind him. The bell had rung, the wheels were already revolving, when, to my astonishment, a pallid face looked in at me through the window. It was so contorted and agitated that I hardly recognized the features which I had been gazing upon during the last couple of hours. "Here, take it," he said—"take it. It's hardly worth my while to rob you of seven pounds four shillings; but I couldn't resist once more trying my hand;" and he flung something into the carriage and disappeared.

It was my old leather purse, with my return ticket, and the whole of my traveling expenses. His newly awakened conscience had driven him to instant restitution. [THE END.]

FOR PLAINFIELD'S PROGRESS

PLAINFIELD, N. J., JAN. 23, 1895

"Remember the River Raisin."

Jan. 22, 1813, the Kentucky volunteers of General Harrison's army met with a surprise ending in massacre at the hands of the British and their Indian allies on the banks of the River Raisin, Michigan.

Colonel Lewis' detachment lay in front, where the British turned their guns upon the sleeping camp. When the drummer boy sounded the notes of reveille they were echoed by the crack of the sentinels' rifles, and these again by the booming of cannon hurling grape and shells into the unprotected bivouac. Lewis' men formed a line of battle behind some picket fences, and facing the foe in two directions shot down the British cannoneers at their pieces. But the fleet savages, led by the notorious Proctor, circled around the field, compelling the Kentuckians to retreat across River Raisin. The Indians hurried in pursuit, and no quarter was given at this, the last stand. After nearly 400 had been massacred, Colonel Winchester, the companion of Lewis and superior in rank, surrendered to Chief Roundhead, who spared his life; also that of Lewis. Twenty men of Lieutenant Ganet's company resisted by fighting and retreating in Indian fashion and were cut down to a man, all except their youthful leader. Colonel John Allen, the hero for whom Allen county is named, was wounded in the thigh at the commencement of the attack, but continued urging on his men until the day was lost, then sank exhausted. Finally he surrendered to an Indian chief upon the promise that his life should be spared. At the same moment two other savages rushed toward him, hatchet in hand. With one blow of his sword he stretched the first one out lifeless. The other snatched up a pistol and shot the noble colonel dead. This battle gave the Kentuckians their famous warcry, "Remember the River Raisin!"

GEORGE L. KILMER.

Battling With Zulus.

Jan. 22, 1879, was the date of the forlorn defense of Isandlhwana by the British soldiers in Zululand. Next to the Custer fight at Little Big Horn, this was the most desperate encounter of modern times between civilized warriors and savages, when 20,000 of King Cetewayo's fiercest braves fell upon a band of 600 British and an equal number of natives guarding the supply camp. The Zulu column spread itself out from each flank in crescent form until the camp was surrounded. Then the slaughter began with assegais.

Detachments of the British were cut off and massacred without quarter, but not until they showed the valor of heroes, fighting in squares or back to back. Colonel Durnford, commander of the post, was killed outside the camp. The next in rank was Colonel Pulleine of the Twenty-fourth, foot. When his battalion had been cut down to a handful, he gave the colors to Lieutenants Melville and Coghill to save if possible. Then turning to his men he said, "As for the rest of us, boys, here we stay, and here we die." Melville and Coghill ran ten miles to the Jugela river, but were killed in the water.

A HACKETTSTOWN MIRACLE

AN INTERESTING RECITAL.

From the Hackettstown, N. J., Republican.

Reports from time to time reached the Republican of the remarkable cure of Mrs Jacob Shields, the wife of our leading coal merchant, who has been suffering from a complication of diseases that nearly resulted in her death. In order to verify these statements one of our reporters called on Mrs. Shields and found that the reports were in no way exaggerated, and that Dr. David Kennedy's Favorite Remedy had saved her life.

The particulars of the case are these. "I was taken sick," said Mrs. Shields, "with typhoid fever, and was delirious for 3 weeks. When I recovered I suffered untold agony with my back and right limb. They felt as though they would burst. At the same time I suffered terribly with my kidneys. My mother was with me and a friend of hers called and told her of the sickness they had passed through at her home and that Dr Kennedy's Favorite Remedy had been used by them, and she felt sure I would find great benefit from its use.

"A bottle was purchased and I hadn't taken but a few doses before it began to relieve me. That evening the doctor called and I told him that I had stopped his medicine, for he had told Mr. Shields the last time he called that he did not know what more to do for me. Some time before this, I was taken to the hospital and then brought home, as was supposed, to die, Dr. David Kennedy's Favorite Remedy was taken just in time. I do thank God from the bottom of my heart that He ever sent that lady here to tell me of Favorite Remedy, otherwise death would have been my doom. Since I recovered ever so many have told me that it was a miracle I ever go well. I certainly cannot say enough in praise of Dr. Kennedy's Favorite Remedy.

Many persons are using it upon my recomendation, and it is doing them good. I will cheerfully answer any questions," said Mrs. Shields, in regard to my illness, feeling that others who may be suffering will be benefited by using Dr. Kennedy's Favorite Remedy.

No tribute could be greater than these words of Mrs. Shields, who voluntarily tells the story of her remarkable recovery.

Favorite Remedy ranks with the medical profession as the most perfect of all blood and nerve medicines. It will cure all diseases of the skin, liver and kidneys and the weaknesses peculiar to females, and affords great protection from attacks that originate in change of life; it cures scrofula, salt rheum, rheumatism, dyspepsia, all kidney, bladder and urinary diseases, gravel diabetes and Brights disease.

MONEY MAKING.

The Quickest Way to Pile Up Wealth In This Business Era.

The reason of the modern differences in favor of business as an instrument of money making is not far to seek. It is the enormous growth in the scale of everything in which business can be done. The enterprise of a merchant, of a contractor, of a mine dealer, even of a shopkeeper, may now cover the whole world and may be carried on, moreover, mainly upon credit. It may be doubted whether, except in those transactions which are called "financial," and which really mean the taking of heavy bribes for pecuniary support, any one transaction ever yields quite as much as the same transactions would have yielded 60 years ago; whether, for example, any cargo ever produces ton for ton an equal margin of profit, or whether any customer in a shop pays quite so heavy a percentage on the goods he buys.

It is the magnitude and multiplication of cargoes which yield fortunes, the thousands instead of hundreds of customers whom clever dealers may induce to spend money. The new system of rapid turnover is, of course, precisely the same thing—the dealer selling four times what he did and using only the same capital. This advantage of scale is almost entirely wanting to the professional man, for the obvious reason that he is hampered by limitations of time.

There are only 600 minutes in a hard worked day, and the seeker after income, be he as able as he may or as decided or as rapid, must give some of those minutes to each client or patient or contractor with a difficulty to meet. If he does not, he loses custom, and with custom income rapidly slips away. There are no doubt favorite lawyers, doctors and even engineers whose advice is sought at great expense, when equally good advice is procurable much cheaper, but still the favorites must give their advice and lose their days in doing it, or they will speedily be deserted.

Nothing can alter this first law, while the exaggeration of professional fees is kept down in the case of solicitors by positive statute, in that of doctors by an etiquette difficult to define or explain—there seems to be no reason why a great physician should not charge according to skill—and in that of barristers and engineers, by a competition, which, though never acknowledged, is none the less real and effective. We can not see what is to alter this condition of affairs, and do not believe that, however civilization may develop itself, professional skill will ever again be the quickest road to large accumulations.—London Spectator.

MME. ALBANI.

An Incident In Which Patti Answered a Remark About Her.

To a writer in The Woman at Home Mme. Albani has been giving some details of her life. "My voice is a certain amount of care to me," she said. "You think that it always sounds fresh and clear?" Well, I watch over it and never allow it to become tired if I can help it. On the days I am engaged to sing at the opera I do not talk above a whisper for many hours beforehand, besides which I believe in careful diet. Tea I forbid myself. Bordeaux I find excellent. And sometimes, between the acts of an opera, I take, through a straw, a cup of bouillon made in the French way, which I find very restorative."

Mme. Albani could sing any tune sung to her long before she could speak. "My sister," she added, "will tell you that she distinctly remembers my first soprano note—a real note, long sustained. We were playing together in our cot in the early morning before the household were astir, and, baby though she, too, was, she has not forgotten the effect made upon her. At 8 years old I actually entered the musical profession. Ah, do not laugh! It is true. I made a little 'tournee' of some months' duration and was much petted and spoiled wherever I went. Then a few years later I was sent to be educated at a convent and engaged to take the soprano solo at a mass."

There is a good—and a true—story of how one day Adelina Patti, when walking down Regent street one morning with her first husband, the Marquis de Caux, stopped at the windows of the stereoscopic company. There were shown, side by side, photographs of herself and the debutante, Mlle. Emma Albani. Patti stood close to the window and was unnoticed by a young man lounging in the background. "Look," he exclaimed in a loud and jubilant voice, "at that photograph of Albani. She's the new prima donna, and everybody is raving over her. Patti will be nowhere very soon. That's one thing certain!" And Patti, turning round suddenly upon the speaker, made him a swift little courtesy. "Thank you, sir," she exclaimed, her eyes sparkling with mischief. The man was rooted to the spot with amazement. Patti stopped just an instant to enjoy the effect she had created and then tripped off laughing through the crowd on her way homeward.

Appetizers.

Pickled olives are a tonic for the nerves, as is celery. While the latter is an excellent digester and should be supplied in crisp, tender pieces to those whose digestion is faulty, yet everywhere it is an excellent appetizer. Among other healthful appetizers water cresses are in the very front rank. All greens are antiscorbutic, but water cresses are especially valuable for this reason.—New York Dispatch.

REMOVAL.

Dr. Lighthill begs leave to give notice that he has removed to

AN ALMOST MIRACULOUS CURE.

The Statement of Mr. Edward Teel, Jr., of Dunellen, N. J.

TO THE PUBLIC:

From a sense of duty I desire to call public attention to the almost miraculous cure which Dr. Lighthill effected in the case of my wife. For eleven years she had been afflicted with piles of an unusual severe and distressing character. She suffered every day of her life the most intense pain, attended with frequent and profuse hemorrhage. This state of things debilitated her entire system until she became a perfect wreck of her former self.

We made every effort to obtain a cure but they all resulted in bitter disappointment, although a number of physicians of excellent reputations for skill in that direction had treated her case. She grew worse and worse all the time, the pain became perfectly unbearable and I felt she could not bear the strain of her condition much longer. In this extremity, a friend of mine, Mr. W. E. Dilts, a resident of Roselle, N. J., a passenger conductor on the New Jersey Central told me that he had been similarly affected, and had been permanently cured by Dr. Lighthill, after other medical skill had failed. He assured me that the doctor would cure my wife, no matter how severe her case may be, and his prediction proved perfectly correct. In spite of her desperate condition, Dr. Lighthill, I am glad to say, has effected a complete and perfect cure in her case, and has given her new life.

Since the cure has been effected she has gained in health and strength and is so improved in appearance that her friends scarcely recognize her. They all consider her cure as almost miraculous, and Dr. Lighthill's praise is heard on every side. Our gratitude to Dr. Lighthill is unbounded and we only hope that other sufferers may be benefited by this publication.

EDWARD TEEL, JR.

A Flattering Testimonial from Colonel John Dietrich, One of Plainfield's Oldest and Best Known Residents.

16 ARLINGTON PLACE, Plainfield, N. J., July 17, 1894.

I am profoundly grateful to Dr. Lighthill for his speedy and radical cure of a most painful malady of over ten years standing with which I was afflicted.

I deem it proper to say to all afflicted to place themselves under the care of this skilful physician and be permanently cured.

I will cheerfully impart any information I possess when called upon.

JOHN DIETRICH.

Mr. Thomas Callahan of No. 214 Richmond street Cured of a Very Distressing Trouble by Dr. Lighthill.

PLAINFIELD, N. J., June 1, 1894.

TO THE PUBLIC:

For some time past I have been greatly distressed with noises in the head. They were all over my head and troubled me constantly; they were loudest at night when everything was quiet and at such times would often keep me from sleep and disturb my rest. In fact they got to be so bad and distressing that they affected my whole nervous system as well as my health. I did not obtain the least relief until I placed myself under the care of Dr. Lighthill, of No. 132 Crescent avenue, who effected a complete cure in my case in a short time and made me a very happy man.

THOMAS CALLAHAN, 214 Richmond street.

A Card From Mr. T. R VanZandt, of Nos 304 and 306 Park ave., Plainfield, N. J

I certify with pleasure that Dr. Lighthill has effectually cured me of a most painful case of piles. For some time past I had been subject to its attacks, but the last attack was so exceedingly painful that it completely upset my whole system. The pain extended to my legs and in many other directions, and made me so nervous that I could neither sleep, sit down, lie down or move about without serious discomfort and distress. Such was my condition when I applied to Dr. Lighthill for relief, and I am glad to say that as soon as he took hold of my case, I began to improve, and in a short time found myself completely cured. Dr. Lighthill has also effected a radical and permanent cure in a most terrible case of piles on my cousin, Mr J. V. Z Griggs, of Rocky Hill, N. J., whose flattering testimonial is in Dr. Lighthill's possession.

PARADISE.

Oh, not afar in distant skies
The shining hills of heaven rise.
In loving hearts lies paradise,
And loving words are keys that ope
The portals to that land of hope.

Oh, planning hearts that droop and sigh,
To watch the bitter days go by,
Heaven itself is close and nigh.
Ever about us angels go,
Threading these toilsome ways below.
We do not see them—do not know.

But hearts that throb with loving thought,
And lips that whisper, heaven taught,
The loving words the Master brought—
These are the angels we would know,
And these the shining feet that go
Making a paradise below.

Oh, not afar in distant skies,
But close at hand, the blessing lies—
In loving hearts lies paradise.
Look up, sad soul! the world is fair,
And heaven and love are everywhere!
—Dorothy Deane in Minneapolis Housekeeper.

KENILWORTH IVY.

If You Want the Real Thing, Never Go to Kenilworth Castle For It.

"'Could I get some slips of Kenilworth ivy anywhere about the ruins?' I heard a woman ask of the lodgekeeper at Kenilworth castle one day," said a traveler.

"'You are an American, aren't you, madam?' asked the keeper, with a smile.

"'Why, yes, but what of that?' responded the lady, with some slight embarrassment.

"'All American ladies come and ask me for Kenilworth ivy after they have searched in every nook and corner of the ruins for it,' explained the keeper. 'They have told me how common it is in America and how much it is prized, and generally explained that they have promised to take some of the real thing back from Kenilworth ruins for friends at home. They tell me they expected to find the ruins of Kenilworth castle overgrown with the beautiful "Kenilworth ivy," and that it is generally supposed in America that such is the case, and that the ivy first came from here or is named after these ruins because of its abundance here.'

"The woman nodded assent to all this, and the keeper continued:

"'But what you know as "Kenilworth ivy" doesn't grow in or about Kenilworth ruins, as you've no doubt discovered.' And he smiled again, and the woman also smiled in an embarrassed way, for she had been hunting every inch of the ruins over, looking for the plant. 'From the description of the plant which Americans give me I think it is what we call ground or wood ivy that you treasure so much. It has a small, bright green leaf and bears a tiny white flower. It grows on the ground in the thickets and under the hedges in cool places, but I never saw it growing on a wall as the common ivy does. I don't think there is much of it anywhere hereabouts, but it grows in abundance in some places farther south. The American ladies always seem very much disappointed when I tell them "Kenilworth ivy" doesn't grow here in Kenilworth, and I'm very sorry I can't give you some, ma'am.'

"And the woman turned away, with a little sigh, as she thought of the hanging basket at home which was to have been filled with 'real Kenilworth ivy' and of the many friends to whom she had promised slips of the 'real thing' when it had grown. The ruins of Kenilworth castle are covered with thick masses of ivy, but it isn't 'Kenilworth ivy,' but just the common kind."—New York Sun.

The Aim of Christ's Work.

"Peace on earth" was the aim of Christ's work in this world, writes Edward Bellamy in The Ladies' Home Journal. The whole gist of his doctrine and the burden of his teaching consisted in counsels to men how to put an end to strife with their fellowmen and live together with them in mutual helpfulness. All this teaching, which was the whole content of his gospel, was grouped about and crystallized in the golden rule, whereon our modern world is founded as on an everlasting foundation. To believe in Christ and not to believe in the golden rule as the only plan for social organization seems to us a moral and rational impossibility—an unthinkable proposition. Just this, however, our ancestors undertook to do, and it is fair to admit that they were very frank about it. They made no pretenses.

An Apt Reply.

Napoleon's apt replies often excited good humor in a crowd. A large and brawny fishwoman once was haranguing the mob and telling them not to disperse. She finished by exclaiming: "Never mind those coxcombs with epaulets on their shoulders. They care not if we poor people all starve if they can but feed well and grow fat."

Napoleon, who was as thin as a shadow, turned to her and said, "Look at me, my good woman, and tell me which of us two is the fatter."

The fishfag was completely disconcerted, and the mob dispersed.—Exchange.

An Original.

Little Marjorie—There are lots of little Marjories nowadays, but none other at all like this one. She is original in her prayers, as in everything else. The other night she finished off her petition thus:

"And, O Lord, make all the wicked people good and wash all the niggers white!"—New York Tribune.

The unrolling of an Egyptian mummy supposed to be that of a princess, disclosed a curious cheat. The priests who did the embalming probably spoiled or mislaid the body intrusted to them and for it substituted that of an ordinary negro man.

A gentleman of the court of Pepin had a wonderful pair of breeches that cost $700. They were embroidered with gold, and all the figures were traced with chains of small pearls.

DIPHTHERIA

Too many homes bear this fear-inspiring placard, denoting the prevalence of that most insidious and dreaded of all diseases—Diphtheria.

It is to-day a recognized fact among the best practitioners that nine out of ten cases formerly considered hopeless may be brought to a happy termination by the use of that great original raw food product, Bovinine.

This great blood-generating, life-maintaining, strength-developing, and flesh-producing product of lean, raw meat, contains the greatest amount of life-preserving qualities in the least possible bulk of any preparation known.

In cases of Diphtheria, Bovinine has special advantages. In this disease, as in others, the rapidity with which it is assimilated gives to it a preference over all other foods, passing, as it does, into the system immediately, without causing the digestive organs to perform any labor. And considering the fact that the lesions in the throat prevent the swallowing of solid food, it becomes an absolute necessity. In the worst cases, where even liquids cannot be taken by the mouth, Bovinine by being used as an injection. Above all, Bovinine is in itself a germicide, and in all such diseases as Diphtheria, caused by microbes, it not only performs its greatest mission of maintaining life, but antidotes the existing bacilli.

Bovinine has done wonders in thousands of cases of Diphtheria. When your doctor uses it you may cease to worry, and be assured of a speedy recovery. To neglect its use may mean years of remorse in the feeling that some loved one might still be with you if everything possible had been done. Bovinine is sold by all Druggists.

Indian Appropriation Bil Amended and Passed.

Gen. Sickles Succeeds in Getting Through the Measure for a National Military Park at Gettysburg—Senate Discusses the Hawaiian Question and the Nicaragua Bill.

Washington, Jan. 23.—According to an agreement made last week, the bill to establish a national military park at Gettysburg, Pa., was taken up and Mr. Sickles (dem., N. Y.), in charge of the measure, proposed a substitute for the pending measure. He said it had been drawn after consultation with the secretary of war and the committee on appropriations. The changes, he explained, were generally clerical and technical in their nature. Without opposition or objection the substitute was accepted and the bill passed. It carries an appropriation of $75,000 to begin the work.

The house then went into committee of the whole on the Indian appropriation bill.

In the course of the discussion of the educational features of the bill Mr. Brickner (dem., Wis.) unsuccessfully endeavored to secure appropriations by name for several schools which did not appear in the bill. In regard thereto Mr. Pickler (rep., S. D.) said that that part of the bill was framed upon the theory that government support for all contract denominational or sectarian schools should be withdrawn as rapidly as possible; that the commissioner would give them next year, from the amount appropriated in gross, 80 per cent. of the sum heretofore appropriated to them, and reduce the amount each year by 20 per cent, until all connection between the schools and the bureau should cease.

Additional sections were added to the bill, one appropriating $6,000 to purchase the lands of the Wyandotte Indians absent from the reservation; and one to provide for the sale of surplus lands belonging to the Pottowattomis and Kickapoo Indians in Kansas.

The provisions of the bill requiring the secretary of the interior to build Indian industrial schools at Rapid City and Chamberlain, S. D., was stricken out on a point of order.

Numerous other changes in the bill were stricken out on points of order.

After considerable discussion, in the course of which Mr. Pickler (rep., S. D.) charged Mr. Holman, chairman of the committee, with failing to keep promises made in the committeee room, which Mr. Holman denied, the bill was reported to the house, the amendments agreed to, and the bill passed.

A bill was passed authorizing the appointment of cadets at the naval academy from districts not now represented by residents therein, or by cadets who were residents at the time of their appointment.

The conference report on the urgent deficiency bill, carrying the appropriation for the collection of the income tax, was agreed to. The house disagreed to the senate amendments to the fortifications appropriation bill and asked a conference thereon. Mr. Sayers (dem., Tex.) gave notice that to-day he would call up the sundry civil appropriation bill.

The Hawaiian question was again debated in the senate for somewhat over two hours. Mr. Gray (dem., Del.) occupied the position of defender and advocate of the administration and Mr. Lodge (rep., Mass.) that of its prosecutor. The latter senator was plain and outspoken in advocacy of the annexation of the islands, declaring that he disliked to see the American flag pulled down where it had been once run up, or an American foot go back where it had been once advanced.

In the course of the discussion Mr. Hawley (rep., Conn.) took occasion to correct the impression that in yesterday's debate he had charged the president with "conspiring" with royalist Hawaiian conspirators. What he intended to convey, he said, was that the president had "conferred" with them.

The Kyle resolution on which the discussion had been based, was at the close of the morning hour, placed on the calendar, and the remainder of the day's session was occupied with a speech by Mr. Turple (dem., Ind.) in opposition to the Nicaraguan canal bill.

A Witness for Fitzsimmons.

St. Louis, Jan. 23.—Bob Fitzsimmons has run across an important witness whom he will use in case he is ever tried for the killing of Con Riordan. According to Fitzsimmons, the unknown formerly trained Riordan, and will swear that the dead pugilist some years ago was thrown out of a hack, alighting on his head and sustaining a wound two inches long and down to his skull. The physician who attended Riordan at the time has also been located.

Still on the Decrease.

Washington, Jan. 23.—The treasury department yesterday lost $1,600,000 in gold—$1,500,000 for export and $100,000 in exchange for United States notes—leaving the gold reserve stand at the close of business at $68,591,893.

CIGARETTES AND THE TEETH.

A Dentist Says the Nerves In Them Are Killed by Nicotine Poisoning.

"There is one bad result of constant cigarette smoking that very few people know anything about," said a Brooklyn dentist. "The result itself has been apparent to me and to all dentists for a long time, but the cause has been a mystery until very recently. For years the nerves of teeth in every other way perfect have been found dead. A careful examination of a dead nerve found in an unexposed tooth recently revealed the fact that it had been poisoned by nicotine, and thereby the mystery referred to was solved. Nicotine poisoning from cigarette smoking is killing the nerves in the teeth of smokers. It is a most serious state of affairs, although most people will not understand. They think a dead tooth is as good as a live one. They will find their mistake some day.

"A young woman whom I have known for some time came here the other day and wanted a tooth attended to. I worked on the tooth some time, and some of the instruments I used should have made her scream a little bit. But she never made a sound, and I naturally concluded that the nerve of the tooth was dead. It surprised me because the tooth was a good one and the nerve unexposed. Well, I extracted the nerve, and the minute I saw it I knew what was the trouble.

"'Do you want a live nerve left in your head?' I asked.

"'Why, of course,' she replied.

"'Then stop smoking cigarettes,' I said.

"'Why, doctor, what do you mean?' she began. Then she put on a great show of indignation.

"'My dear young lady,' I said, 'what's the use of talking so? I'm a dental surgeon and know a thing when I see it. You have been smoking cigarettes for a long time, and my advice was given in a perfectly friendly spirit.' Well, she collapsed then, acknowledged the truth of what I had said, and that ended it. I don't think that cigarette smokers figure this result of nicotine poisoning in with the many other injurious effects of the weed, but to my mind it is the most dangerous of all."—New York Sun.

THE MONEY ISN'T THERE.

A Pickpocket Who Was Foolish Enough to Steal a Lady's Pocketbook.

"I just swiped a leather, Jim," said a pickpocket to another of his profession as he came across him sitting on a bench in Union square.

"Wus it one o' them purty ones what the women carries round de street in der hands?"

"Yes, I swiped it up on Fift' avener when she wus lookin inter er windy."

"If yer'd been in de bizniz as long as I hev, yer wouldn't er took it."

"Why?"

"'Tain't wuth it."

"A feller might strike er big haul, though, that way some time."

"Not on yer life he wouldn't. I've swiped a load on 'em, an I never got one yit that I could git a beer out on. Dey don't carry money in dem leathers. Dey's only er bluff. Try dat one yer've got and see if it's enny good."

Glancing about him warily to make sure that no one was watching him, the pickpocket opened the purse. He found three samples of silkoline, a patent glove buttoner, a card advertising a lotion for removing blackheads from the face, a sheet of flesh colored court plaster, some samples of scrim and Madras, a list of prices of carpets, a circular showing an illustration of a patent hose supporter, a card of small safety pins, two slabs of chewing gum warranted to cure dyspepsia and a card bearing her address and instructions to take her there if she met with an accident.

"That's all dere is in it," said the man who had "swiped" the pocketbook as he turned it upside down and shook it, with a look of disgust on his face.

"Didn't I tell yer," remarked the other. "I've 'swiped' dem t'ings till I'm tired. Dey're all de same. De women don't carry nothin but trash in 'em. De money ain't dere, never!"—New York Herad.

Do Not Sleep on the Left Side.

There is little doubt that an immense number of persons habitually sleep on the left side, and those who do so can never, it is said, be strictly healthy. It is the most prolific cause of nightmare, and also of the unpleasant taste in the mouth on arising in the morning. All food enters and leaves the stomach on the right side, and hence sleeping on the left side soon after eating involves a sort of pumping operation which is anything but conducive to sound repose. The action of the heart is also seriously interfered with and the lungs unduly compressed. Hence it is best to cultivate the habit of always sleeping on the right side, although Sandow and other strong men are said to invariably sleep on their backs.—Philadelphia Times.

Animals Respect One Another's Rights.

Truth forces the observer of nature to admit that birds and other creatures apportion the earth among themselves just about as man does. A bear has his boundaries beyond which his fellow bear does not trespass with impunity—the wild rabbit you see on your lawn in the moonlight is the same innocent little creature you have been seeing every night all the summer time—and even the robin that gathers the early worm for his breakfast from your garden will show fight when another comes marauding on his preserve. Nor does this last a year only, for there is good evidence that the same bird will come back to the claim it staked off the year previous.—Meehan's Monthly.

A Devotee of Browning.

"Some of Browning's works?" repeated the gentlemanly book store clerk. "Certainly, ma'am. Which volumes did you want?"

"Oh," said Mrs. Nurich languidly, "wrap me up a quarter of a dozen."—Chicago Record.

WHAT IS GRAVITATION?

Some Examples That Seem to Answer the Weighty Question.

Two men at antipodes on the earth's surface are drawn directly toward each other. Each is at the apex of a cone of the other. These cones interlock at the earth's center and are there equal, but the greater part of the mass of each cone and consequently the greater mass of gravity holding each to his place is past the center of the earth and culminates at the feet of the other.

Every point of the earth's surface pulls in a straight line through the center of the earth, not stopping at it; losing part of the pound in proportion as it approaches the center; then, passing, regaining it again in proportion as it approaches the opposite surface. So that half way past the center the pound which at the center was nothing has now become a half pound, and at the antipodal surface a pound again.

Make the center of the earth the common apex of an indefinite number of cones radiating to the surface. According to mass, gravity pulls from the center, and the center is again the point of nugation.

If gravity is an active essence produced by molecular motion, if being a living essence, it is therefore a perishable one, it follows that in a conglomerate mass, as the earth, some substances will probably exhaust sooner than others by reason of expiration of molecular activity, if that be its producer, or from other or any cause. Being an active expending force, it must have a producer, and that producer must have supplies of force producing matter. These supplies, however great, must exhaust. Different qualities of matter may contain this force producing quality in differing degrees and qualities. If so, the minor will sooner exhaust. A feather, a leaden ball and a dry stick will fall through space to our atmosphere with equal speed because their atoms and the atoms of the earth mutually attract each other regardless of shape or size. Gravity is atomic, and every atom is the equal of every other atom, no matter how diffuse or how concrete the mass of the object of which they are parts. But the dry stick may have lost its active principle—gravity. Its essence producing principles may have been exhausted. Nevertheless it would be grasped by the overwhelming gravity of the earth and brought down in company with its fellows.

Gravity pulls laterally as well as perpendicularly. The weight of the earth has been calculated from the pull of a mountain on a plumb line.

A person standing in a narrow canyon, with walls towering hundreds or thousands of feet above him on either side, has much better footing than if on the pinnacle of a monument. In one case he is held up by lateral gravity. In the other he is without support.—R. W. Musser in Cincinnati Enquirer.

Wearing of Glass Eyes.

It is a fallacy to suppose that people who wear cork legs and glass eyes are indifferent to their personal appearance. They are often vainer than ordinary individuals.

A rich man, for instance, who is obliged to wear an artificial eye will wear three different eyes every day—an eye for morning, when the pupil is not very large; an eye for afternoon, when the pupil is smaller; an eye for evening, when the pupil has extended to its full size.

A London eyemaker, who gave this information, said he made about an equal proportion of glass eyes for men and women. Some people keep quite a stock in their possession. In fact, no less than 12 eyes have been made by my informant for one gentleman within three months.

His son had got one eye made from measurement, and that eye fitted so perfectly that the old gentleman, in an outburst of gratitude, wrote off for 11 other eyes. The eyemaker admitted that this was an exceptional instance.—Pittsburg Dispatch.

Too Smart For the Doctor.

The daughter of a well known jockey was very ill, having caught a severe cold. A doctor was sent for and was buttonholed by the mother, who requested him to favor her by advising her daughter not to wear low ankled shoes.

The daughter was sent for, and, after her tongue had been given the usual out of door exercise, the man of medicine said:

"Ah, you are suffering from what we medical men call a low shoe cold, and I must prohibit you from wearing such shoes in the future."

The young lady started, and, taking off one of the offending shoes, exclaimed:

"Since you are so clever, doctor, as to look at my tongue and tell me what is amiss with my feet, will you be kind enough to look at my feet and tell me whether my fringe is properly adjusted?"

He gave up prescribing for smart girls.—London Tit-Bits.

At a German Court Martial.

Captain (presiding)—Then I am to understand that the accused offered you a cigar when you were doing sentry duty?

"Yes, your honor."

"And you declined?"

"Yes, to command, your honor."

"And what reply did he make?"

"'You are an ass,' your honor."—Kolnische Volkszeitung.

A Wise Man.

He (disagreeably)—What the mischief is the matter with this dinner?

She (mildly)—I cooked it, dear.

He—Well, I was wondering what made it so much better than usual.—Detroit Free Press.

THE BREACH WIDENED

More Clashes Between the Troops and Strikers.

Two Men Shot by Pickets—Actions of Militia Incense the Labor Leaders, Who Will Now Play Their Strongest Card—Linemen Ordered Out—Other Incidents.

Brooklyn, N. Y., Jan. 23.—The situation has grown more serious and the outlook is most grave. The breach between the striking employes of the trolley lines and the companies has been widened by yesterday's doings.

Master Workman Martin J. Connelly declares that the troops of the Seventh regiment raided a peaceable assemblage of workingmen, seized their papers and records and ran things with a high hand. The militia admit throwing out a cordon of soldiers for two blocks from the Ridgewood depot, and incidentally penning 200 strikers in Odd Fellows hall for two hours while the cars were operated on the Gates avenue line. They deny seizing books and papers.

Fifteen linemen who went on strike on their own accord early in the day had been ordered back to work by Connelly. When he heard of the affair at Odd Fellows hall, he ordered all linemen to quit work this morning. If the men obey there will be few cars operated until their places are filled, if they can be filled.

The mayor has issued an additional proclamation as follows: "Law and order must prevail first in this community, must be respected by all, and must be enforced upon all even if it takes the entire force of the state."

Superintendent Quinn of the Atlantic Avenue company says that greater progress had been made on the lines throughout the day than any day since the strike was inaugurated. He declared that there had not been the slightest disturbance.

Several cars were wrecked on account of the green motormen, and several persons injured.

A charge was made by the militia at Broadway and Halsey streets just before midnight. Some small boys had been jeering the soldiers and there was but few men about. A drunken man from New York started from John Conways' saloon on the corner to cross Halsey street. He was fired upon and hit in the face sustaining a compound fracture of the jaw. His name was Thomas Ahns and will probably die.

Richard Mitchell, of the Brooklyn City railroad, was shot in the arm. Two of the bullets of the militia went through the large plate glass window of the candy store of John Eckoff at No. 1,657 Broadway, narrowly missing the clerks behind the counter. Mr. Eckoff's daughter Sophia, who was standing in front of the store was just missed by a bullet.

Dr. T. E. Wilson attended the wounded man and was an eye witness of the shooting. He says there were but few people about and much less excuse for the shooting than there was the night before when a large crowd at the same place created quite a disturbance.

An ambulance took the New Yorker to the St. Mary's hospital and Mitchell went to his home. At 11:40 the neighborhood was almost deserted, but the few men about were excited over the occurrence. There were less than twenty men present when the shooting occurred.

The shooting was done by five of the men of the picket line which the Seventh regiment had established along Halsey street to guard the car house. Col. Appleton of the Seventh was in charge of the troops.

Commissioner Edward Feeney, of the state board of mediation and arbitration, made a personal attempt to bring about a settlement of the strike. He called on President Lewis, of the Brooklyn City railroad, and talked with him for half an hour. President Lewis said there was nothing to arbitrate. He declared he could operate his lines under the protection of the military and the police. President Norton likewise refused to arbitrate.

An order was received at the Jamaica avenue depot of the Brooklyn City Railroad line, yesterday afternoon, to pay off the new men.

Each man was carefully questioned before any money was given to him.

"Did you work yesterday?" asked the foreman of one man.

"Yes."

"But you didn't take out a car."

"But I was here."

"That's true, but you were only being broken in. You are only entitled to fifty cents for yesterday."

"My contract with the company calls for $2 a day," said the new man, indignantly, "I want $2 for my day's work."

"We don't know anything here," replied the foreman, "about your contract with the company. I'm instructed to pay you 50 cents. If you want more you will have to go to the head office, in Montague street."

This conversation was carried on in the presence of a reporter of the New York Times, and there were many others of the same sort.

The men seemed to think that they were not well treated. The foreman told them that if they didn't like what they got they could quit. "We are not keeping you here," he said. "You can go where you like."

It is reported that President Lewis has telegraphed the Lehigh Valley Traction company that he is in desperate need of men. The telegram said the company was in danger of losing its charter. Secretary Walter answered that he could not force men to go, but would ask for volunteers. None responded.

Every effort is being made by the companies to secure men and their agents are scouring the neighboring cities in quest of help.

After the trouble at Broadway and Halsey street things became quiet and so continued throughout the early morning hours.

Statement of the Robinson-Wintersmith Affair at Colon.

New York, Jan. 23.—J. W. Popham a passenger per the steamer Colombia from Colon, just arrived, was interviewed in regard to ex-Vice Consul Tracy Robinson's charge of assault against Vice Consul Wintersmith. Mr Popham said that Tracy Robinson had been trying to get the appointment of consul at Colon for a long time, nearly 20 years, and had succeeded only so far that he had held the office of vice consul.

When Richard Wintersmith succeeded him, he was made very sore and sought in every way to make the veteran Kentuckian uncomfortable.

Matters came to a head suddenly when Robinson met Dick Wintersmith at the Washington hotel on Dec. 30. According to Mr. Popham's account Dick Wintersmith approached Robinson and accused him of maligning his character and the ex-vice consul told Wintersmith he was a liar, whereupon the latter at once slapped Robinson's face and pulled his nose.

Robinson at once took water and before a crowd of witnesses acknowledged that he had lied about Wintersmith and had circulated malicious stories concerning him. Afterwards Robinson had Wintersmith arrested for assault and fined $10 and the justice placed both men under bonds to keep the peace. All the American residents at Colon side with Wintersmith in the matter.

SUCCESS AFTER FIVE YEARS.

The Sultan Grants a Permit to the American College of Girls.

Boston, Jan. 23.—Miss Mary M. Patrick, of Lyons, Ia., is the president of the American college of girls at Constantinople, an institution of the American Board of Foreign missions. An effort to secure a firman, or permit for the college had been made during the last five yars. It passed all the necessary bodies and has been in the palace awaiting the sultan's signature for nearly two years.

Judge Terrell, United States minister to Turkey, has cabled to the American board that his majesty, the sultan, has graciously issued an official permit to the college in consideration of its great services in educating his Christian subjects.

The Rev. Judson Smith, D. D., secretary of the foreign department of the board, states that this American college for girls has 175 pupils, 26 more than in any former year, and is the most important institution for girls under its care.

The board awaits an affirmative answer to other requests for permits for Euphrates college at Harpoot and Anatolia college at Marsoven, which have been promised several times within the last three years.

How the Merchants' Bank Examiner Disobeyed Orders.

Binghamton, N. Y., Jan. 23.—A rumor gained credence here that Col. George W. Dunn, ex-clerk of the assembly, will be appointed receiver of the Merchants' bank, which closed its doors yesterday.

Senator O'Connor, when asked his opinion as to whether he thought the bank would resume, said he was perfectly willing to co-operate in any way within his power that would tend to put the bank firmly on its feet again. The senator is the assignee of all the property of the members of the Ross family, the largest stockholders in the Merchants' bank.

The main topic of conversation has been with regard to the action of Bank Examiner Clark in allowing the doors of the Merchants' bank to open, thus allowing some of the heavy depositors and stockholders to withdraw their funds.

Refuse To Take Their Allottments.

Washington, Jan. 23.—A delegation of Kickapoo Indians from Oklahoma is in Washington to look after the matter of allotting their lands. The government bought their lands and the amount given was accepted by the tribe but about 150 of them refuse to take their allottments, preferring their old mode of living. There is a provision of law however, to meet the exigency. It states that in such a case allotments will be made for the Indians who refuse to abide by the treaty stipulations.

Five Men Killed in an Explosion.

Sturgis, Ky., Jan. 23.—Shortly before midnight an explosion occurred at the mines of the Tradewater Coal company. Five kegs of powder exploded inside the mines, killing five men and two mules and caving the mines in on them. About seventy-five men are now at work digging the men from the debris and have reached the mules which are horribly mangled.

ADDS VIGOR TO OLD AGE.

The Weakness, the Chilliness of Years Met By Paine's Celery Compound!

Men and women past their grand climacteric at sixty or sixty-five, often experience a chilliness and a feebleness that causes them needless alarm.

Needless, if they fully perceive the meaning of these infirmities and take paine at once to correct the beginnings of weakness and debility, as it is so easy to do if begun at once.

A strengthening, invigorating nerve-food is all that they need to arouse the vital organs from their sluggish, unhealthy condition. Paine's celery compound, the great nerve food and blood purifier first prepared by Prof. Edward E. Phelps, M D., LL. D., of the Dartmouth medical school, is today within the reach of every home in the land. It is the usual prescription of countless physicians in cases of rheumatism, neuralgia, sleeplessness and the many other results of starved nerves and depleted blood.

Says Mr. H. T. Gleason, of West Damascus, Penn., whose portrait is given above:

"The past year I used five bottles of Paine's celery compound for rheumatism. It cured that trouble and helped me to sleep and rest better at night. I am nearly eighty years of age.

"Last month I again tried it, taking two bottles, and as a result feel better than I have any time this winter."

Paine's celery compound makes a happy vigorous old age possible to everyone.

L. W. RANDOPH,

Prescription Druggist,

143 West Front st., Plainfield, N. J.

(Copyright, 1895, by Bacheller, Johnson & Bacheller.)

On the 15th of August, 1601, returning from a mission to England I sailed from Dover, and crossing to Calais without mishap anticipated with pleasure the king's satisfaction when he should hear the result of my embassy, and learn from my mouth the just and friendly sentiments which Queen Elizabeth entertained towards him.

Unfortunately I was not able to impart these on the instant. During my absence a trifling matter had carried the king to Dieppe, whence his anxiety on the queen's account, who was shortly to be brought to bed, led him to take the road to Paris. He sent word to me to follow him, but necessarily some days elapsed before we met; an opportunity of which his enemies and mine were quick to take advantage, and that so insidiously and with so much success as to imperil not my reputation only but his happiness.

The time at their disposal was increased by the fact that when I reached the arsenal I found the Louvre vacant, the queen, who lay at Fontainebleau, having summoned the king thither. Ferret, his secretary, however, awaited me with a letter, in which Henry, after expressing his desire to see me, bade me nevertheless stay in Paris a day to transact some business. "Then," he continued, "come to me, my friend, and we will discuss the matter of which you know. In the meantime send me your papers by Ferret, who will give you a receipt for them."

Suspecting no danger in a course which was usual enough, I hastened to comply. Summoning Maignan, who, whenever I traveled, carried my portfolio, I unlocked it, and emptying the papers in a mass on the table, handed them in detail to Ferret. Presently, to my astonishment, I found that one, and this the most important, was missing. I went over the papers again, and again, and yet again. Still it was not to be found.

Whenever I traveled on a mission of importance I wrote my dispatches in one of the three modes, according as they were of little, great, or the first importance; in ordinary characters that is, in a cipher to which the council possessed the key, or in a cipher to which only the king and I held keys. This last, as it was seldom used, was rarely changed; but it was my duty, on my return from each mission, immediately to remit my key to the king, who deposited it in a safe place until another occasion for its use arose.

It was this key which was missing. I had been accustomed to carry it in the portfolio with the other papers, but in a sealed envelope which I broke and again sealed with my own signet whenever I had occasion to use the cipher. I had last seen the envelope at Calais, when I handed the portfolio to Maignan before beginning my journey to Paris; the portfolio had not since been opened, yet the sealed packet was missing.

More than a little uneasy, I recalled Maignan, who had withdrawn after delivering up his charge. "You rascal!" I said with some heat. "Has this been out of your custody?"

"The bag?" he answered, looking at it. Then his face changed. "You have cut your finger, my lord," he said.

I had cut it slightly in unbuckling the portfolio, and a drop or two of blood had fallen on the papers. But his reference to it at this moment, when my mind was full of my loss, angered me, and even awoke my suspicions. "Silence!" I said, "and answer me. Have you let this bag out of your possession?"

This time he replied straightforwardly that he had not.

"Nor unlocked it?"

"I have no key, your excellency."

That was true; and as I had at bottom the utmost confidence in his fidelity, I pursued the inquiry no farther in that direction, but made a third search among the papers. This also failing to bring the packet to light, and Ferret being in haste to be gone, I was obliged for the moment to put up with the loss, and draw what comfort I could from the reflection that no dispatch in the missing cipher was extant. Whoever had stolen it, therefore, another could be substituted for it and no one the worse. Still I was unwilling that the king should hear of the mischance from a stranger, and be led to think me careless; and I bade Ferret be silent about it unless Henry missed the packet, which might not happen before my arrival.

When the secretary, who readily assented, had given me his receipt and gone, I questioned Maignan afresh and more closely, but with no result. He had not seen me place the packet in the portfolio at Calais, and that I had done so I could vouch only my own memory, which I knew to be fallible. In the meantime, though the mischance annoyed me, I attached no great importance to it, but anticipating that a word of explanation would satisfy the king, and a new cipher dispose of other difficulties, I dismissed the matter from my mind.

Twenty-four hours later, however, I was rudely awakened. A courier arrived from Henry, and, surprising me in the midst of my last preparations at the arsenal, handed me an order to attend his majesty; an order couched in the most absolute and peremptory terms, and lacking all those friendly expressions which the king never failed to use when he wrote to me. A missive so brief and formal—and so needless, for I was on the point of starting—had not reached me for years; and coming at this moment when I had no reason to expect a reverse of fortune, it had all the effect of a thunderbolt in a clear sky. I stood stunned, the words which I was dictating to my secretary dying on my lips. For I knew the king too well, and had experienced his kindness too lately to attribute the harshness of the order to chance or forgetfulness; and, assured in a moment that I stood face to face with a grave crisis, I found myself hard put to it to hide my feelings from those about me.

Nevertheless, I did so with an effort; and, sending for the courier, asked him with an assumption of carelessness what was the latest news at court. His answer, in a measure, calmed my fears, though it could not remove them. He reported that the queen had been taken ill—or so the rumor went.

"Suddenly?" I said.

"This morning," he answered.

"The king was with her?"

"Yes, your excellency."

"Had he left her long when he sent this letter?"

"It came from her chamber, your excellency."

"But—did you understand that her majesty was in danger?" I urged.

As to that, however, the man could not say anything; and I was left to nurse my conjectures during the long ride to Fontainebleau, where we arrived in the cool of the evening, the last stage through the forest awakening memories of past pleasure that combated in vain the disorder and apprehension which held my spirits. Dismounting in the dusk at the door of my apartments, I found a fresh surprise awaiting me in the shape of M. de Concini, the Italian, who, advancing to meet me before my foot was out of the stirrup, announced that he came from the king, who desired my instant attendance in the queen's closet.

Knowing Concini to be one of those whose influence with her majesty had more than once tempted the king to the most violent measures against her—from which I had with difficulty dissuaded him—I augured the worst from the choice of such a messenger; and wounded alike in my pride and the affection in which I held the king, could scarcely find words in which to ask him if the queen was ill.

"Indisposed, my lord," he replied, carelessly. And he began to whistle.

I told him that I would remove my boots and brush off the dust, and in five minutes be at his service.

"Pardon me," he said, "my orders are strict, and they are to request you to attend his majesty immediately. He expected you an hour ago."

I was thunderstruck at this—at the message, and at the man's manner; and for a moment I could scarcely restrain my indignation. Fortunately the habit of self-control came to my aid in time, and I reflected that an altercation with such a person could only lower my dignity. I contented myself, therefore, with signifying my assent by a nod, and followed him toward the queen's apartments.

In the ante-chamber were several persons, who, as I passed, saluted me with an air of shyness and incertitude which was enough of itself to put me on my guard. Concini attended me to the door of the chamber; there he fell back, and Mlle. Galigai, who was in waiting, announced me. I entered, assuming a serene countenance, and found the king and queen together, no other person being present. The queen was lying at length on a couch, while Henry, seated on a stool at her feet, seemed to be engaged in soothing and reassuring her. On my entrance, he broke off and rose to his feet.

"Here he is at last," he said, barely looking at me. "Now, if you will, dear heart, ask him your questions. I have had no communication with him, as you know, for I have been with you since morning."

ELI HAWKINS WANTED FUN.

Extravagance of a Wyoming Cattleman Who Became Rich Suddenly.

The death of Mrs. Jennie Hawkins in poverty in a little ramshackle house on the outskirts of Pasadena, Cal., the other day recalls her experience and her husband's in the San Gabriel Valley twelve years ago. Eli Hawkins was a cattle rancher in Wyoming in the seventies, and sold out to a syndicate for several thousand dollars. He immediately removed down into Southern California—the land of sunshine and tomale—with his wife. He bought a 200-acre tract of land and began converting it into a suburban home, park, and orchards on a scale that took the breath of the easy going settlers there.

Money went through his hands like water, and the stories of his wild extravagance and his queer notions will not cease to be told in Los Angeles and Pomana in this generation. Hawkins spent money so recklessly that stories of his wealth were exaggerated. He was by many thought to be worth ten millions of dollars, and to have great deposits in banks in every city from Helena to Los Angeles, while others told exaggerat tales of his income from his Montana herds. Hawkins was slovenly, resembled a tramp, and looked as if he never had $5 in his life. It was his delight to pass himself as a vagabond and try his credit among business men, and finish by showing them one of his bank books.

There were no improvements on the tract he bought, and he began operations by fencing it. Every idle man in the neighborhood was hired, and the transformation began. Farmers who had teams were employed, and the procession of loaded wagons from the station to Hawkins's land was a sight to behold. In a few days he had a hundred men at work, all of whom were better dressed than their employer. The large force soon completed the fencing, which was the most substantial of any in the valley. Then he set them at work on his garden and grounds. He employed a high-priced landscape gardener, erected a large conservatory and filled it with beautiful plants. The grounds were tastefully laid out with winding drives and walks, arbors fountains and little grottoes. To look at the man and then note his taste in the arrangement of his home one could not help marveling.

He bought an invoice of statuary at Los Angeles and distributed the figures around his park. One day he came home intoxicated, and as it had been raining, he concluded that the nude figures needed some kind of covering. He procured some paint and put black India rubber coats on the cupids. Next he fixed Apollo with a flaming red shirt and green stockings. Mercury was enveloped in blue tights and a bright red nose. Venus was rigged out with black stockings and a yellow gown.

Hawkins and wife were both good shots, and used the statuary as targets. Before the works of art had been set up three months many noses and arms were missing, and the collection looked as if it had been out with McGinty. One day the old man went to his new brick reservoir to take a swim. His wife warned him that she would shoot him if he went into the water. He plunged in—when bang! went Mrs. Hawkins's Winchester. He hid behind the tank house, and every time he showed his head a bullet whizzed past. His playful wife kept him shivering there the whole afternoon. Money was no object with Mr. Hawkins. Fun, he said, was what he lived for. He died in an attack of delirium tremens.

Mrs. Hawkins lived upon the charity of her relatives for the last years of her life. Her home was seized for the benefit of a swarm of creditors in a few weeks after her husband's death.

THE WATER QUESTION.

Mr. Ohl Presents a New Feature of the Aquatic Discussion.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE DAILY PRESS:—As the water supply question is under discussion it may be of interest for me to state that the supply of water from the numerous springs which supply my pond (which is situated on the same level as Cedar brook) have been perceptibly more active for the past two years than formerly. I have attributed this to the extra supply of water used in the vicinity and which finds it way over and by the first underlying watershed or rocky layer to the outlets; but I do not offer this as a solution of the statement, but that the supply of water from these springs has increased is an established fact, and I will also say that no perceptible difference has been noticed in Cedar brook at this point. So I again suppose the water pumped from or near the head of this stream, and which has caused the stream to diminish to the north again finds its way to the original runway, but further to the south. These facts may be of interest to those working on the problem.

The Proud Beauty Paralyzed.

William Morris appears in "The Lost Paradise" in Music Hall tonight. This actor, by his simple methods, profound sincerity and undaunted heroism, charms the audience as if he were in real life performing his deeds of renown.

The play concerns a terrible strike in a big iron mill. He is the humble superintendent, but, according to the press agent of the show, "He simply paralyzes the proud beauty whose father owns the mill". She consents to hear the story told by the men. She makes her cold father listen to what they say, in a scene long to be remembered. She wins, the mill opens again, the furnaces glow, and the machinery roars.

All are prosperous and happy, and when the hero leads the girl forth a bride, the applause of the audience and the cheers of the workingmen drown the thunder of the mill, and the people keep on applauding even after the curtain goes down.

Quiet Conversions.

Rev. Mr. Randolph told of Matthew's conversion, in Grace M. E. Church, last night, how quiet and uneventful it was, wholly unlike that of Peter, or that of Saul on his way to Damascus. Christ simply said to the Apostle, as he sat at the receipt of custom, "Follow Me", and Matthew rose and followed Him. It was, however, a thorough and lasting conversion. Most of the conversions in our day are like not of Matthew, and those who expect some great manifestation, like that which characterized Saul's change of heart, will be disappointed.

The church was well filled, and the meeting was one of much interest. To-night Dr. Barnes is expected to preach.

REPLY TO AMERICAN.

Mr. Finn Writes in Defense of His Race and Religion.

CAUSTIC APPLICATION OF THE FABLE.

Reiterates that the Tettemer and Ainsworth Letters Are the Only Trustworthy Evidence Submitted on the Subject of Desertions, Being Directly from the Records of Uncle Sam—Public vs. Parochial Schools.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE DAILY PRESS: —In your issue of Jan. 16 I noticed a communication from a so-called "American", the headlines of which read thus: "American penetrates the disguise of Mr. Tettemer—A well-known fable, etc".

It is not my desire to hurt the feelings of this would-be "American", if such he has, but I wish to have him distinctly understand that he is the one that is in disguise, and not Mr. Tettemer. This gentleman's signature has appeared with his letter, which goes to show that in his veins there is a flowage of the best of American blood. Let me ask where's the true American, who by the strength of his own argument on any subject, would be afraid to sign his name? The weakness of the "American's" argument in this case does not warrant his signature; it is therefore only fair to comprehend that he, knowing full well that his assertions and accusations are false, must deny himself the pleasure of signing his name.

"American" provides a table, giving a spectacle of Mr. Tettemer as follows: "A short, long-eared, four-legged creature, with a lion's skin, and, wrapping it about him, strode forth alarming those he met. At last he met a fox, and with a tremendous noise sought to frighten him, but the fox did n't scare; then this creature with a hoarse voice asked: 'Did n't you think I was a lion?' and the fox replied 'Oh, no! I knew you by your ears!'"

In my estimation the above fable provides a more fitting spectacle of the contentious and contemptible "American" than it does of Mr. Tettemer, as the latter gentleman is in no way in disguise, having signed his name to all his communications.

Speaking of fables, the above reminds me of something which occurred on Park avenue a few days ago. I wish to have it understood that I was not out looking for "American", but merely taking my afternoon walk.

As I strolled along the avenue taking in the beautiful sights of that popular thoroughfare, and when nearing Eighth street my attention was attracted by the loud barking of a dog. Looking across the way, I noticed a "large-eared, four-legged creature", and close by him stood a little boy who was trying with might and main to kick the beast from him. Just then two small boys appeared on the scene; and one of them, approaching the other, remarked thus: "Will the dog bite the boy?" Other boy—"No: the dog will not bite the boy, for the boy will kick the dog's head off." I, thinking the dog might do the little fellow harm, crossed over to where he was standing, but while in the act of so doing the animal made good his escape. I then asked the little fellow if he knew the owner of the hound, when he answered with emphasis "It is n't a hound; it's a cur." I then said, "Why, little fellow, I thought it was an 'American' I read of in the papers the other day; I thought I knew him by his bark", to which he replied "Oh, it may be as you say, but the folks about here claim that it is perfectly harmless, roaming about from place to place, coming to these parts occasionally trying to cause disturbance and scare people if possible". Just so is it with the "American" whose communications appear in print from time to time. His articles are full of emptiness, the same as his head; and like the dog visits these parts occasionally to try to cause dissension in this peaceable community. Poor thing! He is only known by his bark, and that is harmless.

He says Mr. Tettemer is n't known here. Mr. Tettemer is well known here, and his friends are legion. "American" says "facts count". So they do, but if he had to produce them they would never count. The Ainsworth letter produced the facts (see); Uncle Sam's books settled the question. Information coming from any other source regarding the matter in question would be false and misleading, and would have to be manufactured by the one that would produce it.

Judging from the tone of the "American's" previous letters, one would think that he could produce documentary evidence as to the number of desertions by Irish Catholics during the war. Now he takes a few days off to go on an expedition seeking documentary evidence, which if he should produce at a later day would be no other than home-made, and therefore would excite no interest whatever. Now should this unfortunate "American" take a trip to Washington looking for evidence, I would give him my advice to keep off the grass, or he might be taken for a Coxeyite and locked up.

"American" quotes the public school as an integral part of the foundation of the Union. Nobody said it was otherwise.

"American", I wish you would inform me as to the time the editorial you refer to appeared in that brilliant organ, The Western Watchman.

The Catholics have good reason to be proud of the parochial school. I can produce documentary evidence to the following effect:

Some time ago one hundred bright-looking young women, whose ages ranged from 16 to 21, applied for admission to the School of Stenography in Cooper Union, New York. All applicants must pass a simple examination, principally as a test in spelling and grammar, in which a stenographer must be moderately proficient. The questions were:

1. Spell assignee, efficacy, privileges, acquiesce, superseded, egregious, inexorable, persuade, euphony, conscientious, wastefulness, ingenuous, appertaining, fulfil, arraignment, avoirdupois.

2 Form the plurals of formula, nebula, vertebra, focus, radius, sarcophagus, phenomenon, analysis, oasis, axis, basis, crisis, parenthesis, thesis.

3. How many revolutions has the earth? Define each and give line of each.

4. What causes the seasons?

5. At what season is the earth nearest to the sun?

6. Dictation exercise.

7. Original composition.

I will give a few answers, without apprehension that the graduates of our parochial schools will have any temptation to regret the advantages which the great American institution, the public school, confers. Of the 100 papers in two only were the sixteen words spelled correctly, the mistakes varying in number from two and three to the entire sixteen; while in the formation of the plurals the great majority failed utterly.

To question No. 3 on the revolutions of the earth, astounding answers were given.

Not one in ten answered question No. 5 correctly, the answer being almost invariably "Summer" instead of "mid-Winter".

The dictation exercise was a little composition on the subject: "That baby moon of Jupiter". Jupiter has many aliases in the papers submitted; he is "Jupeida", "Jupide", "Judibe", "Jutipa", "Jucata", and "Jurpita". Here is how "satellite" looks: "satilite", "settlelight", "settlement", "satalight", "satalite", "sattielight", "sacalite", "sattellight". The "luminary" is thus reflected "muminary", "nummery", "humanareal", "luminery" and "lumininery".

Here are a few of the answers on the earth's revolutions. One young lady writes: "The earth has two revolutions; the revolution of the sun once in every twenty-four hours causes change of seasons; revolution of axis once every year, the revolution of the earth's axis causes change of season". Another says: "The earth moves on its axis once every year, which is the cause of the change of seasons; there are four seasons, Spring, Summer, Autumn and Winter. The earth moves around the sun every twenty-four hours, and this causes night and day. When the sun shines twenty-three and a half degrees over the north pole it is colder at the south than at the north pole, and the Southerners have their Winter at that time of the year." Another graduate says: "The earth has two revolutions, daily and annual revolutions. The daily revolution is the earth turning around the sun. The annual revolution is the sun turning around the earth." The following is a gem: "The earth revolves around the sun once in twenty-four hours, from north to south pole once a year. As the earth revolves from the north to the south pole we pass the equator and tropics, and as we pass the equator it grows much warmer and the tropics cooler," etc. Another answer is: "The earth has two revolutions; the revolutions are day and night." Still another: "Two, diurnal and nocturnal." One credits the sun with a fair share of revolving activity; her answer is: "Two, the revolution which means that the sun revolves around the world twice a year." This rapidity of motion is making us giddy.

Here is an extract from one of the dictation exercises, and it is not the worst. A graduate who misspells twelve out of the sixteen words and forms all the plurals but one incorrectly, writes thus: "Jupedia's moon has a dimater of less than one two hundred parts of that of the earth's suterlight, the little fellow, though, is a husker, (hustler). During the Juvian night therefore this diamitive, (diminutive) above (orb) instead of sweeping the sky from hurison to hurison, nearly lies to the western, about one sixth that distance." As to orthography, letters of the English alphabet were seldom strung together in more unintelligible combinations, except, perhaps, in such lucid aids to the acquisition of the language as "English as she is spoke".

The New York Sun is authority for saying that hundreds of pupils have been graduated every year from the public schools of New York city, whose education is a mere farce. A member of the New York Board of Trade at one time declared that the system of education is deplorable, and that the method of crowding sixteen subjects into twenty-one study-hours in the grammar grades turns out children whose education is a mere hodgepodge.

As Catholics have to pay for this education as well as for that of their own children, it would be interesting to have the answers of those graduates to a few questions in Christian doctrine; but I fear that this old-fashioned branch of study is deemed of little or no importance in comparison with the nebulous ologies, including "Jupeida" and his little "Husker" of a "Suterlight", that compose the ingredients of the educational hodgepodge. Astronomy appears to be a principal study in these schools, and I wonder that the young women were not asked their opinion of "The man in the moon"!

Now, "American and Co", keep up the tirade and I will "folly" you along by giving facts such as you have never heard of before. I'm an American (see).

STRIKE WANING.

Justice Gaynor Complicates the Situation.

The situation in Brooklyn this morning is this: The strike is waning. More cars have been run and on new lines.

There is more quiet than before.

A new aspect was put upon the strike this morning by the announcement that Judge Gaynor had granted a writ of mandamus on the Brooklyn Heights Company to show cause why it should not operate all its lines on full schedule. Argument will be heard tomorrow on the question.

LORD RANDOLPH CHURCHILL DEAD.

London, January 24—Lord Randolph Churchill died in London at a few minutes after 6 this morning. The end was painless. A private funeral service was held at the Churchill residence on Grosvenor Square during the morning. The burial will take place next Monday at Bladon church, near Blenheim, where Lord Churchill's younger brothers are buried. The mother of the dead lord is seriously ill.

Shot in the Wrist.

Charles Brinkenhoff, who is visiting at the home of the Rudds, Clinton avenue, was injured while firing a gun yesterday morning. He was at Mr. Hallock's, and, seing a gun in a corner, asked if it was loaded. Mr. Brinkenhoff was told it was not, and he began to examine it. Finding one of the barrels loaded he went in the backyard and shot it off. The gun kicked from his grasp, and he received the charge in the wrist.

Surprised.

While Ephriam Vail of Orchard place was preparing to go skating last night, he was very much surprised to see a few of his friends and relatives walk in, and instead of his going out, the evening was spent in delightful sociability at home. Those present were:

Misses Sarah H. Vail, Edith Vail, Lillie Terrill, Lillie Vail, Grace Vail, Harry Vail and Clarence Vail.

Choral Union Divided.

The next rehearsal of the Choral Society, Monday, Jan. 29, in Vincent Chapel, will be a divided one: Sopranos and altos at 3:45 p. m.; tenors and basses at 8 p. m.

These divided rehearsals are considered very important by the conductor, and are for the express benefit of the chorus. All members are therefore urged to attend.

Runaway Trolley Car.

Last evening at 6:10 Car No. 1 was bowling along Front street at a lively gait, and as it approached the Somerset street switch Motorman Higgins attempted to slow up in order to take the curve, but the brake refused to answer to his hand and jumping the irons at the frog the car started for Charlie Smith's, stopping, however, when it neared the Christian Endeavor drinking fountain at the corner. The passengers were somewhat startled, but got out to inspect the fountain. In ten minutes Car No. 3 came along and pulled No. 1 back on the track. No damage resulted and no blame attaches to Motorman Higgins in the matter.

Singing School.

At the close of the Wednesday evening prayer meeting at the Congregational Church almost all of those present remained to talk over the advisability of forming a sight reading singing class. As Mrs. B. T. Barnes, who was to organize and take charge of the class, was unable to be present, no definite action was taken, but it was decided to meet again in the near future and discuss the question when all the details would be fully explained.

Carlton Cornwell, foreman of the Gazette, Middletown, N. J., believes that Chamberlain's Cough Remedy should be in every home. He used it for a cold and it effected a speedy cure. He says: "It is indeed a grand remedy, I can recommend to all. I have also seen it used for whooping cough with the best results." 25 and 50c bottles for sale at Reynolds's Pharmacy, Park and North avenues. T. S. Armstrong, manager.

BANKS—BOWERS.

A Beautiful Pink and White Wedding.

GRACE CHURCH CROWDED WITH WITNESSES.

Town Society Does Honor to the Fair Daughter Married—Charming Reception at the Albion—A Fortune in Diamonds, Silver and Other Gifts.

Grace Church was filled to overflowing with the New York, Boston, Philadelphia and Plainfield friends of Maude Agnes Bowers, daughter of Mrs. E. A. Bowers, and Theodore Howard Banks of New York city. The ceremony was performed by Rev. S. P. Simpson, rector of St. Stephen's Church of Netherwood, after the beautiful and impressive Episcopal marriage service. The fair bride was radiant in a beautiful gown of plain white moire antique silk; over the waist was worn a bertha of rare point d'applique lace, and at her side the tall, athletic figure of the happy groom added much to the effective picture. Miss Ethel B. Bowers, sister of the bride, tastily gowned in pink, was the maid of honor, Edwin B. Tucker of New York was best man.

The bridemaids, costumed in pink silk and wearing dainty hats trimmed with roses were Emily B. Banks of New York, sister of the groom, and Gertrude Marchand of Pittsburg, Pa. The ushers were H. Lanier Denny, Joseph Hall, and Ellis Hallet of New York, and Peter B. Matthews of Plainfield.

Twelve hundred invitations were out and very few regrets were received.

The floral decorations at the church were most beautifully and artistically arranged, and consisted of stately palms, filmy ferns and dainty cut flowers, the effect being white and green.

A quiet reception followed in the spacious parlors of The Albion, which had been transformed by Miss Lincoln's artistic skill into a veritable garden of pink and green most delicately blended in a symphony of color. The reception was small and devoid of all ostentation, the family of the bride being still in mourning. A New York caterer provided a delectable banquet, and Rogers's orchestra of Plainfield discoursed sweet music. A fortune in diamonds, silver service and cut glass, of such variety and beauty as to beggar description, comprised the wedding presents, which were in charge of a man specially detailed by Tiffany of New York for their safe keeping.

The honeymoon will be spent under the sunny Summer skies of Florida at the Hotel Cordova in St. Augustine. The bride and groom were driven to Bound Brook, where they caught the Southern flyer.

On their return to the North they will be at home to friends in New York city.

A partial list of the guests is as follows: Mrs E A Bowers, Mrs Edward M Banks, Mrs Harvey Fisk, Mrs MacEvoy, Miss Ginna, Mr and Mrs Edward Strong, Mr and Mrs Thomas Hall, Mr and Mrs A D Shepard, Capt and Mrs F E Hobbe, Mr and Mrs D B Keeler, Mr and Mrs W H Macy, Mr and Mrs Wm T Shedd, Mr and Mrs C J Fisk, Mr and Mrs B A Hegeman, Mr and Mrs Harvey E Fisk, Mr and Mrs Henry B Hebert, Mr and Mrs Pliny Fisk, Mr and Mrs Evarts Tracy, Mr and Mrs Waring, Mr and Mrs John B Dumont, Mr and Mrs G H Squires, Mr and Mrs L E Howard.

INVENTED THE STEAM MAN.

Death of a Plainfield Man Who Had an Inventive Genius.

Joseph A. Eno died at his home in Newark yesterday from a malignant liver trouble. He was born in Plainfield in 1836. He was an inventor, and had secured patents on twenty-five or thirty articles, including a steam generator and a railroad joint. One of his first inventions was a steel-made man, designed to take the place of horses, but trouble was experienced in getting the invention to walk in the streets. A widow, son, and daughter survive him.

Mr. Eno was a resident of Plainfield about thirty-five years ago, and for some time conducted a newspaper stand which he sold to W. H. Williams, and which was then situated at the corner of Front and Somerset streets, and afterward removed to Park avenue. Mr. Williams has continued the business the past thirty years. Many of the older residents of Plainfield will remember Mr. Eno.

It Didn't Work.

"My dear," said Mr. New Jersey to his wife, "there's a report that a mad dog has been seen running around loose today. I hope you won't go out in the streets."

Mrs. New Jersey: "I don't care if there were twenty mad dogs running around. I am going to see those new embroideries at Peck's."

Many stubborn and aggravating cases of rheumatism that were believed to be incurable and accepted as life legacies, have yielded to Chamberlain's Pain Balm, much to the surprise and gratification of the sufferers. One application will relieve the pain and suffering and its continued use insures an effectual cure. For sale at Reynolds's pharmacy, Park and North avenues. T. S. Armstrong, manager.

FIRE IN HOTEL VENDOME.

Some Fright Among the Guests But No Panic.

The Hotel Vendome, Broadway and Forty-first street, New York, caught fire at 5:30 this morning. There was an excited rush to escape among the 350 persons who lived there, but though individuals lost their presence of mind and some slight accidents occurred, there was no panic and the exit was orderly.

Frozen hydrants delayed the firemen. They got to work in time however, to keep the flames confined to the ninth floor, so that the damage was comparatively slight, only about $20,000, and that due chiefly to water.

Marvelous Results.

While I was pastor of the Baptist Church at Rives Junction she was brought down by pneumonia succeeding la grippe. Terrible paroxysms of coughing would last hours with little interruption and it seemed as if she could not survive them. A friend recommended Dr. King's New Discovery; it was quick in its work and highly satisfactory in results. Sold by L. W. Randolph druggist. Regular size 50c and $1; our price 45c and 90c

HORSEWHIP IN CHURCH.

A Quarrel Between Ministers Nearly Led to a Riot.

Perry, Okla., Jan. 24.—A furious horse whipping in church, participated in by ministers' wives, in the middle of the service is the sensation at a country church just over the line near Ingalls.

Some months ago the Rev. Dr. Johnson, of Kansas, succeeded the Rev. Dr. Tulley, being called by a faction antagonistic to the latter. The Rev. Mr. Tulley continued with the church in the capacity of deacon. A few Sundays ago the deacons were criticised by the new pastor. Tulley wrote, it is said, to the old home of Dr. Johnson and received some information that reflected on the minister and especially his wife.

At the close of the doctor's sermon last evening Tulley read the letter and a great commotion followed. Mrs. Johnson slipped from the church unnoticed and soon returned with a buggy whip. Rushing at the Rev. Mr. Tulley, she administered a severe lashing before the astonished parishioners. Tulley was badly beaten.

In the general row that followed his wife secured the whip and began to apply it to her husband's assailant. When finally she departed Mrs. Johnson was unconscious. The two women and several of the brethren who participated in the affair were arrested and fined. The fines were paid and the trouble for the present is at an end.

THE ARMENIAN TROUBLE.

A Special Delegate To Be Sent to Sassoun by the New Patriarch.

Vienna, Jan. 24.—A dispatch received here from Constantinople says that Mgr. Izmirlian, the new Armenian patriarch, has written to the minister of justice, Riza Pasha, saying that upon taking possession of the patriarchate he found a great accumulation of important reports on the Armenian situation, adding: While reserving the right of protesting against the state of things under which the Armenians suffer, my solicitude in the first instance is directed towards the terrible affair at Sassoun which has aroused it."

The patriarch then described the emotion of the Armenian people in view of the fact that the bishop of Mush has been in prison for three years, as well as other bishops, and added: "Under such circumstances the dispatch of other clerics to the affected provinces is out of the question, and I feel bound, in order to clear up the Sassoun affair, to send a special delegate to Sassoun."

He Has Been Much Benefitted by His Stay in North Africa.

New York, Jan. 24.—According to the latest advices, Mr. Whitelaw Reid, after spending some time in Morocco and Algeria, reached Cairo on the day after New Year's. Mr. Reid and party were to start up the Nile about the middle of January and expected to be absent about thirty-five days.

On their return they have planned to take another desert trip from Ismailia to Mount Sinai, and so around in Palestine. Mr. Reid does not expect to return to New York before May or June next.

WANT $75,000 DAMAGES.

Heavy Suit Entered Against the City of Waterbury, Conn.

Waterbury, Conn., Jan. 24.—Papers have been served on the city as defendant in the biggest damage suit in its history—$75,000, brought by J. H. Fruin, receiver for Charles Fletcher & Co. The firm had a heavy contract to lay four miles of 36-inch cast iron pipe, one section of pipe line of the city's new water supply from the town of Thomaston.

The work was nearly completed when City Engineer Cairns, in accordance with the privilege given him by the contract, certified to the committee in charge, that the work was unnecessarily delayed. The committee then took the contract from the concern.

The firm went into the hands of a receiver a fortnight ago.

TWO FINANCIAL BILLS

Mr. Smith's Plan for a Non-Partisan Commission.

Senator Jones, of Arkansas, Wants To Provide for the Issue of Bonds, the Coinage of Silver and Other Purposes—Lengthy Talk About Seals in the House.

Washington, Jan. 24.—There were two financial bills introduced in the senate which were, after remarks by their authors, referred to the finance committee. The first was by Mr. Smith (dem., N. J.), its title being "To provide for the appointment of a non-partisan monetary commission and to provide means to meet temporary deficiencies in the revenue."

The second part of the title refers to a proposed issue of United States 3 per cent. bonds purchasable and payable in gold coin to an amount not exceeding $500,000,000. The title of Mr. Jones' bill was "To provide for the issue of bonds, the coinage of silver, and for other purposes."

In his explanatory remarks, Mr. Jones declared that he would under no conditions vote for any issue of bonds unless the bill was coupled with "a sensible, manly, and substantial recognition of silver." As the bill proposes to abolish all lesser denominations of greenbacks and national bank notes than $10 and to make all such lower denominations silver certificates, payable in silver coin, he claimed that that would be a great stride forward in the interest of silver and he appealed to the extreme silver men to stand by the bill.

Senator Patton, of Michigan, who had held his seat in the senate under appointment of the governor (to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Senator Stockbridge) ceased to be a senator and Mr. Burrows took the oath of office in his stead—having previously resigned his seat in the house of representatives. The Nicaraguan canal bill was taken up and Mr. Turpie (dem., Ind.) made a characteristically sharp and bitter speech in opposition, after which the senate adjourned.

The rather startling suggestion was made in the house that the secretary of the treasury be directed to have killed all the remaining seals in the Behring Sea herd, estimated at 450,000 and sell the skins, valued at $10,000,000 if properly cured. This was the purport of a bill introduced by Mr. Dingley (rep., Me.), in connection with a statement made in reference to a letter from the secretary of the treasury, regarding the present condition and prospects of the seal herd.

The speedy and utter extinction of the herd was prophesied by Mr. Dingley upon the basis of the secretary's letter and under the working of the regulations adopted in pursuance of the Paris tribunal of arbitration. This arbitration, he said, had proved to be entirely futile in protecting and preserving the seals.

In case Great Britain shall unite with the United States in promulgating regulations that shall be effectual in preventing pelagic sealing, Mr. Dingley proposed that the operations of his bill should be suspended. The subject was referred to the committee on ways and means. A resolution was agreed to calling on the secretary of the treasury for all the information on file in his department regarding the seal business since Jan. 1, 1889, including an itemized statement of expenditures in connection with the Paris tribunal of arbitration and also the expenses charged against the United States for the government of Samoa.

Nearly all of the session was occupied in consideration of the sundry civil appropriation bill. About half of it was disposed of, when the house adjourned.

BOMBARDED THE CITY

Tong Chow Foo Fired Upon by the Japanese.

An Appeal to Commander Folger, of the Yorktown, by Missionaries To Convey Them to Che-Foo—Chinese Fortifications at Wei-Hai-Wei To Be Attacked.

Washington, Jan. 24.—The navy department has received the following dispatch from Commander Folger of the Yorktown at Che-Foo:

"Tong Chow Foo, China, was bombarded by ten Japanese vessels on January 18 and 19. On the 21st, in answer to an appeal of missionaries and as travel by land was considered impracticable, the Yorktown transported to Che-Foo seventeen women, children and sick of the missionary families. On the 20th and 21st the Japanese, covered by twenty-three of their men-of-war, landed a large force at Shantung promontory to attack the Chinese fortifications of Wei-Hai-Wei. On the the 22d a small force was landed at Che-Foo from this vessel to protect neutral citizens and property. This landing was in common with that from the German, British and French vessels."

With reference to this dispatch it was said at the Japanese legation in this city that the forces were probably landed to protect citizens of these countries principally missionaries—who reside there, from an uprising of Chinese, and not in the expectancy that their interests would be jeopardized through an attack on the place by the Japanese. The foreign residents of Che-Foo, it was explained, would have no fear from the Japanese forces, and further than that, it is not likely that the Japanese will make an attack on the port.

Che-Foo is a treaty port, but according to the authority mentioned is the least important of these, not accepting Chin-Kiang. The Japanese might desire it for a base of supplies but even this is unlikely as there are other harbors along the coast better adapted for the purpose, the Che-Foo anchorage being an open roadstead and practically unprotected.

As to the probabilities that the Japanese might desire Che-Foo for the purpose of landing troops there preparatory to an attack on Pekin, it was stated that the Japanese had already a sufficient force in China for all purposes contemplated at present.

The state department has received a dispatch from Minister Sill at Seoul, Korea, under date of December 20, giving a translation of a royal decree limiting Chinese residents in Korea to the open ports, forbidding them to travel in the interior, compelling them to register within twenty-four hours after their arrival and removing their extra-territorial rights by bringing them under the jurisdiction of Korean courts.

Secretary Gresham also received a dispatch from Minister Denby at Pekin reporting that the Chinese peace plenipotentiaries will leave Shanghai on the 28th instant for Japan.

London, Jan. 24.—A dispatch from Tokio says that a Japanese steamship line, sanctioned by the government, has been organized to ply between Kobe, Taifen-Wan, Port Arthur and Port Mokpho. Southern Korea will be opened to foreigners in May.

THE SUN'S FASHIONS.

A FORECAST OF THE STYLES OF COMING SPRING

The Bargain Counter Cuts a Figure and So Does the Bell Skirt. Soda Blonde Hair Will Turn a Jet Black and a Grecian Knot.

The semi-annual season of great bargains has come around again with its accustomed regularity, and the magical mystery of special sales has once more cast a spell around the women who shop for the love of it, which they cannot withstand. The prospect of a bargain is irresistible, and the possibility of getting something so greatly reduced that the purchase will reflect much credit on their judgement deserves serious consideration. Some cynical person has said "a woman's policy is to take all she can get and give as little as possible in return," and this frantic search after full value at half price would seem partially to justify the statement. There is a desperate clear-the-way sort of an expression on her face as she approaches the bargain counter, and what she considers economical opportunities have a very deplorable effect on her otherwise gentle and lady like manners. She may have no immediate use for the articles she seeks, but the fact that they are cheap is sufficient reason for an investment.

Embroidered batistes in the English eyelet hole style are among the season's novelties in cotton goods. These come by the yard embroidered all over in wheel or flower designs, with scalloped edges or open work insertion set in above the hem. Still more elegant are robe dresses of various delicate shades, with three plaited ruffles of embroidered ecru batiste set in a little distance apart with a close insertion which matches the edge. The dominant note of dress trimming has been so long centered in the bodice that those skirts decorated from the hem almost to the waist are indeed an innovation. Anything among the bargains in dress goods which has a crepe effect is sure to be a safe investment for crinkled surfaces, and crepons of every known variety are to be a distinct feature of the spring novelties. Chiffon, too, are a desirable purchase, for they are to be used in greater profusion than ever. Taffeta silks are also to be popular again, and the new ones which will soon be open for inspection, have moire grounds, with larger flower designs than last season, and open work embroidery is a part of their decoration. These embroidered silks combine nicely with the plain for waists or sleeves, or both.

Skirts show no signs of decreasing in fullness, and the Parisians have invented so many devices for keeping them well distended that our English sisters are fearful that crinoline is not far away. A contrasting color or material is displayed in many of the new skirts by opening them half way up the two front seams over the color, and trimming the edges of the opening with beaded gimp.

The newest colors are a blue shade of steel called Valkyrie, various shades of red of the American beauty rose order or color, a pinkish yellow, Gismonda purple, the bluet shades of blue, and shades of emerald green.

Any new mode of dressing the hair is sure to be interesting to all women as a possible experiment, and there is a hint that the part must go and the hair tossed lightly back from the forehead, with a Grecian knot at the back. But when fashion decrees that a certain color must reign supreme in her dominion there is trouble ahead for the few who never disobey her commands. Black is said to be the fashionable color of the moment, and the woman who has been every kind of a blonde from pale yellow to a Titian divinity will not hesitate to appear in ebony locks.—N. Y. Sun.

NINE STYLES IN 100 YEARS.

A Young Woman of Observation Says There Have Been No More Than That.

"Though the fashion in woman's dress has changed a hundred times in a hundred years," said a young lady of observation, "it has been a change of detail rather than of style, while of changes of costume, that is, of dress which can be said to mark a historical epoch, there have been but two. Similarly in men's clothing there has been but one radical change of costume during the century—that from the breeches to the trousers, with the interregnum of the pantaloons. The change in woman's attire, which was sufficiently radical to be called a change of costume, occurred in 1819-20, when the classical renaissance, with its immodesty, its single garment, and its waist under the shoulders, went out, and woman became the bodiced and petticoated creature that you know her to-day.

"Of styles, as I understand the term, that is, changes of distinctive fashion in woman's garb, there have only been nine during the past 100 years, which I think is greatly to her credit. What are they? Well, that's rather a hard question to answer. Let me see, now:

"From 1795 to 1819 or 1820 was the era of the short waist.

"From 1820 to 1825 were the days of the middle waist, short dress, no sleeves below the shoulders, or elbows at furthest, and natural shoulders.

"From 1825 to 1835 there was a distinctly marked spell of broad shoulders, big sleeves and bell skirts. In fact, our present fashions have been considerably based on that decade.

"From 1835 to 1843 there were sloping shoulders and big full skirts.

"From 1843 to 1865 there was the reign of the crinoline, the longest rule of a fashion that ever prevailed, I guess.

"From 1865 to 1882 was a period of evolution. The train grew into being, the skirts shrank little by little, growing slimmer and slimmer until the outlines of the figure were once more revealed.

"From 1882 to 1887 was the period of the bustle—just that.

"From 1887 to 1892 was the fashion of the paniers and Princesse dress.

"With 1892 came in the re-establishment of big sleeves, and I'm sure that you'll agree with me that there never was a style so fetching as that with which we make ourselves beautiful for you to-day. But that's a peculiarity of all fashions. That which is worn is the fashion, and that which is the fashion is so becoming that we wonder when we think how we ever could have worn anything else.

Splendor and Poetry in Chicago.

The Charity Ball in Chicago is endeared to all lovers of poetical description and romantic poesy. Mr. Sylvanus F. Bill, the poet of the Auditorium, emerges once a year from that too strictly preserved attachment in which he has long been engaged in writing a poetical directory of Cook County, and fills the Inter Ocean with the splendor of pageantry and the honey of music. The Chicago Charity Ball of 1895 was held at the Auditorium on last Thursday night, and Mr. Bill described it with his usual wealth of adjective and luxuriance of passion. His exordium was full of might and magnificence:

"Like a grim, impenetrable fortress of mediæval times the Auditorium looked before the moon swung out like a silver lamp in the midnight sky, and cast around the gray tower and austere walls the soft, transforming tissue of its woven beams. Far out over the frozen waters of the lake gazed the deep windows from under their arched brows of fluted stone, as the great monument of Chicago's power flung out a challenge to the Eastern world. High in the air the tower, like a mighty forefinger, was pressed upon the changing pulse of Boreas, while the quick voice of the telegraph reported the condition of the weather to the listening town.

"Clouds hung like a frown upon the building's granite brow, but its heart was filled with melody and beating with human sympathy and kindness. The Charity Ball was on! And as the music swirled on through the great arches, twinkling with the lights that jewel the roof, and fluttering like bright plumaged birds among the boxes of ivory and gold, the feet of the mimic armies advancing and retreating fell into rhyme, gouny voices into sweeter cadences, the scowl on the face of the bending sky melted in laughter, and as the hours with golden feet slipped by

"'Silently, one by one, in the infinite meadows of heaven
Blossomed the beautiful stars, the forget-me-nots of the angels.'"

Lowest Record Price for Prints.

Yesterday was an interesting day in Fall River mill circles, though when it drew to a close the outlook was not particularly cheerful. Goods which were 2 11-16 cents nominal, last Saturday had been selling at 2 5-8 cents, less 1-2 of 1 per cent. on Monday, and yesterday they struck 2 9-16 cents, and broke the lowest record known in the history of the business. Even at this unheard of figure there was no great demand and brokers said that the market would probably go to 2 1-2 cents.

The product was supposed to be cheap enough last summer, when it was quoted at 3 cents, but after corporations began to unload at less than 3 cents, less 1 per cent., the agents threw up their hands and decided to reduce wages. What course they will pursue if there is no rebound from 2 7-15 cents is a question that cannot be answered yet, but it is certain that they will not send a favorable reply to Secretary Whitehead's letter asking for the restoration of the old schedule.—Providence Journal.

is a virtuous vice. The world is better for it. It makes men ambitious—and it makes women careful of their personal appearance. It doesn't take much money to keep well-dressed now-a-days. FOR PLAINFIELD'S PROGRESS

PLAINFIELD, N. J., JAN. 24, 1895

With Powder and Dynamite.

Jan. 24, 1881, was the date of Skobeleff's great victory in the trenches of Geok-Tepe on the road to Herat, in central Asia. Forty thousand Turcomans with their families and slaves made a stand at Geok-Tepe behind an immense clay wall 20 feet high and 20 feet wide, built after the fashion of Russian fieldworks. Artillery produced no impression on it, so Skobeleff fought his way step by step near enough to sink mines under the rampart.

Kouropatkin, the Skobeleff of Russia that was to be after the death of the renowned fighter, bore the brunt of the attack. At the firing of the mines, one of dynamite and another of powder, Kouropatkin led his men, numbering 1,000, to the breach. The Turcomans bravely stood on the walls until cut down. Eight thousand of them were killed in an hour of terrible hand to hand fighting. While the stormers were at work Skobeleff's cannon bombarded the walls between the mines and fired over them to demoralize their defenders. The Turcomans had no cannon and were poorly armed to cope with the Russian breechloaders. Yet they defended the ditches until they filled them with their bodies. The trenches and the mine craters were choked with corpses, and 4,000 were lying within the walled inclosure. One-half the ablebodied men in the Turkish army were killed. More than 400,000 missiles were hurled at them during the assault and in the pursuit which followed the victory of Kouropatkin's stormers. Skobeleff's capture of Geok-Tepe opened the way for the columns of the czar to march upon the frontier of India. It put an end to those man stealing expeditions of the Turcomans which filled the north Persian countries with terror and supplied the slave markets of central Asia.

GEORGE L. KILMER.

Heroes of Jackson's Creek War.

Jan. 24, 1814, saw General Jackson's last battle with the Creeks on his famous raid into the Indian country. Old Hickory made this campaign on purpose to give his idle Tennessee volunteers practice in real warfare.

At the crossing of Enotachopo creek, when all but the rear guard and the Nashville artillery company were safely over, the Indians rushed to the attack. The rear guard fled in panic, leaving the artillerymen alone with their solitary gun. Jackson turned back instantly, followed by his tried heroes, among them the brave General John Coffee. Coffee, having been wounded two days before, was borne on a litter. Springing up and mounting a horse he rode back across the stream into the thickest danger. His reddened bandages became the oriflamb of battle. The artillerists, led by Lieutenant Robert Armstrong, dragged the cannon to a hilltop and swore to die before yielding. The Indians, thoroughly armed with rifles, made the men on the hill a target and immediately shot down eight of them out of a company of 25. Armstrong went down first, exclaiming with his last breath, "My brave fellows, you must save the cannon!" During the excitement of unlimbering the gun to drag it up the hill, the rammer and pick had been left behind. In the midst of the terrible fusillade, Private Craven Jackson primed the piece with musket powder, using his ramrod for a pick, and fired the shell at a crowd of savages. His comrade, Constantine Perkins, coolly unfixed his bayonet and used his musket barrel to ram the cannon charges home.

GENERAL COFFEE.

These two men, almost alone, carried out Armstrong's dying request. They saved the cannon and, still better, they saved the day, for the Indians could not stand before "big guns." A half dozen of their well aimed charges of grapeshot crashing among the trees where the savages were in hiding started them out of the forest like flushed partridges, and the Tennesseeans hunted them across the open country for miles.

The reader of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly on the blood and mucous surface of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer $100 for any case that it fails to cure.

AN ALMOST MIRACULOUS CURE.

The Statement of Mr. Edward Teel, Jr., of Dunellen, N. J.

TO THE PUBLIC:

From a sense of duty I desire to call public attention to the almost miraculous cure which Dr. Lighthill effected in the case of my wife. For eleven years she had been afflicted with piles of an unusual severe and distressing character. She suffered every day of her life the most intense pain, attended with frequent and profuse hemorrhage. This state of things debilitated her entire system until she became a perfect wreck of her former self.

We made every effort to obtain a cure but they all resulted in bitter disappointment, although a number of physicians of excellent reputations for skill in that direction had treated her case. She grew worse and worse all the time, the pain became perfectly unbearable and I felt she could not bear the strain of her condition much longer. In this extremity, a friend of mine, Mr. W. E. Dilts, a resident of Roselle, N. J., a passenger conductor on the New Jersey Central told me that he had been similarly affected, and had been permanently cured by Dr. Lighthill, after other medical skill had failed. He assured me that the doctor would cure my wife, no matter how severe her case may be, and his prediction proved perfectly correct. In spite of her desperate condition, Dr. Lighthill, I am glad to say, has effected a complete and perfect cure in her case, and has given her new life.

Since the cure has been effected she has gained in health and strength and is so improved in appearance that her friends scarcely recognize her. They all consider her cure as almost miraculous, and Dr. Lighthill's praise is heard on every side. Our gratitude to Dr. Lighthill is unbounded and we only hope that other sufferers may be benefited by this publication.

EDWARD TEEL, JR.

A Flattering Testimonial from Colonel John Dietrich, One of Plainfield's Oldest and Best Known Residents.

16 ARLINGTON PLACE,
Plainfield, N. J., July 17, 1894.

I am profoundly grateful to Dr. Lighthill for his speedy and radical cure of a most painful malady of over ten years standing with which I was afflicted.

I deem it proper to say to all afflicted to place themselves under the care of this skilful physician and be permanently cured.

I will cheerfully impart any information I possess when called upon.

JOHN DIETRICH.

Mr. Thomas Callahan of No. 214 Richmond street Cured of a Very Distressing Trouble by Dr. Lighthill.

PLAINFIELD, N. J., June 1, 1894.

TO THE PUBLIC:

For some time past I have been greatly distressed with noises in the head. They were all over my head and troubled me constantly; they were loudest at night when everything was quiet and at such times would often keep me from sleep and disturb my rest. In fact they got to be so bad and distressing that they affected my whole nervous system as well as my health. I did not obtain the least relief until I placed myself under the care of Dr. Lighthill, of No. 132 Crescent avenue, who effected a complete cure in my case in a short time and made me a very happy man.

THOMAS CALLAHAN,
214 Richmond street.

A Card From Mr. T. R VanZandt, of Nos. 304 and 306 Park ave., Plainfield, N. J

I certify with pleasure that Dr. Lighthill has effectually cured me of a most painful case of piles. For some time past I had been subject to its attacks, but the last attack was so exceedingly painful that it completely upset my whole system. The pain extended to my legs and in many other directions, and made me so nervous that I could neither sleep, sit down, lie down or move about without serious discomfort and distress. Such was my condition when I applied to Dr. Lighthill for relief, and I am glad to say that as soon as he took hold of my case, I began to improve, and in a short time found myself completely cured. Dr. Lighthill has also effected a radical and permanent cure in a most terrible case of piles on my cousin, Mr. J. V. E. Griggs, of Rocky Hill, N. J., whose flattering testimonial is in Dr. Lighthill's possession.

METROPOLITAN NOTES.

Interesting Facts and Opinions Chronicled by the Daily Press of New York.

While the utmost secrecy is displayed about the yachtsmen who will form the new syndicate it is learned on good authority that the men who will put up the cash for the defence of the America's Cup, and the building of a new cup defender are: Edwin M. Brown, the present Vice Commodore and next Commodore of the New York Yacht Club; George J. Gould, the owner of the ex-cup defender Vigilant, the schooner yacht, Hildegarde, and the steam yacht Atalanta; C. Oliver Iselin, the head of the old Vigilant syndicate; Cornelius Vanderbilt and one or two others. At first it was thought that the Belmonts, August, Perry, and Oliver Hazard, who were connected with the Vigilant syndicate, would be interested in the new boat, but it was authoritatively denied yesterday that they would have anything to do with it.

While Mr. Iselin is reported to be a member of the new syndicate, it is said that he positively declines to have anything to do with managing the new cup defender, and the only thing which is delaying the new racer is due to the fact that none of the members of the club who are competent to take charge of a 90 footer can spare the time from their business to attend the thousand and one details connected with the management of a craft of that size.

The opposition to Mr. Gould in the N. Y. Yacht Club, it was said the other day, was not against him personally, but was due to the fact that a great many members objected to any one man having too large an interest in what might be termed a club boat. They argued that while, of course Mr. Gould could easily build a boat himself without any outside pecuniary aid, and that they would be glad to have him do so, that if he or any one else was in a syndicate boat the cost should be divided pro rata among the subscribers. This and nothing more was the cause, so it is said, of the rumors Mr. Gould would build a boat himself.—N. Y. Sun.

When Croker started in to lead Tammany Hall he imitated John Kelly—perhaps its greatest leader in many respects. He had somewhat the build of Kelly and he cut his hair and beard like Kelly. He had sprung from common stock, as had Kelly, but he had none of the former's innate refinement. Kelly was a student and more of a scholar than he was ever credited with being. Croker has been and is neither one nor the other. Kelly was naturally a closed-mouthed man, but he could speak and speak well whether in private or from a public platform, Croker can do neither, Kelly was a man of kindly instincts, who helped into prominence unselfishly more young men than any public man of his day. If Croker has any kindly instincts he has carefully hid them. Kelly affected taciturnity to hide his thoughts. Croker has affected taciturnity to disguise his lack of thoughts. Kelly was true to his friends. Croker has been true to himself. When Kelly found that his subdorinate leaders in Tammany Hall were stealing public money as in the case of the famous Broadway street railway steal, he threw every one of them out of Tammany Hall. When Croker saw the storm coming he got out and let some one else get hurt. All of which is why in New York pretty much everybody is laughing at Boss Croker and his bully like talk of settling personally with those men who are now talking about him. He will have a mighty big contract on hand if he tries to carry this out.—Advertiser.

M. CASIMIR-PERIER'S CAREER.

He Occupied the Presidential Chair a Little Over Six Months.

Jean Pierre Paul Casimir-Perier was President of France for just six months and nineteen days. He was elected to succeed the murdered Carnot on June 27, 1894, by a vote of 451 in 884. Only one ballot was necessary, notwithstanding the fact that he was opposed by the head of the Ministry, who in the interregnum was charged with supreme executive authority, and also by the officer designated to preside over the Chambers in joint session.

Much has been said of M. Casimir-Perier's courage and devotion to duty. The story is told of how he refused the Presidential candidacy with obstinacy when besieged by Deputies and Senators; how he answered always, "For this mission, such as I understand it, I do not feel prepared," and how, finally, he accepted it because he thought it to be his duty to do so. His mother said to him: "My son, when duty has to be faced, and also danger, perhaps, a Casimir-Perier should always be ready." He answered: "It is well. I accept." This has been the keynote of all that has been written of M. Casimir-Perier.

The Socialists declared that he would be a dictator, and they have opposed his administration as they opposed his election. It was for that reason, doubtless, that he was the choice of the French people. The reaction against anarchism that came with the assassination of M. Carnot called for a man who could and would deal with the question with a hand of iron. That man the French thought M. Casimir-Perier to be. Tales of his courage and blind devotion to duty were upon every tongue; they believed they had found the man needed for the hour.

By birth and by education, M. Casimir Perier is the natural foe of socialism and anarchism. His great grandfather, Jaques Perier, was a conspicuous financier in the closing years of the last century, and his grandfather was Prime Minister in the time of Louis Philippe. He inherited the traditions of the aristocracy and—which makes him the more odious to the Socialist—wealth. His father was a Minister under Thiers, and his mother is a sister in law of the Orleanist Duc d'Audiffret Pasquier. M. Casimir Perier himself is married to a member of the noblesse.

DRAMA AND OPERA.

ANOTHER OF SARDOU'S PLAYS ON THE METROPOLITAN BOARDS.

Napoleon in Domestic Tragedy. Hard Lines of Pauline Markham Once a Black Crook Star. Foreign Plays Are Crowding the Stage.

Hard times in the theatrical business have effected all classes of public entertainers from the variety stage dancer to the star. Here is Pauline Markham, who had all New York at her feet in the days when burlesque was a novelty, subsisting on the charity of her friends in a Brooklyn boarding house, and trying in vain to find a place on the stage where she can earn enough to support herself. There will be few of the young bucks of twenty years ago to whom the name of Pauline Markham will not bring back recollections of the beautiful blonde girl who came over from England in '69 with Lydia Thompson. Lydia Thompson's burlesque troupe was the real name of the company, but before it had been here a week all New York was talking of the company as Lydia Thompson's blondes although of the leading characters Miss Thompson herself and Pauline Markham were the only fair haired ones in it. The troupe's popularity was instantaneous, and none of the dashing burlesquers was more popular than Pauline Markham. The young English girl—she was then only 18 years old—was not only a beauty but she had a dashing style and a quick wit that soon made her a queen of the stage set. In those days that set included many men of brains and wit, who made their friends among the best and most talented actors and actresses. It was one of these, Richard Grant White, who made Pauline Markham famous in a phrase. "She has a voice of velvet and the lost arms of the Venue de Milo," he wrote.

It is to be noted that the imported plays acted in New York are all from authors of long experience. Victorien Sardou is represented in "Gismonda" at the 5th Avenue, and "Madame Sans Gene" at the Broadway. Examples of Henry Arthur Jones are current in "The Masqueraders" at the Empire, "The Case of Rebellious Susan" at the Lyceum, and "The Silver King" at the American. Sydney Grundy has "A White Lie" at Abbey's Hadden Chambers and B. C. Stephenson have "The Fatal Card" at Palmer's, Sutton Vane has "The Cotton King" at the Academy of Music. Sir Augustus Harris has "The Prodigal Daughter" at the Columbus, Alexandar Dumas has "Camille" at the Harlem Opera House, Meilhac and Halevy have "Frou Frou" at the same theatre, and Judith Gautier has "Heart of Ruby" at Daly's. American through and through are Edward Harrigan's "Notoriety," at Harrigan's; Chas. Hoyt's "A Milk White Flag," at Hoyt's; Denman Thompson's "The Old Homestead," at the Star; Palmer Cox's "The Brownies," at the Fourteenth Street and William Gillette's adapted "Too Much Johnson," at the Standard. Of American authorship, too, are Vance Thompson's "A Dresden Sheperdess," at the Eden Musee; W. H. Power's "The Ivy Leaf," at Niblo's; Charles Blaney's "A Run on the Bank," at the Bijou; Smith and De Koven's "Rob Roy," at the Herald Square, and Lloyd and Rosenfeld's "The Politician," at the Brooklyn Columbia. Thoroughly Americanized are "Little Christopher," at the Garden; "Superba," at the Grand Opera House, and "Doris," with Effie Ellsler, at the People's.

Anything about Napoleon is interesting nowadays, and consequently a play dealing with the Emperor's life from the pen of such a playwright as Sardou cannot fail to attract attention. While Napoleon is not the central figure, he is a very important character in "Mme. Sans-Gene," Manager Augustus Pitou's English production, with Miss Kathryn Kidder in the title role, now at the Broadway. The incidents of the play are all closely connected with his career. In the prologue we are shown the laundry where Napoleon, then a poor lieutenant, has his washing done, and the laundress, whose real name is Catharine Hubscher, but who is commonly known as Mme. Sans Gene, is first discovered gossiping with Fouche, one of her customers. To him she confides that Napoleon owes her a large bill, which she never hopes to collect. After Fouche's departure news comes that the Tuileries are on fire, and soon after an Austrian, Neippers, who has been wounded while defending Marie Antoinette, staggers in and begs Catharine to hide him from the soldiers who are pursuing him. She has just time to conceal him in her bedroom when her lover, Lefebyre, enters at the head of the pursuing party. Catharine assures him that there is no one there, and he decides to go into her room to wash his hands. Finding the door locked he becomes jealous and forces it. When he comes out he laughs at his companions' suspicions and promises Catharine to return and aid Neippers to escape. Twenty years pass, and in the first act we are introduced to Catharine, who is now the wife of Lefebyre, who is a Marshal of France and Duke of Dantzig, in her own palace. The Duchess is not as polished as Napoleon thinks she should be at court and he wishes Lefebyre to divorce. This he refuses positively to do. The Duchess thinks the Emperor's two sisters are plotting against her and the act closes with a violent quarrel between the three women. In the second act we are in Napoleon's library at Compiegne, and here for the first time in the piece the Emperor appears on the stage. He has summoned the Duchess before him with the intention of compelling her to divorce Lefebvre. She, however, pleads her cause so well, that she carries everything her own way, and obtains a strong hold on the Emperor's regard. Just at the close of the interview, Neippers, who is suspected of being the Empress' lover, is brought in under arrest, having been found near the apartments. He declares he was there only to take a message from the Empress to her father, the Emperor of Austria. Napoleon, however, mad with jealousy, orders him executed before daylight. The last act takes place in the Emperor's library at two o'clock in the morning. The Duchess is trying to concoct some scheme by which she may save Neippers. She finally succeeds in convincing that there is no intrigue between the Empress and the Austrian officer, and he orders the execution to be suspended. Manager Pitou has spared no pains to make the production as perfect as possible and some of the scenes in the piece are marvels of the stage painter's and carpenter's work. Besides Miss Kidder the cast, which comprises over 40 people, includes Mr. Augustus Cook as Napoleon Mr. Harold Russell as Lefebvre, Mr. Wallace Shaw as Fouche, Mr. James K. Hackett as Neippers, Miss Marie Shotwell as Queen Caroline, and Miss Henrietta Lander as Princess Eliza.

[NOTE.—Whoever can see through the fallacy of a hobgoblin, whether scientific (?) or superstitious, and unhorse its terrors, is a benefactor to the race. The following poem was found in The Jury (Rochester, N. Y.) January 2. Its author deserves to be classed with James Russell Lowell in the keenness of her good-natured satire.—Ed. Wayside Lights.]

I am somethin' of a vet'ran, jest a turnin' eighty year—
A man that's hale and hearty an' a stranger tew all fear—
But I've heard some news this mornin' that has made my old head spin,
An' I'm going tew cease my conshuns if I never speak agin!

I've lived my four-score years of life, an' never till tew day
Wus I taken fer a Jackass or an ign'rant kind o' Jay,
Tew be stuffed with such durned nonsense 'bout them crawlin' bugs an' worms
That's a killin, human bein's with their Microscopic germs.

They say there's "Microbes" all about a lookin' fer their prey—
There's nothin' pure tew eat nor drink an' no safe place tew stay—
There's "Miasmy" in the dew-fall and "Malary" in the sun—
'Taint safe to be out of doors at noon or when the day is done.

There's "Bactery" in the water an' "Trikeeny" in the meat—
"Ameeby" in the atmosphere, "Calory" in the heat"—
There's "Corpussule" and "Pigments" in a human bein's blood—
An' every other kind o' thing existin' sence the flood.

Terbacker's full o' "Nickerteen", whatever that may be—
An' your mouth'll all git puckered with the "Tannin" in the tea:
The butter's "Olymargareen", it never saw a cow—
An' things is gettin' wus an wus from what they be jest now.

Then bugs is all 'bout us, jest awaitin' for a chance
Tew navigate our vitals an' tew 'naw us off like plants;
There's men that spend a life-time huntin' worms, jest like a goose—
An' tackin' Latin names to 'em an' lettin' on 'em loose.

Now, I don't believe sech nonsense, an' I'm not agoin' tew try—
If things has come tew such a pass I'm satisfied tew die—
I'll go hang me in a sullar, for I won't be sech a fool
As to wait until I'm pisoned by a "Annymally-cool!"

WOMAN'S HEROISM.

FEW PEOPLE REALIZE IT.

What Heroic Efforts They make to Appear Cheerful and Happy.

(SPECIAL TO OUR LADY READERS.)

How many, think you, have any idea of the suffering endured by so large a proportion of the women of America?

Very few men have the slightest conception of the pain endured by so many women, even those of their own households, or the heroic efforts they make to appear cheerful and happy.

Maid of Orleans.

Women ought to be told just where the danger lies, for their whole future may depend upon their knowledge, and how to overcome it.

Lydia E. Pinkham solved the mystery after years of experience and study She unerringly traced the cause of nearly all of woman's suffering to the womb.

Other years followed and her Vegetable Compound was given to the world.

And now, after years of marvellous success, it is acknowledged the unfailing remedy for all forms of female complaints, ovarian troubles, inflammation and ulceration, falling and displacements of the womb, irregularity, suppressed or painful menstruations, leucorrhœa, bloating, flooding, backache, nervous prostration, kidney trouble, etc., and is found on the shelves of all respectable druggists

Such cases as this of Mrs. M. F. Fozzy, of Campello, Mass., speak volumes. She says: "I was very sick. I did not ever expect to get up again. Menstruations had stopped suddenly. The pains all through my body were terrible. As a last resort I sent for a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and a box of her Liver Pills. I also used a package of her Sanative Wash.

"Relief came at once, and to-day I am a well woman. Menstruations regular, no backache, entirely cured of leucorrhœa and bearing down pains. Nothing equals Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

A CORN-CURE THAT CURES CORNS.

We have never said much about our Corn Cure—though it is one of the best made—because the market is full of cures, so-called. But such positive testimony to its merits has recently been volunteered that we feel justified in "talking up" this little specialty. Our COLLOID CORN CURE is easily applied, gives relief quickly, and will cure every case of Corns, hard or soft, that can be cured, if used as directed. Sold in square vials with brush for applying. REYNOLDS'S PHARMACY, Park and North avenues.

Did Not Want Her Lopsided.

Down in Mississippi not so very long ago there was a young darky who bore the classic name of Scipio and was the happy possessor of two mules which rejoiced in the appellations of Sam Jones and Mary, and so dearly did he cherish the brutes that one day when he met a girl named Mary he fell in love with the dusky maiden for no other reason, as he admitted, than that she bore the same cognomen as the off mule, and they decided to wed.

Scipio wanted to do the thing up right and give the bride a present, so he went one day to the little country store, and, after examining the entire stock, purchased two hoopskirts and took them back to the girl. She was delighted, but pretty soon she said:

"Look heah, Scipio, what furd' you get two er dese hupes for?"

"Why, honey," responded Scipio, "I didn' want'cher t' look lopsided."

"Whus' 'at? Lopsided? Humph!"

"Shoh, honey. I got one fur de right laig an' one fur de lef'."—St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

A Wise Precaution.

A Detroit man who goes hunting occasionally, without any great detriment to the live stock of the forests though perhaps some to the live stock of the fields, concluded not long ago that he would organize an expedition of two and make a foray. So he consulted his office boy.

"I say, Tommie," he said, "how would you like to go out on a little hunt with me?"

"I don't know, sir," responded the boy, in some doubt. "I'd have to see mother first."

"All right. Ask your mother and let me know in the morning."

The next morning the boy saw the gentleman.

"Well," he inquired, "what did your mother say?"

"She said," replied the boy, very innocently, "that I might go if you would take somebody else along with us to do the shootin'."—Detroit Free Press.

There is good reason for the popularity of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. Davis & Buzard, of West Monterey, Clarion Co., Pa., say: "It has cured people that our physicians could do nothing for; we persuaded them to try a bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy and now they recommend it with the rest of us." 25 and 50c bottles for sale at Reynolds's Pharmacy, Park and North avenues. OH! FOR STRENGTH!

Weak Nerves, Tired, Exhausted Bodies.

THE COMPLAINT OF THOUSANDS UPON THOUSANDS.

Health and Strength are Within Your Grasp.

DR. GREENE'S NERVURA MAKES YOU STRONG AND WELL!

It is the Great Restorative of Brains and Nerves.

Oh, those nerves of ours, how they do bother us! Weak, tired and nervous is the complaint everwhere. We overwork, dissipate, weaken our bodies, ruin our health, and finally break down. Sleeplessness and indigestion are early symptoms, for the nerves are too exhausted and irritable to permit rest, and the stomach too weak to digest food.

It is nerve and brain exhaustion which makes the brain tired, and the arm nerveless, the limbs trembling, the muscles weak and the whole body without strength, energy or ambition. It is loss of nerve and vital power which is slowly but surely sapping the very life itself, and unless help is sought from the right source, the end will be shattered nerves, insanity, with softening of the brain, nervous prostration, heart failure, paralysis or premature death.

Beware of such symptoms! A well-known druggist, Charles W. Eggleston, Esq, 329 Park avenue, Worcester, Mass, suffered from nervous prostration and all its terrible symptoms. He writes the following letter telling what he knows is the best way to get well.

"Some time ago I was ta en with nervous prostration, I suffered terribly with my nerves and could get no sleep at all. I became fearfully exhausted, my stomach was in a terrible condition from dyspepsia, and I could eat hardly anything.

"I used several medicines but without benefit. Being in the drug business myself, and having had many customers speak in the highest terms of Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy, I determined to try it. After taking only one-half bottle I began to feel much better.

"I slept soundly at night, and my appetite was splendid. After taking three bottles, I ate three square meals a day, and had not the slightest distress. My nerves were perfectly strong, and I felt like a new man, being completely cured of all my troubles.

"Out of respect I bear the manufacturers of Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy, and my desire to have the sick and suffering made well and strong. I heartily recommend it to people who are sick; I most certainly recommend it to people who are the same as I was, nervous and inclined toward dyspepsia and indigestion, and suffering from not being able to sleep well at night."

As this letter is from a dealer in medicine, his word is authority on such matters. Everybody knows that Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy is the great leading medicine of the age. Take it and you will be made strong, healthy and vigorous. Doctors recommend it because it is the prescription of a physician, and because they know it cures,

Dr. Greene, the most successful specialist in curing nervous and chronic diseases, discovered it. He can be consulted free, personally or by letter, at his office, 35 West 14th st., New York City.

THE STRIKE SITUATION

Traffic To Be Fully Restored in a Few Days.

This Prediction Is Made by the Companies, But the Men Are Still Confident—More Shooting Done by the Troops—Linemen Have Strict Orders To Go Out To-Day.

Brooklyn, N. Y., Jan. 24.—The railroad companies propose to open new lines to-day and predict complete restoration of traffic in a few days, while the strikers seem as confident as ever. They made another proposition to the presidents, offering to leave all matters of dispute to the arbitration of William J. Richardson, a director in the Atlantic Avenue Railroad company, and a son of the late Deacon Richardson. The presidents once more positively refused overtures of arbitration or to treat with the strikers' organization.

The linemen did not go out yesterday, as anticipated, but at a meeting held last night decided positively to go on strike this morning and declared that any man who repairs a broken trolley wire to-day is out of the union.

Blood was shed again yesterday by the troops, and, as in the last shooting affair, a citizen and not a striker was the victim, and his offense was refusing to obey the peremptory order of the soldiers. A roofer at work upon a house top, at a time when an incipient riot was in progress, was mistaken for a brick-thrower and not moving quickly when ordered to stand back received a mortal wound from the shots which followed the order. This occurred on Hicks street near Atlantic avenue during the progress of the first car of the Hicks street line.

Houses were riddled with bullets, window panes broken, and many people had narrow escapes. They threw stones, pieces of coal, bottles, tin cans and other missiles from the windows and doorways of the tenements which line both sides of the street. Their order to close windows resulted in laughter, ridicule and more missiles. From one window a man pointed a loaded revolver. He was captured. Another man was arrested who threw coal. About forty shots were fired by the men of the Thirteenth Brooklyn regiment. Thomas Carney the roofer was the only person hit.

Early in the day troop A, New York city's swell cavalrymen, charged with drawn sabres to disperse a mob which was stoning a gang of non-union workmen repairing tracks. In other instances troops fired at windows from which stones were thrown at them, and used their bayonets to disperse crowds. Wire cutting, obstructing tracks, and bombarding cars was continued in spite of the presence of the troops.

The linemen and electrical workmen after much deliberation decided to strike out of sympathy for the conductors and motormen. Their action will increase the troubles of the presidents of the trolley lines.

The latter made the best showing in the operation of cars of any day since the strike was ordered. Six new lines were opened. More cars were run on the others which have been open all of this week. The new lines opened were the Third avenue, Myrtle avenue, Reid avenue, Butler street, Sackett street, and Hicks street. The showing made is an excellent one. The companies brought many new men in from other cities. Presidents Lewis, Norton and Wicker of the three systems affected declare that the strike is practically won by them now that they have shown that they can operate their lines.

Frank Bowman, a private of Company D, Twelfth regiment distinguished himself last night by capturing Joseph Nordenourgh, aged 29; Hans Anderson, aged 28, and Andrew Roosland, aged 34, all residing at 488 Second avenue, New York. The men were caught in the act of throwing stones at a Butler avenue car as it was passing along Atlantic avenue near Butler and Sixth streets. The men were turned over to the police and locked up.

After the last cars were housed at 10 o'clock an ominous calm prevailed all over the city. The troops at their different posts had their sentries out and a sharp watch was kept for any sign of a disturbance. Men were ordered away from the vicinity of the car houses, and extra precautions were takes to guard against disturbances. Extra policemen were detailed to look for wire cutting throughout the night.

The following resolutions were presented to Mayor Schieren yesterday by a committee of citizens from the Seventh ward.

Resolved, That we protest against the monster monopoly of the railroad system of our city and that they be compelled by the city authorities to run their cars in compliance with their charters.

Resolved, That in the event of their non-compliance, that the city authorities take control of the roads so that the people may have immediate and permanent relief.

Resolved, It is now the ninth day since any car has been operated in the Seventh ward, and all business has been practically destroyed at a great loss to our citizens, and we demand immediate relief.

A committee of citizens of the Twentieth ward, also saw the mayor in regard to cars not running.

The mayor said the aldermen had no power to pass an ordinance as they did on Monday. He said that legislation would have to be enacted before motormen could be licensed.

Henry Arns, the New York citizen shot by a Seventh regiment sentinel at the Alabama avenue stables last Tuesday night, died at St. Mary's hospital early yesterday morning. He leaves a wife and two children.

Thirty men employed by the Brooklyn companies to take the strikers' places, arrived from Chicago last night at the Grand Central depot.

The men were taken to Brooklyn in charge of four detectives from police headquarters.

Master Workman Connelly says his organization will hold the state officials, from the governor down to the mayor, for the shooting affair in Hicks street.

TOO MANY IDLE PRISONERS.

General Outbreak Barely Prevented in an Ohio Penitentiary.

Columbus, O., Jan. 24.—There came dangerously near being a general outbreak among the 2,000 prisoners confined in the Ohio penitentiary and the strong force of guards on duty had all they could do to prevent it.

Three desperate fights occurred during the day, in which many convicts were more or less seriously injured, and last night a cutting affray which may prove fatal, occurred in one of the double cells in the west hall.

William H. Davis, serving four years from Hocking county for shooting to wound and Harry Blair, serving five years from Columbus for burglarry and larcency, occupied this cell. They are both desperate men, and when Davis applied a vile epithet to Blair, the latter drew a huge knife which he had concealed on his person, and slashed Davis across the face from ear to ear.

Just before supper, John Conroy, serving five years from Zanesville for burglary, and Joseph Haag, serving four years from Stark county for burglary and larcency, precipitated a general fight in idle house No. 3 and it was with the utmost difficulty that the guards controlled the seventy-five convicts present. These men were made desperate by idleness. There are now nearly 500 prisoners in the various idle houses.

TO DEFRAUD THE GOVERNMENT.

A Skilfully Prepared Plan Discovered by Customs Officials.

Philadelphia, Jan. 24.—Special Deputy Collector Crilley, explained a skilfully prepared plan for defrauding the government, which has been brought to light by customs officials. He stated the discovery was made through the consignments of a London firm of Chinaware dealers, who carried on a large business with tourists.

The investigation showed that the goods when purchased were bought with customs charges included in the cost of the articles and with the freight to destination paid. The merchandise, instead of being invoiced at the true value, was invoiced by the shipper at a much lower value. The duty of 60 per cent. ad valorem was assessed upon the invoiced valuation.

The purchasers of the merchandise paid the 60 per cent duty upon the actual cost price, but the goods were invoiced by the London firm at about half the actual value. The result was that the government and the purchasers were defrauded.

The customs officials imposed and collected a fine which amounted to about $3,000. The goods were originally purchased by parties from this city and other sections of the country.

JUDGE WALLACE'S DECISION.

Our Courts Should Not Review the Sovereign Acts of Another Country.

New York, Jan. 24.—Judge Wallace, in the United States circuit court of appeals, handed down a decision affirming the decision of Judge Wheeler in the lower court in the case of George F. Underhill against General Jose Manuel Hernandez for false imprisonment.

Hernandez is a South American general. Underhill was in Venezuela under a contract with President Palacio to build a waterworks system from Orinoco to Bolivia. Hernandez led a revolution, and, in July, 1892, invaded Bolivia and arrested everybody, including Underhill, whom he kept in prison for two months. In 1893 Hernandez visited America and Underhill had him arrested. Underhill alleged that Hernandez had no authority to declare martial law and order his arrest.

Judge Wallace decided that it would imperil the amicable relations between states and vex the peace of nations to permit the sovereign acts or political transactions of one country to be reviewed by the courts of another.

Broker Quigley's Case.

New York, Jan. 24.—When Edwin O. Quigley, who pleaded guilty on last Friday to three indictments for forgery of various city bonds aggregating, it is estimated, more than $200,000, was arraigned for sentence before Recorder Goff, of the general sessions, the recorder remanded him until tomorrow as there are still several unexplained features of Quigley's forgeries that would have to be inquired into by the state.

Bourgeois' Double Burden.

Paris, Jan. 24.—M. Bourgeois is making little or no progress in the formation of a cabinet. M. Cochery has refused to accept the portfolio of finance. After visiting the Palace of the Elysee last night and conferring with President Faure, M. Bourgeois decided that he would take the finance portfolio in addition to the premiership.

Fatal Result of an Explosion.

Cincinnati, Jan. 24.—Three little children of John Raybeck, a brewery employe, were playing with a coal oil can at Dayton, Ky., three miles from this city, when the oldest, aged 5, struck a match into it. An explosion resulted and all were so badly burned that two died last night and the other cannot live.

Arrested on Suspicion.

Worcester, Mass., Jan. 24.—Jerry Stackewicz, of East Thompson, has been arrested on suspicion of having murdered his wife and seven year old son, who mysteriously disappeared some time ago. The reason for the arrest was the discovery of blood on the floor of his house.

Lord Churchill Dead.

London, Jan. 24.—Lord Randolph Churchill died at 6:15 this morning. His death was a painless one, and he passed away in the presence of Doctors Roose and Keith, with all the members of his family grouped around his bedside.

Spaulding Gets Four Years.

Boston, Jan. 24.—Henry B. Spaulding, who embezzled $20,000 of the funds of Wheeler, Blodgett & Co., and who was recently arrested in Louisiana, has been sentenced to four years in the state prison.

Denied by the Trustees.

Norristown, Pa., Jan. 24.—The trustees of the State hospital for the insane deny the charges made by a Philadelphia paper of mismanagement and invite a thorough investigation.

TWENTY-SIX LIVES LOST

Steamer Chicora Founders on Lake Michigan.

Thought That Her Entire Crew and One Passenger Have Perished—Quantities of Wreckage Found in the Drift Ice—Heavy Loss to the Vessel's Owners.

Benton Harbor, Mich., Jan. 24.—All hope for the safety of the Graham & Morton screw steamer Chicora has been abandoned here by the finding of wreckage from the vessel off South Haven. The fate of twenty-six men who are known to have been abord when the steamer left Milwaukee for this port Monday morning is almost as hopeless. Veteran mariners number every man with the dead.

The ill-fated vessel was caught while crossing the lake and fell an easy prey to the seventy mile an hour hurricane which swept the icy waters of Lake Michigan throughout Monday and which continued with little moderation for another twenty-four hours. The fears of all concerned were confirmed when the following dispatch was received from South Haven:

Captain Donahue, the light house keeper noticed, through the hazy weather, portions of what seemed to be wreckage floating abreast and on each side of the harbor here, a couple of miles outside and close to open water. Capt. Matthews of the life saving station led a party of volunteers on a dangerous trip over the moving ice until they came into a lot of fresh wreckage. Some of it was wedged between the ice, but the greater portion was seen underneath the ice. The parts which were brought here were easily recognized by vessel men as belonging to the Chicora. A perilous gale is still blowing, the weather is thick and the darkness combines to prevent another search for further proof of the disaster."

The disaster will prove a heavy financial blow to the transportation company as there was no insurance except against fire.

The following telegram was received here by the steamship company from South Haven:

"We have just found some of the Chicora's upper works in the ice off this place. There is no doubt she has foundered."

The loss on the vessel exclusive of the cargo amunts to $185,000 and the cargo of 36 car loads of flour for export, was valued at $20,000. The Chicora was a screw steamer of 900 tons burden, built by the Detroit Dry Dock company, two years ago. The Graham & Morton company, carried no insurance on her except for fire and there was no insurance on the flour.

Owing to dull business, she was taken out of commission Jan. 1, but last Saturday was again put in commission. She was a strongly built boat and well manned. It is barely possible that the victims are adrift on an ice field.

Capt. Stinos is said to have had foreboding of impending disaster sometime ago, and said as much to his friends.

MRS. DRAYTON ARRIVES.

Met by Lawyer Lindabury at the Majestic's Dock.

New York, Jan. 24.—Mrs. Coleman Drayton, who is being sued for divorce by her husband, arrived in this city yesterday on the White Star steamship Majestic. She was accompanied by no one but her maid. During the voyage Mrs. Drayton seldom left her stateroom, except for meals. She had very little to say to the other passengers.

When the ship reached her pier Mrs. Drayton was met by her lawyer, R. V. Lindabury, who after a twenty-minute talk with her, came out and told the reporters that his client would have nothing to say. While the lawyer was talking to the reporters Mrs. Drayton slipped out by the second cabin gangway, took a closed cab and was rapidly driven away.

Mrs. Drayton has come over to personally superintend her fight against the divorce suit brought against her by her husband. She expects to be able to make and sustain counter charges of infidelity.

RAILROADS SCORED FOR CALLING IN THEIR HALF-RATE TICKETS.

Dr. Depew Says It Was Because Some Roads Made a Practice of Cutting Rates By Selling Half-Fare. Clericals Reflect on Their Colored Brethren.

There was introduced at a meeting of Methodist ministers in New York a firebrand in the shape of an alleged interview with the good Doctor Depew of railroad fame, in which he declared that some preachers had sold their half-rate tickets to scalpers. This was given as a reason for the recent action of certain railroads in withdrawing the half-rate privilege.

In the discussion Brother Dr. Palmer considered Dr. Depew's interview a reflection on the honor of the entire American ministry, from New York to San Francisco. "We want the railroad people to understand," added Dr. Palmer "that we are not paupers. We don't want them to labor under the impression that we get cheaper rates because we are not so well off as men of other professions. We are perfectly able to pay full fares if necessary, but I believe that the ministry of this country has the moral force of a police organization. If we succeeded in keeping but three switchmen from drunkenness and so prevented them from switching trains and people to disaster, the railroads could well afford to let us have half rates."

Dr. Dunn said that he was informed that there were a few colored members who had sold their tickets to scalpers because they were hard up.

"I replied to this indignantly," said Dr. Dunn. "Do you put all American ministers on the same plane as these few offenders? I don't think there is a minister in a thousand who would act so dishonorably as to sell a privilege. We are not protesting against the withdrawal of the privilege, but against the way the reason for such action is put by the officials."

"Let them remember," said Dr. Roach, "that we did not ask for the privilege of clerical cards. We were not the mendicant, but they were. They came to us and asked us to allow them the privilege of allowing us to ride on their roads for half fare. Yes, we must maintain our dignity and show proper resentment."

Dr. Lennon said hotly: "I believe it should be brought to Dr. Depew's mind that in our opinion that it was eminently improper that he cast a reflection on the ministry." Dr. Lennon was applauded when he urged a boycott of the New York Central Railroad."

"We must give the officials of the New York Central Railroad," he said excitedly, "distinctly to understand that we will fight shy of that railroad, and will do all in our power to turn the business from that railroad to another railroad, unless we are rightly treated. They must learn as well as any other railroad that the American ministry don't propose to be trifled with or insulted."

About the only defense of Dr. Depew came from the Rev. Mr. Bascom, who said that a scalper once offered to buy his half-rate ticket to Chicago for $10. The scalper said, "They all do it." Mr. Bascom told the scalper that it was an infamous falsehood. The scalper then showed him six clerical tickets, but refused to give him the names of the ministers who sold them.

Dr. Langdon moved that the committee to wait on Dr. Depew be instructed to say that they did not look upon the half-rate tickets as one of their rights. A motion to lay Dr. Langdon's motion on the table was carried. Dr. Palmer appointed Drs. Baldwin and Main to serve with him on the committee to wait on Dr. Depew.

"The Central is simply currying to the politicians," said Dr. C. F. Igleheart, "because they have been deprived of their passes by the legislature. Now they're trying to get square with the ministers. I think Dr. Depew's interview is the meanest thing which has been done since I came to New York city. I say to the committee, put oil of vitriol in your report."

Dr. Palmer said, amid laughter: "I believe that the Roman Catholic priests have not been forgotten by the Central road for some reason or other. I understand they are provided with passes."

Dr. Johnson, just as Dr. Palmer's gavel descended, shouted out:

"I think that Dr. Depew has just been after kissing the Pope's big toe when he was in Rome!"

This deepened the laughter of the ministers. Dr. Palmer forgot about the doxology, usually sung before closing prayer.

Dr. Depew said after the meeting that he had heard of the strictures of the Methodist ministers on his reported interview.

"I should have deserved every bit of the roasting," he said, "if I had said what I am accused of having said, but I have never said anything of the sort. I don't recollect giving any such interview at all. I thought Mr. Daniels, our general passenger agent, might have said something of the sort, and I called him down for it. But he knows as little as I do about the matter. We know of no ministers who have sold their tickets.

"The truth of the matter is that some roads have been selling clerical half-rate tickets to every Tom, Dick and Harry, and in that way they cut regular prices, and it is to stop this that we rescinded the privilege in question."

Might Just as Well Have It.

At Frank's house they had quince jam for supper, but Frankie had been ill, and his mother said to him:

"Frank, you cannot have any jam; it will make you sick, and then you might die."

Frank took this like a little man until he saw his mother help herself to jam a second time. Then he pushed his plate slowly toward the forbidden dish, and said, with deliberation:

"Well, if you are going to die I might as well die, too. Gimme some of it."—American Review.

THE MONEY MARKET.

How the Purchasing Commodity Has Been Regarded by Those Who Deal in It.

It may be of interest to our readers to know how money is held by those who have more of it than they can use. A recent report of the condition of trade among banks in Wall street says:

The money market was in a condition of unprecedented congestion throughout the greater part of the year, and the extremes for money on call was 3 per cent. and 1-2 of 1 per cent., the former being recorded while settlements for the $50,000,000 5 per cent. bonds were being made in November. Money loaned at 1-2 of 1 per cent. early in the year and late in the summer, though loans would doubtless have been made at this rate in the interval but for a tacit understanding that no lower than 1 per cent. be accepted. Toward the end of the summer the principal banks paying interest on deposits of interior institutions notified their correspondents that they would no longer pay more than 1 per cent., but there were no withdrawals of deposits in consequence until December, when some accounts were transferred to banks which restored the 2 per cent. rate.

The surplus reserve of the banks reached the unprecedented amount of $111,623,000 on February 3. The settlements for the $50,000,000 5 per cent. bonds sold by the Treasury for the purpose of replenishing the gold reserve caused a reduction in the amount of specie from $129,556,900, February 3, to $98,587,000 February 17, and the surplus reserve was reduced in this interval to $74,596,825. Then came a recovery in the surplus reserve to $81,022,150, by March 31, but after May this item fell off gradually. It was in November found necessary by the Treasury Department to sell more 5 per bonds, and on the 24th $50,000,000 were taken by a syndicate of New York bankers, payment for which caused a reduction in specie holdings of the banks by December 8 to $59,170,000, while the surplus reserve was reduced to $32,902,650, the lowest of the year.

Some of the gold paid to the Treasury for bonds was borrowed by subscribers from the banks, and the subsequent return of this gold caused an increase in the specie to $73,760,600, by December 29. After the middle of the first week in December the market for money ceased to be influenced by the changed conditions of the banks, though the rate on call to the close of the year ranged from 1 to 2, averaging 1-2 per cent. The net gold in the Treasury was increased by this sale of bonds to $111,000,020 by December 6, against $57,668,701 November 26, but there was an immediate reduction by reason of redemption of legal tenders and gold exports to Europe, and on the 29th the net gold stood at $86,819,528, against $80,891,660 December 31, 1893.

An Actual Victim of Stays.

The latest victim of tight lacing, says the London Daily News, is the unfortunate actress who died in the midst of the performance at the Elephant and Castle Theatre on Boxing Night.

She seems to have been gripped, as in a vice, by the stays of her stage costume, and this, aggravating a natural weakness of the heart, brought on her death. She had just finished a song, and danced off to the wings, when she collapsed, with all the signs of fatal illness.

Her husband, who was in the house, was called to her side, and her agonized cry to him to unlace her dress seems to be the last that left her lips. She was dead in her dressing room before the doctor came. The circumstances were such as to constitute every possible aggravation of her danger.

Her lacing had paralyzed every vital function at a moment when it needed most freedom and play. A dance in loose costume would have been trying enough, amid all the excitement of a first night. An added song, and both in a garment that fitted like the torture boots of the Middle Ages, proved too much for the patience of outraged nature.

"Fairies beware," is not the only moral of this poor creature's fate. Yet she has probably died in vain for any purpose of salutary warning to her sisters, whether behind the curtain or before.

L. W. RANDOPH,

Prescription Druggist,
143 West Front st., Plainfield, N. J.

(Copyright, 1895, by Bacheller, Johnson & Bacheller.)

The queen, whose face was flushed with fever, made a fretful movement, but did not answer.

"Do you wish me to ask him?" Henry said with admirable patience.

"If you think it is worth while," she muttered, turning sullenly and eyeing me from the middle of her pillows with disdain and ill-temper.

"I will, then," he answered, and he turned to me. "M. de Rosny," he said, in a formal tone, which even without the unaccustomed monsieur cut me to the heart, "be good enough to tell the queen how the key to my secret cipher, which I intrusted to you, has come to be in Mme. de Verneuil's possession."

I looked at him in the profoundest astonishment, and for a moment remained silent, trying to collect my thoughts under this unexpected blow. The queen saw my hesitation and laughed spitefully. "I am afraid, sire," she said, "that you have overrated this gentleman's ingenuity, though doubtless it has been much exercised in your service."

Henry's face grew red with vexation. "Speak, man!" he cried. "How came she by it?"

"Mme. de Verneuil?" I said.

The queen laughed again. "Had you not better take him out first, sir?" she said, scornfully, "and tell him what to say?"

"'Fore God, madame!" the king cried passionately, "you try me too far! Have I not told you a hundred times, and sworn to you, that I did not give Mme. de Verneuil this key?"

"If you did not give her that," the queen muttered, sullenly, picking at the silken coverlid which lay on her feet, "you have given her all else. You cannot deny it."

Henry let a gesture of despair escape him. "Are we to go back to that?" he said. Then turning to me: "Tell her," he said, between his teeth; "and tell me Ventre Saint Gris—are you dumb, man?"

"BEGONE, SIR," HE SAID.

Discerning nothing for it at the moment save to bow before this storm, which had arisen so suddenly, and from a quarter the least expected, I hastened to comply. I had not proceeded far with my story, however—which fell short, of course, of explaining how the key came to be in Mme. de Verneuil's hands—before I saw that it won no credence with the queen, but rather confirmed her in her belief that the king had given to another what he had denied to her. And more, I saw that in proportion as the tale failed to convince her it excited the king's wrath and disappointment. He several times cut me short with expressions of the utmost impatience, and at last, when I came to a lame conclusion—since I could explain nothing except that the key was gone—he could restrain himself no longer. In a tone in which he had never addressed me before, he asked me why I had not, on the instant, communicated the loss to him; and when I would have defended myself by adducing the reason I had given above, overwhelmed me with abuse and reproaches, which, as they were uttered in the queen's presence, and would be repeated, I knew, to the Concinis and Galigais of her suite, who had no occasion to love me, carried a double sting.

Nevertheless, for a time, and until he had somewhat worn himself out, I let Henry proceed. Then, taking advantage of the first pause, I interposed. Reminding him that he had never had cause to accuse me of carelessness before, I recalled the twenty-two years during which I had served him faithfully, and the enmities I had incurred for his sake; and having by these means placed the discussion on a more equal footing, I descended again to particulars, and asked respectfully if I might know on whose authority Mme. de Verneuil was said to have the cipher.

"On her own!" the queen cried hysterically. "Don't try to deceive me, for it will be in vain. I know she has it; and if the king did not give it to her, who did?"

"That is the question, madame," I said.

"It is one easily answered," she retorted. "If you do not know, ask her."

"But, perhaps, madame, she will not answer," I ventured.

"Then command her to answer in the king's name!" the queen replied, her cheeks burning with fever. "And if she will not, then has the king no prisons—no fetters smooth enough for those dainty ankles?"

This was a home question, and Henry, who never showed to less advantage than when he stood between two women, cast a sheepish glance at me. Unfortunately the queen caught the look, which was not intended for her; and on the instant it awoke all her former suspicions. Supposing that she had discovered our collusion, she flung herself back with a cry of rage, and, bursting into a passion of tears, gave way to frantic reproaches, wailing and throwing herself about with a violence which could not but injure one in her condition.

The king stared at her for a moment in sheer dismay. Then his chagrin turned to anger, which, as he dared not vent it on her, took my direction. He pointed impetuously to the door. "Begone, sir!" he said in a passion, and with the utmost harshness. "You have done mischief enough here. God grant that we see the end of it! Go—go!" he continued, quite beside himself with fury. "Send Galigai here, and do you go to your lodging until you hear from me!"

Overwhelmed and almost stupefied by the catastrophe, I found my way out, I hardly knew how, and sending in the woman made my escape from the antechamber. But hasten as I might, my disorder, patent to a hundred curious eyes, betrayed me; and, if it did not disclose as much as I feared or the inquisitive desired, told more than any had looked to learn. Within an hour it was known at Nemours that his majesty had dismissed me with high words—some said with a blow; and half a dozen couriers were on the road to Paris with the news.

In my place some might have given up all for lost; but in addition to a sense of rectitude, and the consciousness of desert, I had to support me an intimate knowledge of the king's temper; which, though I had never suffered from it to this extent before, I knew to be on occasion as hot as his anger was short lived, and his disposition generous. I had hopes, therefore—although I saw dull faces enough among my suite, and some pale ones—that the king's repentance would overtake his anger, and its consequences outstrip any that might flow from his wrath. But though I was not altogether at fault in this, I failed to take into account one thing—I mean Henry's anxiety on the queen's account, her condition, and his desire to have an heir; which so affected the issue, that instead of fulfilling my expectations the event left me more despondent than before. The king wrote indeed, and within the hour, and his letter was in form an apology. But it was so lacking in graciousness so stiff, though it began "My good friend Rosny," and so insincere, though it referred to my past services, that when I had read it I stood awhile gazing at it, afraid to turn lest De Vic and Varennes, who had brought it, should read my disappointment in my face.

For I could not hide from myself that the gist of the letter lay, not in the expressions of regret which opened it, but in the complaint which closed it; wherein the king sullenly excused his outbreak on the ground of the magnitude of the interests which my carelessness had endangered, and the opening to harass the queen which I had heedlessly given. "This cipher," he said, "has long been a whim with my wife, from whom, for good reasons well known to you and connected with the grand duke's court, I have thought fit to withhold it. Now nothing will persuade her that I have not granted to another what I refused her. I trouble, my friend, lest you be found to have done more ill to France in a moment of carelessness than all your services have done good."

It was not difficult to find a threat underlying these words, nor to discern that if the queen's fancy remained unshaken, and ill came of it, the king would hardly forgive me. Recognizing this, and that I was face to face with a crisis from which I could not escape, but by the use of my utmost powers, I assumed a serious and thoughtful air; and without affecting to disguise the fact that the king was displeased with me, dismissed the envoys with a few civil speeches, in which I did not fail to speak of his majesty in terms that even malevolence could not twist to my disadvantage.

A HAIRY GHOST.

Grewsome Tale of a Traveler Who Had Been Strangled in Bed.

A gentleman of the old school, who in his youth traveled widely in the south and west, tells of the following remarkable experience. There were neither steamboats, railways, nor telegraph nor express companies in those days, so the traveler who had business carried money and pistols belted about his waist. This particular traveler, with a companion, was journeying to a land sale, and the pair had between them some five thousand dollars. Settlers were few and far between; it was difficult often to find a house of call for themselves and their horses. One night they were forced to stop at a roadside tavern whose keeper was not thought to be above suspicion. So the two friends insisted upon sleeping in the same room and after they were in it took precautions against being robbed and murdered.

It was an upper room, with log walls, no fireplaces, a single door and two tiny windows nailed tight in their frames. Investigation satisfied them that there was no trap door in the bare floor, nor any concealed way of ingress, so, after barring the door securely, they went to sleep, each with his money under his pillow and a cocked pistol handy. Along toward two o'clock the relator awoke to find big, sinewy hands with a strangling grip on his throat, and what seemed like a heavy figure kneeling upon his chest.

He could not cry out, but, being an exceptionally strong man, rose upright in bed, struggled fiercely with his assailant, who felt as though he were naked and covered with long hair. After a minute he managed to cast the thing violently from him. It fell upon the floor with a hard, dull, jarring sound. His companion, who had by this time awakened, called:

"What's that?"

"Thieves. Stranglers!" panted the other. "Strike a light—or we shall be murdered."

But when the light was struck it showed nothing whatever. There was no one in the room besides their two selves. The door was fast, the window had not been touched, there was no crack or crevice in the log wall through which anything bigger than a mouse could have come and gone. The two men sat up the rest of the night, each with a finger on the hammer of his pistol, but they saw nor heard anything more until they left at daylight. But some weeks after they heard a grewsome tale of another traveler who had been found dead in the room they had occupied, with cruel black marks about his throat, though the door had to be broken in and the landlord proved beyond peradventure that he was innocent of any complicity in the sudden taking off.—Chicago Times.

"DON'T blow out the gas," said the bellboy. "I'm right glad you told me," said the gentleman with the caprine whiskers. "We don't have nothin' but electric light at Plunkville."—Cincinnati Tribune.

Claxton and Janauschek.

"The Two Orphans", D'Ennery's great masterpiece of dramatic interest, will be revived in Music Hall, Monday, Jan. 28. Years ago when first produced in this country it created the wildest excitement and interest. Many companies were formed and hundreds of actors found long engagements in its interpretation. The story of the two sisters, one blind and helpless, the other young and beautiful, was illustrated with such a sympathetic touch of art that it appealed to all. The lower grades of society were given with lifelike force; the sorrows and temptations of all classes were equally well pictured. The scenes are nearly all in Paris, amid the stirring bustling of city life, the haunts of vagrants, the office of the chief of police, the prison and the home of nobility. The situations are thrilling, the abduction of the elder daughter, the fate of the poor blind girl, compelled to sing and beg in the open streets, the cruelty of Frochard, the poor cripple Pierre, the handsome Jacques—all are types of Parisian life.

The cast will be found an excellent one, including Miss Kate Claxton, who has played the part of Louise, the Blind Girl, thousands of times, and notable in the appearance of the celebrated tragedienne, Madame Janauschek.

Chief Doane an Authority.

(From The Firemen's Herald.)

Chief Thaddeus Doane, of Plainfield, N. J., recently inspected several churches in Newark and Jersey City, that have been finished off inside with paper mache sheathing. This sheathing is compounded of very inflammable material and contains a large quantity of rosin. The chief gives it as his opinion that this is very dangerous material and should never be used in buildings. Chief Doane has been a builder for thirty-five years and for thirty years has been connected with the fire service and is well qualified to express an opinion. The highly inflammable material is being extensively used and it does not seem possible that underwriters are are aware of its dangerous properties. It is a crime to permit the use of such material especially in public buildings where people congregate. Some of these days there will be a terrible calamity and the public will be looking for someone to hold responsible. This is a fair sample of the criminal carelessness of building inspectors.

—The Young Ladies Mission Band of the Presbyterian churches will conduct a sale of home-made cake, brown bread, pies and candy, in the parlors of the Crescent Avenue Church Saturday, Jan. 26, at 2:30 p. m.

Reception at the Manual Training School.

The Plainfield Manual Training and Grammar School (held in the Friends' Meeting-house on East Front street), was the scene yesterday afternoon and evening of a pleasant gathering of friends of the school and of those interested in the subject of manual training. The teachers and pupils of the school under the direction of their principal, John Dalziel, had worked hard in decorating the school-rooms with flowers and flags and tastefully arranged exhibits of work. Numerous specimens of drawing, both free-hand and mechanical, the work of the pupils, adorned the walls; in one corner was a table covered with samples of clay-modeling; in another the microscope was shown by P. C. Haines, a pupil of the school; James Arnold was in charge of the department of joinery and parquetry; Dudley Kyte of forestry and bent-iron work, perhaps the most attractive table of all; Harry Woltmann exhibited a large cabinet full of specimens of mineralogy; and a smaller room devoted to the scroll-saw and turning-lathe was in charge of David Pond and John Dalziel, Jr. In another room Mrs. Dalziel and Miss Ruth Dalziel served tea and lemonade to the guests, while the members of the reception committee, Miss Dalziel, Miss Mary Dalziel, Miss Kyte, Miss Hazen, Miss Eva Lewis, Miss Woltmann, A. B. Clemmens, W. Cornwell and Mr. Robinson, conducted the visitors to the various departments which were explained by the boys in charge, and presented them to Mr. Dalziel, the founder and efficient chief instructor of the school.

In the evening, short talks were given by Rev. Dr. Richards, Rev. Dr. Lewis, Aaron M. Powell, C. E Boss, H. M. Maxson, and Mr. Dalziel. Dr. Richards compared the selection of himself as a speaker on manual training, to that of a juryman chosen because he can swear he knows nothing whatever about the case in hand. He nevertheless gave an able address on the value of an evenly developed training of body, intellect, and spirit, so well exemplified in a school of this kind. Dr. Lewis and Mr. Powell also declared themselves free from previous prejudice on the whole question of manual training, but also expressed interesting and valuable thoughts on the subject, comparing ancient with modern educational methods. C. E. Boss made a good point for the school by saying that a member of the North Plainfield Public School, who having, last year, a scholarship with Mr. Dalziel, was compelled to be absent from his class for part of the afternoon session each day, had showed no diminution of interest in his class-work, but on the contrary, had made up the recitations missed, and actually stood higher in his class than before. Mr. Boss heartily endorsed the work of the Manual Training School, at which he had looked with somewhat prejudiced eyes.

Mr. Dalziel held the attention of all in the well-filled room, as he spoke of his former work as an engraver, (in which his name is so well known), when for nearly forty years the mechanical part of his work kept his hands and eyes employed for nine hours a day, but left his mind free to study the educational problems which so interested him. When at length his plans were formed, he saw in them "his emancipation from the slavery of an engraver's life", and devoted himself thenceforth to teaching, or rather to "helping boys to follow their natural bent" in the wisest and most useful way. He loves the boys under his care and they love him. He has helped many and feels that he can help many more. He closed with a well-deserved tribute of praise to his daughter who assists him in his work and to whom is largely due the success of yesterday's entertainment.

The Manual Training School has heretofore been less widely known than it should be. Some have regarded it in the light of a carpenter's shop where a boy might fool away some pleasant hours, or as one of the pupils expressed it, "People seem to think it's a queer kind of place where we don't learn anything", but now at least the people who were present yesterday are better informed and know that a boy taking the full course in the school is receiving a liberal education, and one that will fit him for a good and useful life. They will also wish Mr. Dalziel all success in the splendid work he is thus doing for the boys of Plainfield, and hope that many more of them will soon be enrolled as pupils of the Manual Training School.

Not as a Candidate.

[From The New Brunswick Home News.]

Rev. J. W. Richardson, pastor of the Park Avenue Baptist Church of Plainfield, will preach in the Livingston Avenue Baptist Church next Sunday at both services. Mr. Richardson is an eloquent and interesting speaker. It is understood that he does not come to preach as a candidate.

Carlton Cornwell, foreman of the Gazette, Middletown, N. J., believes that Chamberlain's Cough Remedy should be in every home. He used it for a cold and it effected a speedy cure. He says: "It is indeed a grand remedy, I can recommend to all. I have also seen it used for whooping cough with the best results." 25 and 50c bottles for sale at Reynolds's Pharmacy, Park and North avenues. T. S. Armstrong, manager.

Ginna and James McGee. Addresses will be delivered by Mayor Gilbert, first president, and the present president, W. D. Murray; also by Richard C. Every Live Jerseyman Wants It.

The Legislative Manual for 1895 is just out, and should be in the hands of every public officer and person in contact with public affairs. A new feature has been added this year in the form of a list of the cities, towns and boroughs of the State, with their population and the names and politics of the mayors. As a handy reference book of the affairs of the State, past as well as present, The Legislative Manual has no equal. Its contents embrace a brief history of the State, its Constitution, its public officials, county and local officials, a statement of the institutions in the State, the Legislature, past and present, the census and election returns and a host of facts conveniently marshaled for easy access. Many of these facts, often wanted for instant use, cannot be otherwise secured except by weeks of correspondence and inquiry. Thomas F. Fitzgerald of Trenton is the publisher, and copies are to be procured of him.

Plainfield Learns of Thackeray.

"England's gentlest satirist, William Makepeace Thackeray", was the subject of the lecture delivered last evening by Leon H. Vincent in the Plainfield High School Assembly Hall, the third in a course of four, on eminent authors. The room was well filled with a highly appreciative audience, whose attention Mr. Vincent gained at once, and never lost for a moment. He spoke first of Thackeray as a man, cynical and bitter, often, yet with a deep love for human nature, an excellent procrastinator, whose motto was, "Never do today what you can possibly put off until the day after tomorrow". Then he spoke of him as a writer, steadily improving from the time he began to write, and of his books, filled with strongly-marked characters, and teaching helpful life-lessons.

Kellar the Wizard.

That Man of Marvels, Kellar, whom some experts think something more than a man, will give in Music Hall, Tuesday, Jan. 29, his new and wonderful entertainment. A faithful study of the latest discoveries in the East has enabled Mr. Kellar to bring back across the water an absolutely new entertainment, embodying such novelties as "The Mystic Light of Bala" which so puzzled Prof. Heinrich Hensoldt; "The Shrine of Koomra Sami" and "The Talking Image" each worth in itself the consideration of an intelligent audience for an entire evening. "Out of Sight", "Fiyto" and "The Cassadaga Propaganda" are continued, with "The Mysterious Cabinet" and Kellar's own inimitable sleight of hand performances. There is but one Kellar. And by no means forget "Karmoe".

Music, Cards, Dancing and a Peanut Hunt.

Miss Susie Boss of Central avenue entained a number of friends last evening in honor of her guest Miss Wilson of Brooklyn. The hours passed pleasantly with card playing and dancing. A peanut hunt was a feature, and there was choice music, vocal and instrumental. The company included Miss LaRue, Miss Dubois, Miss L Boss, Miss Lillie D Garretson, Miss Wilson, Miss Sue Boss, Miss Simonds, Messrs Williams, George Macintyre, Randolph, Weldon, Suthpen, William Stimpson and Ralph Campbell. In the peanut hunt Mr. Stimpson secured first prize, and Mr. Campbell consolation prize. The refreshments were excellent.

Proud Father of a Noble Bride.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE DAILY PRESS: In your item yesterday, concerning the marriage of Wilmerding-Bache, you refer to the bride's father as the late Andrew Bache.

As Mr. Bache was in the land of the living to my own knowledge no later than Sunday last, it will be a pleasure to his friends (which are legion) to know that Andy still lives, and from his lineage the bride is the descendant of Benjamin Franklin. PERCY C. OHL.

Death of Miss A. A. Vandenbergh

The death of Miss Alice Ann Vandenbergh occurred at 6 this morning at 225 East Fifth street, in her eighty-first year. She had suffered a paralytic stroke, Monday, and had been unconscious ever since. She leaves one remaining sister, Miss Gertrude. She was a member of Trinity Reformed Church, and a devout Christian.

Arrangements for the funeral are as announced in another column.

WITTY FATHER SETON.

He Entertains and Edifies a Plainfield Catholic Audience.

The first of a series of literary exercises under the auspices of the Catholic Young Men's Lyceum was held in their hall corner of Liberty and Sixth streets, last evening.

The programme was opened with an excellent solo, "Thy Sentinel Am I", by William O'Connor. Miss St. Leger was the accompanist. Hearty applause followed, after which Rev. Father Murphy introduced Rt. Rev. Robert Seton, D. D., explaining that Rev. Father Smyth was unable to be present.

Father Seton's subject was "John Milton and his Works". Among other things he said:

"It is very gratifying to see a literary society among the churches, and I don't like to read in our papers where so much time is given to billiards, progressive euchre, bowling, etc. We should spend more time in studying good English, which is the future of all coming ages. And it's enough to understand English thoroughly.

"I have the happy faculty of being in two places at once, according to a Philadelphia paper which two weeks ago said I was in Plainfield lecturing, while I was at home ill with the grip. I also wish to thank the reporter of The Catholic Times (who was present) who gave me the opportunity of reading my obituary.

"After William Shakespeare, John Milton was the greatest English poet, and in fact his name can be mentioned in the same breath.

"Milton's father was a Catholic, but married out of the church, and therefore lost the faith of the ancient church.

"Young Milton loved study. He went to a university, and became proficient. Shakespeare admired him very much.

"Education should be the ambition and goal of everyone, for knowledge is power, and gives one the executive ability to place matter under the feet.

"Milton desired it. In his time there was no postal service, nor civil service either, to destroy the happiness of postal clerks, and there were not the advantages of the present day.

"Milton's greatest work was 'Paradise Lost', a wonderful book. He should be near to the hearts of all Americans, for he was a consistent Republican, though not a partisan. He believed in the People, as we do, that is the 'Government of the people, by the people and for the people'."

Father Seton then told many interesting incidents, both about Milton's life and about his own.

The evening's entertainment closed with a solo by Charles Ward; and a solo by Miss Sara Carney, "I loved you better than you knew", which were very much appreciated.

Monseigneur Seton, though one of the youngest in the church, in seigniority he is over them all in the United States. He lectures at the University of Washington, Feb. 14, and later in the University of the Notre Dame, Indiana.

The attendance last evening was very large.

Tricky Traveling Watch Tinker.

People having watches and jewelry which need repairing will find it more to their advantage to take them to some established tradesman than to entrust them to strangers who offer to repair goods at low prices. A number of South Plainfield residents are anxiously awaiting the return of their tickers and trinkets, entrusted to an itinerant watchmaker. The individual is to be identified by his plug hat, and it is said this is the only man who was ever known to wear a plug in the limits of South Plainfield. The next adventurer must guard against such a headgear, as wearers of plug hats will be looked upon with suspicion, while Mr. Mundy the blacksmith, wroth at the loss of his gold spectacles, will only be appeased by smashing somebody's high hat.

Organized Aid.

The District Committee of the Citizens Organized Aid Association met in the Crescent Avenue Church parlors last evening at 8, and held a two-hours session. The agent reported 36 applications for relief of various sorts, all made during the past two weeks. Of these cases 16 were new cases, and make a total of 408 cases brought to the attention of the C. O. A. A. to date. The several applications were acted upon, that is to say, referred to the churches and charitable organizations best fitted to afford relief, the Relief Association as usual receiving and caring for the larger number. The applications for work, nine in number, the committee were less able to dispose of. There seems to be great difficulty in providing work for this class of unemployed persons.

Heroic Response to Duty's Call.

Sergeant John I. Holly was confined to his bed with a very severe cold and the grip, when he received word of Troop A being called on for duty in Brooklyn. Mr. Holly deserves credit for his loyalism, for he left under strong protests of his family and physician, and in enfeebled condition. It is to be hoped the exposure will not seriously affect him.

—Saturday night's needs are best filled by Edsall.

TRINITY TEA.

Delightful Entertainment Conducted by the Christian Work Society.

The commodious parlors of Trinity Reformed Church were transformed last night into a perfect symphony of beautiful pink and green, through which moved pretty maidens and fair matrons whose animated faces betokened the pleasure which seemed to pervade the very atmosphere. The social was given by the Ladies Christian Work Society of the church, and its marked success reflects great credit on the efficient members of the various committees.

An elaborate supper was served from 6 to 9, and was fully appreciated by the large numbers who took advantage of this excellent oportunity to become still better acquainted with their friends across the banquet board. During the supper hours, the air was sweet with music wrought by Messrs. Milton and Smith, on violin and homemadeharp.

A most pleasing musical programme was rendered after the supper by well-known local artists, each number being heartily received and audibly appreciated by the entire assembly. The artists who favored were as follows:

Elmer E. Bunyon, vocal solo, "O Fair and Holy City"; Miss N. Winckler, piano solo, Chopin; B. T. Barnes, vocal solo, accompanied by Mrs. Barnes; Miss Lucille Prittie, piano solo; Miss F. May Grant, vocal solo, "Love's Captive"; Robert Clark, vocal solo, "Watching"; Will Holmes, vocal solo, "The Lost Ship"; Recitations, Miss Etta Raybert. Miss Lillian A. Force was the accompanist.

The programme throughout was of such uniform excellence that special mention would be impossible. Following the rendition of the musical numbers the pleasant party turned their attention to the tastily decorated candy booth, the pretty lemonade well, or the various dainty tables at which cake and cream were served by rosy cheeked maidens at the bidding of the gracious matrons who presided.

At the candy booth were the Misses Louise Snediker, Minnie Williams and Emma Gillem, and passing lemonade in dainty crystal glasses at the well were Mrs. B. B. Rogers, Mrs. Will F. Williams, Misses Josephine Kissam and Lizzie Dunn.

At the attractively trimmed apron booth stood Mrs. L. C. Sheppard, Mrs. O. W. Dunham, Mrs. C. P. Voseller, Mrs. P. A. VanFleet.

The Committee of Arrangements consisted of Mrs E T Van Winkle, Mrs P M Demarest, Mrs Frank A Church, Mrs G Q Dolliver, and Mrs S Williams.

The matrons who presided at the various tables were Mrs J F MacDonald, Mrs J C Van Dyke, Mrs J T MacMurray, Mrs Robert A Meeker, Mrs David Snediker, Mrs Edward Cooley, Mrs P A Emmons, and Mrs Robert Clark, and their competent assistants were the Misses Minnie Arnold, Grace Smith, Laura Emmons, Josephine Fritz, Florence White, May Williams, Mary Van Fleet, Kate Baxter, Cora Gardner and Jennie Quick.

The reception committee consisted of Mrs. Cornelius Schenck, Mrs. George Van Emburgh and Mrs. Harry Marshall. At the door stood Edward Van Winkle and Harry Marshall.

The liberal patronage of so large a number of friends as gathered to enjoy last evening's pleasure augurs well for tonight when an entire change will occur in the musical programme and there will be dainty maids to serve delectable morsels to the hungry or appease those whose throats become parched by too frequent exclamations of delight at the artistic beauty and profusion of the decorations indicating as they do the many hours spent by Mrs. R. A. Meeker and Mrs. J. C. Van Dyke in the work of transformation.

Baptist Church Musicale.

The Young Ladies Missionary society of the First Baptist Church, together with many friends, enjoyed a delightful musicale at the home of Mrs. D. Dewitt Brokaw, Sycamore avenue, last evening.

A programme consisting of duets by the Misses Manning, vocal solos by Miss Edith Harold and Mr. Smith of Brooklyn, and instrumental solos by Miss Margaret Vermeule, were finely rendered, and received hearty approbation from the large audience present.

The decorations were yellow and green, very tastefully arranged. Particularly noteworthy were the open fireplace banked with greens, and the table in the dining room from which refreshments were served.

From China to Hope.

Rev. Dr. Blodgett, lately returned from 40 years residence in China, will tell of his missionary labors in Hope Chapel next Sunday morning at 10:30. This will be a rare opportunity to learn of practical mission work in a most interesting field.

—Those interested in German are to meet Rev. R. Kionka in the Y. M. C. A. Building tonight.

Many stubborn and aggravating cases of rheumatism that were believed to be incurable and accepted as life legacies, have yielded to Chamberlain's Pain Balm, much to the surprise and gratification of the sufferers. One application will relieve the pain and suffering and its continued use insures an effectual cure. For sale at Reynolds's pharmacy, Park and North avenues. T. S. Armstrong, manager.

EARLY INTELLIGENCE.

—Don't fail to call at Fulper's tomorrow and save money on your groceries. Special prices rule for that day.

—The Free Public Library has just received copies of The Hawaiian Star, published in Honolulu, dated Jan. 7, 8, 9 and 10. These contain the full account of the recent attempted revolution in Hawaii.

—An ambitious Plainfielder went to Brooklyn yesterday morning to watch the conflict between the soldiers and strikers. He returned leaving the top of his high hat, which was carried away by a stray brick.

—But for the prompt action of Mr. Tobin, the popular North avenue plumber, the Y. M. C. A. building would have received serious injury. One of the water pipes broke yesterday, but was repaired and no damage was done.

—Chief Engineer Doane, at the request of the fire-insurance companies, is investigating the fire flues of Trinity Reformed Church, in company with H. E. Gayle, deacon and chairman of the board of wardens. Any defects found will be remedied.

—VanBuren & Timpson, the enterprising real-estate agents, today distributed among the commuters neat memorandum books advertising their business and that of George O. Stevens, the hustling coal dealer, who has opened a branch office with them.

Fires in Cranford.

About 2:30 yesterday morning the family of John Hegeman, corner of Union and Forest avenues, Cranford, were awakened by the ringing of an electric bell, which was caused by fire from a defective flue burning the fuse, thereby causing the bell to ring. The inmates escaped with their lives, and were taken to the residence of Freeholder Hunt nearby. Loss $20,000. Freeholder Hunt fell while assisting at the fire and fractured one of his legs.

Early last evening a newly finished residence belonging to Mr. Hegeman, corner Forest and Cranford avenues, caught fire, it is supposed, from an overheated stove, which was left by the masons for the purpose of drying the walls. The firemen were quick to respond and were astonished to find that the fire hose they had used in the early morning was so frozen that water would not pass through them until they were thawed out. Loss, $3,000.

Sinning Away Days of Grace.

Dr. Charles R. Barnes spoke effectively last night in Grace M. E. Church of the love of God, and how men presume upon it, and are lost. "How shall we escape, if we neglect so great salvation?" The strings of a piano may break, one after another, until not one remains that can give forth a sound. When we strike the keys we get nothing but the rattle of the ivory. The form of the piano is unchanged, the case is as beautiful as ever, but the master can evoke no music. It has lost the power to respond. So men may sin away one by one the days of grace by neglecting the salvation which the love of God has provided.

The attendance was good, and the interest is evidently increasing.

Flames Quickly Subdued.

While Policeman Frederickson was standing near Music Hall last evening, between 9 and 10, he noticed reflections of a light, and looking across the street saw a blaze in the apartments over the Abrams shoe store. Just then Fred. Moore happened along and went up stairs to help extinguish the fire. Frederickson started for the fire-alarm box, but the fire was put out, and it was not necessary to send in an alarm. It proved to be a lace curtain, which had caught from a lamp which stood too near the window.

—The Grand Division, S. of T., will meet in Plainfield in July.

—Class work in the Y. M. C. A. gymnasium will begin next Monday.

—A. E. Hoagland, the popular expressman, is rebuilding his wagon house and roofing it with ornamental tiles.

—Mrs. L. Coles, fashionable dressmaker, has rented room 202, Babcock Building, and on Feb. 1 will be ready to serve her friends and the public generally.

Marvelous Results.

From a letter written by Rev. J. Gunderman, of Dismondale, Mich., we are permitted to make this extract: "I have no hesitation in recommending Dr. King's New Discovery, as the results were almost marvelous in the case of my wife. While I was pastor of the Baptist Church at Rives Junction she was brought down by pneumonia succeeding la grippe. Terrible paroxysms of coughing would last hours with little interruption and it seemed as if she could not survive them. A friend recommended Dr. King's New Discovery; it was quick in its work and highly satisfactory in results. Sold by L. W. Randolph druggist. Regular size 50c and $1; our price 45c and 90c

TWO MORE BANKS CLOSE

Binghamton's Citizens Are Panic Stricken.

The Chenango Valley and the National Broome County Institutions Discontinue Business—Run Upon the Other Banks Heavy, But They Withstood the Rush.

Binghamton, N. Y., Jan. 25.—Two more banks have closed their doors. Citizens had recovered from the shock following the suspension of the Merchants' and the Ross private bank and affairs were assuming their normal aspect when the rumor was circulated that the Chenango Valley bank had drawn its curtains.

On the heels of the startling report came the announcement that the National Broome County bank had also discontinued business. Citizens were fairly paralyzed with astonishment and the apprehension of small depositors was magnified by exaggerated stories which were circulated to the injury of other local banking institutions.

The news regarding the failures spread rapidly as each messenger enlarged upon the real condition of affairs, panic seized the populace and it became apparent that a run upon the banks would be inevitable.

The smaller depositors were thoroughly frightened and it became evident that nothing could prevent the abnormal pressure. Just such a movement had been anticipated, however, and the solid institutions were prepared for the rush. The run upon the Binghamton Savings bank was heavy and the crowd of anxious depositors increased with the hours, but the bank was prepared for the emergency. The officers, pale, but cool and composed, stood behind the heavy plate glass windows surrounded by piles of shining gold and silver. They had protected themselves with a large amount of cash and during the day telegrams were received from metropolitan banking institutions to the effect that they would support the Binghamton banks for unlimited amounts.

Runs were also made upon the other banks of the city, but all depositors were promptly paid, and when the doors were closed, it was evident that the rush and fright was over.

The books of the Chenango Valley bank, which closed first, were being examined by Bank Examiner Backus, who came here several days ago. He claims that the books were in bad condition and it was at his instance that the bank was closed.

The affairs of the National Broome County bank were not in a condition to compel the suspension of the institution. The national bank examiner, who was in this city Jan. 17, investigated the affairs of this institution and found the bank solvent. A statement of liabilities and assets proves that all the affairs of the bank are in first class condition.

The bank, however, did not take the precaution to prepare for a run. Soon after opening in the morning, three heavy demands were made upon its funds. One of the first of these was for $1,000 made by George Pierce. Soon after E. M. Tierney withdrew a deposit of $2,000 and this was followed by a draft for $11,000 made by Gen. E. F. Jones. This crippled the bank and the doors were closed.

The closed banks are located in the basement of the Phelps Bank building. Tracy R. Morgan was cashier of both banks, which were virtually in one, except that seperate books were kept for each, one being regulated by the national banking laws and the other was regulated by the state banking department. David Brownson, the son-in-law of Mr Morgan, is president of the National bank. Benj. N. Loomis is vice-president of the Savings bank. The name of the president is not given on the books.

Much excitement was caused by the announcement that Cashier Morgan and President Brownson had been detected carrying papers from the Chenango Valley bank. These documents, it is claimed, are private papers, to which the parties had a perfect right.

Recorder Roberts was interviewed and he corroborated the statement that the documents removed from the bank were private papers, but the action of the gentlemen has created suspicion.

Examiner Backus says in regard to the condition of affairs in the Chenango Valley Savings bank: "I never have examined books that were in as bad a condition as those of the Chenango Savings bank. It will be several weeks before a statement can be made."

He said further that he believed the Broome County bank is in condition to pay depositors in full.

Tried To Burn a Whole Family.

Warren, O., Jan. 25.—A desperate attempt to burn a whole family in their beds was made in this city yesterday morning. The home of Thomas McQuaide was fired in the cellar by some unknown person and the family barely escaped with their lives. Strenuous efforts are being made to ferret out the incendiary.

Washington, Jan. 25.—Secretary Lamont has reported to the house that the Monongahela Navigation company of Pennsylvania, had refused to enter into negotiation for the sale to the United States of its property, locks and dams. All the papers in the case were submitted to congress for action.

Freedman Gains Control.

New York, Jan. 25.—Andrew Freedman gained control of the New York Baseball club yesterday by receiving 1,200 shares of stock in the concern and tendering his check to Treasurer Talcott for about $48,000.

NOTED CRIMINAL CAPTURED.

Report of the Arrest of William Maitland in Texas.

Boston, Jan. 25.—Warden Bridges, of the state prison, has received a dispatch from Houston, Tex., informing him that a man answering in every detail the description of James M. Bradlee, alias William Maitland, has been arrested in that city. Bradlee made his escape from the state prison chapel Thanksgiving day, 1892. The means, rather than the escape, made the affair the sensation of the hour, and following so closely upon the exploits of the notorious "Sewer gang," gave rise to no little agitation concerning the management of the prison. Bradlee was the prime mover of the sextette of criminals who made their way from the prison yard through the main sewer to its outlet in Millers river.

The fugitive is one of the cleverest and most noted criminals in the country. He was regarded as the most dangerous man within the walls of the prison; not that he was vicious, but because of the fertility of his mind in devising plans for escape.

When Bradlee escaped with several other members of the sewer gang, in July, 1892, he was recaptured about a month later, in New York. On September 4, 1889, he was convicted of burglary in Greenfield and sentenced to state prison for three years. He was discharged April 13, 1891.

Six months later he was captured in Fitchburg while blowing open a safe. He fought the officers and drew a revolver. Shots were exchanged, but Bradlee was finally captured. He was sentenced to six years in the state prison, and he was serving the term when he made his escape. He served time in several other states.

TRAIN HELD UP.

Express Car Robbed on the Cotton Belt Line Near McNeill, Ark.

Pine Bluff, Ark., Jan. 25.—The south bound train on the Cotton Belt railroad was held up and robbed last evening. Two men, who evidently got on when the train stopped at McNeill were discovered on the blind baggage and as the train was going through a deep cut Engineer Crowley saw them crawling over the tender.

Before he could realize what the men were about they ordered him to stop the train and with a pair of 45 Colt revolvers pointed at his head, marched him to the express car, which was in charge of Messenger Massey.

Massey was covered by the bandits, as was Conductor Harris, also, who had come out in the meantime. They took what money the conductor had, but what was obtained from the messenger in the express car is not known.

No one here knows anything about the contents of the express car and no details can be obtained. The train continued to Texarkana, the end of the division and the robbery was reported from that point.

AMNESTY TO PRISONERS.

Italy to Pardon the Revolt Offenders To Please the Radicals.

Rome, Jan. 25.—It is highly probable that before the parliamentary elections next spring an amnesty will be granted the prisoners condemned by the military courts in Sicily and Massa di Carrara. About 1,500 men were found guilty of seditious conduct in connection with the revolts of last winter, and more than a thousand of them are still serving sentences.

The summary manner in which they were tried and condemned has been one of the chief subjects of agitation against Premier Crispi, and a general pardon is regarded in government circles as the best means of mollifying the radicals. It is thought that the amnesty decree will be published on March 14, King Humbert's birthday.

STRIKERS GAIN A POINT

Judge Gaynor's Decision in the Mandamus Case.

The Brooklyn Heights Corporation Severely Scored by the Justice—Aside from This the Railroads Have Made Some Advancement—Carney Dies from His Wound.

Brooklyn, N. Y., Jan. 25.—The sensation of the trolley strike yesterday was a decision by Justice William J. Gaynor, of the supreme court, against the companies in the mandamus proceedings. The Brooklyn Heights company is severely scored for failing to operate its lines. Justice Gaynor declared that the whole matter is a question of wages, that the companies have not the right to suspend operations one week or one hour in order to obtain men who will work at lower wages than has been paid. He said that a railroad had the right to replace men gradually, or to discharge all its employes at one time provided they have enough new men to operate its line continuously.

The decision defines the rights of corporations holding franchises from the people in terms that caused great rejoicing in the ranks of the strikers and among workingmen generally. Justice Gaynor sets this morning for a hearing by both parties as to whether a peremptory writ of mandamus or an alternative writ shall issue. The former would require the company to operate its lines forthwith, the latter would require them to show cause why they should not be compelled to operate their lines.

Aside from this decision the day was one of great gains for the companies. Very little disorder prevailed, and a good showing on many lines was made.

District Assembly No. 75 played its last card in ordering the electrical workers employed by the companies to join the motormen and conductors on strike. The order was not fully obeyed, and while it resulted in the stoppage of three lines three others which have not been open for ten days were operated. More cars were run on other lines and the presidents declare that they have sufficient men to operate their roads.

There was no shooting and the soldiers remained at their posts of duty. Troop A had several lively experiences scattering crowds who were indulging in wire-cutting and blockading the tracks. Thomas Carney the victim of Wednesday's shooting is dead at the Long Island College hospital. Col. Austen in an official report to Gen. McLeer says the firing in Hicks street was fully justified. Carney was the second man killed by the troops.

Order is slowly being established. Wire-cutting still prevails in outlying districts, and the minor disorders still continue, but with less frequency. Cars are not yet run at night. No one seems to be anxious to take chances after dark.

The Seventh regiment will probably be ordered home to-day. The men here who are mostly business and professional men, have had a hard siege at East New York, Ridgewood and Halsey street. They have endured many hardships and their engagements are such that they are anxious to be excused from further service for the state at present. The members expect an order to break camp to-day. If all is quiet, detachments from Brooklyn regiments will take their places. If more trouble develops the Ninth regiment now doing reserve duty at their armory in New York will be ordered here.

Master Workman Connelly said late last night that all linemen in the city were out on strike, so far as he knew, with the exception of four who were with an emergency crew down at Greenwood. He exhibited a metal badge bearing the words and figures "Lindell (No. 75) Railway—Motorman."

"This," said he, "is one of more than 500 badges representing street railways in Philadelphia, Boston, Baltimore, Chicago, St. Louis and other large cities from which men have been brought on to take strikers' places, which the men handed in to us when they deserted Lewis, Norton and the other railway directors. The Lindell railway is in St. Louis. We shall hold an auction sale of these trophies later on for the benefit of our treasury."

"Has there been any offer of compromise or arbitration on the part of the companies?"

"No: they say they have nothing to arbitrate, but I think Judge Gaynor's words will make them change their tune."

President Lewis declined to express an opinion on Judge Gaynor's decision. He said it would not be proper for him to do so. In regard to the situation he said that he considered the outlook satisfactory.

Lawyer B. F. Straus, representing the strikers, secured from Judge Gaynor, of the supreme court, a writ of habeas corpus, requiring the Brooklyn Heights Railroad company to produce in court yesterday, twenty-six men who, it was alleged, were illegally detained by the company in the Halsey street stables.

When the matter came up Judge Gaynor said he had discovered a technical error in the papers submitted by Lawrence Straus, and he postponed the case until this morning in order to give the lawyer time to rectify his error.

The men were engaged in Pittsburg on what they call false representations, and have wanted to return, but Mr. Lewis would not let them go. Two of their number, John P. Pappen and Joseph Chaplain, managed to escape and communicated with Master Workman Connelly with the above result.

Wires were cut on Third avenue at Richards and Coffey streets in the Red Hook district near the Erie basin last evening. The men who did the work were pursued by the police but were not captured. A crowd of strikers was driven away from the Fifth, and Third avenue barns shortly before midnight. Other slight disturbances were reported but the cessation of hostilities seem to cease when the cars are stopped for the night.

It was announced late last night that six more lines would be started sometime during to-day.

His Suffering Ended After Using Munyon's Rheumatism Cure.

Mr. George Smith, of Tacony, Pa., says: "I suffered from rheumatism for 30 years, and had so many severe attacks that some of my joints were twisted out of shape. At times I suffered terrible pain, and, although I tried many remedies, I never obtained any permanent relief until I procured Munyon's Rheumatism Cure. The action of this remedy was wonderfully quick, and although I have only taken a small quantity, I consider myself permanently cured."

Munyon's Rheumatism Cure is guaranteed to cure rheumatism in any part of the body. Acute or muscular rheumatism cured in from one to five days. It never fails to cure sharp, shooting pains in the arms, legs, sides, back or breast, or soreness in any part of the body in from one to three hours. It is guaranteed to promptly cure lameness, stiff and swollen joints, stiff back, and all pains in the hips and loins. Chronic rheumatism, sciatica, lumbago, or pain in the back are speedily cured.

Munyon's Homœopathic Home Remedy Company, of Philadelphia, put up specifics for nearly every disease, which are sold by all druggists, mostly for 25 cents a bottle.

A CRITIC'S VISION.

OUR FRENCH VISITOR MISTOOK COWS FOR BUFFALOES.

Raw Bisons and Black Pigs on the Plains This Side Chicago. Scandalized By Our Sleeping Car Accommodations But Likes the American Clam.

Mme. Grandin came as the correspondent of a Paris journal to visit the World's Fair and has recorded her opinion of New York, Chicago, and other things.

Here are some of the curios culled from Madam's always amusing and never dreary volume:

New York is a city of infernal noises.

The streets near the docks are narrow and dirty, and on each side are phenomenally high houses, uniformly red and frightfully ugly.

No sky is to be seen. An immense viaduct runs over head in the streets on which trains rush by every few minutes.

On the streets is an indescribable chaos of carriages, tramways, wagons, and a terrible noise of electric bells, loud gongs and carriage wheels, which, however, does not seem to worry the passers by. How different to the picturesque crowd of our Paris streets, with the little work girls without their hats, and the elegantly dressed women and the gay boulevardiers!

The Americans are all well dressed, but they all look alike. They are are all very tall, very thin, and all in a hurry.

All Americans are shaved. They wear neither beards nor mustaches.

Apparently there are no women in New York. The tramways are full of men, and it would be almost impossible to tell their respective ages, for without beard or mustache they all look very much like boys.

Upon leaving the tramway we climb up on the iron viaduct to take the train. The carriages are very comfortable, with seats running down each side, except in the centre, where seats, placed crosswise, form a sort of private parlor. Through the windows I can look into the houses. How agreeable it must be for the inhabitants to have to submit every three or four minutes to the inspection of all kinds of people, who gaze in curiosity as the train speeds by! And with the black and greasy smoke entering the apartments every time the windows are opened, not to speak of the infernal noise night and day. Is it possible that they have had the idea of building an elevated in Paris? I am sure its Parisian enthusiasts have never seen it.

New York is divided into quarters—there is the Italian quarter, the French quarter, the Chinese quarter, and the Hebrew quarter.

Besides being the dirtiest, the last named quarter is the most populated in New York. Only one religion prevails, but all the different types of the world rub shoulders there.

Very old Hebrew families who have lived in New York since the foundation of the city are to be found there. But, contrary to their usual habit, they have not acquired wealth.

The Chinese quarter is very different. With exception of the houses, one would believe one's self at Pekin on seeing these long, yellow faces and braided tails and Asiatic robes.

The Americans detest the Chinese by pure antagonism of race. The Chinese detest the Americans equally cordially, and they only stay in the country to enrich themselves.

Another curious part of the town is the Bowery, the oldest quarter of New York city. Its population is made up of the lowest kind of people of all races, and it is dangerous to go on the Bowery at night unless well armed. The place is full of theatres, concerts and halls, which are frequented by thieves.

One of the most curious things in New York is to see the people of different color in the streets. You meet ladies well dressed, with yellow faces, red faces, black faces and chocolate faces and bronze faces.

What amused me very much was the unanimous preference given by these black ladies to white dresses. In fact, all the women in New York wear white dresses. In the summer all the women, young and old, wear this virginal costume in the street. It is very becoming to pretty girls, but it is frightful when worn by ladies with yellow or chocolate faces.

Another remarkable thing about the dresses worn in New York is the white apron, which many ladies wear at home and in the street. They are very pretty aprons, ornamented with lace or ribbons, but still the effect is not very becoming when they are worn with gloves and a bonnet.

The first time I saw ladies attired like this I thought they were chambermaids. Of course, I do not suppose that these ladies represent the aristocratic classes in New York, but I met so many of them attired in these aprons that I suppose it is a fashion with the higher middle class.

The bootblack in New York has the rank of a regular tradesman. His place of business is not as in Paris, modest and primitive. At the corner of each street is a kind of platform, on which are arranged a number of comfortable armchairs. The customers sit in these armchairs and read their papers comfortably, while the bootblack kneels at their feet and makes the boots confided to him shine like a mirror. This operation costs five sous. The American, who is very particular how his shoes look, has them polished several times a day, and from morning to evening the armchairs are crowded with customers.

I like the American clam. I don't know what it is, and I never saw one in France. But it is delicious. It seems to be half way between an oyster and a mussel, but it has a very fine and peculiar flavor. They eat enormous quantities of clams in New York—in fact, they even make cakes of them.

I journeyed to Chicago in one of those truly marvellous American palace cars. It was a beautiful trip. We sped along the side of the noble Hudson, a beautiful valley, closed in by high mountains.

We soon arrived at Buffalo. The buffalo in a savage state roams in the forest all through this country, and the city is named after them. We leave the train to get something to eat. But we have scarcely time to take anything before we have to resume our seats. The total cost of the dinner we didn't eat was $4.

We arrived at Niagara an hour later and stop at the Hotel of the Falls. Naturally we pay for a single night an exorbitant price. That would have been all right if we could have slept for our money. But my bedroom was close to the cataract, and the tremendous roar of the falling water kept me awake all night. I was really alarmed, for I did not know what caused the noise.

Leaving Niagara, we started off across the great plains. It was daylight, and I enjoyed the trip across the wonderful prairie. It is a desert, not of sand, but of grass—a sea of grass stretching to the horizon, and the grass blown by the wind, resembling the waves of a sea. Not a tree small or large, nothing but grass, dried and burned. From time to time we catch sight of immense herds of buffalo, and we see sheep and masses of black pigs, who scatter as the train passes. There are no stations among these ranches of the plains.

At night everybody turns into his sleeping section.

I was dreadfully embarrassed when I had to go to bed.

Men and women sleep next to each other, a simple curtain protecting each from indiscreet glances.

Yet this did not seem to worry the Americans. Just as if they were at home in their own bedrooms, the travellers of each sex began to undress, and did not hesitate to take off every garment before slipping into their berths.

I am not a prude, but I was scandalized, and I took care not to imitate my neighbors. I threw myself into my berth with all my clothes on, and as I was very tired I managed to get to sleep, lulled by the delightful snoring of all my neighbors.

WINTER BATHING IN THE SURF.

The Captain Thinks Winter as Good a Time for Bathing as Summer.

Sea bathing as a winter pastime has something of a frosty sound, even in the warm carpeted bath rooms. If a man talks about a cold plunge in the morning, when the thermometer hovers around zero, he is looked upon with awe as a phenomenal shock register and a man of uncommon courage. What, then, must be the thought of the man or woman who, totally disregarding the icy winds of winter on a bleak Jersey coast, will dip pleasantly every day in the briny deep and not shiver at all?

There are several winter bathers in Asbury Park. Two or three take only an occasional dip, but Captain Abram Baker, a wealthy resident of the Park, goes in very often. The captain is a character, with a physique to match. There has never been a time within the past twelve years that Captain Baker was not the most observed man in Asbury Park.

In the summer months his tall, powerful frame looms up like a Leviathan on the board walk. He invariably appears in a light blue outing shirt, a pair of linen trousers, and very seldom—only on extremely cold days—with an overcoat. If perchance he wears an overcoat the under coat is left off. Captain Baker is seventy years of age, and was one of the old forty-niners. He is strong and robust and walks with a soldierly bearing.

The captain believes that only the men who don't smoke or chew are able to stand winter surf bathing. He says he bathes about 25 times in November and about a dozen times in December and regularly from April to the middle of January, and would keep it up all winter but for the fact that Senator Bradley's bathing houses are just a little bit too icy for use. The Captain bathes every day from April 1 to September 15. He goes in twice a day, remaining in the water not over ten minutes at a time. He claims that to bathe longer than that time is injurious.

The captain claims that tobacco destroys animal heat and nerve power. He never overloads his stomach and takes plenty of outdoor exercise. The captain never frets or worries. He takes life easy and never allows any worriment to enter his mind, claiming that no one would fret if in good health. He avoids all the excitements possible, for they always, according to his doctrine, lower the strength.

"If people would do like this," says the captain, "they could bathe as well as I do, and to-day I feel as though I am no more than forty years old in my feelings and reality."

SHE HAD A LOVELY TIME.

The Recreation of a Stout Lady With a Flow of Language.

When the stout lady entered the elevated at 14th street she sat down on the left hand corner seat facing the engine. There were touches of finery about her dress, whose presence was explained when she caught sight of an acquaintance on the other side of the car, and immediately plunged across the aisle and sat down beside her.

"I've just been up calling on Lucy Powers," she began at once. "She used to live over near us you know and I promised as soon as she came back from her tower I'd run across and see her and this morning Mrs. Ebler told me she'd seen her on Broadway over here and so I just ragged out and came over here right away."

She had a large, limp mouth, and when she spoke her lips moved flutteringly like the leaves of a poplar tree in a breeze. Punctuation was a useless arrangement of the grammarian so far as she was concerned, while her idea of conversation evidently was that it was a form of social entertainment in which one person did all the talking.

"I was surprised to find," she ran on, "how cosily Lucy is fixed she has a real sweet little flat with real nice furniture and lots of dainty thing scattered all about you know and though it wasn't her calling day there were quite a number of people nice people too looking at the things she had picked up in their tower curiosities and such things you know and I got a real nice cup of chocolate though I can't say I like chocolate in the afternoon I prefer tea don't you I do."

When she did stop it was for absolute want of breath, her method of re-inflation being to draw in a long, deep draught of breath through the open mouth. Being once more charged she dashed in once more.

"I told William I'd call in for him when I left Lucy's as he wants me too look at some underclothing with him and he never so much as buys a pair of socks now without first consulting me which is very complimentary you know though somewhat trying when you have so many things to look after I declare these cars do make such a row you scarcely hear what any one is saying this is Franklin street isn't it well good by dear I'm so glad to have seen you come over right soon now won't you I've had such a lovely time good by.

And with this she drove her way into the string of incoming passengers, leaving her friend with a feeble, imploring look in her eyes, her mouth partly open, as though gasping for breath, and her hands feebly clutching at the air like one faintly fighting against suffocation.—N. Y. Sun.

MAY BRING A SOLUTION

What Senators Hope To-Day's Caucus Will Do.

The Republicans to Examine Mr. Allison's Views on the Financial Question and Will Probably Endorse Them Silver Men Not Prepared with Any Definite Plan.

Washington, Jan. 25.—Senators generally are inclined to hope that the republican caucus, to be held to-day, will tend to a solution of the financial question.

Summarizing the situation, as it now appears, the views of Senator Allison, of Iowa, a close condensation of which may be considered as only a temporary expedient to make good the deficiency in the government revenues, has thus far met with no pronounced objection. These views will have earnest attention at the caucus. They include the issue of an interest-bearing treasury note to run for a period of two or three years with the express purpose of meeting the deficit caused by the falling off of the revenues. This Mr. Allison thinks would increase the circulation sufficiently to pay current obligations of the treasury.

It is understood that the experts at the treasury department have been compiling statistics for several days to the receipts under the new law for the use of the finance committee. These statistics show, it is claimed, that after the first of April the receipts will equal, if they do not exceed, the expenditures. The department, it is asserted, looks with disfavor upon any proposition to increase tariff duties. If currency revision cannot be had then, it is said, that all Mr. Carlisle wants is sufficient authority to issue bonds or some other evidence of indebtedness to tide him over the period pending that time when the receipts will approximate what he now expects.

The silver men are not prepared to say what they will do in the matter. When asked about the situation they point out another, and to them, a better way, to meet current expenses. This they say should be done by the coinage of seigniorage now in the vaults of the treasury, which would give the treasury about $55,000,000 or five millions more than it is proposed to allow under Mr. Allison's scheme or by the issue of bonds. The silver men will urge the coinage of this silver and if they must take the issue of treasury notes they will insist upon them being non-interest bearing. Several of the more prominent of the silver republicans say that the matter of caring for the deficit in the treasury would be speedily settled by the senate after the committee reported, so long as the measure they may report related to that question exclusively and did not enter the field of currency reform or financial legislation. The republican caucus will probably endorse the idea of Mr. Allison or something similar.

BYNUM ON THE DEPRESSION.

He Speaks at the Merchants' Banquet at Baltimore.

Baltimore, Jan. 25.—The fifteenth annual banquet of the Merchants' and Manufacturers' association was given at the Rennert last night. Among the public men present as guests were Governor Frank Brown, Congressmen William M. Springer, of Illinois; Charles A Boutelle, of Maine; William D. Bynum, of Indiana, and James W. Covert, of New York.

The principal speech was delivered by Congressman Bynum. He spoke on the great commercial depression. He gave the views of various business men on the subject, saying that New Yorkers blamed the trouble on too much money.

All the rest of the country claimed there was not enough. Mr. Bynum blamed protection, and said it had resulted in overproduction. As a result the home markets were glutted, with no outlet, as there was no reciprocity with foreign governments.

Another Contest Over Appointments.

Washington, Jan. 25.—There is another contest between the postoffice department and the civil service commission over the making of appointments at postoffices where there is only one name on the eligible list. At several places such cases have happened and the department has appointed an outsider temporarily but the commission objects to this as a violation of the law. The department holds otherwise.

Thieves Loot an Art Gallery.

Providence, R. I., Jan. 25.—The art gallery of Berish Wall, a retired banker, was pillaged by burglars last night. About $2,000 worth of oil paintings and some very choice etchings were selected by the robbers and carried away without detection or the slightest clew being left behind.

Three Indictments Against Quigley.

New York, Jan. 25.—Three indictments are now filed against Forger Quigley. The two additional indictments are for forging bonds on Zanesville, O., and Harrisburg, Pa. It is said that other indictments will follow.

Atlanta, Ga., Jan. 25.—Julius L. Brown has been appointed temporary receiver for the Georgia Mining, Manufacturing & Investment company. The company's assets are $3,000,000 and its liabilities are $800,000.

Vanity

is a virtuous vice. The world is better for it. It makes men ambitious—and it makes women careful of their personal appearance. It doesn't take much money to keep well-dressed now-a-days. Cleaning or dyeing makes it possible to use soiled or faded garments. And there's where our ax comes in. We are in the Cleaning and Dyeing business. Our cleaner is ready, and our dyer has his fall shades mixed.

FOR PLAINFIELD'S PROGRESS.

PLAINFIELD, N. J., JAN. 25, 1895.

THE WEATHER.

For Tomorrow: Snow; Northeasterly Winds.

WEAKENING OF THE STRIKE.

Justice Gaynor's court-room in Brooklyn was crowded this morning to listen to the argument whether the mandamus against the Brooklyn Heights Company granted yesterday by Judge Gaynor, should be alternative or peremptory. Counsel on both sides spoke at length. Judge Gaynor said he would give his decision tomorrow morning.

With the beginning of the eleventh day of the strike on the Brooklyn trolley systems this morning the outlook for the men was more gloomy than ever. The roads which had been tied up, had fully one-half of the usual number of cars running. At headquarters it was said that the First Brigade would not be ordered back to New York today, and possibly not for several days. It was the general impression, however, that the order might come at any minute.

Indictments and Presentments.

The Union County Grand Jury came into Court this morning and returned 62 true bills of indictment and 6 presentments.

Charles E. MacDonald and Lucius B. Morgan were presented for permitting their boys to play with firearms. These presentments are the result of the shooting of Harold Greenleaf.

Two indictments are against the Traction Company, and one each against the street committee and the street commissioner of Elizabeth.

—The Master-Plumbers Association meet tonight.

—While skating on Hyde's pond, Wednesday, Clem Morgan of Ninth street broke through the ice. He escaped with a severe wetting.

Miss Eleanor Williams was suddenly taken ill in the Franklin School Thursday morning. She was assisted to her home on West Seventh street by her friend Miss Alice Chandor.

HIGH SCHOOL NOTEBOOK.

There is talk of a Winter run of the Bicycling Division when the roads and weather are in condition.

The High School hockey team will surely be a success, as it is under the able management of Volney F. Green.

The old question of a High School paper is being revived, and it seems to be the wish of a number that the Plainfield High School Press Association should assume control.

The Physics class is examining the mechanism of the telegraph, and an electrical soldering iron which was kindly loaned by its inventor, W. M. Miner of East Second street.

The High School Lyceum will have an "Improvement" meeting today. Each member will speak two minutes on recent progress in some certain line. Howard Miller is the committee in charge.

The Senior class is busy with the question of a class pin. A number of designs has been examined, but the one that finds the most favor is an ornamented shield with '95 engraved on it with the motto on a small scroll running diagonally across the pin.

The Kappa Delta Phi will hold a debate this afternoon on the subject "From which does the mind gain the more knowledge: reading, or observation?" Lewis H. Rand, Edgar I. Serrell and Henry Eggerding will speak for Reading; and John V. Beekman, Jr., George A. Horne, and Charles B. Morse, for Observation.

Storing Their Wedding Fortune.

A man from Tiffany's was sent from New York this morning to take charge of the numerous valuable wedding gifts of jewelry and silver belonging to Mrs. Theodore Howard Banks. The precious packages are valued at a surprising sum on the express company's books, and are to be placed in Tiffany's enormous vaults.

THE CONFIDENTIAL PAPER.

The Briton Complains, Praises and Scolds In His Daily Journal.

The newspaper is a member of the family in England and regularly comes to breakfast with the other members. The London Times is a kind of oldest son among newspapers, and Punch the jolly bachelor uncle, who makes occasional visits. Englishmen take their newspapers into their confidence and have a half way of writing to them on all sorts of subjects. If an Englishman rows down the Thames and stops for luncheon at an inn and is overcharged, he writes to his newspaper, just as a little boy runs in to complain to his mamma of the rough treatment of his playmates, and later on the first letter is followed by others, in which the comparative merits and cost of light luncheons on the continent, in Seringapatam, in Kamchatka and everywhere else where Englishmen have eaten and drunk—and where have they not done these?—is discussed au fond. If horses stumble and fall in Rotten row, there are letters on the subject which go into the matter of roadbuilding, modern horsemanship and the like, with quotations from Virgil and anecdotes of accidents that happened half a century ago. Not only the more serious weekly, but also the daily newspapers, give one the impression that they feel themselves to some extent responsible for the contemporary auditing of the accounts of the day of judgment. On the other hand, the better class of English newspapers do not indulge in rash suppositions, hasty generalizations, uncertain guesses at probable future happenings and the daily exploitation of the personal affairs of notorious nobodies. And one may be permitted to say diffidently that perhaps this is preferable. If Mr. Balfour, for example, were to go abroad for a holiday, it would be considered vulgar to chronicle his doings and dinings and absolutely brutal and boorish to write particulars of the dress and behavior of his sister, or his wife, if he had one. The sense of fair play of a nation of sportsmen does not permit an editor to torment even his enemy from behind a woman's petticoats.—Price Collier in Forum.

REMOVAL.

Dr. Lighthill begs leave to give notice that he has removed to

NO. 132 CRESCENT AVE.

(a few doors from his former location) where he can be consulted on all chronic diseases of whatever name and nature.

Dr. Lighthill refers with pardonable pride to the success of his practice in Plainfield and submits below a few of the many testimonials which he has received from grateful patients. A mass of similar ones can be seen at his office.

AN ALMOST MIRACULOUS CURE.

The Statement of Mr. Edward Teel, Jr., of Dunellen, N. J.

TO THE PUBLIC:

From a sense of duty I desire to call public attention to the almost miraculous cure which Dr. Lighthill effected in the case of my wife. For eleven years she had been afflicted with piles of an unusual severe and distressing character. She suffered every day of her life the most intense pain, attended with frequent and profuse hemorrhage. This state of things debilitated her entire system until she became a perfect wreck of her former self.

We made every effort to obtain a cure but they all resulted in bitter disappointment, although a number of physicians of excellent reputations for skill in that direction had treated her case. She grew worse and worse all the time, the pain became perfectly unbearable and I felt she could not bear the strain of her condition much longer. In this extremity, a friend of mine, Mr. W. E. Dilts, a resident of Roselle, N. J., a passenger conductor on the New Jersey Central told me that he had been similarly affected, and had been permanently cured by Dr. Lighthill, after other medical skill had failed. He assured me that the doctor would cure my wife, no matter how severe her case may be, and his prediction proved perfectly correct. In spite of her desperate condition, Dr. Lighthill, I am glad to say, has effected a complete and perfect cure in her case, and has given her new life.

Since the cure has been effected she has gained in health and strength and is so improved in appearance that her friends scarcely recognize her. They all consider her cure as almost miraculous, and Dr. Lighthill's praise is heard on every side. Our gratitude to Dr. Lighthill is unbounded and we only hope that other sufferers may be benefited by this publication.

A Flattering Testimonial from Colonel John Pietrich, One of Plainfield's Oldest and Best Known Residents.

16 ARLINGTON PLACE, Plainfield, N. J., July 17, 1894.

I am profoundly grateful to Dr. Lighthill for his speedy and radical cure of a most painful malady of over ten years standing with which I was afflicted.

I deem it proper to say to all afflicted to place themselves under the care of this skilful physician and be permanently cured.

I will cheerfully impart any information I possess when called upon.

JOHN DIETRICH.

Mr. Thomas Callahan of No. 214 Richmond street Cured of a Very Distressing Trouble by Dr. Lighthill.

PLAINFIELD, N. J., June 1, 1894.

TO THE PUBLIC:

For some time past I have been greatly distressed with noises in the head. They were all over my head and troubled me constantly; they were loudest at night when everything was quiet and at such times would often keep me from sleep and disturb my rest. In fact they got to be so bad and distressing that they affected my whole nervous system as well as my health. I did not obtain the least relief until I placed myself under the care of Dr. Lighthill, of No. 132 Crescent avenue, who effected a complete cure in my case in a short time and made me a very happy man.

THOMAS CALLAHAN, 214 Richmond street.

A Card From Mr. T. R VanZandt, of Nos. 304 and 306 Park ave., Plainfield, N. J.

I certify with pleasure that Dr. Lighthill has effectually cured me of a most painful case of piles. For some time past I had been subject to its attacks, but the last attack was so exceedingly painful that it completely upset my whole system. The pain extended to my legs and in many other directions, and made me so nervous that I could neither sleep, sit down, lie down or move about without serious discomfort and distress. Such was my condition when I applied to Dr. Lighthill for relief, and I am glad to say that as soon as he took hold of my case, I began to improve, and in a short time found myself completely cured. Dr. Lighthill has also effected a radical and permanent cure in a most terrible case of piles on my cousin, Mr. J. V. Z. Griggs, of Rocky Hill, N. J., whose flattering testimonial is in Dr. Lighthill's possession.

FACTS ABOUT THE GOVERNMENT'S FREE SEED BUSINESS.

Only 940 Out of 1,800,000 Beneficiaries Acknowledged the Gifts. Revolutionary Archives Receiving the Attention They Deserve.

Inquiry among Senators and Representatives fails to develop a sentiment in either House favoring the legislation recommended by the President in his recent message to amend the Hawaiian treaty so that the consent of this Government can be secured for the construction of a cable under English auspices from Vancouver to Australia via Necker Island, with a branch to Honolulu. There has been for a long time a movement in the direction of securing such consent, but the message of the President seems to have upset the plans of those who have it in charge. Any proposition in which the Administration is particularly interested seems to be so unpopular in this Congress that even serious consideration cannot be obtained for it. The President's recommendation has not only brought to the surface all the opposition to a British cable, but has stirred up the friends of the American project, who have not been at all active during the present Congress. Already several members have in preparation bills authorizing the laying of a Hawaiian cable under the patronage of the United States. It is understood that the President and Secretary Gresham have both been very much surprised to learn that there would be any opposition to the recommendation for the amendment of the treaty as suggested.

A provision in the last Sundry Civil bill directed the Secretary of State to cause the Revolutionary archives except military records now deposited in his department to be examined to ascertain what portions are of sufficient importance and historical value to publish and the reasonable cost of their publication. The archives are found chiefly in the records and papers of the Continental Congresses, and the Secretary of State says that the manuscript collections of Washington, Jefferson, Franklin, Madison and Hamilton also contain material of historical value. Secretary Gresham endorses the previous views of Secretary Bayard and urges that the documents be printed in full. The propriety of Mr. Bayard's recommendations has been frequently emphasized by applications for access to the original papers. Secretary Gresham says it would be impracticable for the department, or even an expert, to determine precisely what would or would not be valuable for historical purposes, as it often happens that light is sought with reference to matters of apparently little moment which may be found to have great significance in historical studies. For the publication of these archives the following estimate, upon the basis of volumes of 800 pages each, is submitted: Journals of the Continental Congress, 10 volumes; other records and papers of Congress, 38 volumes; miscellaneous papers, principally from the collections named, 2 volumes, making in all 50 volumes. Of these, the first 1,000 bound in cloth would cost $100,750, and each 1,000 copies additional $22,750. The cost of a single copy of a volume of the first edition of 1,000 would be about $2, and for a single copy of the subsequent editions about 44 cents each.

Secretary Morton is going to grapple with Congress again on the garden seed question and make another attempt to deprive the Representatives of one of their most sacred perquisites. A war of this kind has been going on ever since he entered the Cabinet. He has insisted in all of his reports that the free seed distribution is a humbug and a waste of money, and simply a piece of political demagogery to catch the farmer vote. Last year Congress made the usual appropriation of $160,000 for seed distribution regardless of his protest. But this year he is going to try again to prevent it, or at least limit the practice to what he considers its legitimate usefulness. Mr. Morton has forwarded to the House Committee on Appropriations an amendment which he desires to have inserted in the Agricultural Appropriation bill, providing $25,000 "for the purchase and propagation of rare and valuable seeds, bulbs, trees, shrubs, vines, cuttings, and plants, for distribution through the agricultural experiment stations to such persons only as shall contract to make full tests of the same under the direction of said stations, and to furnish written reports of their tests upon blanks to be furnished by the Agricultural Department." He has also forwarded to the Committee on Agriculture of the House the same proposition in the form of a bill, which he asks Congress to place upon the statute books for the future guidance of the department. But this proposition will not be popular. Last year the Senators and Representatives and Delegates in Congress sent out 8,385,120 packages of seeds to their constituents, and the Secretary says that nine tenths of them were simply to provide the people with seeds to plant in their vegetable gardens and flower beds, and that only one tenth of the money was used to aid the great agricultural interests of the country. As a rule the packages of important varieties were so small that it is doubted whether they offered a fair opportunity to test the merits of the seeds. Under the present method the Secretary is compelled to buy seeds in such quantities that he cannot confine his purchases to new and rare varieties but has to provide ordinary seeds that can be purchased at any grocery store throughout the country. He demonstrates the lack of appreciation of this generosity on the part of Congress by showing that of the 1,800,000 citizens who received seeds in this promiscuous distribution, only 940 thought enough of them to acknowledge their receipt or make a request for more.

ROGER LEWIS.

Time's Changes.

"So you're from Kansas?" said the eastern girl with the supercilious look, to the Senator's daughter.

"Oh, yes, indeed."

"And do you see Indians and buffalo and wigwams and cowboys at your western home?"

"No; the procession of the years has brought many changes to Kansas since you studied geography."—Kansas City Star.

POST-HOLIDAY SHOPPERS.

People Who Try to Set Aright the Mistakes of the Christmas Season.

These are four distinct species. First, there are the people who received presents they didn't expect and who are taking the earliest opportunity to send something in return, no matter if it be the day after the fair. Bargain counters and post-holiday reductions are a great boon to them.

Next come those who received money for Christmas presents and who desire to invest it at once in something that they can taste, see, smell, hear or wear. This species is more common than one might suppose. Then there is the noble army of those who want things marked. From the hordes now haunting every silversmith in the city one might suppose that only unmarked silver was given away at Christmas. There are two obvious reasons for the rush. Either there was too great a demand to have the marking done before Christmas, or else the purchaser was uncertain just what initials or monogram would be most acceptable to the recipient.

Lastly, there are the enterprising individuals who desire to exchange their duplicated or otherwise undesirable gifts. Sometimes this is done with the full knowledge and consent of the donor, but more often it is not. The species is the most numerous of all, and it is also the most interesting.

"I made up my mind to change the thing the minute I undid it," one woman was overheard to say. "She'll never know the difference, and I might just as well have something I really want as not."

"I've changed six presents," crowed another most gleefully. "And just see what lovely things I've got in their places!"

Sometimes the spirit of enterprise goes even further than this.

"Yes, I know this book of Gibson's cost less than the 'Sketch Book,' but I'd rather have it, and I'll be in a dollar besides," a level-headed maiden was heard to remark.

One of the queerest of Christmas experiences was shared by a Baltimore man and a New York girl. The Baltimore man sent the New York girl a note in which he informed her that he had just expressed her the latest edition of Dr. Holmes's "Autocrat." Unfortunately this was not strictly true, and when after posting the note the young man sallied forth to make good the assertion contained therein, not a Baltimore book store could be found that had the "Autocrat" in stock. Frenzied with fear the young man telegraphed right and left for the desired volume, only to find his plans frustrated at every turn. Meanwhile the girl had received the note, and naturally supposing that the book would soon follow, she at once despatched an answer saying how much she had enjoyed so charming a gift. The book, however, never arrived, for the man was unable to get hold of it, and some common friends at length enlightened the girl as to the true state of affairs. And now the respective writers of those two unfortunate if well-meant notes are in a curious state of mind.

SHE EVOLVED A GOWN.

And It Was Very Effective, Though It Cost But $5.

She was a young married woman with more artistic taste than money. What her winter wardrobe needed was a sort of composite tea gown, dinner dress and at home costume. The illustration shows what she evolved, and this story tells how she did it.

Some years ago she owned a black silk street gown, which now hung in her closet much the worse for wear. This she ripped up, brushed thoroughly, sponged with black coffee and pressed between flannel cloths with a moderately hot iron. The silk appeared after this operation almost as good as new. Then a little dressmaker, who came in by the day, made the silk into a graceful Princess gown.

The butter color lace insertion, which so uniquely trimmed it, was brought at a bargain and cost but ten cents a yard. The stock and bow at the waist line, with its long ends, were made of orange colored ribbon, which had once upon a time served as a broad sash.

It took the whole of the black silk coat to make the huge puffs of the sleeves, but they were a great artistic success when finished, with their stripes of lace insertion and their deep lace cuffs, with overhanging frills. Five dollars covered the entire expense of the gown, counting in the dressmaker's bill and yet it was much admired.

Her Advice.

"I suppose," observed the tramp, bitterly, "you would like to have me get off the earth. But I cannot."

"Have you tried the soft soap?" asked the woman in the blue gingham dress dispassionately.—Puck.

What He Thought of Him.

"Do you think Skinner can make a living out there?"

"Make a living? Why, he'd make a living on a rock in the middle of the broad Atlantic ocean—if there was another man on the rock."—Dallas Visitor.

DOES THIS SETTLE IT?

HAS THE SOURCE OF THE MISSISSIPPI BEEN POSITIVELY FIXED?

The Story of the Search For It During Two Centuries—Lake Itasca and the Little Stream That Nicollet Christened the "Cradled Achilles."

"I have stepped across the Mississippi river," said Dr. Coues. "It was easy, for the stream was only about 8 inches wide and 2 inches deep. I have seen the Father of Waters where he rises literally out of the ground and starts as an infant rivulet, destined to cut the United States in twain with the mighty volume of his adult flood.

"The story of the search for the source of the Mississippi reads like a romance. After the discovery of the upper river in 1673 by Joliet and Marquette, and the discovery of the falls of St. Anthony in 1680, by Hennepin, little more was known of the Father of Waters for nearly a century. In 1766 Captain Jonathan Carver ascended the stream as far as the mouth of Rum river. In 1798 the famous English astronomer and surveyor, David Thompson, in the service of the Northwest company, reached Turtle lake. This lake, which sends a tributary to the Mississippi, was for some time supposed to be the source.

"The first white man known to have visited the neighborhood of the actual source of the Mississippi was William Morrison, a fur trader, who was certainly at Lake Itasca in 1803 or 1804. He never published anything on the subject, and it is only very recently that his priority of discovery has been known. The next explorer of the sources of the river was Lieutenant Zebulon Montgomery Pike. He was the first American citizen to carry the flag of the United States into northern Minnesota. He was sent by the government to treat with the Indians and stop the sale of liquor in that region. Incidentally he purchased for $250 and some whisky a tract of land nine miles square, which included the present site of Minneapolis. Congress subsequently voted an additional payment to the Indians for this tract of $2,000.

"Lieutenant Pike proceeded by boat to the vicinity of the present Little Falls in Morrison county, Minn. He got no farther with boats, and so continued his journey through the winter of 1805-6 on snowshoes and with sledges northward. He finally reached Leech lake. This lake he mistook for the source of the Mississippi, and his report on this subject was held to be correct for some years afterward.

"In 1820 the Hon. Lewis Cass, accompanied by Henry R. Schoolcraft, the historian, went on an exploring expedition up the Mississippi as far as Cass lake, so named at the time by Schoolcraft. In 1823 an Italian traveler, J. C. Beltrami, went over David Thompson's route to Turtle lake and reported that lake to be the true source. Evidently, however, he heard from the Indians about Lake Itasca, for he mapped it with approximate accuracy, though he was never there and did not imagine that the Father of Waters sprang thence.

"Lake Itasca was rediscovered in 1832, when Schoolcraft, accompanied by Lieutenant Allen, United States army; the Rev. Mr. Boutwell and others, was guided to the lake by a Chippewa Indian, known as Yellow Head. On this occasion Lake Itasca received its present name, which was made up of parts of the words Veritas Caput, signifying the 'true head' of the river. The Latin was bad, for it ought to have been Verum Caput. The lake had previously been known by the French name of Lac a la Biches, meaning Elk Lake. This was a translation of the Chippewa Omoshkos Sogiagon.

"Schoolcraft's party made an examination of Lake Itasca, being satisfied that they had found the true source of the Mississippi. Not again until 1836 did any scientific man visit the spot. This was a Frenchman, J. N. Nicollet, who tried to ascertain the source of the feeders of Lake Itasca. Exploring southward, he reached the springs from which the infant river takes its rise. It should be understood that the Mississippi runs from its source directly northward for a distance of 50 miles before turning about in a sort of fishhook bend and starting southward. To the baby stream, before it enters Lake Itasca, Nicollet gave the poetic name of 'Cradled Achilles.' He established its course in connection with three small lakes, since named Upper, Middle and Lower Nicollet lakes—that is to say, he found that the little river ran through two of these small lakes and connected with the third. This explorer mapped the whole of the Itascan basin and determined the latitude, longitude and altitude with such accuracy that subsequent surveys have only confirmed and amplified his observations.

"The whole subject of which I have been speaking was befogged and thrown into dispute recently by a certain Captain Glazier, who, apparently for no other purpose than to advertise himself, published his alleged discovery of a new and true source of the Mississippi. By reducing the size of Lake Itasca, ignoring Nicollet's Cradled Achilles, magnifying a small side lake which he called Lake Glazier, and by stretching out one of the feeders of the latter, he produced a distorted map which actually imposed on the Royal Geographical society of Great Britain. Many of the errors thus originated have crept into the standard maps of the United States.

"It may be said that there is nothing further to be learned about the true source of the Father of Waters. As a matter of essential fact, the true Upper Mississippi is the river called the Missouri. The stream that flows from Lake Itasca is merely a tributary. I ought not to forget to mention that I walked along the bed of the stream termed by Captain Glazier the infant Mississippi for a considerable distance dry shod. The little brook was dried up. Late measurements have reduced the length of the Mississippi from 3,184 miles to 2,555 miles."

A CORN-CURE THAT CURES CORNS.

Our COLLOID CORN CURE is easily applied, gives relief quickly, and will cure every case of Corns, hard or soft, that can be cured, if used as directed. Sold in square vials with brush for applying. The reader of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly on the blood and mucous surface of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer $100 for any case that it fails to cure.

SLOWLY STARVING.

Surrounded by Plenty, but Dying for Food.

An Every-day Occurrence.—Our Friends Perishing Before Our Eyes.

A terrible experience for any one to go through, that of seeing some beloved friend actually wasting away before our eyes, unable to derive sufficient nourishment from their food to sustain life.

Medicine naturally becomes of little avail, and the various organs of the body, debilitated from a lack of nourishment, take on themselves the disease that was originally the cause of the "breakdown," and help hasten the end.

Such cases, though too prevalent, are happily becoming less frequent. The prominent physicians of to-day do things differently from those of twenty years ago. They first put the patient in a condition to stand the "siege," then enrich his blood, create for him new strength, and "build him up" generally. The patient is then in a condition to derive benefit from his medicine.

This is done by the use of Bovinine, the original raw food. It is an extract that contains the greatest amount of the life-sustaining and tissue-building properties of lean, raw meat, concentrated in the least possible bulk.

The advantage of this is obvious. A patient already greatly weakened by disease, needs to husband every particle of strength. A few drops of Bovinine will impart as much nourishment to the body as would be derived by a well person from an ordinary meal; and, in getting this nourishment, the stomach has been forced to do the least possible amount of work.

Bovinine, continued throughout an illness, greatly hastens recovery. Taken at the beginning of a wasting disease, it diverts the cause of the trouble by toning up the various organs, and getting them in a normal condition.

Bovinine is indorsed by 25,000 doctors. Its action is always beneficial, as a single trial will convince the most sceptical.

HE AND SHE.

He lived at No. 12 Woodman street, Chelsea. She lived at No. 13. For ten years they had been opposite neighbors, each occupying the drawing room apartments. She had taken up her abode there six weeks after he was installed, and in a dull, uninterested way he had watched for the unloading of the cab, the taking in of the luggage, the bustling to and fro of the slim woman, who face he got a very imperfect glance at. She looked about 30, not that he cared whether she was more or less. His heart just then was heavy and sore; he had lost the one relative he had left, the only being in the world he cared for—his old mother—and in place of home and her he was simply now "the drawing room lodger."

* * * * * * *

And thus ten years stole by, each reflecting the other so exactly, that, excepting the Christmas visit and the summer holiday, there were no landmarks to point the course of time to Nos. 12 and 13, and then fate, fortune, or whatever name we give to the good providence who disposes of those trivial circumstances that lead to great events in our lives arranged that on a certain afternoon in May there was few letters to write that the typist clerk could leave her Bedford street office at a much earlier hour, and, full of anticipation that she would be able to put the finishing touches to a gown she was renovating, she tripped into the Strand, hailed the first omnibus she saw, clambered to the top, and took the only vacant seat. In her anxiety to secure this she did not notice more than that it was a man next to her, but that man was he, and he, having watched her from the time she hailed the 'bus, was now in a flutter for she only just settled when they were at Charing Cross, where he always got down, which he hardly could do now, as, without an explanation which he could not give, it would seem so very peculiar—somewhat offensive, indeed. By the time his hesitation was over they were on their way again, and the conductor was collecting the money. She paid her fare. He silently held out the extra two pence, which the man taking with a nod of surprise, she turned her head, and instantly there mounted to her cheeks a rosy color. He, being of the old school, looked on a blush as one of the most becoming features of a woman.

It was the signal of the weakness of her sex to be answered on the part of the man by the desire to protest, and without hesitation, he said:

"I think you and I are going the same way."

"Yes," and her color deepened, "we live opposite each other on the same street."

"Quite two of the oldest inhabitants, I should say."

"It is ten years since I came," and she gave a sigh.

"Yes, but I was there before you. I remember your coming."

"Do you? Oh, I am accustomed to it now, but at first to have nothing but houses before me seemed dreadful. I used to stand at the window, and—well I won't say what, only I did not see the opposite houses very clearly."

"Perhaps I can enter into your feeling better than you think," he said, kindly, "for to me, then, my surroundings were hateful."

"I had always lived in the country, and I supposed I thought things would go on the same as ever, but in four years I lost every one belonging to me; home and means were swept away, and I had to begin life alone."

"Terrible, hard upon a woman," he said, sympathetically.

"Well, and yet I think sometimes it is harder on a man. Of course, I don't mean one who finds pleasure in clubs and company. I know you stay at home, because every evening I see your lamp alight."

"And your lamp keeps mine company."

"Yes, I've never been away but once—to spend Christmas with a school friend, who has since gone to India. That was an excitement for me! I looked up and saw you and very nearly nodded, and then I was so frightened that I jumped into the cab and told the man to drive as fast as he could."

"And I thought you were late, and it quite fidgeted me, and I gave you a mental scolding, just like I often do on Sundays when you will go out without an umbrella."

"Well, but last Sunday you went out without yours, and, more than that, you left the window open on your bird, and I said to Tottie—my cat—'Now, that is very thoughtless, for if the sun goes in, Dickey will catch cold.'"

"And I fear he did catch cold, for he has sat with all his feathers roughed up, looking very reproachfully at me. You know he is six years old."

"My cat is ten; I can never bear to think of her age, for when she dies—well, people will think her mistress a very foolish woman."

"Not those who live alone."

His tone of sympathy brought a pleasant expression into her eyes.

"You find your bird company, don't you?" she said, looking at him. "That summer when you went away I was quite anxious, fearing the landlady might not look after him properly. You know we missed you dreadfully, Tottie and I."

"I can quite believe it. I felt very dull when you were absent."

They both laughed heartily.

"You gone," she said, "and I had nothing to go by, because you are my timepiece in the morning. Mr. Punctual I call you to Tottie; we established that name almost directly after we settled there."

And he had called her Miss Pry! Ah, well, he would give her that name no longer! Should he ask what was her real name? He thought he—. Suddenly the horses stopped.

"Why, here we are!" he said, looking at her amazed.

It was the corner leading to the street in which they lived.

"The way has seemed very short," she said, preparing to get down. "Usually I think our omnibuses go so slowly."

"Do they? I always walk from Charing Cross. I was just going to get down to-day when you got up and sat down next me."

"Yes. I felt my face quite red when I saw it was you. I wondered would you speak, and I was so glad when you did."

"I hope, now, whenever we meet you will allow me to speak to you."

"I shall be very glad," she said, cordially; "it seems so much nicer to have exchanged a few words with one another."

"Well, we were not like strangers to each other, were we?"

"Certainly not; I have felt as if you were almost a friend for nearly ten years."

And they shook hands and both a little agitated at this unlooked for adventure, turned towards their respective dwellings.

* * * * * * *

On the very evening of the day week on which they had met, drawing aside his blind to look at the opposite window—why, there was no light there. How very odd! Thinking he might get from Miss Bates whether she had noticed any departure, he said, as she was setting the teapot down: "Lovely weather for this time of year."

Miss Bates was in a lugubrious frame of mind. "Plenty o' sickness about, I hear. They say," she added, with a sniff and a sigh, "the children's dying like sheep with measles, and in some parts whole houses is down with influenza. I'm sure I trust we shall be spared, but I doubt it, for there's one of 'em ill opposite—I saw the doctor to-day going in there."

The sudden change in his face assured her that she had thoroughly drenched his vivacity, and following the axiom that having made an impression you should go, Miss Bates left the room. He buttered his toast and poured out his tea, and some minutes later, finding plate and cup empty, he reasonably surmised that he had eaten and drank, but he had done so mechanically, while his thoughts were occupied by the words of his landlady. Poor little woman! Now he knew why the window was dark, and the blind remained down. She was ill. Sickness, that despair of the bread winner, had lain its dread hand on her. Poor thing, poor thing!

He walked about the room, he looked out of the window; in short, for over an hour he fidgeted over a score of things, and then that inward tormentor refusing him any peace, he suddenly put on his hat, crossed the road and knocked at the door, determined to ask what was the matter with the lady on the drawing-room floor. He had arranged his words, and, the door open, was about to utter them, when, why—no—yes—it was she, she herself, who had answered the door and was standing before him. "I am so glad," he said, taking her hand and giving it a hearty shake. "I thought you were ill."

"And you came over to see? Oh, how good and kind! That anybody should care cheers me more than I can say."

"There was no light in your window last night, and this morning the blind was down, and while I was wondering what had become of you my landlady told me she had seen the doctor here."

"Yes, but, happily, not me. But you must come in and hear the story. It is poor Kezlah, the servant here. She tripped on the stairs and fell down, and has broken some tendon in her leg. And Mrs. Jenkins is away, and the lodgers were out, so that when I came home I found her lying, groaning, helpless, on the mat."

"But why did you not come over for me?"

"I wish I had now. I did think of doing so, but fortunately I was able to help her. I managed to get her to bed, but I had to sit up all night with her, and this morning I got the milk boy to go for the doctor, and take a telegram telling them I could not go to Bedford street. It was impossible for me to leave her alone, but now her sister has come, and Mrs. Jenkins will soon be here, so I am free again. Won't you come upstairs to my room?"

She did not wait for reply, but led the way, saying as she ushered him in:

"What a pity it is not light; then you could see my view of your window."

"Oh, but what a cosy room!"

He had halted just inside the door and was looking round.

"Does it look so? I tried as much as I could to make it look like my old home. A few friends brought in some of the furniture for me, and when I was really settled it was sent up. Lodging house rooms are so dreary."

His answer was a half stifled sigh. In that moment he had compared the black horsehair covered chairs and sofa of Miss Bates's drawing room—the rigid back of each one protected by a wool antimacassar—with the homely snugness which reigned there.

"As you see," she said, pointing to the table, "I was just making myself a cup of tea. Now, won't you sit down and join me? That would be showing yourself neighborly."

"I think I have had my tea."

"Think only?"

"Well, I know my landlady brought it to me, because it was then she spoke of having seen the doctor here, and I at once jumped to the conclusion that you were ill, because for a week past I have never caught sight of you at the window."

"And I have never seen you."

"No; we don't see unless we look."

"But I have looked."

"Not from where you usually stand, or I must have seen you. I began to feel a little huffy. I thought, she never fancies I mean to presume on that chat we had together."

"Why, of course not. How could I? I was only afraid I might have let my tongue run too quickly."

"Come, come," he said, smiling. "It has taken us ten years to break the ice. It must not take us ten more before we thaw."

While he spoke his eyes were following her—watching her measure out the tea, pour the water from the kettle. He did not offer to help her; the sight of a woman doing these trifling acts brought to him a pleasurable sense of home.

"You are looking very tired," he said, as she sat down waiting for the tea to draw.

"That is partly because I was up all night, and then during the day I have felt rather anxious about being away from the office."

"Oh, don't worry about that. They'll get on all right without you."

"Yes, I know they will. But I don't want them to find that out. There are so many women wanting employment, and some know French and German, which I don't, and others have a home with their parents, and could take a smaller salary. Oh, it does not do to stop away. When I found that poor thing lying on the mat I thought, supposing this was my case, what would become of me? It isn't death I fear—sooner or later that comes to all—but old age, sickness, sends a shiver through me."

"Then have you nothing put by?"

"A few pounds only. How could I? I get thirty shillings a week. That is not quite £80 a year."

"And you manage to live here on that?"

"I pay my way. Why? Does that sound to you very little?"

"Very little."

"I suppose they do pay men better, and it's well they do, for you want more than we do, and you are not able to manage as well."

"I am in a fire insurance society," he said. "The salaries there vary from one hundred to three. When I had £100 it did not matter to me. My mother was living then, and in addition to a pension she had a little put away, which at her death came to me."

"I am glad you need not be troubled with any anxiety."

"No, and yet I have as great a dread of sickness and of old age. Each year I live the sense of my loneliness oppresses me more."

"I know. Why, I can't tell you the pleasure it gives me to have somebody drinking tea with me, to be able to speak of things we feel—things that give one sorrow or joy. The men at the office are all good fellows and very kind to me, but I should never dream of talking to them as I have to you. They would not understand. I might as well speak in Chinese."

He did not answer in words, but he gave her a nod of sympathy, and stooped down to stroke the cat.

"Now, Tottie, get up and be friendly to Mr. ——"

She stopped.

"That reminds," he said, "we have not exchanged names, yet. My name is Robert Morley."

"And mine, Elizabeth Davidson."

"Elizabeth!" he repeated softly. "My mother was called Elizabeth."

"And my father Robert—Robert is a very dear name to me. He had such a generous, dear nature. When I think of his trust, I am not despondent long. My disposition is to be buoyant. I am very like a cork—if I go under water one minute, the next up I bob again."

"You always struck me as being very cheerful."

"What! Did I seem cheerful from over the way? Dear me! How little I dreamed that any one was taking the tiniest bit of interest to me. I am so glad I know now—so glad that we have spoken to each other, and that were friendly!"

He had risen from his chair and seemed suddenly about to go. She, somewhat embarrassed that he had not responded, added: "At least that is my feeling towards you."

"Is it?" he said, stiffly. "I forgot it was so late. I really must go. Good-by."

And before she had recovered from her surprise he was gone.

A wave of hot color went over her. What did it mean? What did he think? Surely at her age no one could misunderstand her: The tears sprang to her eyes and fell in a quick shower, * * * The door being opened made her look up. It was he back again.

"When I got into the street I found I had left my hat behind," he was saying; and she making an effort at regaining her self-possession, answered: "Oh, what a pity. Did you? Where?"

This brought him into the room, and nearer to her. "Why are you crying!" he exclaimed.

"I! No, no"—and she forced herself to smile.

"But you are. Your face is wet; your eyes are full of tears. What is the matter? Have I offended you?"

"No, but I thought perhaps I had offended you—you seemed to go so suddenly; please take no notice. Women's tears come very readily. It must be feeling so tired that makes me so silly."

He stood for a moment irresolute, turned towards the door, came back, and standing in front of her said: "Silly! If you think yourself silly what will you say of me? You were surprised to see me go. It was because I feared you would think I had taken leave of my senses if I stayed."

"Why?"

"Why? Because all at once the truth flashed upon me. Suddenly I knew why I had felt so angry, because I had not seen you at your window; why I was so anxious when I thought you were ill; what made me come over and find out the truth about you; the reason that seeing you here made me rejoice and feel happy. It is that I love you. Oh, it has not come now; for years it has been growing upon me, only I did not know. How should I? No other woman but you has ever had the slightest interest for me. For ten years I had blamed you, pitied you. What more could I do? And now it has come to this, will you marry me? I must know."

"But I feel sure you are making a mistake. I have been talking to you, and you feel sorry for me. No, no; forget what you have said. In the morning everything will look different to you. Pity is not love."

"But it is akin to it. If I give you love can you not give me pity?"

"I pity you! Why, you have brought all the sunlight I have known for years to me. When you spoke to me on the top of that omnibus I could have hugged you."

Hug me now," he said—for the temerity of quiet men is remarkable—and he took her hands and placed them on his shoulders, and looking at her continued, "We are two very lonely beings; a kindly Providence, as it seems to me, has brought us together. Can you trust yourself to me? I would strive to make you happy."

She tried to speak, tried to force back her tears, but the happy flow would come.

"It is because I am so happy," she said, "for I must tell you that often and often, years ago, when I felt so solitary, I have drawn aside my blind and looked over at your window, and, picturing you sitting there alone, I have said: 'Why couldn't it be that we took a fancy to each other; he looks so nice and kind, but if he married it would be to a young girl, not to me.'"

"But you are young."

"I—I am thirty-eight."

"And I am forty-five. We have no time to spare, you see. I shall put up the banns immediately. You must give notice that you are going to leave at your office, and I will tell them at mine that I want my holiday."

"It must be a dream," and she put up her hands and pushed back her hair. "It cannot be reality. Of late I have felt quite frightened thinking how sad it would be if you went away."

"A similar dread has haunted me, especially to-day, when I saw the blind down. But now we shall leave together, and we will go down to Putney. The old house I lived in from a boy is there, and it is vacant, too, and we will make it our home, and, as before, the dear name of its mistress will be Elizabeth Morley."

NICARAGUA CANAL BILL

Mr. Morgan Confident His Measure Will Pass.

Vote To Be Taken This Afternoon, Unless Parliamentary Obstruction Is Interposed—The Hawaiian Question Kept Alive by a Speech from Senator George.

Washington, Jan. 25.—The vote on the Nicaragua canal bill will be taken in the senate this afternoon, unless some unexpected parliamentary obstruction is interposed. In view of the speedy culmination of the long debate there was added interest yesterday in the speeches and much speculation on the outcome of the long struggle.

Mr. White spoke in advocacy of the bill. Mr. Morgan, in charge of the measure, will close the debate to-day. Mr. Morgan is confident he has a majority in favor of the bill. There has been no test vote, however, to indicate with certainty what the result will be.

Another displacement of a senator occurred yesterday when Mr. Jarvis, of North Carolina, a democrat who had held an appointment from the governor to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Senator Vance introduced and made way for his successor, Mr. Pritchard, who has been recently elected by the legislature to fill Senator Vance's unexpired term. Mr. Pritchard is a republican and after being sworn in he took a seat next to Mr. Chandler, who subsequently offered a resolution to pay Mr. Jarvis $24.00 for his last two days services, which resolution was immediately agreed to.

The state of North Carolina has not been represented by a republican in the senate since the reconstruction period, Senator John Pool's term having expired twenty-two years ago. On the fourth of March next Mr. Pritchard will have a populist for his colleague in the person of Mr. Butler, who was elected at the same time as himself to succeed Senator Ransom, democrat. The Hawaiian question was kept alive by a speech from Senator George (dem., Miss.)—against the Lodge resolution, proposing annexation, and by another resolution offered by Mr. Allen (pop., Neb.), declaring in favor of immediate steps for annexation. Mr. Allen's resolution went over till to-day when Senator Mills (dem., Tex.) will address the senate in opposition.

A speech from Mr. White (dem., Cal.) in favor of the Nicaragua canal bill closed the speechmaking for the day, and after it, some twenty pension bills were taken from the calendar and passed.

Besides passing a resolution authorizing an investigation of the management of the office of architect of the capitol, the house did nothing but consider in committee of the whole the sundry civil appropriation bill, which came over from the day before. The reading of the bill for amendments was completed, but owing to the fact that several matters which have been antagonized remained undisposed of, the bill will be the order of business to-day. The policy of the war department in abandoning outlying military posts and concentrating the army in and near large cities, and the Mississippi river improvement afforded themes for the principal discussion of the day, but no change was made in the bill in regard to either of them.

DIPLOMATIC CORPS DINNER.

Decorations of Flowers Unusually Profuse at the White House.

Washington, Jan. 25.—The annual dinner to the diplomatic corps at the white house last evening was a brilliant official function, the decorations of flowers being unusually profuse.

A huge table to seat the sixty-six invited guests was arranged in the main corridor, seperated by a mosaic glass screen from the Marine band, which furnished the music. The guests assembled on the second floor of the mansion and descended the grand stairway directly into the banquet room.

Only the chief officials of the legations were present to represent their countries, and a number of prominent Americans were invited to meet them.

Biggest Steel Plant on Earth.

Youngstown, O., Jan. 25.—Beginning next week, this city will be known all over the civilized earth as the home of one of the largest steel plants in existence. The Ohio Steel company has spent nearly $2,000,000 in putting up a works that would bring fame to any city. It is owned and will be controlled by Youngstown men. Roughly estimated, the pay roll will amount to about $40,000 a month.

Warsaw, Ind., Jan. 25.—Mrs. Mary Hoop, a widow, and her three-year-old child, were found frozen to death yesterday by a committee of the Ladies' Charity society, which had gone to them with a quantity of provisions and clothing. They lived in a single room and when found were without fuel or food.

What New York's Mayor Says in Regard to Sunday Saloon Closing.

New York, Jan. 25.—Ten Methodist ministers, a committee from the Chickering hall mass meeting, and one from the Women's Christian Temperance union, called on Mayor Strong. They preached to him, pleaded and demanded for more than an hour that the mayor close the saloons on Sunday and use all his influence to prevent the passage of a law to legalize Sunday opening. They told the mayor, as so many other have, that they elected him with their work and their prayers and had a right to make demands of him.

Mayor Strong heard them through and then he talked to them. He said that no minister in the city wanted the saloons closed on Sunday more than he did, but that it was well nigh impossible to close them. "I don't know that I can do anything," he said. "Our election last fall wiped out bosses in this city and put me here as the representative of the people. I am the representative of grog shops as well as the churches. You must allow me to talk to the liquor dealers just the same as I talk to you. I don't want to open the saloons on Sunday. I want the legislature to see if something can't be done, and I can stand all the abuse you can give me."

The mayor told the committee in conclusion that to enforce the law would fill all the station houses, jails and all the houses the city could rent. He could not be won over from his original purpose, and was going on in the way he had started to see if he could not get a law, that could be enforced and lessen crime in the city.

MUST HAVE MORE MONEY.

The Stock of Gold Coin Down Lower Than Ever.

Washington, Jan. 25.—The stock of gold coin in the treasury is now only about $15,000,000. The rest of the gold, which amounts in all to about $63,000,000, is in gold bars.

Prior to the appointment of Mr. Leach as director of the mint, during Mr. Harrison's administration, it was the custom of the treasury to furnish gold bars for exportation, but this was regarded as practically offering a premium upon gold exports, and an order was made by Secretary Windom requiring only gold coin to be paid out in redemption of legal tenders. Now the stock of gold is being depleted so rapidly that the administration would be glad to supply gold bars instead of coin, but wishes to put a small premium on the bars.

In view of the great demand for gold it is not probable that a new bond issue can be delayed much beyond the first week in February, and the secretary of the treasury is very solicitious about the response which the moneyed men of the country will make to the call for subscriptions to a third issue if fifty millions of bonds.

The hope of legislation by this congress has not been abandoned, but the chances that anything will be done which would be acceptable to the president are admitted to be precarious.

SNOW TWENTY FEET DEEP.

Reports of the Heavy Storm in the Western Mountain Regions.

Sacramento, Cal., Jan. 25.—The snow storm which has prevailed in the mountainous regions for the last eight days, has stopped, and the railroads are being cleared of the great masses of snow which are continually breaking off high banks that line the tracks for miles. Drifts are constantly forming in the narrow cuts through the hills, and the rotary plows have to be kept in constant operation. At Summit the snow depth is twenty feet.

The levee near Clarksburg, on the Yolo side of the Sacramento river, has been damaged and the residents are compelled to pass from place to place in boats. The levees near Rio Vista have also overflowed and a large area of country is inundated.

Lower refused to molest the family and has left the city. He has been in Washington territory and state since the war.

A FIREMAN'S STRUGGLE.

Paine's Celery Compound Was Finally the Assistance He Needed.

Dyspepsia is certainly a worse thing to contend with than a house afire.

But it may be overcome.

It may be cured by the use of Paine's celery compound. This greatest of remedies arouses the alimentary system to a better appetite; it firmly urges the organs that govern the conversion of food into blood to stronger action, and soon restores the depleted, exhausted system to its former hearty, active condition.

Alfred D'Espies, one of the gallent firemen of Elizabeth, N. J., whose picture is shown above, writes:

"I have been a very sick man, with inflammation of the stomach I could not eat anything, as everything that I ate would come up, and the only thing that agreed with my stomach was brandy and milk. I consulted a homeopathic doctor here and he said I had inflammation of the stomach. I am now on my third bottle of Paine's celery compound, and I feel immense. I can eat and drink and sleep good. I have recommended it to several of myfriends, with good results."

Why not, like Mr. D'E pies, be well?

Severe cases of neuralgia, rheumatism, nervous headaches and nervous dyspepsia are due to the inability of the large nerve centres to manufacture the energy necessary to supply all parts of the body. Relief can only come when this defect is made up. This is what Paine's celery compound does. It fills the blood with material for the growth of nervous tissue. It makes the weak strong. It should be tried by every one who is sick. Many well known people in this city have regained their health by its use, when everything else had failed

(Copyright, 1895, by Bacheller, Johnson & Bacheller.)

When they were gone, doubtless to tell Henry how I had taken it, I sat down to supper with La Font, Boisrueil, and two or three gentlemen of my suite; and, without appearing too cheerful, contrived to eat with my usual appetite. Afterwards I withdrew in the ordinary course to my chamber, and, being now at liberty to look the situation in the face, found it as serious as I had feared. The falling man has few friends; he must act quickly if he would retain any. I was not slow in deciding that my sole chance of an honorable escape lay in discovering, and that within a few hours—who stole the cipher and conveyed it to Mme. de Verneuil; and in placing before the queen such evidence of this as must convince her.
